PECTIN NEEDED TO MAKE JELLY "JELL."

Housewives who have difficulty in making jelly "jell" might be using fruit which lacks pectin. So states Miss Florence Imlay and Mrs. Pearl Haak, canning authorities at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, in the new circular, No. 447, "Jellies, Jams, Preserves and Marmalades."

"To determine whether a fruit juice has enough pectin for making jelly, pour from 2 to 3 tablespoons of cooked fruit juice into a small container and add an equal amount of ethyl alcohol (denatured). If the fruit juice is rich in pectin, a solid mass of gelatinous material will form. If the juice is only moderately rich, several small particles of gelatinous material will form. If the fruit juice is poor in pectin, many tiny pieces will form." Good jelly should be possible by using the fruit juice of the first two tests, said the specialists. However, in the third instance, they recommend adding a commercial pectin or another fruit juice rich in pectin, such as crabapple.

Copies of Circular 447, which contains other tests and directions for making jams, jellies, preserves and marmalades, may be had from offices of farm and home agents, or from the college at Lexington.

The DALLAS HEART

by GEORGE ETHELBERT WALSH

CHAPTER III

To make amends I reached out and took his hand, but he pushed mine away.

"You think I'm the murderer?" he asked a little bitterly.

I did not reply, and he continued: "But it's natural. You don't know me. Even if you did—"

He broke off with a harsh, bitter laugh.

"Well, it doesn't matter," he added. "He's dead, and that ends it. I was a fool to come back. He wouldn't have listened to me if—"

That trick of his of breaking off suddenly in the midst of a sentence was irritating, and I said sharply: "Go on! Tell me all I must know. You must!"

He was silent a moment, watching me, taking advantage of every flash of lightning. Finally he shook his head slowly.

"I don't know why I should tell you. It's a family affair. Strangers—"

"Strangers!" I broke in. "Do you call me a stranger?"

"No," he said after a pause. "I seem to have known you for years. Sometimes we feel that way, meeting people for the first time. It is as if we'd always known them."

"Perhaps we have met," I interrupted.

"No, not that I can recall," he replied gravely. "Your face—"

"Listen! You haven't told me your name."

He smiled and nodded his head before answering.

"Jerry Longwood!" I repeated absently.

"Yes, I'm a Longwood—Uncle Abner's nephew, although he disowned me and cursed me years ago. We never could get along together. We always quarreled. Even as a boy I disliked him, and he me. I was always too rough and bolsterous for him."

Here were complications that I had not foreseen, and I began blaming Nancy for not telling me of this side of the family history.

Should I carry out my original plan and introduce myself as Nancy Lee? I was a little skeptical of Jerry Longwood, afraid that those eyes might penetrate through my deception, and for a moment I was torn between conflicting emotions.

The body of the dead man on the floor suddenly diverted my mind. I shuddered and asked:

"What happened? Who killed him? Do you know?"

He smiled in spite of the harrowing circumstances, and said:

"A few minutes ago you thought I was the murderer."

"Oh, no!" I protested.

But unconsciously my eyes sought his hand and sleeves where I had seen the dried blood.

"Others might think the same," he continued, ignoring my interruption. "It would be natural. Circumstantial evidence is against me. I was fleeing from the house and swamp when I met you."

I nodded silently, urging him with my eyes to go on.

"Then knowing what you would find here," he added, "I tried to dissuade you from going on."

"If I'd known," I began weakly, "I'd have listened, but—"

Jerry Meets His Cousin Nancy

He turned to me and asked abruptly: "Won't you tell me your name and why you wanted to come here?"

I hesitated a long time, now that a decision had to be made, and my silence and embarrassment became noticeable. "Finally, in desperation, I blurted out:

"Do you remember Nancy Lee?"

"Nancy Lee!" he repeated slowly, frowning in an attempt to remember.

I did not help him, but waited patiently. Gradually he remembered, and then with a great start he exclaimed:

"Do you mean Aunt Mary's child? Yes, I recall her name. It was Nancy—Nancy Lee! Why, Nancy," he added, seizing both my hands, "can it be possible? Why—why—"

He became a little incoherent and stammered to a pause, all the while shaking my hands and exhibiting extraordinary emotion. He all but kissed me again, but I drew back when he leaned toward me.

"Nancy Lee!" he repeated. "Aunt Mary's child! I should have known you at once. I did in a way. I told you I felt as if we'd met before. I understand now. After all, blood is thicker than water, isn't it?"

He chuckled and tried to draw me nearer, but I was not particularly pleased, and it was on the tip of my tongue to tell him the truth when a noise quite different from any made by the storm startled both of us. We listened in breathless silence, holding hands.

"What is it?" I whispered.

"It sounded like—a groan," he replied slowly in a low voice.

Now as there could be only one explanation for that, if it were true, I recalled; and then, recovering myself, I tried to collect my senses.

He should have spoken or acted first, and I waited for him. But he was silent and motionless, listening for a repetition of the sound. When I could endure the silence no longer, I broke out in a trembling voice:

"He's still alive! He's not dead!"

"Not dead!" was the mechanical reply. "Oh, yes, he is! I made sure of that before I left. He was dead—dead—cold and stiff."

"But he groaned," I added. "I heard him. So did you."

We stood there, clinging to each other, watching the figure on the floor, waiting for it to move or speak. The peak of the storm had passed, and the lightning flashes were less prolonged and coming at longer intervals. The wind still howled and shrieked dimly, rattling loose boards and shutters and playing pandemonium among the tree branches.

The periods of total darkness between flashes became so prolonged that I grew half hysterical waiting for the light, and once when the room remained black for a full minute I could not stifle an inclination to cry out:

"Oh, we must have a light! I can't stand it!"

His arms went around me protectively, and his voice was tender and soothing.

"Nothing can hurt you, Nancy, but if you're frightened I'll take you into the other room."

"No! No!" I cried when I realized that to reach the next room I would be compelled to pass close to Abner Longwood's body. "You must strike a light! Find one!"

I knew by his hesitation that he did not take kindly to this request, and his labored breathing told me that his excitement was nearly as great as mine. I clutched at his hand and squeezed it desperately. He returned the pressure, and then said steadily:

But as I looked the pinpoint of light grew larger and slowly assumed the shape and size of human eyes.

"All right, Nancy, I'll strike a light, but I'm not sure it's safe."

"Safe! Why isn't it safe? It's safer than this darkness!"

He disengaged a hand and fumbled in a pocket. A few seconds later he produced a metal match case and struck a light and held it over his head until the flame went out.

"You see, nothing is wrong," he assured me. "It was only my imagination—or the storm."

"No! No!" I shuddered. "It was a groan."

"Let me take you into the next room," he said gently. "It's the sight of the body that frightens you. I can assure you beyond a doubt that Uncle Abner's been dead for an hour or more. Come, now, hold my arm; I'll lead you past him."

I hadn't the physical power to protest, and the words died in my dry throat. Before I realized it I was being led across the room, a hand guiding me.

But when we got opposite the body my legs collapsed under me. I would have fallen if he hadn't picked me up and carried me.

When I recovered some of my self-possession I was lying on a couch. Jerry had closed the door, shutting out the gruesome sight that had terrified me. He was fumbling around in the dark.

Fearful of losing him, I called softly. He was instantly at my side. "I'm making a fire in the grate," he said. "We're both wet to the skin. It will dry our clothes and give us some light."

Eyes That Stare In the Night

I nodded mutely and released his hand. When he struck a match and ignited the kindlings in the fireplace I drew a sigh of relief. It was a big fireplace, large enough to accommodate six-foot logs; but there was nothing in it but a few dry kindlings and several pieces of candle coal.

"Uncle Abner always kept this ready for a fire," Jerry said, chuckling to himself, "but I don't believe it's been lighted for years. He was too miserly. I shouldn't be surprised if it were the same coal that's always been in it."

I was more interested in the fire than in his reflections, and when it blazed up I stretched forth my hands to its grateful warmth.

Jerry moved the couch close to the blaze and then sat down on a hard stool at the foot of it. The kindlings burned freely, casting quaint shadows in the back of the room, but I kept my eyes on the fire, dreading to look behind me.

The warmth was so grateful that gradually the chill that had shaken my body subsided. Some of my fear went with it.

Verona Upset 7-6 by Fat's Cafe, Sunday

Verona suffered its first setback of the season in the Benke Semi-Pro Baseball League, Sunday afternoon at the losers' park, when Fat's Cafe took their number 7 to 6.

The visitors showed much improvement since their first visit to Verona. They had eight new men in the line-up.

Ivan Gulley started on the hill for Verona, but it wasn't his day, as Fat's favorites jumped on him for 5 runs on 4 hits in one and two-thirds innings. He was relieved by Cliff Afterkirk, who gave up 8 hits good for 2 runs, and was credited with the loss.

An old-timer, Ralph Corbin, was on the mound for the winners as the contest got under way, but was taken out after two and two-thirds innings, having given up 5 hits, good for a like number of runs. Urlage finished and gave up 5 hits and 1 run. Urlage was the winning pitcher.

Butch Judge led the hitting attack for Verona with 2 hits in four trips to the plate. 1 Gulley had 2 for 5 for the losers. The fielding gem of the game was a circus catch made by Bud Robinson, deep in left field. Scroggin came through with a home run, for his first hit two games.

Peeno, Fat's catcher, led the hitting attack for his team, with 3 hits in five swings. Sterling and Meyer each had 2 for 5. Each team was guilty of 4 errors.

There Is No Social Security Burial Fund

"There is no 'Burial Fund' or 'Burial Insurance' paid under the old-age and survivors program," said Elbert M. Bohon, manager of the Covington Social Security Administration, in a statement made today.

"A lump sum death payment," continued Mr. Bohon, "is made in certain instances to qualified persons who have paid the burial expenses of an insured worker. This lump sum payment is made only in cases where there is no survivor entitled to monthly benefits. Entitled to these lump sum payments are qualified widows, widowers, and/or others who have assumed the burial expenses."

This statement was occasioned due to a rumor, no doubt started by the less informed, that the Social Security Administration assumes the burial expenses of an insured worker.

"Don't rely on rumors," concluded Mr. Bohon, "call our office and get the facts first-hand."

ERLANGER, KY.

Dixie 8050

Jerry rose and crossed the room to the windows, pulled down the shades and drew the heavy curtains to shut out the storm. Or was it the light within that he wished to veil?

When he returned and took his seat again, I had a chapered his face. It was strong and handsome, but pale and drawn. The eyes were sombre, but alert, roving back and forth as if looking for something. I attributed that to the same fear that had possessed me.

Once I stretched forth a hand to speak, but he seized it and held it. "It's all right, Nancy," he smiled. "There's nothing to fear now."

I felt stronger and less hysterical, and when I spoke my voice was almost normal.

"Are you sure that wasn't Uncle Abner's groan?" I whispered.

"Quite sure!" he laughed. "But if you want me to, I'll go back and make certain."

"Please do," I said. "I'll feel better to know that—that."

"I understand, Nancy," he interrupted. "I'll go at once."

When he left me, closing the door softly behind him, I felt an uncomfortable sense of fear and loneliness stealing over me again. I shivered and leaned nearer the fire. It lighted up only a small part of the big library. The rest was cast into shadow or total darkness.

He was gone a long time. Minutes seemed like hours to me. I looked at the closed door, and then cast a furtive glance back of me.

At first I was not conscious of anything unusual. Even when I saw two flashes of light reflected from the fire, I attributed it to my imagination and tried to persuade myself that it was all a case of nerves.

But as I looked the pin points of light grew larger and slowly assumed the shape and size of human eyes.

Under ordinary circumstances I would not have been greatly startled, for I prided myself upon my self-control and sanity in emergencies; but the night's experience had already unnerved me and left me tremble and touchy.

The eyes were glaring at me out of the opaque darkness in the back of the room—eyes that seemed large and uncanny, fierce, malevolent and penetrating. I stared in frozen silence, horror paralyzing my muscles.

Then, slowly, out of the gloom a human face emerged, still vague and shadowy—but the nose, the chin, the cheeks and the white, wrinkled brow were outlined with unmistakable clarity.

Some one was in the room watching me! That was my first thought. I clutched at the couch with both my hands.

Then a strange, menacing similarity with the face of the dead man in the next room made the features repulsive and startling. My heart stopped beating, my breath came in short gasps, my hands trembled, my whole body vibrated and shook.

The face moved nearer, drifting toward me, the eyes holding me with their hypnotic gaze. This movement broke the spell, and with a cry of horror I fell back upon the couch and swooned.

I could hear the echo of my own voice circling around and returning to me in little waves of sound before I lost consciousness. I know that I shrieked twice, and each time I called Jerry.

Jerry Is Skeptical At Nancy's Story

When I regained my senses I was lying on the couch, with Jerry kneeling at my side rubbing my hands and repeatedly calling my name.

The fire had burned low, the kindling had been consumed, and the dark candle coal was sending off more smoke than flame. The room was warm now, and my clothes were no longer clinging to me in dark familiarity.

"Nancy! Nancy!" I heard Jerry calling. "Wake up, Nancy! There's nothing to hurt you."

I came to an upright position on the couch with a start and stared in the direction of the face; but there was no there. Recollection of its sinister expression made me shudder.

"What is that, dear?" Jerry asked, watching me with anxious eyes.

"The face!" I gasped. "I saw it there, looking at me."

"Oh, Jerry," I added, covering my eyes, "it was the face of—of Uncle Abner!"

"Nonsense!" he said sharply. "It's your nerves, Nancy. Uncle Abner's in the dining-room. I was with him when you shrieked."

I shook my head stubbornly. Nothing could convince me that I hadn't seen the face of the dead man, with its deep-set, luminous eyes watching me.

Jerry was gentle and considerate, murmuring me with silence instead of contradicting me again. And after a while I grew calm enough to talk coherently.

He listened without comment, but I could see by the half-concealed smile on his face that he was not impressed. His skepticism, unexpressed in words, but manifest in his face and eyes, irritated me.

"If it wasn't Uncle Abner," I cried finally, "then who was it? I saw a man's face and eyes. He stood back there watching me. Is there some one else in the house?"

Jerry's face grew grave and serious at this, and he answered faintly, "I don't know. I hope not. I shouldn't think the murderer would enter here long."

CHAPTER IV

"Who was the murderer?" I asked quickly.

He did not answer, but got up and tiptoed across the room, looking into the dark corners and behind curtains and articles of furniture. When he returned he took his seat again and stared blankly into the fire, his chin resting on a hand.

He sat there a long time, silent and motionless, while I watched him with wondering, puzzled eyes.

Once I stretched forth a hand to touch his, but drew it back, resisting the temptation to comfort him or tell him that I did suspect him of any such crime.

"Nancy," he said finally without looking up, "I'll tell you all I know. If we're going to work together—and of course we are—we must be frank with each other."

He shot me a quick glance and smiled. But I remained silent and motionless, not returning his look.

"I came here last night to see Uncle Abner about—about—Well, you ought to know!" he added, after breaking off with a short laugh.

"I fancy you came on the same errand, and I don't blame you. Take it all in all, we deserve it. Uncle Abner treated us miserably."

His words mystified me, but I did not let him see it, and resolutely kept my eyes from meeting his.

"I haven't been in Wildwood for fifteen years," he went on slowly, looking back at the flickering fire.

"In all that time I haven't heard from any of the family. I'm an orphan, you know, the same as you."

He glanced up fleetingly and smiled. I merely nodded and shifted my position so that the light from the fire fell directly on his face and kept mine in shadow.

"Being an orphan is worse for a woman than a man, I suppose," he commented. "So I won't stress that point."

He was so evidently trying to interest me and quiet my fears that I could not forever relaxing a little. "I've managed to live," I whispered, "but mother—"

I had to pause there, for in pretending to mourn for Nancy's mother a lump rose in my throat. Even though I had never known my own mother, I had a sacred feeling for her, which imagination if not memory could idealize. A tear stood on a lash and slowly made its way down my cheek. Jerry saw it, and reached forth and took a hand.

"Poor Nancy! I'm sorry for you. Aunt Mary was—was my favorite aunt. Next to mother I loved her the most."

"But Aunt Janice—you loved her too," I broke in.

His face hardened. "The less said about Aunt Janice the better. She suffered, too, and paid the price. Uncle Abner bent her to his will—made her a tool of his ambition. But that shouldn't have turned her against her own flesh and blood."

"Why—why—" I began in consternation, and then checked myself. Nancy had not informed me of anything against her Aunt Janice. I suddenly felt that I was getting into deep water. It was not so easy to carry off the role I had assumed as I had thought it would be before I met Jerry.

After a pause during which we sat almost motionless, listening to the rattling of the blinds and the groaning of the trees outside, he raised his head and shrugged his shoulders.

"But we won't rake out the old family skeletons. Let them rest. They're none too savory. Uncle Abner was the black sheep who made misery for all. And even though he's now lying in there dead, with a knife in his heart, I cannot feel much sympathy for him."

"But the irony of it is that you mistook me for his murderer. And if I've been around here I may be arrested and charged with the crime. I, a murderer!" He laughed bitterly and leaned forward until his face grew ruddy with the flames.

"Forgive me," I said, stretching out a hand. "I—I don't believe it now. It was the blood on your hands and sleeves."

"Blood! Oh, yes," he added, "I remember now. You saw it. I washed it away in the pool."

He chuckled softly.

The Conversation Is Confusing

"And you connected that with Uncle's murder? Circumstantial evidence again! They'd be—"

His old trick of stopping in the midst of a sentence suddenly checked him again. I frowned, watching him, for I was still mystified and anxious to have him tell all.

"The blood was not fresh," I remarked. "I saw that. It was dried—"

"It should have been," he laughed.

"I got it the day before in Jackson's slaughter-house. You remember Jackson's, or don't you? Perhaps not—you left Wildwood early."

"I strolled down there to see if Jackson still owned it. They were slaughtering a beef. I was curious and stood too near. The blood spurted out and covered me."

The explanation seemed plausible. But it was strange that he had gone a whole day and night without cleaning it off his hands and sleeves. A slight doubt rose in my mind, but I resolutely suppressed it.

"Why did you come to Swamp Hollow?" I asked, speaking quickly to cover my confusion.

"For the same reason you did, I fancy. Confess now."

He was looking at me, smiling and waiting for a reply. Instead of (CONTINUED NEXT WEEK)

Verona On Top 8-2; To Play Sun. & Mon.

The Verona baseball club returned to the win column last Sunday when they thrashed We Tavern 8-2 at Verona.

The visitors took the lead in the third inning when they scored one run. But Verona staged a rally in the fifth to register six runs and salt the game away. However, the winners scored twice in the sixth frame, just to be sure. We Tavern tallied a consolation run in the ninth inning.

Elmo Steffen started on the firing line for Verona and worked good for one run. Cliff Afterkirk pitched the remainder of the contest and was nipped for three hits and one run. Lorence was the starter for the losers and hurled four and two-third innings, giving up nine hits and four runs. Tobe finished and was responsible for six hits and two markers.

The "big boy" in the 15-hit Verona attack was Scoggins, who had a perfect day at bat, 4 for 4, one safety being a double. Bud Robinson also did alright for himself, as he collected 3 hits in four tries. Top man for the losers was Tobe, who gathered two hits in three at-bats.

Games Sunday and Monday

The Verona club will have a very busy 4th of July weekend, as they have two games on tap. Sunday, July 4th they are hosts to the Kenton club, the game getting under way at 2:30 p. m. On Monday, July 5th they meet Bob & Gene, a strong road team from the Benke loop. This game will be played at Verona and starting time is 2:30 p. m. This contest was scheduled for several weeks ago, but rain prevented it's finish. This will, no doubt, be a battle royal, so come out and see the fireworks.

Grasshoppers and Tobacco

Grasshoppers, while usually not troublesome in tobacco until late summer when other foliage is lacking, sometimes cause damage to young plants, according to Bill Davis, County Agent. Plants near the edge of a grass field may be practically ruined. These plants near the edge of the field can be dusted thoroughly with Paris Green and this may stop further damage by the insects. The same poison bait that is used for cutworms is effective against grasshoppers. The bait is made by mixing one pound of Paris Green with 25 lbs. of bran. Add two quarts of molasses and enough water to make a mash. The bait should be broadcast around the edge of the field in the early morning.

EDW. F. BAGBY, SR.

Edward Felix Bagby was born Feb. 6, 1881 and departed this life June 5, 1948, being 67 years and 4 months. He was the son of the late Rev. C. J. and Louisa Loomis Bagby. His mother died when he was but two years old, after which he was tenderly cared for and reared to manhood by his loving stepmother, Nannie Youtsey Bagby.

He was one of a family of 17 children, five brothers and five sisters. He preceded him in death. He united with the Wilmington Baptist Church, Fiskburg, Ky., at an early age, later becoming a deacon in the same church. He was a faithful member until his departure.

He was united in marriage to Ora W. Mullins on Feb. 17, 1907, and to this union three children were born: Edna F. Bagby, Jr., Sarah Gladys Bagby and Robert Clyde Bagby. He was a member of Wilmington Lodge, 362, F. and A. M., and Fiskburg Chapter Order of Eastern Star.

Mr. Bagby's funeral was in charge of the Swindler funeral directors and was held at the Wilmington Baptist Church, June 8, 1948, conducted by his pastor, Rev. L. J. Powers, assisted by Rev. O. J. Steger and Rev. R. A. Johnson.

The choir beautifully sang three selections, "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder," "Old Rugged Cross," and "All the Way My Savior Leads Me." Rev. Powers used a very appropriate text, "A Good Name is Rather to be Chosen Than Great Riches."

Six of his nephews served as pall bearers: Marion Collins, Foster Bridges, John Collins, Fred Austin, Edgar Baker and Franklin Breeden. He leaves to mourn his passing, his devoted companion, Ora W. Bagby; three children, Edward F. Bagby, Jr., Fiskburg, Sarah Gladys Bagby, Latonia, and Lt. Col. Robert Clyde Bagby, Washington, D. C.; two daughters-in-law, Lena Mae Culbertson Bagby, Francis McJany Bagby, four grandchildren, Carol Rae and Daniel Keith Bagby, Jr.; five sisters, Mrs. Annie Bridges, Piner, Mrs. Emma Collins, Bank Lake, Mrs. Eva Elliott, Wichita, Kansas, Mrs. Laura Hinchman, Ft. Thomas, Mrs. Ruth Crain, Butler, and one brother, David Bagby, Newport, besides several nieces and nephews, and a host of other relatives and friends.

Dear Ed, you have left us. Left us forever more. But we hope to meet you dear one On that bright and happy shore. Oh for the touch of a vanished hand And a sound of a voice that is stilled. A place is vacant in our home Which never can be filled.

He was laid to rest in the Wilmington cemetery among a profusion of flowers.

Mrs. Forest Chapman and daughter called on Misses Anna and Mollie Chapman, Sunday.

Mrs. Vanessa Messmer spent from Monday until Thursday with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Leon B. Hall of Walton.

Nat'l Food Preservation Week 19-24

Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannen has announced that the designation of the week of July 19-24 as National Food Preservation Week.

A program of food preservation, whether done at home or in a community canning center, offers the homemaker the opportunity to provide better nutrition to her family, especially to increase consumption of vitamin-rich fruits and vegetables.

At the same time help to reduce living costs and combat inflation. The special week has been designated, according to department officials, to emphasize the importance to homemakers of planning now to take advantage of the supplies that will be available throughout the summer and fall. Foods in excess of current consumption needs may thus be saved for use next winter.

In announcing the week, Secretary Brannen stated: "Food is still the most important factor in the fight for world peace. We cannot afford to let the abundance of our farms and gardens be wasted. With a little planning and extra effort, these supplies can be used to maintain the health and vigor of our families."

Unnecessary waste of perishable foods during periods of peak seasonal supply is our never-ending problem. Food preservation by canning, freezing, drying and storing can act as a kind of inventory control for both the farmer and consumer. It is a means of stretching the abundance of summer into the winter. A well-planned national home food preservation program will provide expanded food markets for commercial producers of fresh fruits and vegetables and better nutrition for consumers.

CHAS. W. WHITSON

Charles W. Whitson passed away at his home here on Monday, June 28, 1948. He is survived by one son, Walker Whitson, a niece and a nephew.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, June 30th at 3:00 p. m. at the Chambers & Grubbs funeral home, Walton, with the Rev. R. F. DeMolay officiating. Burial was in Hopeful Cemetery, near Florence.

J. S. Refitt was a business visitor in Erlanger, Friday.

Services for Billy Wendell Roberts, 18, of the Bracht-Piner Road, who was killed late Saturday night in an auto accident on the Dixie Highway near Bracht Station, were held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Berry Methodist Church, with burial in the Berry Cemetery. The Chambers & Grubbs funeral home had charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Tressa Riffe, Kenton County Coroner, said that death was caused by a skull fracture, broken neck and internal injuries suffered by the youth when an automobile which he was driving overturned into a ditch.

The accident occurred about five miles south of Walton, near Bracht Station.

According to reports, young Roberts and three friends had been in Walton, where they attended a movie. On the return, three of the group, Alvin Reinhardt and George Mann of Crittenden and Leroy Cook of Morning View Rural Route, were riding together in one automobile and Roberts was alone in another, and Roberts, it is supposed, took it into his head to pass his friends on the road and put on a burst of speed, despite the fact that the highway was rather slippery from a recent shower. After passing the vehicle bearing the three youths, Roberts's car was observed to skid suddenly, leave the road and turn over.

His companions halted their car and ran to his rescue. He was pinned beneath the wreckage, but they managed to extricate him, and brought him to the office of Dr. J. M. Huey, who pronounced him dead.

Young Roberts is survived by his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arvil Eckler, with whom he made his home; his father, Clay Roberts of Independence, Route 1, a sister, who also lives with Mr. and Mrs. Eckler, and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Alice Roberts of Cynthia.

Don't Shoot Fireworks In the City of Walton

If you want to celebrate the 4th, OK—but don't shoot fireworks in the City of Walton. The minimum fine for firing fireworks is $5.00 and for selling them, $25.00. Chief of Police Simmons will be on the job and will arrest anyone caught setting off fireworks—so play safe, have a sane July 4th and omit the fireworks.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
International Union Sunday School Lessons
By LOUIE D. NEWTON

SCRIPTURE: I Kings 22:1-48.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 121:1-4.

Micajah, A Prophet of Israel

Lesson for July 4, 1948

WE BEGIN a new series of studies this quarter—a series of lessons based on less known Bible characters that have much to offer us. Such a character is found in Micajah, a boy whom we learn in I Kings 22:1-40.

Ahab, king of Israel, planned an expedition to recover the city of Ramoth in Gilead, which the Syrians had taken. He invited Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, to join him. Ahab relied upon his court prophets to predict victory; but Micajah, the prophet of God, whom Ahab had shut up in prison, when he was summoned, at the insistence of Jehoshaphat, told Ahab the truth—the unpleasant truth—which subsequent events verified.

DR. NEWTON

BRAVE ENOUGH TO TELL THE TRUTH

THE first blessing in the study of this obscure Bible character, Micajah, is to discover a man who was brave enough to tell the truth when he knew it was unpopular.

It is always the best policy to tell the truth, though there be many in today's world who deny this principle. It is not enough to say that we will tell the truth because it pays. This is true, but it is a by-product of doing what is right. One must tell the truth because it is right to tell the truth. Men swear with their hand upon the Holy Bible that what they testify is the truth and nothing but the truth. But, alas, such men often tell anything but the truth. They have been carefully coached to evade the truth.

Micajah told the truth, because he was speaking for God. It hurt him, but it must needs be the truth which he spoke to Ahab.

TRUTH DISREGARDED

AHAB scorned the words of Micajah, and ordered him thrown back to prison. But scarcely had the prophet of God been thrust again into prison, until Ahab was bleeding to death in his chariot.

Men not only take their own lives in their hands when they disregard the truth, but, like stubborn Ahab, they bring grief to countless others. Had Ahab heeded the words of truth, which Micajah proclaimed, Ahab might have lived. Indeed, had Ahab heeded the words of truth, he might have recovered Ramoth, and more beside.

Truth may appear forever on the scaffold, wrong forever on the throne, but time always proves a hard taskmaster to the man who regards wrong instead of truth.

THE SOURCE OF TRUTH

GOD is the source of truth—all truth. If we miss this, we miss the lesson of the lesson. Note the words of the golden text, "As the Lord liveth, what the Lord saith unto me, that will I speak," said Micajah.

Let us remember that it was God speaking through his prophet. Ahab could not have doubted that Micajah was speaking what God had told him to speak. But Ahab did not want to hear the truth. He wanted to hear pleasing words that would encourage him in his evil plan.

God speaks the first and last word on every subject, because God is truth. "I am the truth," said Jesus. And he went on to say, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

THE PENALTY OF DISOBEYING THE TRUTH

HORRIBLE, indeed, was the penalty which Ahab suffered for disregarding the truth. The way of the transgressor is hard—always hard. The wages of sin is death. Be sure your sins will find you out.

Take down your cherished books of history. What do they say to you? That the straight line of truth is the only safe way in life to walk. It is applicable for the individual, for the family, for the community, for the nation, for civilization.

Take every great prayer must be, "Thy will be done." God's will is the way of truth. Micajah declared it. Every true prophet must declare it. It is the only way to peace and joy in this world.

On Believing

All over the world now there is a reaction from the superficial talk that it does not make much difference what a man believes. We have learned our lesson. What a man believes makes a world of difference not only in what he does, but what happens to him.

SOMETHING MORE . . .

Selecting a funeral director is not a simple commercial transaction; a certain degree of sentiment attaches to the matter, and it is therefore quite essential that the funeral director is selected with care.

Knowledge in advance of the necessity is desirable. We shall be very willing to give you any desired information regarding our own policies, or to have you ask your friends about our integrity and general reputation.

Mr. Bechtold is a veteran of World War I and a member of the Norman-Barnes Post, 70, of the American Legion. His son is a disabled veteran of World War II and a member of the Pohlmann-Linnemann Post.

Whereas—The Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States recognizes the need of full support to veterans who seek office; and, whereas—George W. Bechtold is a veteran of World War I and is a member of a recognized veterans organization and at the present time is a candidate for Tax Commissioner of Kenton County, Kentucky, and whereas—He has by long service in public office showed exceptional ability in positions held and has a record of faithful service to the principles of good government and to service to veterans.

Therefore be it resolved at this regular meeting of Pohlmann-Linnemann Post, 1484, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States on June 24, 1948 that we unanimously endorse George W. Bechtold as the Veterans Candidate for Tax Commissioner of Kenton County, Kentucky.

New Spring Models on the Southern

Have you noticed?

It's Spring on the Southern's rails today... and we're "all dressed up" with the 116 gleaming new Diesel locomotive units and 2,350 new freight cars we put in service last year at a cost of 24½ million dollars.

You'll see them all over the South... sweeping around bends... clicking off the miles on the straight-a-ways... brightly new, and forerunners of even more and better things to come.

And more are coming! This month we'll begin to get delivery on 3,000 new box cars, ordered a year ago. In July delivery will begin on 1,000 new 50-ton hopper cars. More Diesels and scores of new and modern passenger cars are coming too! New equipment now on order will cost 38¼ million dollars.

A lot of money? Sure. And most of it is borrowed money... to be paid back on the installment plan, plus interest. We're borrowing against the future... constantly improving the transportation service the South needs for continuing growth and prosperity... because we have faith in the future... here in the South.

The DALLAS HEART by GEORGE ETHELBERT WALSH

answering, I averted my face and grew very red. Evidently he misunderstood, for he laughed lightly and turned back to the fire.

"Well," he observed after a long pause, "Uncle's death has made it easier for us. We can search the house together. There won't be any interruption; but by morning we must be gone. It would never do for either of us to be seen lurking around here."

"You think," I gasped, "they would—would suspect me of—of—"

"They would suspect any one," he out in. "These detectives are not very shrewd. They'd jump at the first clue they stumbled across. Perhaps they wouldn't suspect you if I were here."

"No," that would be a little too much. It's the two of us together that would arouse suspicion. My presence would involve you.

"I shouldn't have returned. I shouldn't have returned. I should have gone on. I was fleeing, frightened out of my wits, when I met you. Did I look frightened?"

Again I did not answer. The whole conversation had puzzled me, and I wished myself out of the whole affair. Why had I undertaken such a foolish adventure?

I looked around wildly for a plausible way out of my predicament.

When Jerry leaped to his feet I caught his hand and pleaded with him not to leave me.

had not introduced myself as Nancy Lee, but I had let him think I was his cousin, which amounted to almost the same thing.

There was some mystery that Nancy had kept concealed from me. Or perhaps she had not thought enough of it to feel that it needed to be explained. And now my ignorance was causing me endless confusion. But the confession that sprang to my lips was checked by Jerry, who went on quietly:

"I came back to Swamp Hollow after these many years to see Uncle Abner. I hoped to come to a settlement with him. If not—then—"

'The Dallas Heart' Enters the Scene

He stopped and waved a hand threateningly—but seeing my sudden start and frown he smiled and shook his head.

"No, I don't mean I was going to do him bodily harm," he added. "But I intended to get hold of the Dallas Heart, or at least to make a search for it. I felt sure Uncle kept it hidden in Swamp Hollow."

The Dallas Heart! What did he mean? My effort to solve the riddle only increased my confusion. But still I held back my confession, anxious to learn more about the mystery. My curiosity was now aroused, and I turned to him with a luring smile.

"You were going to burglarize the house? If not a murderer, then a burglar?"

"I suppose it would be called that," he admitted. "But stealing what belongs to you is no crime, is it?"

"No," I replied, "but—what of me?"

He studied the flames a moment in silence, and then glanced up and smiled.

"Of course, your right in it is equal to mine," he said slowly, "and I would share it with you. Judge Dallas left it as a dowry to Betty and Mary, Janice having relinquished all right to it when she took Swamp Hollow."

"Betty?" I breathed softly, looking inquiringly at him.

"Yes—my mother, your Aunt Betty."

Oh, how stupid of Nancy not to have made a clearer and more detailed explanation of the family tree! She had not even mentioned Aunt Betty. I began to feel that I knew less than nothing of the Lees and the Longwoods of Wildwood and Swamp Hollow. But by degrees I was being enlightened by Jerry, and I encouraged him to go on.

"When you came here you found Uncle Abner, and he refused to listen to you?" I asked.

A hard, ironic expression came into his face.

"I found him," he said steadily after a long pause, "but not as you think."

He moved uneasily and glanced around the darkened room. The thunder and lightning had passed, and only the wind remained to remind us of the recent storm. The room was no longer intermittently lighted up with vivid flashes, but remained clothed in sombre darkness save for the fitful flames from the coal.

"I found him," he continued in a low voice, "in there—dead—stabbed to the heart—weltering in his own blood just as you saw him!"

"Oh!" I shuddered, clasping my hands.

"It was a terrible sight," he went on slowly. "It completely unnerved me. He had only been recently killed. The body was barely cold. The murderer had had hardly time enough to get away."

Again he glanced nervously back of him and, recalling the sinister face I had seen in the back of the room, I followed his eyes. We sat silent, looking intently, clasping hands for mutual courage.

"You see any one?" he asked in a whisper.

"No, but I did."

"Tell me—what he did look like?" The face and eyes, "I shuddered—were—were those of Uncle Abner."

"Nonsense! That's your imagination! How could he be in here, with his body out there—dead!"

I shook my head without comment.

ment. I could not explain, but I was sure I had not been deceived. He drew a deep sigh after a while.

"We're letting things get on our nerves," he added. "Next we'll see ghosts and spirits."

He got up and crossed to the window, jerking the curtain aside hastily and snapping up the shade.

He peered out a moment, and then returned to his seat by the fire.

"It's a terrible night outside," he murmured. "The rain's stopped, but the wind's worse. It's a regular hurricane. Not a very pleasant night to spend in Swamp Hollow."

He smiled grimly and dropped on his stool again, as though he were very tired. There was a clock ticking somewhere in the room, and we listened to it, counting the seconds. It had an uncanny sound that punctuated the silence between each blast of wind outside.

"I'll stop that clock!" Jerry muttered finally. "Where is it? It gets on my nerves. Uncle Abner always declared it wouldn't stop until he died. He wound it up faithfully every week. I don't believe it's stopped in fifty years."

"But if he's dead why doesn't it stop?" I asked fearfully.

"He turned and glanced at me as if I had suggested something unpleasant. Then seeing my pale, frightened face his own relaxed.

"Poor Nancy," he whispered. "You shouldn't have gotten into this thing. I wish you hadn't come."

"Tell me," I said steadily, "what you did after finding uncle's body?"

"What I did!" he repeated. "Why I—I was so frightened that I forgot all about my errand. I was panic-stricken and ran. Yes, I literally ran out of the house into the swamp. I was so excited that I didn't notice which way I was going."

"The result was," he added, smiling, "that I got turned around. I was bewildered and lost in the swamp."

"And then you found me?"

"Yes, then I found you. I heard you sobbing, and for a moment I was too stupefied to speak. I wondered if I weren't dreaming. Your face seemed familiar, and yet it didn't. I must have asked queerly."

I smiled, recalling the meeting and its effect on me. Then suddenly my heart nearly ceased beating.

A groan came from the other room—clear and distinct, a repetition of the first one we had heard.

Between the mysterious groan and the face I had seen in the darkness, I was reduced to a condition of utter helplessness, and when Jerry leaped to his feet I caught his hand and pleaded with him not to leave me.

Swamp Hollow had so got on my nerves that reason and common sense no longer swayed my words or actions. I dreaded being left alone, and yet I wanted Jerry to investigate the next room from which the groan had come.

Jerry was nearly as excited as I, but perhaps in a different way. I was convinced that there was something supernatural about the face and the groan, and the condition of my nerves prevented me from casting the feeling off; but Jerry was thinking differently.

Noises in the Dining Room

"There's some one in the dining-room," he whispered. "Wait here!"

"No! No!" I cried hysterically. "It's Uncle Abner! He's not dead or—"

I could not finish, for phrased in words it seemed ridiculous. Spirits and ghosts are not accepted seriously today by any except weak-minded creatures or by the investigating committees of psychical and spiritualistic bodies, and I credited myself with no such title.

"Nonsense," he cried, using the same expression for the third or fourth time to contradict me. "Don't be silly, Nancy. I'll leave the door open."

"But if I should see the face again," I began, shuddering and pointing to the back of the room. "If I do I shall die of fright."

He glanced judiciously around and finally said: "If you see it, call me. I'll come back instantly."

Before I could reply, he had disengaged his hand. I jumped to my feet to follow, but my legs lost their power of locomotion. I sank back on the couch with a little moan.

Verona Breaks Even; Play Blue Ash, Sun.

The Verona baseball club broke even in a pair of games over the July 4th holidays. They defeated Ken-ta-kee, Sunday by the score of 13-1 and lost to Bog & Gene, Monday to the tune of 14-1. Both contests were played at Verona.

In Sunday's set-to, Steffen was on the mound for the winners and gave up 5 hits, good for 1 run. Baum received his slants. Flynn tossed them up for Ken-ta-kee and Verona clubbed his offerings for 16 hits, good for 13 runs. Judge did the best clubbing of the day, getting four safeties in six swings, and homers were hammered out by Brown and Alexander. Top man in the stick department for the losers was Thomas, who collected a pair of hits in four tries.

Monday's game was a different story. Dutch Reibling was on the mound for Bob Eades' team and allowed Verona but 7 hits, good for only 1 run, while the team fielded brilliantly. Cliff Aterkirk did the pitching for the losers and was nipped for 19 hits and 14 runs. The Veronans were guilty of five errors.

Conner was top hitter for Bob & Gene, with four hits in five swings, one blow being a home run, the only one during the game. Bud Robinson led the Verona attack with three hits in four tries. The winners had six extra-base blows, while the losers had but two.

On Sunday, July 11th, m. will be hosts to the Blue Ash, with the game set for 2:30 p. m.

Aug. Sowing Of Alfalfa Advised

A circular of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics says August 5 to 20 is the best time to sow alfalfa in Northern Kentucky and August 15 to September 1 about the right time in the southern part of the state. Land should be prepared as long as possible before sowing.

Much Kentucky land needs liming for best alfalfa production. At the Experiment Station farm at Lexington spreading two tons of limestone to the acre increased the yield of hay from 3,239 pounds to 5,604 pounds to the acre a year. Four tons pushed the yield up to over three tons of hay to the acre. Phosphorus may be needed outside the Bluegrass region.

Six or seven pounds of seed to the acre will do on a perfect seedbed, if good growing weather prevails. Ten to 12 pounds are considered to be better.

Farmers planning to grow alfalfa for the first time are advised to consult with their county agent, and get a copy of the circular, "Growing Alfalfa in Kentucky."

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Johnson of Lakeside were Sunday guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Johnson on Verona Road.

Mrs. Clifford Pruett, Mrs. J. T. Stone, Mrs. Pearl R. Johnson, Mrs. Bess Conrad and Mrs. William Breeden, spent Tuesday in the city.

Softball Team Wins Pair Of Games

The Walton Baptist Church's softball team continued on the victory road. On June 24th they defeated the New Bank Lick Baptists 10-2 and on July 1st downed Independence Baptists 19-1.

Williamstown To Get New Airport

Last week the Government allocated $30,000 for a new airport at Williamstown. The total cost of the project is to be $63,000, the Civil Aeronautics Administration said, with costs including land, buildings, preparation of site and other miscellaneous work.

This is one of 455 projects included in distribution of funds under the federal aid airport program. The two largest Kentucky items were $175,000 U. S. aid for a new airport at Owensboro, and $100,000 for expansion of Standiford Field at Louisville.

Federal aid for such airport projects amounts to half, or less, of the total cost.

Holiday Claims Nine Persons In Kentucky

Most Kentuckians were safely home Tuesday after a long, sweltering holiday weekend that saw at least nine accidental deaths in the state, none of them due to fireworks.

Four of the fatalities resulted from traffic accidents, while five were drownings. Large crowds thronged to any available swimming spot as temperatures soared into the high 90's. A mark of 98 at Louisville, Sunday gave the city its hottest 4th of July since 1911.

Among the traffic deaths were: Shirley Welch, 13, who died from injuries sustained in an accident near Stanley.

William Travis Vandiver, killed in a two-car collision near Madisonville, which injured seven other persons.

Perry White, 30, Rockcastle county, died from injuries received when hit by a car.

Mrs. Augusta McBride, 20, Cincinnati, fatally injured in an accident in Newport.

Those who drowned were: Billy Jones, 23, who fell between two barges into the Ohio river at Owensboro.

Bernice Taylor, 20, Negro, who drowned in Louisville while swimming in the Portland canal.

Morgan Flora, 21, at Cold Springs lake.

Irene Bryant, 16, in the Big Sandy river near George's creek.

Doris Wethington, 4, in a cistern at her home near Versailles.

We are happy to report that Miss Estelle Baker is doing better, in Bethesda Hospital.

We are very happy to have Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Scudder back in the neighborhood, from Honolulu.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. Rea Scudder and Joe Scudder attended the Drive-In Theatre at Florence, Monday night.

Joe Scudder spent Monday night with Mr. and Mrs. Rea Scudder.

Approximately 200 persons—high school, graduates, business people, teachers, war veterans and others—have requested information about the University of Kentucky's new Northern Center in Covington.

Dr. W. C. Wesley, director, whose office on the third floor of the First District School opened on Tuesday, July 6th, said that Northern Kentuckians are showing much interest in the center. Of those asking for information regarding admission courses to be offered, about 50 would be full-time students.

The Covington branch of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio has written in for information for its employees, Dr. Wesley reported. One request was from a woman interested in taking courses in religious education. Several veterans have requested information.

Full-time instructors will be employed in history and English, and part-time instructors will teach courses in mathematics, foreign languages, physics, chemistry, education, and accounting. Just what courses will be offered in the Northern Center depends upon the interest shown in the various fields.

The center will operate on a semester basis and will open September 14th for the fall term. Laboratory classes will meet at Holmes High School and all other classes will be held at the First District School, Scott Street. Regular college courses will be given for freshmen and sophomores, students, while special courses for which there is a demand may include informal non-credit courses as well as courses for graduate students.

A full-time student will be allowed to carry a maximum of 15 semester hours of college work. Veterans eligible for educational benefits under Public Laws 16 or 346 may make use of their entitlement at the center in the same way as veterans on the Lexington campus, Dr. Wesley said.

At Erlanger-Williamstown

On July 15, Edward J. Bolte, Field Representative of the Social Security Administration, will be at the Erlanger Post Office from 10 to 11 a. m. and at the Williamstown Post Office from 1:40 to 2 p. m. All persons interested in the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance program, or applicants for social security cards should consult this representative.

Each worker upon reaching age 65 should call at the nearest office of the Social Security Administration to determine his status under this program. When a worker dies his survivors should get in touch with the social security office for assistance in filing claim for death benefits.

INDEPENDENCE R. 1

The Staffordsburg church and community wish to congratulate Rev. Wheary and his young people of his four churches for the good, and spiritual program they put on over WCO Sunday morning.

The farmers of this locality would sure appreciate a real good rain as it is badly needed on all the crops as well as pastures.

Misses Rosemary Binder and Marilyn Riley spent Saturday in the city, shopping.

Mrs. Roy Martin accompanied her husband, Rev. Roy Martin, back to Lexington, Tuesday after spending the past week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Barnett.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Hanna and son of Latonia have been spending several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hanna and caring for his mother, who is nursing a very sore ankle.

Herbert Hoffman, called on his mother, Mrs. L. N. Hoffman, Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Wheary fulfilled his regular appointment at Staffordsburg on Sunday evening, with a very good attendance.

Donald Keeney entertained the Staffordsburg young people's society recently.

LADINO CLOVER FINDS FAVOR ON KENTUCKY FARMS

Reports of county agents indicate that ladino clover is being grown by more Kentucky farmers every year, as its desirable qualities become known over the state.

The experiences of A. S. Wasson, Spencer county dairyman, is told by County Agent N. L. Goebel. Mr. Wasson turned 26 Holsteins on five acres of ladino clover and orchard grass in late March. In 30 days he was shipping 120 gallons of milk daily. The cows did so well he reduced their grain ration.

After transferring the cows to bluegrass and timothy pasture, the milk production fell off around 10 gallons a day, he told the county agent. When he switched back to ladino clover, milk production all immediately increased, he said.

Hoy Herndon of Spencer county cut 20 acres of ladino clover for hay and Edward Reinle put 20 acres of ladino hay in the silo, using no preservative.

E. G. Barker of Oldham county informed County Agent C. L. Brown that he kept 55 cows and 40 calves on about 25 acres of ladino clover and grass from April 27 to May 26. They then looked as if they had been fed grain, he declared. The mixture he sowed included two pounds of each ladino clover and redtop and eight pounds of orchard grass an acre.

County Agent H. M. Williams said ladino clover made outstanding pasture in Owsley county this season. Two acres on the Henry Campbell farm provided pasture for 10 cattle and three sows and pigs. Twenty-seven farmers attended a meeting at Campbell's field to see the clover and discuss its merits.

SONNY DUNHAM BAFFLES INSTRUMENTAL EXPERTS

Sonny Dunham, who brings his famous dance orchestra to Moonlite Gardens, Coney Island, as a special one-night attraction, Friday, July 9, continues to amaze and baffle musicians and music teachers, who maintain it is impossible for one person to master the trumpet and the trombone because the difference in embouchure (the technical term for the set of the lip-muscles required to play a musical instrument) is so great. Dunham has won top rating as the master of both instruments. It is a matter of record that Harry James and Tommy Dorsey merely stare in disbelief when either of them catches Sonny's performances. And the feat won Dunham a place in Ripley's famous cartoon, "Believe It or Not."

In addition to Dunham's own performance, the band will feature vocals by Pete Hanley and the incomparable Trombone Choir when it plays at Coney Island.

TRIMBLE BERRIES
BRING BIG MONEY

Seventy-five Trimble county farmers received around $124,000 for 22,000 crates of strawberries picked from about 200 acres. This was a 100 per cent increase over the 1947 production which was about double any previous season, according to County Agent J. G. Dye. Carley Ginn from one acre of the Tennessee Beauties picked 452 crates for which he received $2,486. While most of the berries were Blakemore, Tennessee Beauty gave good returns, and were set heavily for production next year. Nine growers with 500 to 1,000 plants each reported good yields of high-quality Tennessee Beauty berries.

Bezelel, The Craftsman

Lesson for July 11, 1948

THE dignity of labor, the source of artistic ability, the secret of mechanical skill, and the service of good workmanship—these are the facets that break across the ages, pointing us to worthy effort, as we study again the achievement of Bezelel and his associates in the construction and furnishing of the Tabernacle at Sinai.

You will wish to read the scripture passages for the lesson and the devotional reading, Exodus 20:1-17, and the golden text: "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." Ecclesiastes 9:10.

A MAN WHO DID FINE WORK
BEZALEL, grandson of Hur, son of Caleb, was called of God to superintend the building of the Tabernacle. His name means "under the shadow of God." He knew how to do fine work, having been trained in Egyptian art and handicraft—metallurgy, carpentry, weaving, embroidery, leather-dyeing, gem-cutting and confections. He even knew the art of apothecary.

Best of all, he loved to do fine work. It is one thing to possess the know how, it is yet another thing to love the execution of a great design.

TRAITS OF CHARACTER
BEZALEL possessed knowledge as a fine craftsman, but back of his technical knowledge was spiritual knowledge. He was filled "with the spirit of God." He worked at the temporal, but he worked for the eternal.

He possessed wisdom—wisdom which comes only from God. Wisdom which means understanding in the sense in which Solomon speaks in Proverbs.

Picture life with every workman filled with the spirit of God, and possessing an understanding of his task in the light of God's eternal will. Here, I fancy, Henry Van Dyke may have got his inspiration for his great poem on "Work."

HANDS THAT SERVE GOD
ABOLIAH, meaning "the father is my tabernacle," was called of God to help Bezelel in his high and holy task. He was of the tribe of Dan—which tribe furnished Hiram as chief artist in building Solomon's temple. Aboliah, "given of God" for this divine task, gladly dedicated his skillful hands in helping Bezelel.

And there were many others who helped—"wise hearted," we read. Here was a task, God's task, and here were leaders, Bezelel and Aboliah, ready to serve God; and here were helpers, wise hearted.

WORK FOR EVERY DAY

TURNING now from the fascinating story of how Bezelel and Aboliah and their helpers constructed and furnished the Tabernacle at Sinai, according to the minutest detail as outlined in the passages above cited, let us ask, What about our work?

There is work for everyone every day. "To every man his work." And every task is essential in bringing to pass the Kingdom of God on earth. God did not make us for idleness. He made us for a purpose—that purpose to do our particular work. None other can do what God has ordained that we should do.

"My Father worketh hitherto, and I work," said Jesus. "Work, for the night cometh when no man can work."

Will my work be done ere the night come?
"Time worketh,
Let me work, too,
Busy at time my work I ply,
Till I work the work of eternity."

God is the infinitely persistent experimenter, and when one generation fails him he always tries another. Always there is a new generation as fresh and multitudinous as morning dew, to hear again God's gracious gospel and have an opportunity to respond to his inspiring challenge.—E. M. Walker.

Missions

Whether we like it or not, we have been thrust into a world that has been crowded up into such close quarters that there is no longer any "home mission" field or "foreign mission" territory. The needs of all the world are our problem.

CHAPTER V

I heard Jerry's cat-like steps and saw the shadow of his form creeping toward the door leading into the death room. Like one in a horrible dream I saw and heard the door open.

The silence that followed was harder to endure than a babel of strange sounds, and as if to intensify it there came a hush in the wind outside and the blinds ceased to rattle.

All over the house a strange hush followed. The branches of the trees no longer swayed or creaked, and the scraping of a bare limb that had beat a steady tattoo against the side of the house stopped miraculously.

It was uncanny, yet it would have been perfectly understandable if I'd stopped to reason out the cause; but in a state of fear one forgets everything except what the imagination conjures up. Even the dropping of a pin would have shocked me; the slamming of a door or window would have caused me to faint. And I'm not the fainting kind—far from it!

After what seemed an eternity of time, I heard Jerry moving around in the next room. Round and round his steps seemed to circulate—now near the door, then past it and back again. What could he be doing?

In the effort to find an answer to this question I forgot some of my fear, and I listened intently to every footfall. Once or twice I was tempted to call him, but I restrained myself.

I caught myself counting his steps—one, two, three, four, five. . . . I counted up to fifty, and then stopped. The last round brought him near the door again, and this time they did not repeat as before in the endless circle.

He was returning, and a great weight was lifted from my mind when I caught the shadow of his form silhouetted against the opposite wall by the flicker of the fire.

"Jerry!" I called faintly.

"Coming, Nancy!" he replied. He did not come straight toward me, but first made a circuit of the room, stopping at each window to lift the shade and peer out. I watched him apprehensively.

Then he came and dropped on his stool and stared blankly into the fire.

"What was it, Jerry?" I asked fearfully.

He looked at me for a moment and then shook his head.

"It was Uncle Abner!" I added inquiringly.

"I don't know. I can't say," he muttered. "But it's queer—very queer."

"What's queer?" I demanded sharply, pulling at his sleeve. "Answer me, Jerry! Don't keep me waiting."

"I wish you hadn't come to this beastly place!" he blurted out half angrily. "It's bewitched or something."

"Haunted!" I exclaimed, supplying the right word for him.

"Haunted!" he sneered. "There's no such thing as a haunted house. You can't make me believe—"

Again that tantalizing break in a sentence.

"What did you find?" I asked almost fiercely. "Tell me! I must know."

"What did I find?" he asked, laughing in a way that grated on my nerves. "I didn't find anything, Nancy! The room was empty!"

"Empty! You mean no one was in it except Uncle Abner?"

"No!" he replied, almost brutally. "I mean that he wasn't there either."

His gone! There's nothing left but the pool of blood in which he lay."

That was the supreme test of my nerves, and I should have cried out or fainted. But, strangely, I did neither. I was cold and shaky, but my mind was clear. I was surprised at the calmness of my own voice.

"If he's not there, then where is he?"

"How should I know?" came the irritable reply. "Get up and walked away, or flew away! Hanged if I don't believe he had two lives! He was dead before. Now he's—"

"No!" he added, raising his voice to a shout. "I won't believe anything so silly! He was dead, and dead he'll stay. Come on, Nancy, we've lost too much time now! We'll search for the Dallas Heart and get out of here before morning! Come!"

"Where to?" I gasped, shrinking back.

"Where to? Everywhere? Upstairs—downstairs—into the garret and into the cellar! Wherever there's a likely hiding place for the Dallas Heart we'll look. Come!"

Anything was preferable to sitting there, listening to the wind and the creaking of floors and walls so common in an old house on a stormy night.

I got up quickly. Any kind of action would help to keep my mind from brooding on the supernatural and the uncanny.

"Remember, it's half yours," Jerry continued, taking my hand. "Judge Dallas left it to your mother and mine, and Uncle Abner stole it. He had no right to it, but it was worth a fortune, and he couldn't keep his hands off it."

How I wished he would explain what the Dallas Heart really was. I was beginning to think it was some sort of priceless jewel, but the name puzzled me. I didn't like to betray my ignorance by asking.

"You must remember, Jerry," I said, "that I was young, very young, when mother left Wildwood."

"Remember, it's half yours," Jerry continued, taking my hand.

Judge Dallas left it to your mother and mine, and Uncle Abner stole it. He had no right to it, but it was worth a fortune, and he couldn't keep his hands off it."

Judge Dallas left it to your mother and mine, and Uncle Abner stole it. He had no right to it, but it was worth a fortune, and he couldn't keep his hands off it."

How I wished he would explain what the Dallas Heart really was. I was beginning to think it was some sort of priceless jewel, but the name puzzled me. I didn't like to betray my ignorance by asking.

"You must remember, Jerry," I said, "that I was young, very young, when mother left Wildwood."

"Remember, it's half yours," Jerry continued, taking my hand.

and I've never been back."

"That's so, Nancy! I'd forgotten, poor girl. I'm sorry for you."

With that he put an arm around my waist and drew me nearer in the dark.

"Well, come, we must begin the search," he added. "But what's that?"

"There was a peculiar grating noise as if some one were pushing aside sliding doors or dragging a heavy weight over the floor above."

Jerry paused, all his laughter gone. "If Uncle Abner isn't really dead," he muttered, "we won't have much of a chance to find it."

"How could he be dead if he isn't in the library?" I asked tremulously.

"It is a mystery," he breathed softly. "I don't know what to think of it. But—half angrily—I won't be frightened! Dead or alive, he's got to disgorge. That's what I came to Swamp Hollow for. Now we'll begin in his bedroom. I know where it is—on the next floor."

He produced a flashlight and flashed its rays ahead of us. We were in the hall, a big, square, old-fashioned hall, with the front door on one side and a winding stairway on the other. It was so cold and drafty that I shivered.

"You know about that, don't you?" he said in a troubled voice. "Or were you too young?"

"I was too young to understand, Jerry," I ventured, hoping to get the details from him.

"Then I'll tell you so that, even if I did come here with murder in my heart, you'll know I had some justification."

He paused, holding his breath, while we both stared at the painting on the wall.

"It ruined my mother's life by false scandal," he said in a hard voice. "Oh, he was a past-master at that. He could scheme and plan, and then at the right moment strike."

"Mother was high-spirited, and she accused him of lying and betraying her to the scandal-mongers of the village. But what did he care? He mocked and laughed at her."

I pressed his hand gently in sympathy when he paused.

"Poor, dear Aunt Betty!" I murmured.

He sighed, and then went on. "She demanded her share of the estate. She wanted to leave Wildwood forever; but he would give her nothing. Everything was in his hands—even the Dallas Heart!"

"Yes? And she didn't get that?"

I encouraged.

A smile of triumph came into the upturned face.

"Yes, she got it out of his safe and fled with it. It belonged to her what it was all about. It wasn't stealing. She fled through the swamp with me, and—and—"

He stopped again to wipe from his forehead the perspiration which unpleasant memories had caused to settle there.

"I was only a kid then," he added in a whisper. "I didn't know what it was all about. I got my first unpleasant impression of Uncle Abner that day."

"He discovered the loss of the Dallas Heart before mother could get out of it. He pursued and overtook us near the pool where I found you. He accused mother of the theft, and she was too proud to deny it."

"Then—then—," he struggled, and Uncle Abner got it away from her."

I sighed in sympathy for the boy and mother of long ago, as well as for the man by my side.

"After that," he resumed gently, "mother lost heart. Because of the scandal Uncle had started in Wildwood she would never go out. She brooded at Swamp Hollow or wandered around alone in the swamp. Sometimes she took me with her, and again she would go alone."

"As I recall it now she was a broken-hearted woman. And then one day—one day—she was missing."

"I caught his arm, shivering slightly. He was quiet for so long that I wondered if he had forgotten that his story was left unfinished."

"You found her?" I asked.

"Yes—her body—floating in the pool where we met."

"Oh!" I gasped, drawing back and shuddering.

"Dear mother," he continued, speaking more to himself than to me, "nobody ever knew whether it was an accident or the act of a broken-hearted, discouraged woman."

"Let us think it was an accident, Jerry," I said gently.

"Yes, I've always tried to think so. I won't think anything else! Mother was proud and high-spirited, and not a coward. She would never have taken her life. She had me to live for."

I nodded gravely, and then asked: "And you, Jerry? Did you continue to live on at Swamp Hollow?"

"Yes, and for a time Uncle Abner was kind to me. Mother's death upset him, I fancy, and he tried to make amends by treating me decently."

"But it didn't last. As he grew older he changed. He followed me around, browbeat me, treated me as if I were something alien. And in the end I learned to hate him. It lasted for years, and then when I was old enough I ran away."

"The rest," he added, smiling grimly, "is another story. But hard as life was to me it was pleasant than it would have been living here."

torch up and down it, and then half playfully turned to me.

"Whatever Uncle Abner's malignant power may have been in real life, Nancy," he said smilingly, "I don't think he could make his picture move. You're excited and unnerved. We'll go and not look at it any more."

His words seemed reassuring, and I tried to make myself believe I had been deceived. It might have been the wind that

Cannery at Simon Kenton Opens July 20

Phone Ind. 5054
For Appointment

Since next week is National Food Preservation Week, the Simon Kenton School Community Cannery at Independence, will open Tuesday, July 20, according to an announcement by Supt. J. A. Caywood. For the past five years this cannery has been serving the needs of people in Kenton County and adjoining communities. During this time over 100,000 cans have been processed by patrons in the communities surrounding the cannery. Part of this total number of cans has been canned for the school cafeteria, and the cannery is being recognized by all who use it as a part of the total school program and as a real service to the community. For example, last year Mrs. Sam Borning of Crescent Springs, in one day, canned 34 cans of succotash, 41 cans of tomato juice, and 163 cans of corn at a total cost of $17.00 and six hours of labor on her part.

The price of cans this year will be the same as last—6 to 8 cents per can, depending upon the size and kind of can. This cost includes the cost of the can, plus the use of the cannery, which includes the cost of fuel, water, electricity, and labor for firing the boiler. This cannery is operated on a self-sustaining basis. This enables it to add more conveniences and new equipment from time to time to the cannery patrons. Thus, the cannery becomes of greater service to the community.

"Zoo" Operator Fined $50.00 and Costs

Pleading guilty to a breach of peace charge, the operator of the Ft. Moss Exhibition animal show, was fined $50 and costs by Judge W. E. Wehman in Kenton County Court last Saturday.

Theo. L. Dedrick of Blox, Miss., operator of the show which had been located a short distance south of Walton, told the court, "I had been driving my men and I could contradict anybody" as he entered a plea of guilty to the breach of the peace charge.

A charge against Dedrick of contributing to juvenile delinquency was dismissed after a 14-year-old boy, who an employee of the show had hired, testified that he misrepresented his age by saying he was 17 years old. The boy had wandered away from his home in Kirbyville, Texas and "hitch-hiked" to Akron, Ohio, Cincinnati, and to Kenton county where he was employed by the show. He is to be returned to his home.

Kenton County Juvenile Officer Stewart Seiby said his investigation revealed that the youth "ran away from home" last year and was located in Pine Bluff, Ark.

Kenton County Patrolmen James Crowell and Paul Grosjean, who took Dedrick and the youth into custody, said the boy was carrying a box-like apparatus, which the officers reasoned was used as a gambling device. It was described as the "Indian Pot Game."

The Ft. Moss Exhibition had formerly been stationed at Devon.

Verona Drubs Blue Ash 16-7; Elimination Series Starts Sun.

In a loosely played a free-hitting affair, the Verona Community Club baseball team had little difficulty in defeating Blue Ash Inn, Sunday by the score of 16 to 7.

Newman and Crowley did the pitching for the losers and they were nicked for 15 hits, and of this number 2 were homers, by Brown, Triples by Judge and Kordenbrook, and a double by Alexander. Elmo Steffen started the game for Verona but was relieved by J. Ryan in the eighth. This pair gave up 7 hits, and walked five. Blue Ash pitching issued 7 passes. The winners committed 4 errors and the losers six.

Hitting honors for Verona went to Scroggins with 2 for 3, and Judge, who had 3 for 5. Other high men were Alexander, with 2 for 4, and Bouman and Brown, with 2 for 5.

Crowley, Bolser and Sawyer each had 2 for 4 for Blue Ash.

Elimination Series Starts Sunday
On Sunday, July 18th at 2:30 p. m., the elimination series in the Benke Semi-Pro loop will get under way, and the Community Club has been strengthening its team in order to give a good account of itself during the weeks ahead.

Their first game, Sunday, should prove a good one, as Pat's Cafe is to be hand and "The Large One" usually comes up with some pretty fair baseball talent about this time of the year. You'll be on hand wont you?

The annual meeting of group five of the Kentucky Bankers Association will be held Thursday evening, July 29th at the Highland Country Club. Chas. W. Thompson of Walton's Dixie State Bank, president of this group, will preside.

Jimmy Vest Named Member of Board

The Walton-Verona school building will receive many repairs and changes in the next few weeks. Among the major ones is the moving of the rest rooms from the basement to the first floor level and placed in a newly constructed addition; also the renovation and the painting of the interior, from top to bottom; compliance with all the suggestions from the fire marshal's office; new lighting fixtures, and purchase of additional ground for recreational purposes.

Interior to Get Face Lifted

New panel board ceilings are to be installed on all rooms and halls in the building and general repair on wall and woodwork, and painting of the interior, from top to bottom; compliance with all the suggestions from the fire marshal's office; new lighting fixtures, and purchase of additional ground for recreational purposes.

New Rest Rooms

Final working plans are now with the State Department and the State Board of Health for the construction of new rest rooms. The new building will be brick and tile with all new and modern fixtures. It is to be erected on the north side of the present arcade, with entrances from the arcade. Both boys and girls rest rooms will be completely removed from the basement and into the new building.

Purchased Additional Lots

The Board purchased five lots bordering on the present property, which will be used to give ample playground facilities for the children. These lots were purchased at auction from the Diess estate. The grading and other improvements on these lots will be done in the future.

Vest Named to Board

Jimmy Vest has been named to the School Board, due to the resignation of George Knox, who served for a number of years and was forced to resign because of ill health. Mr. Knox served faithfully and is a loss to the Board. Mr. Vest, who graduated from this school and who was quite active in athletics, and has been actively interested in the school since, will fit into the School Board nicely.

New Coach Named

Charles Hayes has been named as athletic coach at Walton-Verona school. He is a graduate of Western State College, and had his high schooling at Louisville Male High. Mr. Hayes comes well recommended by the coaching and academic staff at Western. We should be in for some good gail games, as Coach Hayes is well versed in the type of basketball that has made the Western Hilltoppers a national leader in the game. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes are expected to arrive in Walton during late August. The prospects are also bright for a school baseball team next year.

ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR

Your electric refrigerator is working harder than ever these hot July days, protecting your perishables and providing you with extra quantities of ice cubes and frozen desserts. Help it serve you more economically... keep it operating at top efficiency... by following these timely suggestions:

- Defrost at least once a week. Frost acts as an insulator and makes your refrigerator work harder to keep foods cold.
- Don't waste ice cubes. If you use only part of a tray, refill the empty sections and return tray promptly, to freezer.
- Use fast freezing sparingly. Keeping control at cold setting for long periods increases running time and operating cost.
- After freezing desserts, turn control halfway back to normal to hold until served. Then return control to normal.

- Avoid frequent and lengthy door openings.
- Let hot dishes cool before putting them in your refrigerator.
- Check door gasket for tight seal. If it permits entry of warm air, have it repaired or replaced.
- Keep condenser clean. Dirt and dust interfere with its cooling efficiency and increase running of the motor.
- If your refrigerator is an open unit model, oil the motor according to manufacturer's directions.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LOUIE D. NEWTON

SCRIPTURE: Ruth.
 DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 136:1-3.

Noomi, Woman Of Faith

Lesson for July 15, 1948

Dr. Newton

IF WE are to understand Ruth, cherished heroine of the book bearing her name, we must know Naomi, her mother-in-law—woman of faith in God and surpassing patience and sacrifice in service to her day and generation.

It is the Book of Ruth which we have for Sunday's lessons, with Psalms 136:1-3 as the devotional reading. The golden text, "Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God," Ruth 1:16.

IN SEARCH OF BREAD
 FAMINE in Judah, where Elimelech and his wife, Naomi, and their sons, Mahlon and Chilion, dwelt, drove them to Moab, in search of bread. Elimelech died, and the sons married young women of Moab, Ruth and Orpah. And then the sons died. Naomi, feeling that she must not longer remain in Moab, announced her intention to return to her native land, and bade Ruth and Orpah farewell. In one brief decade Naomi had lost husband and sons, and now she longed for home.

"INTREAT ME NOT TO LEAVE THEE!"
 ORPASH accepted Naomi's suggestion, and turned away to her own people; but not so with Ruth. She loved Naomi. She could not give her up. Naomi had done something for Ruth in those years of sorrow and loss.

"Intreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge. Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God. Where thou diest, I will die, and there will I be buried. The Lord do so to me, and more also, if I ought but death part thee and me."

With these sublime words, Ruth lashed herself to Naomi, and together they started on the long trek to Bethlehem.

WHEN FAITH CONQUERS
 HERE we witness conquering faith—conquering faith in the hearts of Naomi and Ruth. And they come to Bethlehem. It was the harvest season, and Naomi directed Ruth to glean in the field of Boaz, a wealthy and generous-hearted citizen of Bethlehem. Faith in action! And the world looks on the story of Ruth becoming the wife of Boaz, and thus the mother of Obed, the grandfather of David the king in the ancestral line of Jesus Christ, the King of kings.

And Naomi, through her conquering faith, held in her arms the little baby, Obed, and dreamed of God's unfolding purposes to bless the world.

In this unsurpassed romance we witness faith in adversity, faith in association, faith in conduct, faith in claim, faith in confidence, and faith in a glorious climax.

WHEN FAITH CONQUERS
 LIFE is always ennobled when faith conquers. It is easy to imagine how history might have missed this beautiful love story, had not Naomi been a woman of conquering faith. She might have given up and over to her great sorrow and pined away in grief and defeat.

But Naomi followed the gleam. And her trust in God shed its gentle glow into the lonely heart of the Moabite widow, Ruth. Ruth clung unto Naomi. She could not do otherwise. "Truth is stranger than fiction."

And all history was enriched. It is ever so when faith conquers. Thus the poet states the case:

"God moves in mysterious ways,
 His wonders to perform,
 He plants his footsteps on the sea,
 And rides upon the storm."

Faith

I cannot conceive that God could make such a species as the human merely to live and die on this earth. If I did not believe in a future state, I should believe in no God.

The DALLAS HEART by GEORGE ETHELBERT WALSH

CHAPTER VI

I gave it one last, shuddering glance and followed Jerry through a door into another room. This had been Abner Longwood's bed-chamber for nearly half a century.

It was a room of generous size like all the others in the house, but it had a dead, musty odor that was not pleasant. I halted on the threshold, dreading to enter, but Jerry crossed to a big desk and opened it, rummaging around in the drawers and pigeon-holes.

"Never can tell where Uncle Abner would keep such a priceless thing as the Dallas Heart," he said. "But I'll ransack everything in here first, and then try another room."

He stopped and glanced at his watch. "A little after midnight," he murmured. "We've got several hours before morning."

I had lost interest in the search and I'm afraid I didn't prove a very helpful confederate; but Jerry proceeded with systematic swiftness to go through everything, and in a short time he had finished the bed-chamber.

"It isn't here!" he said in a voice of disappointment. "Not unless he has a wall safe," he added, glancing eagerly around.

There was apparently no wall safe, and he finally gave it up.

Ransacking a big house like Swamp Hollow was no simple matter, for besides the number and size of the rooms it was stored with an immense amount of old stock, accumulated through the years and left undisturbed by the owner.

Many times Jerry was discouraged and paused to shake his head. But a new and likely hiding place would occur to him and he would renew his search with enthusiasm.

I kept close to his side. I wouldn't let him get more than a few feet away. The horror of the place frightened me. I knew that somewhere Uncle Abner might be lurking around, either dead or alive, and I didn't know in which state I dreaded to meet him next.

I was surprised that Jerry had taken the disappearance of the corpse so lightly. The mystery had not been explained, and at times I had to go on calmly searching the house when he knew that somewhere around the body of his dead uncle was concealed!

Once I asked him: "Jerry, we must find Uncle Abner! If he didn't crawl away somebody else must—must be in the house."

He started and stared at me. "Why do you say that? Have you seen anyone?"

"No, but that face I saw and the eyes—"

"You said they were Uncle Abner's."

"Yes, but I may have been mistaken. I was greatly excited."

"Guests you were, but I don't believe any one else is in the house."

"Then where is Uncle Abner?" I cried sharply.

"Look here, Nancy," he replied, taking a seat on a pile of stuff he had overhauled, "don't let your nerves get the better of you. Nothing's going to happen. See, I'm armed."

He exhibited a small automatic and held it toward me.

"I can defend myself. Uncle was stone dead when I examined him. I'm sure of that. But when I went back into the dining-room he was gone. There was the pool of blood to show he'd been killed, but that was all."

"Now the rest I can't explain. Either Uncle Abner wasn't dead and crawled away, or another helped him or dragged his body away, or—something like a miracle happened. You can take your choice."

"But why don't you look for him?" I demanded.

He grinned and nodded his head. "I am! I'm searching the house for him as much as I am for that Dallas Heart. But I didn't like to tell you so. I thought it would frighten you."

Alone in the Dark Hallway

It did add to my fear, but at the same time it made things plainer and thus easier for me. Thereafter, every time he opened a closet or pulled out a mattress from a bed or looked in a dark corner I hung back in a fever of trepidation, expecting to see him find the dead body we had left in the dining-room.

"It's a big mystery," I heard him murmur more than once. "There's something uncanny about it, but I'll find the explanation of it."

I was even less of a help in finding the corpse than in searching for the Dallas Heart, and I hung back more and more. Finally, after going over nearly every part of the house, Jerry paused in the upper hall to wipe the perspiration from his forehead.

"I've been everywhere except in the cellar and the tower-room," he said. "I think I'll try the latter next."

There was a short flight of stairs leading up to a huge tower that surmounted the top of the house, and when Jerry opened the door I felt a sharp blast of cold air strike me. I stepped back, for with the blast of wind came a dreadful moan and wail.

"It's nothing but the wind," he assured me. "The skylight's broken and the wind comes through it. You stay below. I won't be gone long. It's a small room, and it's cold and wet up there."

"Don't leave me!" I pleaded. "It's only for a few minutes. Don't be afraid, Nancy."

I stood in a dismal blue funk while he climbed the stairs. He was flashing the light ahead of him so that I could see the upper part of the stairway, but the part nearest me grew darker and darker as he ascended.

I didn't want to display my weakness any more than I had already done, and I struggled mightily to control myself, though I was shivering and quivering and clapping and unclapping my hands.

Once I was impelled by an unreasonable sense of fear to rush pell-mell after him. But I knew that if I gave way to the feeling I would become a gibbering idiot. I bit my lip until the blood was drawn to check my panic.

When Jerry reached the top of the stairs and turned a corner to enter the tower, I was left in total darkness. Even the occasional flash of his light was now denied me.

A cold sweat broke out on my forehead. I could not have followed now if I had wanted to without stumbling blindly through the darkness.

I had been standing a few feet away from the door, and I clutched at it now for support. But in the darkness my hands missed it.

I took a step forward, but the door was not there. I had missed it in some way, and in the darkness I had become turned around.

A new terror seized me. I had to find the door and the stairs. I stumbled forward, this way and that, but my hands touched nothing but empty air.

Nothing is so disquieting to the mind in the dark as the feeling that you have lost your bearings. Deep, yawning pitfalls seem to rise up before you, and you dare not move for fear of falling in.

The Oil Portrait Comes to Life

That was exactly my condition. I knew that I was in the upper hall, but that was all. I had no way of measuring the distance I might be from the door, and the fear that I might be near the head of the main stairway, and that a false step might carry me over it, checked further progress. I stood perfectly still, hoping and praying that Jerry would soon finish his search of the tower-room and return to me.

I was as quiet as a mouse, scarcely breathing, but with eyes and ears alert to any sound. The great silence of the hall contrasted eerily with the banging and creaking of outside blinds and clapsboards.

Now and then a step would squeak or a beam groan as the whole house vibrated under the force of the wind. Each time I started and clutched at my heart with both hands.

Would Jerry never come? How long could I endure the terrible suspense? If a mouse had crossed my path at that moment I could not have jumped or shrieked, so paralyzed was I with dread of the unknown.

That is why, when the uncanny thing happened, that I did not call Jerry's name or turn and run. I was in a cataleptic state, seeing and hearing everything, but unable to move a muscle. No one struggling in a hideous nightmare could have suffered worse mental and physical torture.

The terrifying phenomena that had startled me began by the appearance of a soft, subdued light, which at first I thought was an optical illusion. But as it persisted and grew in power I knew it was a reality.

It was directly in front of me, a few feet above my head. If I had reached out I could almost have touched it.

It was not simply a white light, nor entirely a red light; it had all the prismatic colors of the rainbow, but not blended and arranged as in the prism. Darker lines crossed and criss-crossed the lighter shades in the most irregular and haphazard way.

Emerging from the blank wall of darkness, it seemed to have a supernatural origin. I stared at it, fascinated and curious as well as horrified. Stronger and stronger it grew until its slow reflection on my reflection from the picture.

It was a miracle, an uncanny demonstration of the supernatural. The portrait had lighted up so that every feature was clear and distinct.

The effect on me was to deepen my superstitious fear. I could not explain the mystery, except that in some amazing way a light had appeared from behind the canvas, slowly illumining the features until they glowed with lifelike likeness. The darker lines that had seemed so irregular and haphazard had fallen into shape, no longer vague or uncertain.

The artist's paint had resisted or reflected the light at first, according to the density of the pigment. But now, like a picture puzzle, the lines had all fallen into position, revealing the oil portrait of Abner Longwood.

I stood looking up at it with frightened and fascinated eyes, vaguely wondering how it had happened, when suddenly it began to move. The whole portrait was stepping out of the frame toward me!

I ought to scream, but for the life of me I could not. I had lost all control of my voice and limbs.

The huge oil portrait, at least six by ten feet, came within a foot of my face, and then it slowly moved to my left. A sharp ray of light came from one side, revealing a space between the frame and the wall.

Even to my bewildered senses a slight explanation of the phenomenon came to me.

The picture had simply swung to one side noiselessly as if its hinges were freshly oiled, and not, as I first had thought, straight toward me.

The next moment a dazzling ray of light hit me squarely in the face. It came from an electric torch which had supplied the light which had come from behind the picture and made it glow with such uncanny beauty.

I was blinded for a moment and had to close my eyes. When I opened them again the light was still there, but behind it I began to make out the dim outlines of a face and figure.

Abner Longwood Appears Alive

Was the figure alive, or was it another supernatural phenomenon? There came a distinct grunt, and then I knew that it was not a spirit or ghost.

It was Abner Longwood in flesh and blood, standing in a hole in the wall that the portrait had cleverly concealed, holding in one hand the electric torch, and in the other a knife. He was staring at me with baleful, wicked eyes.

But there was surprise and fear in them also. My appearance had startled him almost as much as the whole thing had amazed and terrified me.

Recognition of him proved the one thing needful to arouse me from my screams. I found my voice and screamed.

"Jerry! Jerry!" I cried, and fell forward almost in a swoon.

Swooning would have been a great relief to my highly tortured nerves, but no such deliverance came to me.

I simply fell forward and struck my head on the sharp edge of the huge picture frame and this, instead of bringing insensibility, irritated and aroused me. The acute pain of the fall served to banish some of my fear.

Before I could recover my balance and spring back, the menacing figure gave vent to a noise that was more of a snarl than a grunt and, with wonderful strength and agility for one so old, he snatched at my arms and pulled me upright.

It was Abner Longwood in flesh and blood.

It had been vague and formless at first, a colored light without meaning. But now it began to assume definite shape. The darker lines ran into each other, leaving the lighter ones merely for the background. Two circles particularly held my startled gaze. These grew larger and stronger until they began to resemble human eyes.

Then memory of the face that had appeared to me in the library, emerging from the black surroundings as if by magic, gave me a distinct jolt. Was that same face coming again to terrify and threaten me?

I watched the eyes as they appeared, then the nose, the mouth, the forehead, the chin and the hair, until the face was complete, all cast in a dim glow as if a light were shining from behind.

Suddenly the light became sharper and clearer, casting a path of light clear across the hall. It revealed to me my surroundings with startling clearness.

I was standing before the oil portrait of Abner Longwood, gazing up at the hard, flinty face and eyes. The whole picture stood out in sharp relief.

To my dazed mind a certain relief came. It was not the face I had seen before, but that of the oil painting. In some strange, miraculous manner it had been lighted up either by a reflected light or one from behind it.

It must have been the latter, for there was no other light in the hall. Every part of it was cast in deep gloom except the spot where the shadows were lifted a little by the

CAPITOL COMMENT

By David M. Porter

There was an interesting article in a national publication last week about campaigns and elections. It brought out a number of fallacies in the belief of the American people, because timeliness and customs change but the thinking of the people about politicians and elections seems to remain the same. In the early days of our country, when methods of communication and transportation were extremely slow and there were no radios, people gathered around the stoves in the village stores, talked politics and most elections were won or lost in those gatherings that were usually led by some man who traveled a day or two days ride to the county seat, possibly four times a year. Then came the change. Radio, with its million voices, enabled a Presidential candidate to reach in to almost every home in the nation. In this era came President Franklin D. Roosevelt with an appealing voice and a magnetic personality that portrayed itself well over radio. He caught the fancy and the hearts of the people and won seemingly as he pleased. Now the times have advanced further. Even radio commercials are not the same. Picture, if you can, a candidate for a great public office trying to sing his speech as popular radio commercials are done or think of how you react when a commercial is announced on the radio. You subconsciously close your mind to something you are not interested in and because of this practice, it is even hard now for candidates who address you personally to hold your interest. So an election cannot be won or lost by intensive campaigning. You and the rest of the public make up your minds from the stories and impressions you get of a candidate's action over a period of time. Truman has not had a favorable press. He followed into the office of a man who appealed to the American public, whose showmanship so far exceeded anyone else's on the American scene of politics that I believe it would have been impossible for anyone to have succeeded him and to have been elected again. That is the case now and that's what the delegates seem to realize at the Philadelphia Convention. The fatalistic air of defeat does not pretend well for the Democratic Party in November.

Of 20 dairy farmers in Kentucky whose herds have an average production of 400 pounds or more of butterfat per cow, seven live in Shelby county.

LATE TOPPING AND LITTLE SUCKERING BEST FOR TOBACCO

The practice of rather late topping with a clean suckerlink just before housing is now followed by most burley tobacco growers, according to Prof. E. J. Kinney, head of the Agronomy Department at the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky.

This usually gives good quality, heavy leaves, and probably as large yield as can be obtained, considering the question of quality.

Early topping and those suckering usually give larger yields, but may result in red tobacco, for which there is a limited demand and which consequently brings low prices.

Reporting on experimental work in handling tobacco, Prof. Kinney said:

"We tried almost all methods of handling the crop. We found that in almost any method where we allowed suckers to grow, or late topping was practiced, or a combination of these methods used, we usually got better quality leaf."

"We found that about the most practical method is to delay topping until most of the plants are in bloom, and then pull any suckers that might have developed during that time. If the weather is favorable for the growth of suckers, we recommend that one suckering be done, pulling the largest suckers. If the weather is normal and topping has been done at the right time the clean-up suckering before housing is all that is necessary."

Conservation Program Is Growing

The following Kenton County farmers have, since July 1, become cooperators of the Kenton Soil Conservation District, to carry on conservation farming of terraces, contour cultivation, pond construction, crop rotation, pasture seeding and improvement, woodland management, and alfalfa-grass mixture establishment:

Harry Moser on Staffordburg-Visalia road,

Joseph M. Darnall on Bowman road,

Frank Averbeck on Percival road,

F. H. Shanklin on Green road,

A. J. Weibel on Zion road,

Alfred Hesselman of Erlanger, last week completed a beautiful farm pond, with a galvanized pipe laid in the dam as it was built, to flow water by gravity into the dairy barn and into his 1000-hen laying house.

Max Bowling, near Alexander Station, has been rebuilding an old pond dam this month, where the old dam had washed out for lack of proper spillway.

Bernard Goode of Staffordburg seemed plenty proud of his new terraces built the last of April of this year and seeded early in May to alfalfa. They really look good and are worth a visit to see them. Bernard is a member of the Veterans' Agricultural class and a cooperator of the Soil Conservation District.

Mr. Alois Obermeier of near Nicholson is also showing some very attractive terraces built this spring and planted to corn and tobacco. They can easily be seen from the road on the LLL Highway. He built them entirely by 2-horse team and walking plow. The District technician surveyed them.

After singing "Happy Birthday, Dear Bill," the guests were invited to the dining room where a bountiful covered dish supper was served to the following guests:

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Whitson and Billy, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. D. Hess Vest, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Jones, Betsey, Patsy and Bobby Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hamilton and James R. Hamilton, Mrs. Rose Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Ransom, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Scroggin, Dick Scroggin, Rev. and Mrs. R. F. DeMolsey, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Yates and Noia Rose Yates, Mrs. Sallie Whitson, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Chapman. All left wishing Bill "many happy returns of the day."

Bible School to Be Held at Union

Registration for the Daily Vacation Bible School of the Union Baptist Church will be held on Friday morning, July 23rd at 9:00 a. m. at the church. The children will be picked up at their homes between 8 and 8:15 a. m. on morning and returned at 12:00 noon.

The school will begin Monday, July 26th at 9:00 a. m. and continue through July 30th. All are welcome and urged to attend. Parents, help your children to be ready and encourage them to attend. The new pastor, Rev. Roy Martin, and his wife will supervise the school.

Betty Brady to Speak To Utopia Members

The Boone County Utopia Club will hold their July meeting on Thursday, July 22 at 8:30 p. m. on the fair grounds in Burlington.

Plans are being made for the forthcoming 4-H and Utopia fair. The highlight of the evening will be Miss Betty Brady of the Farm Department of radio station WLW. After a short business meeting, Miss Brady will speak to the group.

All Utopia members, active and inactive, are urged to attend. Members of the Earl W. Jones Utopia Club are being invited as special guests for the evening.

Four infants were christened at the Methodist Church, Sunday morning. They were the twins of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Luby, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Roberts, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Burgess.

The Verona Community Club held their first meet in the elimination series of the Benke Semi-Pro League, Sunday at the losers' park when they went down before Pat's Cafe, 3 to 2, in an interesting ball game. A record crowd was on hand and many report it the best game of the season. Failure of Verona to hit in the clutch and a pair of errors by Kordenbrock, third baseman, proved the undoing of the Community Club.

Fat's scored a pair of runs in the fifth inning and added the winning marker in the sixth, while Verona counted twice in the last of the 6th frame, to complete the scoring for the day.

Uralge was the winning pitcher, and in the nine innings he allowed seven hits, walked none and struck out two men. Verona's Steffen had the best of the losing war, hurling in nine frames he allowed only 3 hits, walked none and struck out 7 men.

Felding gems of the afternoon were furnished by Wendling, second sacker for Fat's, who made a very neat play to nail his man at first, and by Judge, Verona's center fielder, who raced far to pull down a smack that looked like a sure home run.

M. Rinharte, Fat's center fielder, got two of his team's hits to be high man in this department, driving in two runs, and Wendling produced the other blow and drove in two more. Best for the losers was Kordenbrock, who had two hits and drove in both of Verona's runs.

The second round in the elimination series of three and-out, will be played on Sunday, July 25th. Verona's opponent will be the Walton Travelers, a young and improving ball club, and the contest will start promptly at 2:30 p. m. Last week Petersburg defeated Walton 6-0, so both teams will be gunning for their first win. Let's go!

RA BASEBALL TEAM WINS TWO GAMES

On July 14th, the R. A. baseball team of the Walton Baptist Church won a game from Verona by the score 17-8, under their new manager, Layne Chessman. Don Rice started on the mound for Walton, but was relieved by Tommy Pruett in the sixth, with Donald Vest hurling the ninth frame.

The hitting stars were Rice, with three safeties, and Glacken, Campbell and Cole with two hits each. One of Rice's blows was a homer.

On Monday the locals defeated Helbron 6-0, behind the four-hit pitching of Rice, who went the distance, striking out eight men.

Donald (Monk) Vest, with two singles, and Rice, with a double and trips, were the run-producing men. The next game will be with Bellevue.

Lebanon Aid to Meet

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lebanon Presbyterian Church will meet Wednesday, July 28th at the home of Mrs. J. G. Stewart.

There will be some special business to come up at this time, so all members are urged to be present. Any visitors, who would like to attend, are welcome. Bring quilt pieces and sewing equipment.

SCRIPTURE: 1 Samuel 18-20; 23:16-22; 31 Samuel 31:1-7; 2 Kings 19:17-37
DEVOTIONAL READING: 1 Corinthians 13:1-2

Jonathan, Loyal Friend

Lesson for July 23, 1948

Dr. Newton Such was the friendship of Jonathan and David—a sheltering tree—one soul abiding in two bodies. Although Jonathan's father attempted at least ten times to kill David, Jonathan was drawn the closer to David, with whose soul his was knit.

The record of this friendship is found in our scripture and devotional readings for the lesson, with the golden text from Proverbs 17:17, "A friend loveth at all times."

A PRINCE SHARES WITH A SHEPHERD

JONATHAN was the crown prince apparent. David was a shepherd boy. Saul expected to place Jonathan on the throne. God had selected David.

Jonathan would, no doubt, have made a better king than Saul, his father; but he had no desire to be king when he discovered the kingly qualities in his friend, David. Not once did Jonathan ever indicate any disappointment in not becoming king.

JONATHAN STANDS UP FOR HIS FRIEND

WHEN Saul openly plotted the death of David, Jonathan begged his father to reconsider his course and spare the life of the man who had killed Goliath and had proved himself the valiant friend of Saul. This was the final test of Jonathan's sacrificial love for David. He might have remained silent, thus aiding in the death of the one man who stood between him and the throne. But Jonathan was made of the stout texture which counts no sacrifice too dear for a friend. He was willing to stand up and be counted when it meant that he would not become king. Thus we see that true friendship is not always easy. It usually is very costly, but it pays big dividends in the coin of eternal wealth.

FRIENDSHIP THAT COSTS

AND like as Jonathan stood up and witnessed his lasting friendship for David, at a very great cost, so are we today summoned to this ennobling type of friendship for Christ. "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you," he once said.

Young people find it rather costly to be loyal friends of Christ today. There are many siren voices that invite young people to take the low road—social drinking, gambling, devices of one sort and another, satisfaction of sensual desires. But the true friend of Christ will withstand these voices, choosing rather the high road of Christian gentlemen.

SACRIFICIAL FRIENDSHIP

"FRIENDSHIP is the loveliest flower in the garden of humanity," according to my cherished friend, Dr. Hight C. Moore. I would add this thought—true friendship flowers in the garden of humanity, but it finds its life in the Garden of God's Perfect Eden.

I have not known one single friendship that has impressed me that did not stem from above. "How can two walk together except they be agreed?" And the only cement that will hold human hearts together—one soul in two bodies—is the grace of God.

"Friendship is as God, who gives and asks no payment," said Richard Hovey, and not until the human will is yielded to the will of God, even as was the will of Jonathan, can sacrificial friendship come to flower and to harvest.

IMPORTANT MESSAGE TO EVERY KENTUCKY VETERAN

WE HAVE A TRIED AND TRUE FRIEND SEEKING THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION FOR UNITED STATES SENATOR

We refer, of course, to Virgil Chapman who, during 22 years in Congress, has an unsurpassed record on veteran legislation. Mr. Chapman has supported EVERY law for the hospitalization, compensation, rehabilitation and education of veterans, and ALL measures of justice for war veterans or their dependents. His record for veterans is far too long to list in detail, but here, in brief, are some highlights:

VIRGIL CHAPMAN

For Spanish-American Veterans

To increase compensation and grant pensions to veterans of Spanish - American War, Boxer Rebellion and Philippine Insurrection, their widows and children.

To liberalize laws providing pensions for dependents of veterans who died in service prior to April, 1898.

For World War I Veterans

To provide allowances for widows and children of veterans.

To provide for immediate payment of the Veteran Bonus.

To kill the so-called Economy Act of 1933 which cut compensation of war veterans and repealed measures benefitting veterans and dependents. If this bill had become law in the form it passed the House in spite of the strong opposition of Mr. Chapman and other friends of the veteran, many veterans hospitalizations have been closed and future hospital construction would have been stopped.

To renew expiring five-year level-premium term insurance policies for another five years. Five years later, he voted to renew the policies another five years.

To increase pensions for dependents of veterans.

To liberalize death-certificate benefits for veterans' wives and children.

For World War II Veterans

To provide mustering out pay.

To set up the G. I. Bill of Rights. Later he voted to expand and increase its benefits.

To liberalize the National Service Life Insurance Act.

To increase pensions to veterans.

To provide terminal leave pay for enlisted men.

To increase subsistence of veterans in schools and colleges or taking on-the-job training. These are a few—ONLY A VERY FEW—of the many measures favoring veterans that Virgil Chapman has supported.

His actions—not just his promises—have stamped him a true friend of the veteran. Don't forsake an old friend, a man who has fought our battles in Congress for 22 years. Let us prove our loyalty to one who has been loyal to us.

ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR

Your electric refrigerator is working harder than ever these hot July days, protecting your perishables and providing you with extra quantities of ice cubes and frozen desserts. Help it serve you more economically . . . keep it operating at top efficiency . . . by following these timely suggestions:

- Defrost at least once a week. Frost acts as an insulator and makes your refrigerator work harder to keep foods cold.
- Don't waste ice cubes. If you use only part of a tray, refill the empty sections and return tray promptly to freezer.
- Use fast freezing sparingly. Keeping control at coldest setting for long periods increases running time and operating cost.
- After freezing desserts, turn control halfway back to normal to hold until served. Then return control to normal.

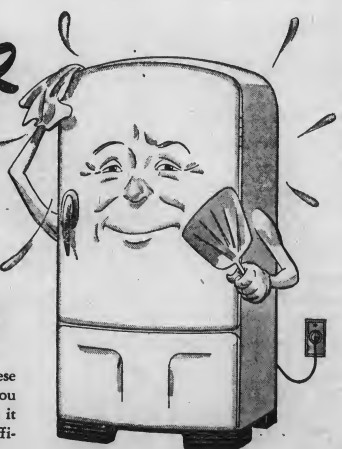

- Avoid frequent and lengthy door openings.

- Let hot dishes cool before putting them in your refrigerator.

- Check door gasket for tight seal. If it permits entry of warm air, have it repaired or replaced.

- Keep condenser clean. Dirt and dust interfere with its cooling efficiency and increase running of the motor.

- If your refrigerator is an open unit model, oil the motor according to manufacturer's directions.

CHAPTER VII

I recoiled, striking back at him, for I was not entirely sure yet whether it was Abner Longwood in flesh and blood or his spirit, and I tried desperately to free myself from his clutch.

At the same time I renewed my screaming, calling Jerry from the tower with all the power and strength I could command. The echoes of my voice filled the hall and went booming up and down the stairway.

I knew Jerry would hear me. Apparently Abner Longwood thought so too, for he clapped a hand over my mouth and told me to shut up. He spoke like a man of flesh and blood and not like a spirit. This stimulated me to fight the harder, and I had all but broken away from his grasp when my foot slipped and I lost my balance.

Then it was that I heard Jerry call: "Nancy! What is it? I'm coming!"

What a blessed relief it was to hear his voice! No sweeter sound had ever reached my ears. He was coming to my assistance, although from the muffled voice I judged he was far away, and the flash of his light had not yet appeared on the stairs.

My assailant was for an instant torn by doubt, for he leaped back into the hole in the wall and started to slide the mammoth picture back in place, and then he paused, glaring down at me.

"Coming, Nancy!" I heard Jerry shout, his voice nearer.

The effect of his call was electrical on old Abner Longwood. With a snarl of rage and fear he jumped out of the opening in the wall and seized me in his arms.

He lifted me as easily as if I had been a child. I was startled by the tremendous physical strength he showed. Even a much younger man might well have been proud of this feat.

He swung me easily over his head and thrust me into the opening. Then, leaping after me, he touched either a spring or a knob, and the huge, framed portrait closed noiselessly, shutting out all view of the hall.

"Nancy! Nancy!"

I heard Jerry shouting, and I knew he was on the stairs coming down.

I tried to answer him, but a hand clutched at my throat and another over my mouth. I gurgled and fought in the dark, but I was no match for my assailant.

He didn't choke me into insensibility, but he paralyzed my vocal cords and made me too weak and helpless to resist. I lay there limp and faint.

I could hear the muffled cries of Jerry calling my name repeatedly, but I was powerless to answer. One moment he came so near the picture that I could have thrust a hand through the canvas and touched him; then he drew away, and I could hear him descending the broad stairs in a frantic search for me.

There was fear and apprehension in his voice now.

"Nancy, dear, why don't you answer me?" he pleaded. "Tell me where you are! Shout to me! Call!" It was pitiful to note to his growing terror and not to be able to respond. The hand on my throat tightened every time I moved or tried to use my voice.

A Prisoner of Longwood's

Finally, unable to stand the unequal combat, I sank back and gave up the struggle. Even then the hand kept a firm grip on my throat as if the owner distrusted my sudden collapse.

Jerry's voice sounded fainter and fainter. Having failed to find me in the upper hall, he had descended to the first floor and was now frantically searching the dining-room and library for me.

When his voice became so indistinct that it sounded little louder than a whisper, my assailant stirred himself, relaxing his hold on my throat.

I thought he was relenting, and I lay perfectly still, feigning unconsciousness; but I was rudely awakened from my dream a moment later.

He had been fashioning a rude gag out of his handkerchief and a part of my skirt. The next moment it was thrust into my mouth and securely tied back of my head.

I fought furiously against this outrage, but to no avail. I had not the physical strength to resist him.

Having securely gagged me, he picked me up in his arms and half dragged and half carried me down a narrow corridor between two walls. In a short time he snatched his electric torch, and I could see by its flash dirty, dusty panels either side of me. I had not the use of my eyes and ears if not my voice, and I used them with good effect.

Jerry's voice had now died away completely. I wondered if the walls were muffling it or if he were searching for me in some distant part of the house. Rage and indignation at my captor now dominated everything else, and I was less frightened than—at any previous time.

I wanted to lash out with my tongue—to tear at his eyes and hair—to kick and bite, if necessary—to punish him in true woman fashion for daring to attempt such an outrage; but with the suffocation that came from the unseen rag in my mouth I was helpless as well as speechless.

I was conscious finally of being carried down a narrow, winding stair through a well-like inclosure that barely admitted of our passage. The sickening sensation of going down a spiral stairway that led to some unknown place aroused my fears again.

I thought of subterranean rooms and prisons, of dark tunnels that might end in the swamp, of gruesome burial places under the cellar.

I struggled mightily to free myself until he turned on me and snarled:

"Be still! You can't get away."

I wanted to speak, but I couldn't. He held me by the arms so I could not tear the gag from my mouth.

We came finally to the end of the spiral stairs into a small room with windows or doors, except the one that guarded our entrance. The man closed and locked this.

Then he dropped me unceremoniously on a hard couch and ripped the gag from my mouth.

"If you keep quiet this will stay out," he warned. "The first noise from you, back it goes."

I glared hard at him. I was unable, however, to make out his features until he lit a smoky oil lamp that swung from a side bracket on the wall.

One glance at the haggard, weakened face, surmounted by a shock of thin white hair, and I knew my first impression had been correct. It was Abner Longwood, the living replica of the portrait in the massive gold frame.

But there was no sign of blood on him; no indication that he had been stabbed or very recently near to death's door. The discovery bewildered me.

Had the man a miraculous life?

Had he the power to rise after death and assume his physical shape again?

The room was so small that one could hardly pass the foot of the couch without brushing against the walls. And it was scantily furnished, with signs around that indicated it had been recently tenanted.

I glanced from the hard, mirthless face of Abner to the walls and ceilings, and then at the door he had locked.

"You can't get out of there!" he said, scowling. "It's locked, and if you did get through you couldn't escape far."

"Where are we?" I managed to articulate finally. "And what're you going to do with me?"

"Keep quiet, and you'll fare better!" he snapped out.

I could see that he was worried, that something was troubling him, and it reassured me. He knew that Jerry was in the house and would continue to search until he found my hiding place.

Uncle Abner

Pleads for Privacy

"You're Abner Longwood," I said after a pause. "Uncle Abner!"

He snarled and glared at me, studying my features closely with eyes that had lost none of their fierceness by age. His stare was so intense that I grew uneasy.

"Why'd you come here?" he demanded querulously. "How do I know you're Mary's child?"

"Don't I look like mother?" I asked boldly, returning his stare with unflinching boldness.

He did not answer, but turned away and shuffled across the room. He pushed a small picture hanging on the wall to one side and then cautiously touched a panel of wood which moved slightly, revealing a hole no larger than the point of a lead pencil.

He applied an eye to this and remained silent for a long time. It dawned upon me that he was looking through a peep-hole into some other room of the house. The effect on me was electrical. I sat up and watched him.

Suddenly, as if conscious of my change of attitude, he replaced the picture and whirled around. His face was livid and his eyes blazing.

"What're you looking at?" he de-

He stopped and gazed at me.

"You came to find it, too, didn't you?" he sneered.

"What? The Dallas Heart?"

Although the thing that had caused so much trouble in the family was still a vague mystery to me, I let him think I knew all about it as Nancy, the child of Mary Lee whom he had practically driven in disgrace from Wildwood, would have.

I could see that he had accepted me as Nancy Lee without question just as Jerry had, and the only explanation that I could give was that he had overheard our conversation through the walls. I was convinced that the peep-hole through the wall was also a listening tube, and that by applying an ear to it one could hear as well as see.

My mention of the Dallas Heart seemed to grow red and apoplectic. He raised a hand as if to strike me.

"It's gone!" he shouted. "It's lost—stolen! It's not in Swamp Hollow!"

I was almost convinced he spoke the truth, and but for his past record in deception and cruel disregard of others' rights I might have believed him. He was a little too eager, though, to convince me.

"It's not here!" he reiterated in a whining voice. "It was stolen long ago. If you go away and leave me alone—take that good-for-nothing nephew of mine with you—I'll release you. I want to rest and die here in peace."

There was no doubt about the last. He had lived a hermit's life in Swamp Hollow for so long that he had become inured to its loneliness, and Jerry's and my sudden appearance had upset him. I could understand that. He was a desperate old man struggling to preserve his selfish existence from outside interference.

Proof of an Optical Illusion

But the tragedy, if it were a tragedy, that we had stumbled upon puzzled and troubled me. What had happened? Had he been stabbed to death and then come back to life?

No, of course that was absurd! He stood before me in perfect health! Then what had happened? The more I puzzled over it the more mysterious it appeared.

"Uncle Abner," I said, speaking slowly, "tell me what happened before we came. I—I can't understand it!"

"What're you talking about?" he snarled. "Nothing happened!"

"Yes," I contradicted, "something terrible happened. I can see you now wailing in your own blood. You were stabbed to death on the dining-room floor."

He glared at me a moment, and then began laughing in a high, cackling voice.

"That nephew of mine told you that? He wanted to frighten you."

I shook my head slowly.

"I saw you with my own eyes," I replied.

He drew back and scowled and showed a fleeting glimpse of haunted fear in his eyes.

"It's a lie," he mumbled unconsciously. "It's a lie. I wasn't stabbed. Nobody was stabbed. It was the storm and the night."

He stopped suddenly and whirled around upon me.

"Swamp Hollow's haunted!" he jerked out. "You know that! It's always been haunted! I've seen and heard strange things. Spirits come and go. Mebbe one of 'em fooled you—lay on the floor with a knife sticking in him."

"If it was a spirit, Uncle Abner, it was yours," I interrupted.

"That isn't so!" he snapped back sharply. "You're a little fool. If I had been stabbed to death how could I be here? Look at me! Have I any knife wounds on my body?"

He jerked open his coat and vest. There wasn't the slightest evidence that he had met with foul play—not a sign of a wound or a drop of blood in his linen. I shook my head in bewilderment.

TIPS FOR HOUSEWIVES—

Here are several tricks for housewives from home economists at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Ky.

1—When letting down the hems of little girls' dresses, conceal the old hemline with rickrack, bias tape or other decoration.

2—To clean patent leather, wipe it with a cloth moistened in vinegar. Avoid using grease, as it is likely to soften the patent finish, causing it to break.

3—Plug in and disconnect electric cords at outlets in walls rather than at the appliance, to prevent damage to the terminal of the appliance.

4—A generous amount of shredded cheese sprinkled over cooked spinach is both attractive and tasty.

EXPERIMENT STATION

FIELD DAY AUG. 12

Farmers and other interested persons are being invited to the annual field day at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington, Aug. 12. There they will see experimental tobacco, corn and other crops, and hear explanations of the work being done with these crops. They also will see the cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry.

Those seeing the livestock in the morning will see the crops in the afternoon, and those seeing the crops in the morning will see the livestock in the afternoon.

Farm Bureau Meets With Producers

The Boone County Farm Bureau and Livestock producers in Boone County met with officers of the Cincinnati Producers at the Burlington Courthouse, July 19th.

Boone County, being dissatisfied with livestock marketing in Cincinnati, asked Mr. Kimber, the manager; R. Z. Asbury, field man, and Mr. Nelthoff, director of the Cincinnati Producers from this district, to explain the cause of daily price fluctuations on the market. Producers were also interested in knowing the reason for such extreme price differences between top and medium grade animals. Complaints from livestock men were also registered on the misleading information disseminated in their daily livestock market reports.

Mr. Kimber explained that even in the face of meat shortages the daily supply of livestock in the yards often exceeded the capacity of the packers to handle the supply. At such times buyers hesitate to buy and the daily fluctuations are the natural result.

Fewer Dairy Cows, More Consumers

With the number of cows going down and the number of people going up, the nation's milk supply has reached the alarming state, Ben Allen Thomas, President of the American Dairy Association of Kentucky, warned today.

"There used to be one cow for every four people, he asserted, but now there's only one cow for every six. It emphasized the need to keep more dairy cows 'down on the farm,' if a milk famine is to be averted.

The greatest part of today's milk price to the consumer, it was pointed out, is in the wages of the workers on the farm, in the dairy plant and in the distribution operations. The higher the wage scale is reflected in that 'New Look' on the price of milk.

An adjustment between milk prices and wages was underscored as an "important factor in the battle to provide America with milk enough to go around." Shortage of cows, he said, is due to the high cost of dairy operation compared to the value of cattle for beef.

Mr. Thomas has just returned from Denver where he represented the dairy farmers of Kentucky in a nationwide dairyman's congress. Dairy farm delegates from 40 states participated in the 2-day executive session of the American Dairy Association, recognized as the business voice of 5 million dairy farmers.

"Legislation is not the answer to the milk problem," the dairy leader declared. "Restricting and milk control will not bring higher milk production. It isn't a job for lawmakers. It's a job for farmers."

A cow does not produce milk from the text of law books, he remarked. She produces according to the way she is fed and handled by the man of experience on the dairy farms and ranches all over the nation.

In his report to the dairy farmers of Kentucky, Mr. Thomas said the dairyman's congress adopted a program of aggressive action for the months ahead. The plan calls for the use of business channels in the production and distribution of milk, butter and other dairy foods. It is directed toward maintaining a high standard of living and keeping dairy food prices in line with wages.

GET YOUR DRIVERS LICENSES THIS WEEK

Kentucky drivers are reminded that midnight July 31 is the deadline for renewing motor vehicle operator licenses at the local Circuit Court Clerk's office. Robert A. Thompson, Director of Local Relations, Department of Revenue, said, "I urge all drivers to get their licenses this week to avoid penalties for driving after August 1 without valid licenses." He also said, "It is the desire of the Department to make the job of renewing drivers' licenses as convenient as possible. Many drivers may find it convenient to either send their old licenses, together with one dollar, to the Circuit Court Clerk's Office by another person or by mail. If application is made by mail, a 3-cent stamp, as well as the old license, must be sent to the clerk."

In case of accident, the lack of a valid driver's license is prima facie evidence of negligence. Also, any person driving without a valid license may be fined not less than two or more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned not more than six months, or both.

ATHA-BEAGLE

A very pretty wedding was solemnized last Saturday at Burlington when Miss Maude Atha, daughter of Mrs. Agnes Atha, became the bride of Mr. Stanley Beagle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beagle of Ft. Mitchell. Judge C. L. Cropper officiated. The attendants were Miss Betty Beagle, sister of the groom, and Mr. Thomas Atha, brother of the bride.

Other members of the families present were: Mrs. Agnes Atha, Mrs. Beagle, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Robbins, and Miss Glennia Atha.

After the ceremony all retired to the home of the groom's parents, where refreshments were served. Later a wedding dinner was served at Doc's Place, after which the bride and groom left on a short trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Beagle will reside in Fort Mitchell.

In a second-round game in the Benke Semi-Pro Baseball League, at Verona, Sunday, the Community Club, wallpopped Walton 22-1, and the veteran Elmo Steffen, was credited with a no-hitter, facing only twenty-eight men. The only fly in the ointment was a drive to right field by Hanks, Walton's left fielder, on which Scroggin was given an error, enabling Walton to score its only run.

Walton's defensive play was anything but good, the team being guilty of ten mis-uses, while the winners had but one.

The losers used four pitchers, but to no avail, as Verona clubbed them for fifteen hits, two of them being homers, Brown and Bauman, and a triple by Scroggin. Walton's hurlers were McClure, Worthington, Fields and Vest. In entering baseball's hall of fame, Steffen fanned thirteen and walked none.

Kordenebrook was top hitter for the winners, with two out of three at-bats, while Scroggin and Gully had three for six, Bud Robinson two for four, and Bauman two for five tries.

Verona scored 5 runs in the 2nd inning, 1 in the 3rd, 6 in the 5th, 1 in the 6th, 3 in the 7th and 6 in the 8th frame, while Walton's run was scored in the 5th.

Sunday's game with Ken-ta-kee has been forfeited to Verona, thus giving the Community Club a 9-0 win. However, the management has scheduled a game with some team from the state, depending on which team draws a bye in this league's elimination series. So, come out Sunday, and see a top-notch ball game. The contest will start at the regular time—2:30.

Baruch, The Scribe

Lesson for August 1, 1948

BARUCH, whose name means "blessed," was the grandson of Maaseiah, "governor of the city" under Josiah (II Chronicles 34:8), and his father, Neriah, appears to have been an official during the reign of Jehoiakim. He was a trusted friend of Jeremiah (Jeremiah 32:6-15 and 43:5-6). Tradition holds that Baruch was carried to Babylon, where he wrote the apocryphal "Book of Baruch," and died in 574, B. C., twelve years after the fall of Jerusalem.

Our golden text for this lesson is found in Psalms 119:105, "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and light unto my path."

OUR BIBLE
 "THEN Jeremiah called Baruch, the son of Neriah, and Baruch wrote from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the Lord, which he had spoken unto him, upon a roll of a book. And Jeremiah commanded Baruch, saying, I am shut up; I cannot go into the house of the Lord. Therefore go thou, and read in the roll, which thou hast written from my mouth, the words of the Lord in the ears of the people in the Lord's house upon the fasting day; and also thou shalt read them in the ears of all Judah that come out of the cities," Jeremiah 36:4-8.

How did we get our Bible? Through this simple process of God speaking through his appointed prophet, and by the faithful work of men like Baruch who served as scribes.

THIS SCRIBE OF LONG AGO
 IN THE introductory paragraph I sketched briefly the story of Baruch. He was a trained man, trusted and beloved. This he had to be, else God would not have approved Jeremiah's selection of Baruch to copy what he was saying for God. And not only was he selected to write down what God was saying, through his prophet, but he was used to proclaim the words of God to the people in the Lord's house. Baruch was amanuensis, reader and distributor of the Bible—a distinguished role, indeed. Let us today be gladly ready to read the Bible to others, and to distribute and circulate the Scriptures wherever we may. Here I pause to pay tribute to the American Bible Society and all others, including the Gideons, who help to make the Bible known to all men everywhere.

A MAN ON WHOM GOD COUNTED
 THUS we see that Baruch was a man on whom God counted. His work was done well, and we read that, "When they heard all the words, they were afraid both one and other, and said unto Baruch, We will surely tell the king all of these words."

Young people will do well to ponder this incident. In the varied contacts of young Christians in this modern day, we may be used of the Holy Spirit in making known the words of God in countless ways. Thus, like Baruch, you may be used of God to make known his will unto all mankind.

BARUCH, A COURAGEOUS SCRIBE

THE full context reveals the fact that Baruch exhibited courage as well as faithfulness in his service as scribe to Jeremiah. It was not an easy task. Nor will it be easy to fill our posts as couriers of the Good News. But it was a rewarding experience for Baruch. He served his day and generation according to the will of God.

Mr. Henry Ford, Sr., believed in having a copy of the Bible near at hand wherever he might sit down in his home. I heard him say once that he had a Bible on every table in his home. "I do this in order that I may reach over and spend a few minutes with the Lord wherever I may sit down. And I always cherish the hope that others will find it a lamp unto their feet and a light along their daily pathway."

Let us give thanks for Baruch—the trusted friend who served Jeremiah, and thus served God.

The DALLAS HEART by GEORGE ETHELBERT WALSH

CHAPTER VIII

"Then if there was no murder," I said slowly, after a pause, "why do you hold me in here? Why do you act so strangely? Why not tell Jerry so and let us both go?"

"I can't!" he cried. "That worthless scamp's after the Dallas Heart! He'd kill me to get it!"

"Then why not give it to him?" I asked boldly. "Why not let us have it? It belongs to us. Give it to us, and we'll go away."

For a moment he seemed to yield to my plea, but a second later a hard, crafty, cunning expression came into his eyes. It was the cunning of the miser, which is past understanding—a passion that stifles all human feeling—that he showed.

I was growing less afraid every minute. Faced with something tangible, I knew exactly what to expect, and the old man who held me a prisoner could not frighten me half as much as the noises of Swamp Hollow did; but at the same time my intelligence warned me not to be over-confident.

I was beginning to think that my captor was a little crazy, his mind unbalanced by too much brooding. I recalled my earlier conclusion that old men, living in the past, often suffered from an over-sense of conscience and repented the sins of their youth.

I had hoped to find Abner Longwood in this condition, but I had not dreamt of finding him mentally unbalanced—a condition which is often the logical punishment nature metes out to men of his type.

Yes, the man was half crazy—not dangerously so, perhaps, but the acts of even a mild lunatic are never easy to prophesy. I decided that I would do nothing to irritate or arouse his animosity. It was my purpose to soothe and quiet him.

I watched him putter around, quiet and sad at one moment, restless and irritated the next. One moment he gazed at me with lustre eyes, and the next in a fierce, venomous way.

We could still hear Jerry rambling through the big house, calling, banging and making a loud racket. I made no attempt to call out. Abner watched me sharply when the voice came near, with his fingers crooked and ready to spring at my throat if I attempted to scream.

"I'm not going to call, Uncle Abner," I said once when he crouched threateningly before me. "I'll keep quiet."

"See that you do," he rumbled. "It wouldn't do any good to shout."

"I know it wouldn't. But how long are you going to keep me here?"

"Until the young scamp goes."

This was not very satisfying, for I had an intuition that Jerry would not leave Swamp Hollow until he found me, and I had great satisfaction in that instant. I shook my head.

"Jerry will never go," I replied. "He won't go until he finds me."

"How do you know?" he cried fiercely.

"Why, I know—or if he goes he'll come back, with help. He'll tear this house to pieces to find me. Uncle Abner," I added impressively, leaning forward, "he loves me! And when a man loves a woman he'll never desert her when she's in trouble."

"Loves you? Loves you?" he repeated sarcastically, looking at me. "You ain't his cousin? You can't! You shan't! I won't permit it! I'd stop him!"

"Wait!" I said, checking him. "I didn't say he loved me that way. Can't he love me without wishing to?"

"starry mer?"

He suddenly grew quiet and moose again, and by the way he glanced at me I knew his mind was busy and active.

"I couldn't trust you," he mumbled finally. "You know the way in here. You'd show him if I let you go."

"If I promised not to, would you let me go?" I asked eagerly.

"Yes!—No!" he replied uncertainly.

"Nancy! Nancy, speak to me!" came Jerry's voice so clearly that we both jumped.

Abner sprang to the peep-hole, looked through it, and then closed it, shutting out the sound of the voice so that it reached us only in muffled undertones.

The incident seemed to frighten Abner, for he began pacing the narrow room, stopping finally before me.

Exploring in The Cellar

"Come," he said, "I'll show you the rest of this secret hiding place. It's worth exploring. It was built here so one could escape into the swamp. I'll show you the way out. Come!"

His sudden change of attitude disquieted me. Had he really decided to free me?

It was plausible that the hiding place had a secret exit into the swamp. In many ancient houses, built in the days of our early Indian wars, secret exits had been made so that the occupants could escape if threatened by fire or a raid. His words seemed fairly convincing, and he nodded.

"You'll go?" he added eagerly. "Then follow me. I'll show you the way out."

There was a possibility that he intended to thrust me out, far from the house, into the swamp where I would be lost; but even that seemed preferable to remaining his prisoner. After a second's pause I complied and rose to follow him.

I had thought that the room had no exit except the stairs and through the opening in the wall back of the picture; but I was soon to be enlightened. Abner Longwood stepped back and moved his hand up and down the paneled wall as if searching for something.

Suddenly, to my surprise, there was a clicking noise almost at my very feet, and a trap-door in the floor swung upward, revealing another pair of stairs. I stared in amazement, surprise and curiosity in my eyes.

"We'll go down it," he whispered. "It will take us into the swamp."

He thrust his electric light into the yawning opening and motioned for me to proceed; but I drew back in fright.

"You go first," I whispered.

He paused for a second, and then mumbled something under his breath. He watched me as a cat watches a mouse, but I made no move to trick him. The moment he was safely on the ladder I followed. He would not proceed faster until one of my feet was on the top rung.

We descended in this way step by step. An unpleasant odor came from below, damp and musty, and I shivered.

It was a short descent, not more than ten feet. At the bottom we came into a room that seemed to be a part of the cellar under the house. It was so sure of this that I asked in a whisper:

"Is this the cellar?"

He nodded and threw the rays of light around for me to see. If it was the cellar it was a small one for such a large house as Swamp Hollow, and I began to doubt if it really was a cellar. I began poking around in the dark corner, sniffing and listening.

There was nothing in the place but a few old barrels and boxes, with piles of old rags and litter swept into the corners. It was foul and musty, with the dampness oozing from the stone foundation in little globules of sweat.

Working Furiously Against Time

Suddenly the light went out and I was left in total darkness. I gave a great start and cried:

"Where's the light, Uncle Abner? Where are you?"

I heard the stealthy tread of his feet, a sharp click as if a foot had come in contact with a stone, and then by the aid of the dim light from above I saw Abner Longwood crawling up the ladder. With a cry of fear, I groped for the first rung and tried to follow him.

It dawned upon me in a flash that he had tricked me, enticed me into the dark cellar where I would be safely out of his way. I screamed again and clutched at his foot; but he was too quick for me, and climbed out of the place and closed the trap-door with a click.

I was in total darkness, and for a time I was too terrified to scream or act. The dastardly trick of the man seemed to paralyze my mind and tongue. He had deliberately lured me into the underground place to hold me a prisoner.

How long he would keep me there I could only conjecture. Certainly until he had got rid of Jerry.

"Jerry! Jerry!" I shrieked then, recovering the use of my voice.

But I might have saved my strength. Jerry was far away, and my voice could not reach him. I blamed myself then for not screaming when only a thin partition had separated us. There might have been hope of rescue then. There was little or none now.

The place was absolutely dark, and I huddled at the foot of the ladder. Was the man crazy? Would he leave me there to starve or die of fright, or would he return in time and release me?

The situation was so appalling and desperate that I became numb with horror, and for a long time I could do nothing but call Jerry and sob aloud.

Not a sound came from above. If the owner of Swamp Hollow heard he was indifferent to my pleas.

Gaining a little self-control, I a-

He paused for a second, then mumbled something under his breath.

nally crawled up the ladder until my hand came in contact with the trap-door. I pushed against it with all my might, but it did not yield.

It creaked and rasped a little, and a ray of hope came to me. The hinges were rusty from age and long disuse, while the wood itself was rotten and soft in places.

With trembling fingers I examined the hinges, poking at them until my nails were broken. Yes, they were rusty, and the wood was rotten with age. If a man were imprisoned here—Jerry, for instance—what would he do? I asked myself this question, and then proceeded to answer it with acts.

The only implement I had was a small nail file, one of those dainty silver things that come with manicure sets. It belonged to the tiny vanity case that I had tucked in my pocket. It was so fragile and small that I was almost afraid it would break if used for any purpose other than that for which it had been made.

Still I was desperate. I had to do something. I could not sit there and wait for release that might never come.

I thought of Jerry, and began picking cautiously at the hinges. But rusted as they were, they were still stout enough to resist anything I could do; but the wood was soft and rotten.

I attacked this, picking and digging small splinters around the hinge nearest me. Once my file sunk its full length into the wood, I gave a start and breathed easily. The wood in places was little more than punk.

How my heart beat with hope and fear! If I could once get out of the place I would take my chances in a struggle with the old man. That was better than starving down there in the cellar.

I worked feverishly, picking and digging at the rotten wood with nail file and fingers. A sudden tinkling noise startled me, and I held my breath a moment. Then I expelled it with a faint cry of joy. One of the screws had been loosened and dropped out.

I do not know how long I scraped and dug and picked at first one hinge and then at the other, but it seemed ages to me.

I was cramped in my awkward position, and my body and limbs ached. But I was too desperate to give heed to aching but the necessity for accomplishing my purpose.

Another screw came loose, and I managed to pick it out with my nail file. It gave me a thrill as few things in my life had done. It was a milestone in my progress toward freedom.

Abner Longwood had made no noise above, and sometimes I wondered what he was doing or what new diabolical trick he might be preparing in case I should work myself out of the underground dungeon.

Would he wait for me and then crack me on the head with some instrument, toppling me back into the hole to break my neck in the fall? This had to be considered, and as I silently worked away at my desperate task I tried to plan what I should do.

I would not immediately thrust my head up once the door was lifted from its hinges. I would play cautiously, ducking back into the hole until Abner betrayed his presence. He would have the advantage, working from above with a search-light.

Yes, I would be decidedly in a dangerous position, but even that was better than rotting in the cellar.

I had dug the hinges half out of the rotten wood when I decided it was time to see if I could force the door. I braced myself on the advantage of the ladder, and bent my head so that the pressure would come partly on my shoulders. I slowly straightened my body, pushing upward with increasing force.

I was disappointed when nothing happened. Not even a creak of the door or hinges greeted my ears. Was the thing held fast by bolts? Or was Abner sitting on it so that even if the hinges fell off I could not budge it?

This thought was disheartening. It explained the reason for my failure to move it.

A Nail File Leads to Safety

Half in anger and half in the hope that I could break through, I straightened my body and exerted all the upward pressure available. There was a moment of silence, a desperate moment of fear and uncertainty, and then something gave way. And with a crash the door opened, nearly catapulting me through the opening. I had to clutch at the sides to save myself from falling back into the hole.

Clinging precariously to my support, I hung there, momentarily expecting a blow on the head; but it did not come. And when I looked up I saw by the dim light from the lamp that I was in no immediate danger.

Abner was not crouching there, waiting for me. A quick glance around the small room showed me further that he was not in it.

With a little gasp of relief I climbed out and stood a moment, wild-eyed and expectant, waiting for his appearance. The door leading to the spiral stairs above was open. Was he crouching behind it or lurking on the dark stairs to catch me unawares?

Millions of Americans are reeducating themselves to the support of our Government by word and action. Nearly 10 million of them are doing their share through the purchase of U. S. Tap-Rooted Legumes Open 'Stuffy' Soils To Air and Moisture

CHICAGO—Deep-rooted legumes are a tool for making "pay dirt" out of heavy, hard packed soil, declared the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement issued here.

"The bottom" soils on thousands of Midwestern farms are so tightly compacted below the plow furrows," says the statement, "that crop growth is seriously hampered."

"Such soils have lost their nourishing cushion of organic matter because of overcropping. Soil structure has been broken down by failure to include well-fertilized, deep-rooted legumes and grasses in the rotation. Rain does not soak into compacted soils. Drainage is poor. Roots of corn and grain cannot penetrate below the topsoil for water and plant nutrients."

"The result is weak root development, stunted, ill-nourished growth above ground and low crop yields. These tightly closed soils can be unlocked by deep-rooted legumes. The tap-roots of sweet clover or alfalfa well fertilized with phosphorus and potash drill straight down into the soil. They penetrate not only the plow sole, but push on down 18 to 25 inches into the sub-soil below."

Conduct

Fundamentally, the force that rules the world is conduct, whether it be moral or immoral. If it is moral, at least there may be hope for the world. If immoral, there is not only no hope, but no prospect of anything but destruction of all that has been accomplished during the last 5,000 years.

—Nicholas Murray Butler.

Magic Ministry

A club of ministers who use magic to illustrate religious lessons has been formed under the name of "Magi-Ministers." Most of the members practice amateur magic. One of their favorite tricks is the passing of a handkerchief through a tube marked "Church" which changes its color from black to white, illustrating how a blackened soul may be cleansed of sin.

Grant Smith of Letcher county reported that alfalfa produced two and a half times as much hay per acre as the soybean crops he formerly grew.

Under False Colors

Aside from a deluded few, Americans have an outspoken aversion to anything remotely smelling of Communism. We see only too well what is happening to those European countries that have fallen under the yoke of Communist police state control—and we dread to think that such a fate could happen here.

Yet, it can happen here. But not by such direct means. There is an intermediate step which must be taken first and this is where all of us must be on guard. This step is Socialism, loudly acclaimed by many who call themselves "liberals." Actually, in its essence the word "liberal" signifies the freedom of the individual, this self-assertion is false. These "liberals" are urging bigger and bigger government. They constantly demand more powers and controls and, by so doing, reveal their love for governing. Whether unwittingly or not, when they sail under the flag of true liberalism, they sail under false colors.

It has been said that Communism and Socialism can be compared to an express train and a slow freight. Both eventually get to the same destination but the Socialism freight train takes a little longer. The destination for both, of course, is a rigidly controlled police state.

Politics and fear have never produced the results stimulated by individual pride of accomplishment and hope of reward. The opportunities offered to the individual should be encouraged, not regimented. The free enterprise system has provided American citizens with more opportunities than any where else in history. This country has grown great because this freedom of opportunity has given men and women the incentive to push forward to new horizons.

Any other course is not true liberalism, despite the waving of the "liberal" flag by those who would plan our lives for us.

Good Soil Management Will Help Pasture 'Feed Two Cows Where One Grazed Before'

Pasture is a cash crop that needs plant food for high yields.

CHICAGO—Making pastures "feed two cows where one grazed before" can keep your dairy operation profitable in spite of rising costs. Good management, proper grazing practices, fertilization and renovation and reseeding where necessary will do this for you, declared the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement issued here.

"Pasture is a cash crop, the same as any other crop grown on the farm," the statement points out. "It takes plant nutrients out of the soil, as do other crops."

"If you play fair with your pasture and give it good management and soil treatments, it will produce high yields at low cost and support a bigger cow population per acre. But if you follow a 'take-out' policy only, pasture yields decline and fewer cows can be fed, and you have a smaller milk output."

The committee quotes recent figures cited by Prof. Paul M. Burson of the University of Minnesota, as follows: "Over a 30 year period," says the statement, "an average herd of 20 cows producing 4,000 pounds of milk yearly during the pasturing period, will use up the equivalent of 53,000 pounds of ammonium sulfate, 18,000 pounds of 20 per cent superphosphate, 9,000 pounds of 50 per cent muriate of potash and 3 tons of lime."

Prof. Burson's figures represent fertility losses from milk production alone. They do not include nutrients used in building up the body of the animal which is eventually sold, nor elements lost from the soil in leaching and erosion."

"Stressing the need for good pasture nutrition that replaces plant nutrients used in milk production, the committee points out that nitrogen is one of the essentials."

"Good stands of deep-rooted legumes such as alfalfa and sweet clover in the grass sod will supply necessary nitrogen," the statement says. "But the legumes need plenty of phosphate and potash for dense, leafy growth and a vigorous root system. Such a pasture can provide a cow with a full diet of succulent feed high in proteins, vitamins and minerals."

ing until September 18, the men born between August 30, 1922 and January 1, 1923, must register for military service. The next group will be young men born during '23 and they shall register by August 31 or September.

Men born in 1924 are required to register on Sept. 2 and 3.

Men born during 1925 shall register Sept. 4 or Sept. 7.

Men born in 1926 shall register September 8 and 9.

Men born in 1927 shall register September 10 and 11.

After the above dates registration is called for men born in 1928, 1929 and 1930.

Eighteen-year-olds who volunteer for 21 months service will not be on immediate call for the draft if they agree to sign up later on in the active reserve. The law limits such enlistments to 163,000.

The new law automatically defers most war veterans—those who have had combat service—ministers, theological students, conscientious objectors.

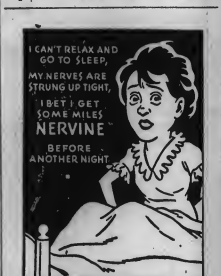

"What's Happening in Cleveland"

The Cleveland Press conducted a consumer panel under the direction of the Bureau of Business Research of Cleveland College, Western Reserve University. The panel consists of five hundred Cleveland families who keep daily records of purchases of 26 grocery and 25 wearing apparel items and report them monthly to the College.

One year ago a study showed that 53.4% of Cleveland families used butter only. In January, 1948, only 29.8% of the families were exclusive butter buyers. Six months later the "exclusive margarine families" had more than doubled, and families using margarine had increased by 53%, whereas the total families using butter had climbed almost 15%.

Dennis Wade Coakley, Green county 4-H'er, sold 17 head of lambs for more than $300.

Grasshoppers Abundant In Some Sections

Grasshoppers, content to feed and remain in the meadows and along the road sides as long as the grass remains green, are now leaving the tough, dry grass in many parts of the state and moving into fields of corn, tobacco and vegetables where the plants are green and succulent. The migration is comparatively slow. The insects usually start feeding on the edge of the planting and gradually move deeper into the field, consuming the plants as they go.

It often happens during migration that there is a fence-row between the field left and the one invaded. In this instance, the grasshoppers, after feeding during the day, return to the fence-row to pass the night. Advantage of this knowledge is taken in applying control measures. Apply the bait to that part of the field where the grasshoppers are feeding and to the space between their bed and breakfast—or between the fence-row where they spend the night and the plants upon which they feed.

If the grasshoppers are now in clover, timothy, and alfalfa fields, it is suggested that these hay crops be harvested as soon as possible. In harvesting the crop, leave an uncultivated swath around the margins and in the middle of the field. The grasshoppers will congregate in the uncultivated areas where they can be poisoned. A poisoned bait should be scattered in the uncultivated areas on either side of it for a distance of several feet. The bait should be spread at the time cutting starts since the purpose of this procedure is to kill the insects before they migrate to other fields.

The poisoned bait is made by mixing while dry 100 pounds of wheat bran and 5 pounds of Paris green or white arsenic and then adding and mixing well 2 gallons of fresh (not used) lubricating mineral oil such as is used for automobile crankcases of 20 to 30 S. A. E. rating, the latter being preferable in very hot, dry weather. This bait should be broadcast by hand at the rate of 10 to 12 pounds dry weight to the acre. (For a small garden 50x100 feet use 1 1/2 pounds bran, 1/4 ounces of poison and 1/4 pint of oil.) Scatter the poison in the morning between 6 and 8 a. m.

Do not look for results until about three days after applying the bait. Two or three applications may be necessary. Dead grasshoppers will be found under trash and litter—few of them die in the open spaces. A complete kill should not be expected in any instance, the reduced population is important, however, from the standpoint of possible damage.

Since grasshoppers migrate readily, it is strongly advised that control measures be undertaken cooperatively on a neighborhood or community basis.

GUIDE PUBLISHED FOR 4-H SHEEP RAISERS

"Sheep Manual for 4-H Club Members," a new circular of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, is a guide for boys and girls who enroll in the 4-H sheep project.

Sheep raising just now should appeal not only to farmers but to many members of 4-H clubs, according to Richard Miller, the author. Sheep numbers are down all over the country, which means that lambs will be in short supply for years.

With many pictures and brief discussions, the circular tells how to succeed with sheep. Chapters deal with starting flocks, the kinds of breeding stock to buy, care of ewes and lambs, shearing, control of parasites, growing the lambs, and other phases of raising sheep. While written for 4-H club boys and girls, the circular contains information for all beginners in the sheep business, and also for many farmers long in the business.

HELP YOUR REFRIGERATOR SERVE YOU BETTER

DEFROST whenever frost reaches thickness of one-quarter inch

Thick frost retards coldmaking, makes your refrigerator run longer, increases operating cost. It should be removed whenever it becomes one-quarter of an inch thick. It is necessary to defrost more often in summer than in winter because of more moisture in the air and greater use of your refrigerator.

A Quick Method of Defrosting

Empty defrosting tray and turn control to "off." Remove ice trays and frozen foods from freezer. (If latter are wrapped in several thicknesses of paper and placed on refrigerator shelf, they won't thaw out in short time it takes to defrost.) Fill proper-sized pans with very hot water and place on shelves of freezer. Use fresh hot water as needed.

When frost has melted wash freezer with weak solution of baking soda and lukewarm water. Clean food compartment, wash thoroughly with baking soda solution and wipe dry. Empty drip pan, replace ice trays and frozen foods and start freezing. The entire operation should take only 20 to 30 minutes.

The Best Time of Day to Defrost

During the hot summer months it's best to defrost in the late evening just before bedtime, when the refrigerator has less work to do. If you defrost during the middle of the day, the refrigerator may run excessively when started up, because of the heat, frequent door openings and warm foods being placed in food compartment.

Building Soil While Crop Yields Are High Called Key To Long-Range Farm Prosperity

Bumper crop yields and good soil management go hand in hand.

CHICAGO—Waiting for crop yields to drop before building your soil is like calling the fire department after your house has burned down, the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee points out in a statement issued here.

"The time to build up your soil is when crop yields are high," the statement declares. "That gives you immediate as well as long-range benefits. It increases your profit margin at current farm price levels, even though they have slumped from the postwar peak. It will give you a good living when the present record-breaking demand for food decreases and prices are lower."

"Production costs such as seed, plowing and cultivation are about the same whether your yields are high or low. Thus it costs twice as much per unit to produce a 50-bushel crop as it does a 100-bushel crop. That can spell the difference between red or black ink in either good or bad times. Which yield you get depends largely on your soil management."

"Good soil management means more than putting fertilizer into the ground. It means replacing organic matter burned out by too many crops of corn and grain and too few crops of deep-rooted legumes. It means rebuilding broken-down soil structure and improving tilth and workability. It means increasing the soil's capacity to absorb rain and deliver moisture to your crops. It means using conservation methods that will keep the soil from washing away once you have built it up."

"Under the head of soil building comes deep-rooted legumes in the rotation, the return of manure and crop residues to the soil and the use of commercial fertilizer carrying phosphate and potash. These measures will build organic matter, repair damaged soil structure and make your soil a better 'drinking fountain' for crops. Soil 'holding' operations include contour cultivation, strip cropping, terracing and, where necessary, building dams."

for farm enterprise in any section of this country. The growth of dairying in this and other southern states comes from the increase in the acreages of pastures and hay crops and from the break away from the one-crop system, Dr. Seath reasons. The Agricultural Adjustment Administration reports that the South for several years seeded more acres to pasture than all other sections of the country combined. Some of the South's pastures mark tops in the nation, whether measured in terms of milk or beef production.

Hay production also is increasing in Kentucky and other southern states. The increase since 1920 is put at 45 percent, compared with 6 percent for the rest of the country. That dairying will continue to grow in Kentucky and other states in this part of the country is predicted by Dr. Seath. The demand for milk still exceeds the supply, he says, and the future promises an even greater market for dairy products. He claims that several of the nation's best markets, based on prices paid farmers for milk, are in the South.

Three thousand members of 4-H clubs are expected to attend 15 club camps in Kentucky in July and August. Six of the camps will be at Bingham, the state 4-H camp; two at Morehead State College, and one each at Murray State College, Western State College, and Quick-sand, Paintsville, London and on the Green river.

A camp for Negro 4-H members will be held at Lincoln Ridge Institute in Shelby county, with an attendance of about 150 boys and girls.

Five one-day training schools are being held for the benefit of 4-H club members who expect to enter the stock-judging contests at the Kentucky State Fair. They will be at Lexington, Louisville and Bowling Green, and in Graves and Davless counties. Several hundred boys and girls will get this special training.

KAISER

FRAZER

Service wherever you go

In just two years we've built and sold more fine cars than any other new manufacturer in automobile history.

Why? Because America fell in love with the KAISER and the FRAZER on sight. Folks are streaming into Kaiser-Frazer showrooms and learning from present owners how dependable these two great cars are. They're learning — from people who drive them — how soundly they are built... how economical they are... how much enjoyment there is in owning one.

THESE ARE THE MOST-COPIED CARS IN AMERICA, road-proved by 250,000 owners in two billion miles of driving.

Because plenty of Americans insist on comfort, convenience, style and value, traditional leaders had to "move over" as Kaiser-Frazer became the fourth largest manufacturer of motor cars in the world in two short years.

Why wait? Enjoy your new car this summer. You'll get fair treatment and highest trade-in allowance.

It is estimated that 50,000 acres in Logan county were planted to corn this year.

J. T. Rice of McCracken county harvested 7,000 pounds of cleaned fescue seed and 1,900 pounds of ladino seed from a field pastured heavily throughout the winter and until April 15.

On land which eight years ago produced 25 bushels of corn to the acre, Raymond Phelps of Caldwell county last year harvested an average of 100 bushels, following the use of lime and phosphate.

Methodist Church Scene of Pretty Wedding Saturday Evening

With the altar screened in ferns and palms and with baskets of white gladioli placed on either side, the Walton Methodist church was the setting Saturday evening, July 31st for the ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Betty Jean Wills, daughter of Mrs. E. W. Collins, and Mr. Hamilton Morris, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Morris of Louisville, Ky.

The ceremony, performed in candlelight by the Rev. R. R. Rose, Methodist minister of Russell, Ky., and uncle of the bride, was followed with a wedding dinner.

Fern and white satin ribbon held heavy white standards each holding lighted tapers and marking the aisle for the procession. Mrs. Sam J. Hudson, organist, accompanied Mrs. J. B. Johnson in the singing of two songs, "Because," and "I Love You Truly," while the guests were assembling. At the appointed hour for the ceremony, Mrs. Hudson sounded the wedding march. Given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. Oscar Chandler, the bride was lovely in a wedding gown of cream white satin with a snug-fitting basque waist. Her veil was finger-tip length and was held by a crown of seed pearls. She carried white roses, centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Harold Blythe of Lexington, the bridesmaid, wore a gown of watermelon red and carried a bouquet of gladioli to match. Her hat was blue.

Mr. J. C. Morris, the groom's brother, acted as best man, while Mr. Charles M. Kirby and Mr. L. V. Morris, Jr., cousins of the groom, served as ushers.

After a wedding trip through Canada, the young couple will make their home in Louisville. Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morris, Mrs. Hamilton Morris, Mr. John C. Irvine, Mr. Charley M. Kirby, Mr. L. V. Morris, Jr., Mr. J. C. Morris, and Rev. and Mrs. R. Rose.

Mad Dog On Prowl In Verona, Sunday, So Keep Dogs Penned

Chapman Says Brown Words Are "False"

One of the slowest Kentucky primary election campaigns in many years far flared up Monday between Rep. John Y. Brown, Lexington attorney, and Milt Withworth, president of the state young Democratic club, of Elizabethtown.

The hottest campaign controversy thus far flared up Monday between Brown and Chapman.

Brown was touring the western part of the state Monday repeating charges first aired by Drew Pearson in Washington, that Chapman had not paid federal income taxes for several years.

In a personal statement issued Monday night from his headquarters in Louisville, Chapman vigorously denied the charge. He said he had receipts to prove he paid his tax during the past four years and said the statements of Pearson and Brown were "absolutely false."

In his statement, Chapman delivered a blistering attack on the campaign tactics of Brown. "I have not," he wrote, "mentioned him (Brown) in this campaign, but he has given currency to this and other false and slanderous statements about me..." Chapman said.

Reached at Lexington late Monday, Chapman said he will answer charges of income tax evasion in a radio address from Paris, Ky., Friday night.

Chapman said he did not hear the broadcast in which Pearson asserted the congressman had not filed an income tax return for 14 years.

The charges were repeated in a statement issued Monday night by Brown. Chapman said he had read the Brown statement.

The address Friday night will be made over a statewide network of some 20 radio stations, Chapman stated.

At Henderson, Brown announced that the 12-year political feud between him and A. B. (Burrhead) Chandler, Versailles, comedian of baseball, was at an end. "I am squirrel hunt," he said, "the feud is buried," Brown said.

30-DAY QUARANTINE

Due to the presence in Verona of an animal which is thought to have had rabies, Sheriff Irvin Rouse has ordered a quarantine of all dogs in the Verona community for the next thirty days. Any dog found running loose will be shot without question. Sheriff Rouse also cautions other neighboring communities to watch their dogs and be careful of any stray animals.

Dog Killed Is Report

A mad dog was believed to have been in Verona, Sunday night. The animal, a collie-type dog, was first noticed by Harry Chapman, when it was disturbing his chickens. Later the dog was fighting with dogs of the town. The animal is believed to have come toward Walton. However, later information is that the animal belonged in Verona and has since been found rabid and disposed of.

Rabies is a serious thing for any town or community, and for your own protection we offer some pertinent facts concerning this infection.

Was your dog bitten by a mad dog? Was he known to be fighting one? Did he have a chance to be around one recently? If your answer is yes to any one of the three questions, you, your family, and all your neighbors are in great danger as long as your dog runs loose. A mad dog was on the loose in Verona recently long enough to have infected every dog in and around the whole community, and it was known to have fought with several dogs and was reported as having bitten several hogs. The big question is how many more dogs and stock did the bite that no one knows about, also where did he pick up the rabies infection? It is possible some stray dog came through Verona at night several days or even weeks ago and found in a number of dogs and the infection developed first in the mad dog discovered Sunday night and destroyed Monday of this week. The development of the rabies is considered by some to take place anywhere from 3 to 4 weeks to 5 or 6 months, with 3 to 4 weeks as something of an average. If this is true, it is entirely possible that a mad dog, at the same time as the one killed, but are just slower in developing the disease and that it is likely to show up any day or night now. Don't be surprised if your dearly loved pet turns on you, your family, or your neighbors suddenly and without warning with savage jaws dripping and foaming with deadly rabies (Hydrophobic) infection.

ACT NOW! Don't let this happen. Tie that dog up immediately even if he was innoculated against rabies before he had a chance to come in contact with a mad dog. It is reported on very good authority that before rabies shots are effective on dogs bitten, several shots must be given, over a period of days, and at a rather expensive cost. That, however, is a matter for you and your veterinarian to decide.

Whatever action you decide upon be certain that as long as the dog is kept around, he is tied with a strong collar and chain or in a strong pen. Dogs with rabies have been known to break through ordinary chains and chew through fences and wooden walls of floors. Preventing the spread of rabies in and around Verona is the No. 1 priority job for every dog owner in the community. The same may be said for Boone County and neighboring counties, as there have been reported cases all around us all summer. If this is not checked immediately it will likely run late into fall or longer. With schools starting in the near future, it is not pleasant to think of what could happen to so many small children, and adults as well. Also much livestock may be lost.

It would seem that one of the first steps in stopping the spread of rabies in any community would be to destroy all sick and stray dogs after first consulting your doctor or veterinarian. Especially should they be consulted if any dog in question has been handled. If every one will carry out the "letter of the law," a strict quarantine, there is some hope of stopping the spread of rabies before it gets completely out of hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Brockman of St. Bernard, Ohio, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Connelly, Sunday.

TO ENTERTAIN TEAM

At the regular club meeting in July, the Verona Community Club voted to have a fish fry for club members, with members of the base ball team, who have made such a fine showing in the Benke Semi-Pro League, as their guests. The club expects to have all of its members at the "Fishing Line," at 8:00 p.m., Saturday, August 7th at the Community Club ball park for the evening. The fish fry will be a great success and goes with trying and eating fish in the great outdoors. Invitations are being mailed to all paid up members.

The Squirrel Season Opens August 20th

Squirrel hunters may take to the woods on August 20 this year, five days later than the opening of the season last year, more than three weeks later than the opening of the season this year. The season will open on August 20 and close on November 5, both dates inclusive. Formerly the season extended from August 15 to November 30. Reports from throughout the state indicate a larger squirrel population in most sections than last year. The hunter must possess a hunting license, and repeater or automatic shotguns must be plugged so that they will not hold more than three shells in the magazine and barrel combined, the Division warned.

The rabbit and quail season also has been reduced this year. The squirrel limit will be six per day, with 10 quail and eight rabbits being within the law.

The Fish and Game Commission also has changed the frog hunting season. Frogs may be taken from June 1 through December 31, with a limit of 15 per day. Hunting of pheasant or native grouse will be December 1 to December 15, both dates inclusive, while opossum, mink, raccoon, skunk, muskrat and red fox may be taken from Dec. 1 to January 31, both dates inclusive. Federal regulations, which have not been announced, apply to the hunting of doves, geese, coot and gallinule, woodcock and snipe.

WIN TWO; LOSE ONE

The Walton Baptist football team defeated Bank Lick 3 to 2 in a very tight contest on July 25th, and on July 26th trimmed the Independence Baptists 10 to 9. However, on July 28th the locals tasted defeat, going down before the Independence Christians 10-9.

The steady hitting of Dyke Vest, Sam Toward and a new comer, Lloyd Yates, have been outstanding for Walton.

The locals will meet Bank Lick again on Thursday, August 5th at Bank Lick. Game time is 6:30 p.m. You are invited.

Verona Trims Ky. Sportsmen 11 to 5; Play We Tavern, Sun.

The Verona Community Club baseball team encountered a member of the Buckeye League, Sunday at Verona, the Kentucky Sportsmen, and were not taxed too greatly in running up a 11-5 win. The regularly scheduled contest with Kentucky, in the Benke elimination series, was forfeited thus giving the Community Club a chance to play the Buckeye outfit.

The Sportsmen lost no time in hitting pay dirt, as they scored two runs in the first inning. However, Verona came up with three runs in the first of the first. The winners tallied twice in the fourth, four times in the fifth and two more in the seventh, to bring their total to 11 runs. The visitors scored 1 run in the fifth and two in the sixth to give them 5 markers for the day.

Sloppy fielding by the Sportsmen aided in their downfall, as they were guilty of seven errors, while Verona had but two.

Elmo Steffen was the winning hurler. He served them up for 7 innings, giving up 7 hits, good for 5 runs, and striking out six. Ryan worked the final two heats, allowing one hit and no runs, and fanning one. Ashcraft started on the mound for the Sportsmen and fanned six innings. He gave up 8 hits, good for 9 runs, and fanned four. Busman hurled two innings, being ricked for 3 hits and 2 runs, while fanning one man. Verona, picking up two passes and the losers four.

Top hitter for Verona was Brown, who had a perfect day, four for four, one of them being a triple. Bauman had two for three, one a triple, and Judge had three for five, one blow being a double. Hellman led the Sportsmen's attack with two for three, one sock a three-baser. Malronee and Conners each had two for four for the losers.

We Tavern, Sunday

In the drawing held Tuesday night in Newport, Verona drew We Tavern for the fourth round of the elimination series on Sunday, August 8. The game will start at 2:30 p.m.

HELP YOUR REFRIGERATOR SERVE YOU BETTER

DEFROST whenever frost reaches thickness of one-quarter inch

Thick frost retards coldmaking, makes your refrigerator run longer, increases operating cost. It should be removed whenever it becomes one-quarter of an inch thick. It is necessary to defrost more often in summer than in winter because of more moisture in the air and greater use of your refrigerator.

A Quick Method of Defrosting

Empty defrosting tray and turn control to "off." Remove ice trays and frozen foods from freezer. (If latter are wrapped in several thicknesses of paper and placed on refrigerator shelf, they won't thaw out in short time it takes to defrost.) Fill proper-sized pans with very hot water and place on shelves of freezer. Use fresh hot water as needed.

When frost has melted wash freezer with weak solution, of baking soda and lukewarm water. Clean food compartment, wash thoroughly with baking soda solution and wipe dry. Empty drip pan, replace ice trays and frozen foods and start freezing. The entire operation should take only 20 to 30 minutes.

The Best Time of Day to Defrost

During the hot summer months it's best to defrost in the late evening just before bedtime, when the refrigerator has less work to do. If you defrost during the middle of the day, the refrigerator may run excessively when started up, because of the heat, frequent door openings and warm foods being placed in food compartment.

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

SCRIPTURE: Jeremiah 23:1-18
DEVOTIONAL READING: Matthew 23:1-44

Ebed-Melech, The Ethiopian

Lesson for August 8, 1948

ARE you ready for a real story?

Then turn to Jeremiah 38, and read on to verse 18 in the 39th chapter. This interesting story reveals a hero, Ebed-melech, by name, which means "the king's slave." This may have been his official title rather than his personal name. Anyway, he is the hero of our story, and a very admirable hero, indeed.

Dr. Newton

He was a Negro, and Ethiopian eunuch, in charge of the king's chambers. Zedekiah, as the story reveals, held Ebed-melech in high esteem. He was, obviously, a most honorable man. How he had come to know Jeremiah, and to esteem him so highly, is a subject for profitable contemplation. The devotional reading, Matthew 25:31-46, offers final opinion on the value of Ebed-melech's ministry to Jeremiah. The golden text, "As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men," Galatians 6:10.

JEREMIAH'S FRIEND

EBED-MELECH was Jeremiah's friend. When he saw what the princes had done to Jeremiah, he went to the king and begged him to allow him to draw Jeremiah out of the mire in the dark dungeon. He knew that Jeremiah would soon die in this awful place, and Ebed-melech risked his life in making the request to rescue Jeremiah. The wonder is that the princes had not ordered Ebed-melech slain. Evidently, they recognized the hand of God.

Like as this Negro servant in the long ago served God by rendering kindness to a man of another race, so may we today serve God and civilization by good will and kindly service to all races.

FREEDOM THROUGH A SLAVE

THE story of Ebed-melech's kindness to Jeremiah lifts to ennobling example the act of a slave on behalf of freedom. The world's benefactors are those who understand freedom, and cast themselves in utter self-forgetfulness into the struggle for right against wrong.

What had Jeremiah done to receive such harsh treatment? He had delivered God's message to the people of Jerusalem, warning them that the city would be taken by the Chaldeans, and how they might escape destruction. Jeremiah was proclaiming freedom—not always a popular course. For this effort to help the people, he was thrown into the muddy dungeon. This servant of the king was the only man in Jerusalem who understood the purpose of Jeremiah.

A FRIEND INDEED

GRANTED permission from the king to rescue Jeremiah, Ebed-melech devised prompt methods of letting down old pieces of rope and rags, telling Jeremiah how to fasten them under his arms, and with the aid of thirty men drew him up from the mire, and brought him into the court of the prison.

And then God spoke words of great reward to Jeremiah on behalf of Ebed-melech. "But I will deliver thee in that day, saith the Lord; and thou shalt not be given into the hand of the men of whom thou art afraid. For I will surely deliver thee, and thou shalt not fall by the sword, but thy life shall be for a prey unto thee, because thou hast put thy trust in me, saith the Lord."

WHO SIDES WITH GOD

EBED-MELECH's noble ministry to Jeremiah lifts up a banner for every true follower of the Lord. Who sides with God must always win. That is the lesson of the lesson. We should never have known about this Negro, had he not cast his lot on the side of God.

"Who sides with God must always win, No cause to him is lost."

CHAPTER IX

All the cunning and caution of a trapped animal came to me, and I crossed the room to take a station as far from the open trap-door as possible. There I waited and listened in breathless silence. I stood behind a chair, grasping its back for support, also with the intention of using it for a weapon of self-defense.

The silence of the room was oppressive, and in time it got on my nerves. Not a sound reached my ears, and my own breathing seemed to be the only thing that disturbed the tomb-like stillness.

Could it be that Abner Longwood had fled, leaving the place, confident that he had me safely imprisoned below? Such an idea made me wild to rush up the stairs and fling myself out of the secret hole into the main upper hall of the house.

Jerry would be somewhere around. Once by his side I would be safe.

Encouraged by the thought I began edging toward the door, and when I reached it I peered up the spiral stairs. The lower part was bathed in the light from the lamp, but the upper part was in gloom.

Dared I risk it? Was Abner lurking at the head of the stairs waiting for me?

For a long time I could not muster the courage to act. Then I calmed my beating heart, and started swiftly for the stairs, rushing up for them for fear I might weaken and change my mind before gaining the top.

They were steep and narrow, with no railing on either side for support, but I climbed them swiftly. On the top step I paused and caught my breath with a gasp.

The huge frame containing the portrait was swung back, revealing the hall beyond. And in the opening stood Abner Longwood, peering out and listening!

The sight of my enemy blocking the mouth of the opening behind the picture, his body filling the whole space, was like a dash of cold water in the face.

For a few seconds I wavered between panicky fear and bold defiance. If I retreated he might corner me and hold me in his power again; but the same result might follow if I rushed upon him and tried to fight my way past him. He was a strong man in spite of his age, and quick and supple of limb, as I had discovered to my sorrow.

He was standing at the entrance, and the picture was partly swung back on its hinges. He was watching and listening for something in the hall.

His absorption had been so great that he had not heard me coming, and fortunately he was still ignorant of my presence. This gave me time to recover my breath and still the loud beating of my heart.

I watched him narrowly, measuring the distance between us, and once when he made a motion as if to withdraw I ducked my head and actually crouched for a football tackle against his legs; but a noise outside in the hall drew his attention back.

I heard the noise too. It was made by Jerry. He was coming up the stairs and, from the racket, I knew that he was not trying to deaden his footsteps or conceal his movements.

Through the Wall to Jerry's Arms

On the contrary, he was shuffling along, growing and grumbling and pouncing on the wain, pausing now and then to call my name, but in a less volucious voice than before. There was despair and discouragement in it.

My heart almost leaped in my throat, and with difficulty I restrained myself from shouting back; but caution warned me to keep quiet until he came nearer, and I crouched and waited expectantly for the moment when I could safely rush past Abner Longwood. With Jerry near to help I need not fear the result of the struggle.

But one thing I had not figured upon, and this neglect got me into immediate trouble. I should have known that Abner would not stand there in full view until Jerry came in sight. He knew of his approach, and was watching him stealthily.

When freedom seemed near he stepped back, and the mammoth picture began swinging noiselessly into position, concealing the entrance as effectually as if it had never been.

It happened so suddenly and unexpectedly that my way to freedom was blocked before I realized what was happening. I had been so confident that Jerry would soon rescue me that the reaction was terrible.

I gave a scream and rushed blindly forward. Abner was so startled that he lost his usual quick presence of mind. He recoiled as if attacked by a ghost.

I pushed him aside in my rush and tried to stop the huge panel from closing, but before I could interfere it swung into position with a gentle click.

I was shut in, with total darkness around me. But my scream had reached Jerry's ears by a short cut, rushing down the hall, shouting: "Nancy! Nancy! Where are you? Speak! Shout again!"

Abner heard him, too, and the sound brought him to his senses. I felt rather than heard him creeping toward me.

The terror of having those bony fingers clutching my throat again, choking me into submission, moved me to desperation. I drew back and cried for help at the top of my voice.

My screams enabled Abner to locate me, for the next moment his hand touched my arm and tried to close upon it. I jerked away just in time and crouched at the foot of the opposite wall.

The passage was so narrow that I could not hope to elude him long, unless I fed back down the spiral stairs; and that I would not do, for Jerry was near, and I would not leave him again.

I waited, breathlessly, holding back my voice now, listening and watching, expecting any moment to feel the bony fingers seeking me out in the darkness.

Jerry continued to shout, running up and down the hall frantically, but Abner and I played our game close upon it. I knew he was waiting to locate me by my movements or breathing, and to talk him I held my breath and crouched in silence.

The seconds seemed like minutes. I could not hold my breath a moment longer, and as I expelled it with a huge sigh there came a quick, cat-like movement toward me.

Frightened almost out of my wits, I gave a tremendous spring, leaping up in the air and holding both arms before me to fend off the man's attack.

It was the act of a desperate woman. I did not know whether I leaped ahead or sideways. I had no time to consider direction and besides, in the darkness, I was all turned around and could not tell whether I was retreating toward the stairs or advancing toward the mouth of the passage.

The result was somewhat astounding to me. My hands came in contact with something hard but yielding and the air was pushed through it, a sharp, rending, tearing sound mystified me. I seemed to be jumping through something that split and tore like stiff paper.

I was not even aware of what had really happened until I landed plump in the arms of Jerry on the other side, knocking his electric torch from his hand and surprising him so that he gasped and spluttered several times before speaking.

Then as his arms closed about me, and he realized that he had me in them, he burst forth into an ecstasy of joy.

"Nancy! Nancy! I've found you at last!"

Retribution for Abner Longwood

As each word was punctuated by a kiss and violent squeeze, I became too confused to reply. But I clung to him with both arms. Nothing short of a derrick, I thought, could tear me away from him.

"You poor dear!" he said. "Where have you been? You've frightened me out of my wits! What's happened? Why didn't you call to me before?"

I suddenly thought of Abner. Would he attempt to strike Jerry down in the darkness? In his rage he might do anything.

"The light, Jerry!" I shrieked. "Get your light! Quick!"

I tore myself loose from his embrace and made a grab for the torch that had rolled half across the hall. Fortunately, it had not been broken in the fall. It was still throwing a dazzling path of light, but not in the direction of the danger.

I seized it and swung it full upon the portrait. I was none too soon. The huge picture of Abner Longwood had been torn by Jerry's ripped and shredded beyond recognition; but standing in the hole, lifting toward Jerry with an upturned knife, a malignant look of hatred on his face, was the man who had caused all my trouble. Jerry's back was turned to him.

The warning was just in time. He whirled as the knife began descending.

and his neck was within a few feet of the deadly weapon.

"Jump, Jerry!" I screamed. "Jump!"

The warning was just in time. He whirled as the knife began descending. Abner nearly lost his balance in trying to check himself. Jerry had ample time to reach out and capture him, but he stood and stared in awe.

I did not realize it at that time, but he was so startled by what seemed to him a miracle that he could not act or speak. With good reason, it seemed to him that the oil portrait of his uncle had suddenly come to life and was leaning forward to strike him. The result of his hesitation was disastrous.

Abner recovered his balance, cleared a second at us, and then, with a maddening rage, buried the knife at Jerry. Fortunately, though, it missed him by a few inches, and he turned and rushed back into the secret corridor.

Even when he had vanished Jerry stood spellbound, winking and blinking. The whole thing had started and bewildered him.

"Oh, you've let him get away!" I wailed. "Why didn't you catch him?"

making me weak and shaky. "Tried to kill you!" Jerry exclaimed, jumping to my side. "Then I'll—"

He snatched the flashlight from my hand and jumped through the split canvas into the opening. Realizing when it was too late that my words had inflamed him, I called to him.

"No! No, Jerry! Come back! Come back!"

But my pleas might have been addressed to the air. I doubt if Jerry ever heard them. If he did, he ignored them.

I didn't want Jerry to commit murder—not for my sake or his—and I knew that murder was in his eyes. All the wrongs that his uncle had committed against him and his family in the past came to a dramatic climax at that moment, turning him into an irresponsible avenger seeking the blood of another.

"Jerry! Jerry!" I cried, running after him. "Come back, please!"

I scrambled through the split canvas and staggered down the dark corridor. I came to the head of the spiral stairs and halted.

Everything was quiet below. Jerry was down there, for I could see the flash of his light. A sickening feeling that he had accomplished his deadly purpose seized me.

"Jerry!" I called weakly. "It's all right, Nancy!" he replied.

"Where's Abner?" Nancy, he was in such a hurry to get away that he stumbled and fell down those stairs head first. He broke his neck when he hit the bottom."

Homemakers Enjoy Tour

The Florence Homemakers and a number of friends chartered a Dixie Traction bus, under the capable operation of M. McGuire, for their annual tour on July 14. Reservations for dinner had previously been made at Boone Tavern, where they arrived at the noon hour. This tavern, a charming colonial hotel, owned and operated by Berea College, is located in the center of the campus on the Dixie Highway, which runs from Canada to the end of Florida.

The party was shown through Berea College weaving rooms, also the independent weaving shop located in Berea. They also visited the Calumet race horse farm covering nearly 1,200 acres, which is up-to-date in every respect. The color scheme is red and white and there are miles of fine white fences on the farm. In addition to the raising of horses and racing and the market, they do general farming and graze Hereford cattle. The party was also afforded the pleasure of seeing Wheelwright and other noted running horses. Another object of interest enroute was the new bridge constructed of concrete which spans the Kentucky river at Clay's Ferry, from hilltop to hilltop, about one-fourth mile in length and 250 feet high and was built at a cost of over a million dollars.

Those who enjoyed the tour were Mesdames Lois Dinn, Nell Blanken-Baker, John Reed, Vivian Grossman and sister, Myrtle Gray, W. H. Jones George Henry and Richard Kottmeyer, Thos. FARMERS TO INSPECT DISEASE-FREE LEAF

Burley and dark tobaccos resistant to diseases will be among the sights at the annual field day meet at the Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington, August 12th. Much progress has been made at the Experiment Station in breeding tobaccos that don't have many of the common diseases that poster this crop.

Also to be seen will be the effects of rotations and cropping systems on tobacco, as well as the use of green manure crops in growing tobacco continuously on the same land.

Different kinds of hybrid corns will be seen, growing in different rotations and with various applications of fertilizers. The Experiment Station has made extensive tests in using the chemical 2,4-D to control weeds. Farmers can see just how this weed-killer works.

Open to the public for the first time on August 12 will be the large and modern dairy center at the Experiment Station. Visitors also will see herds and flocks kept for experimental purposes.

In Estill county, where 782 farmers are growing tobacco, the most popular varieties are Ky. 16, Ky. 22 and Ky. 41A.

NOW'S THE TIME TO START NEW PASTURE

Late summer and early fall are the best times to start new pastures according to a leaflet of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky. Other suggestions in the leaflet:

Plow or disk the land a month or more before seeding time, and then follow to kill weeds and to firm the soil. Apply limestone and fertilizer during this period.

Much of the soil in Kentucky needs two to three tons of ground limestone per acre to produce good pasture.

A good pasture is possible only on a good soil. Much Kentucky land must have a phosphate fertilizer to make it productive. Apply the phosphate liberally before sowing the new pasture. Generally, at least 1,000 pounds of 20% superphosphate per acre should be applied. If ground rock phosphate is used, apply 100 pounds of 20% superphosphate per acre also at seeding to aid in establishing the seedlings. On soil low in organic matter, 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre is also recommended. Ask your local county agent to help you in determining the exact soil treatment for each field.

Choose grasses and legumes on the basis of their adaptation to soil conditions. Use at least one grass and one legume in each mixture. Usually, at least two grasses and two legumes will make a better mixture.

Sow the seeding mixture at the rate of 15 to 26 pounds of good seed per acre. Sow the seed uniformly and cover it lightly.

Ky. 31 fescue showed up well as a pasture crop in Monroe county during a 70-day drought.

VOTE FOR JOHN Y. BROWN for U. S. SENATOR

Kentuckians, our state is honored by the selection of one of its sons, Alben W. Barkley, as nominee for Vice President of the United States. Now, let Kentuckians give Mr. Barkley a U. S. Senator he can work with—JOHN Y. BROWN!

The views of John Y. Brown while a Representative from this state from his own district to the Congress, were in complete accord with the views of Senator Barkley at that time. They still are, and if elected, John Y. Brown can be depended upon to work in close harmony with Kentucky's great son, Alben W. Barkley. Both Brown and Barkley are pro-Labor, pro-Farmer, pro-Business and pro-People. This positively cannot be said of Chapman, Brown's opponent.

First, Chapman voted for the Republican sponsored Taft-Hartley Act which is unfavorable both to labor and industry.

Second, Chapman has voted more times with the Republicans than he has with the Democrats. Strange as it may seem, Cooper, the Republican Senator from Kentucky, has voted with the Democrats more often than Chapman.

Third, Chapman has been hand picked by our present governor to be our Democratic nominee for U. S. Senator. Governor Clements is asking the people of Kentucky to approve his increase in gasoline taxes, lowering old age pensions, etc. by nominating his choice for the United States Senate.

Clements was nominated governor last year because he made the people believe that Harry Lee Waterfield could not carry out his program without placing an extra tax upon the people, and at the same time promised, if he were elected governor, there would be no extra taxes. He also promised an increase in old age pension.

As soon as Mr. Clements took office, he forgot his promises and immediately lowered old age pensions and in many instances stopped them altogether. As soon as the Legislature convened Mr. Clements rushed a bill through the Legislature increasing the tax on gasoline by two cents a gallon, which has run many of our gasoline service stations out of business, because motorists can buy gasoline in other states more cheaply. Mr. Clements even refused an audience with those who resented the gasoline tax. (It is not being spent on roads.)

Now, Mr. Clements is asking the people to nominate a man belonging to his own clique to represent us in the Senate and at the same time give him a vote of confidence. If we do nominate his man, probably within two years, we will be paying another two cents gasoline tax.

To prove to our governor that we emphatically disapprove of the lowering of old age pensions, and adding the extra two cents on the gallon gasoline tax—go to the polls next SATURDAY, AUGUST 7th and vote for

John Y. Brown for U. S. Senator

Dogs Running At Large To Be Destroyed

The Board of Trustees of the Town of Walton, Ky., hereby gives notice that all dogs found running at large will be destroyed without further notice.

—BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The above is self-explanatory, as if you have a dog and want to keep same, keep it at home. We agree with the above for two reasons: First, rabid dogs have been found near here, and in order to protect the dogs, and the citizens of our town from possible danger from some stray rabid animal; and second, it is most annoying to have a large pack (we saw nineteen in one pack some time ago) roaming the streets night and day, disturbing the populace.

Of course "Old Bowser" isn't to blame, he's just being a dog. It's the supposed owner, who is at fault. We believe owners should take care of their dogs, otherwise have them destroyed, not let them run loose rooting for food in the garbage dumps in town. It's a harsh sentence for "Old Bowser," but in this case it's the best way to keep our dogs, we say again, if you have a dog or pup, and want to keep him, keep him at home. He won't be shot and he most likely won't get rabies.

To Answer Questions

A representative from the Covington Social Security office will be at the Erlanger Post Office from 10 to 11 a. m., and at the Williams-town Post Office from 1 to 2 p. m., on Thursday, August 19th, to take applications for Social Security benefits, issue account number cards and answer any questions regarding the Social Security Act.

300 Examined In the County Health Clinics

Five high school centers in this county were scenes of fine advanced school health work, when first grade boys and girls from every section of Boone county were given physical and dental examinations. County physicians and dentists made thorough examinations, discussed health, particularly nutrition and correction of defects, with parents. The primary teacher at each, hearing first-hand from the doctor, the child's physical condition. This also gave the parent and the teacher an opportunity to get acquainted. These clinics were held in August to give time for corrections before school opens, in order that children might enter school with as few physical handicaps as possible.

Superintendents H. N. Ockerman and H. P. Baker took the lead in this splendid piece for health work, now required by the State Board of Education. In all instances P. T. A. organizations had representative present, who were of invaluable assistance. Mrs. Sibbie Reimer, Mrs. Dorothy Knox, Mrs. Clarence Wolf, Mrs. Mary Bell Porter and Miss Elizabeth Lowrey were the regular workers for each clinic and were assisted by others from the various communities.

In order to give teachers an opportunity to carry on the new health program, required by Kentucky State Board of Education, superintendents are planning an entire day on Health Education in Boone County schools, to be held at Florence, September 10th.

Dr. C. W. Hackensmith, Professor of Physical Education, University of Kentucky, Lexington; Miss Martha VanMeter, Director of Health Education, State Department of Health, Louisville, and Miss Evelyn Cundiff, representing Elementary Schools on State Health Work Shop programs, have all promised to be here and participate in this meeting.

As teachers will be asked to screen pupils on vision and hearing, a demonstration on how this is done, will be given.

Kenton Youths Receive State Farmer Degree

James A. Caywood, Superintendent of Kenton County Schools, announces that Bill Benson and Edwin Jackson of the Simon Kenton Future Farmers of America, were among 160 boys from Kentucky to receive the State Farmer Degree from the State Association of the Future Farmers of America.

There are approximately 8,000 Future Farmers of America members in Kentucky, with only 2% of this number being awarded the degree of "State Farmer." This degree is based upon scholarship, participatory procedure and their supervised farming program.

Young Benson, son of W. V. Benson of Piner, started agriculture under Glenn D. Edens in the school year of 1943-44. His farming program of 1947-48 consisted of the following projects: Swine, 8 feeders; beef, 5 head; tobacco, 3.68 a.; corn, 5 acres; hay, 3 acres. Bill also was in the upper two-thirds of his class, president of the FFA in 1947-48, and treasurer in 1946-47.

Jackson, son of F. B. Jackson of Independence, received his "State Farmer" degree as a junior in high school. Eddie's farming program, of the following projects: Swine, 1 purebred gilt; dairy, 4 head; sheep, 30 head; chickens, 300; tobacco, 3 acre; corn, 4 acres; Kentucky 31 fescue, one-fourth acre; hay, acres, and potatoes, one-half acre. He served as secretary and vice president of the Simon Kenton FFA Chapter and is in the upper two-thirds of his class.

A higher degree can yet be attained by these boys in their study of agriculture, the most coveted of all "The American Farmer" degrees. These degrees were received through the supervision of their agriculture teacher, John Ira Gray, Jr.

Project Tours Conducted

During July five 4-H club boys project tours were conducted in Kenton County with an attendance of 114. The clubs and leaders of conducted tours were: Piner, Wm. R. Brown; Visalia, Edgar Baker; St. Cecilia, Rev. Jos. Lubrecht; Holy Guardian Angel, Albert List, Jr.; Crescent Springs, Mrs. Wm. Tupman. On the tours the leader and Joe Claxton, Assistant County Agricultural Agent, checked each project and record book.

Before each tour a meeting was held to make plans for members to attend the Kenton County Annual 4-H Club Exhibit to be held August 18th, at the Simon Kenton school grounds. The new livestock building will be ready for the exhibit.

Enjoy European Tour

W. Ryle Ewbank and daughters, Jean and Eloise Ewbank, of Warsaw returned home last Friday from a six weeks tour of England, France, Switzerland and Italy.

Among the many thrills reported of this enjoyable vacation trip were the round trip on the world's largest transatlantic liner, the Queen Elizabeth; the English Royal Show and Fair at York, England; the bombed ruins of London not rebuilt; the rough English Channel crossing; the invasion beaches and battlefields of Normandy, France; the wonderful Alps, glaciers and lakes of Switzerland; the riots in Italy after the attempted assassination of a Communist; the eight days and nights in Paris, and the person-to-person transatlantic phone call from Paris to Warsaw "homefolks" last Sunday.

The Ewbanks also report that they found no place in all of their travels that came up to the "Ohio river valley in Kentucky" for "home," present or future.

Verona Wins 5-1; To Play Ludlow, Sun.

At Verona, Sunday, the Community Club baseball team and We Taveren had a "dilly" of a battle, especially so for eight and a half innings. The Verona club, in the last of the eighth, the score was nil, 0-0, but the locals went to work and accumulated 5 runs to win the contest, 5-1. We Taveren County Association.

Some dairymen are reluctant to admit that it costs anything to keep a bull. Others plan to keep a cow instead of a bull. In nearly all cases a bull costs and a cow pays. Complete records on early 100 farms in Michigan, revealed that the average cost of natural service was $11 per female per year. The average bull on these farms served 19 cows or heifers. According to these figures, a dairyman would need to breed 40 cows per bull to lower the costs from that of artificial service. These figures do not account for the initial cost of bulls of comparable quality to those in the study.

Each year one Kentucky dairyman has been killed by a bull. The fifth round of the Benke Lettue elimination series will be played on Sunday, August 15th, when Verona will be hosts to the Ludlow Vets at the Community Club park. Game time is 2:30 p. m., and a good game is expected.

Fair Tickets on Sale Here

The Boone County Farm Bureau has secured a supply of tickets for the Kentucky State Fair, which will be held September 12th to 18th. These tickets are now on sale to the general public at the office of the Walton Advertiser. They are being sold at 25c each, which is one-half the regular price. Each ticket is good for one admission, either day or night. These tickets must be purchased before September 1st, as all unsold tickets must be returned to the state fair department on that date. If you are intending to go to the Kentucky State Fair, take advantage of this special offer.

Willing Workers to Meet

The Willing Workers class of the Walton Christian Church will be entertained with a picnic supper on the lawn of Mrs. H. D. Mayhugh, who is to be assisted by Mrs. Nick Welsh, on Thursday evening, Aug. 12th at 7:00 p. m. Covered dish.

Aid Society to Meet

The Ladies Aid society, technically called the Local Division of the Women's Society for Christian Service, of the Walton Methodist Church will meet for an all-day session on Saturday, August 14th in the church basement. A covered dish luncheon will be served.

Proceeds Used to Improve Dept. and Extend Service

Everything is in readiness for the two-day Annual Firemen's Picnic, which will be held this Friday and Saturday at the Walton Stock Yards grounds. The final touches are being added by Chief James R. Allen and his able assistants. They request the assistance of everyone, in order to make this picnic better than ever.

The committees report that there will be everything possible for the entertainment of the large crowds anticipated. A large dance floor has been erected in the open to furnish patrons with square and round dancing—under the stars.

All types of food will be available, including fresh fish—a featured specialty. A special furnace has been erected to speed the cooking of fish sandwiches, in order that everyone can be served promptly. There will also be drinks to cool your parched tongue.

All types of games will be available for the young and old, as well as rides for the tots—so bring the entire family!

All proceeds from these picnics are used to improve the Department, and for the extension of service to surrounding territory. This truly is a cause in which everyone should participate completely—COME TO THE PICNIC FRIDAY and SATURDAY!

KENTUCKY IS 12th IN ARTIFICIAL BREEDING

Kentucky holds twelfth place in the United States in the number of cows enrolled in artificial breeding associations, according to a report from the University of Kentucky. January 1, 1948, after 15 months operation in Kentucky, 31,291 cows were enrolled. Of this number approximately 1,500 are in the Boone County Association.

Some dairymen are reluctant to admit that it costs anything to keep a bull. Others plan to keep a cow instead of a bull. In nearly all cases a bull costs and a cow pays. Complete records on early 100 farms in Michigan, revealed that the average cost of natural service was $11 per female per year. The average bull on these farms served 19 cows or heifers. According to these figures, a dairyman would need to breed 40 cows per bull to lower the costs from that of artificial service. These figures do not account for the initial cost of bulls of comparable quality to those in the study.

Each year one Kentucky dairyman has been killed by a bull.

Attend District 4-H Camp

4-H club members and extension agents from Boone County attended a district camp last week. Eleven spent the week at Camp Bingham, the state 4-H camp site located in Washington County, at the old Tatum Springs Hotel. The week program was divided into classes on the uses of DDT, casting, Kentucky, and party games. Handicraft classes were taught in copper bookends, glass etching and the making of felt beanies.

All 4-H members were divided into teams to compete in softball, volleyball and other games. Night programs included talent night and stunts.

Those who attended were: Wm. E. Davis, County Agent; Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent; Mrs. Earl Morehead, Carol Lee Clayton, Barbara Lovely, Alice Goodridge, George K. Toadvine, Jane Rogers, Margaret Jane Hestel, Shirley Bingham, and Walter H. Smith.

Softball Team Wins

The Walton Baptist softball team defeated Banklick last Thursday, in a free-hitting contest, to the tune of 18 to 9. The defensive play of John Meador, Walton center-fielder, and Jack Berkshire, Walton first-sacker, were outstanding.

Walton will meet Independence Baptist on Thursday, Aug. 12th at 8:30 p. m. at the Simon Kenton High school diamond. This promise to be a hard-fought contest, so plan now to be on hand and watch the action. The locals are playing good ball, having lost only two games to date.

A Doodle that became famous

Some important things "just happen!" For example, long ago a Southern Railway man had a free moment, a pencil, and a piece of paper.

His wandering pencil developed our symbol, "The Southern Serves the South."

To Southerners it's the sign of an efficient, economical transportation system... whose 8,000 miles of lines are the sinews and muscles of our fast-growing Southland.

To our 45,000 employees it's the sign of a good place to work... where a man can take pride in the job he's doing.

To Southern businessmen it's the sign of a steady customer with a giant shopping list... who buys often.

To communities all over the South it's the sign of a friendly railway... a neighbor, a taxpayer and a "good citizen."

From its casual birth on a scrap of paper, this "doodle" has grown to mean many things to many people... all across America.

HENS RESPOND TO AVI-TAB

You'll marvel at the improvement in your flock when you make regular use of Dr. Selbury's AVI-TAB. This potent appetizer, containing many stomachic drugs and mineral elements, "tones up" a bird's digestive processes thereby encouraging greater feeding efficiency. It is especially helpful for "toppers" and overcast birds. Mix it in the mash. Administer for 10 days each month.

CHAPTER X

"He may have been weaker than I thought from loss of blood. Perhaps he wasn't able to speak. I don't know. I got angry and shook him."

He paused, but continued slowly a moment later.

"He died in my arms, and when I lowered him to the floor my hands and sleeve were covered with his blood. That's the truth, Nancy, but I might have had work proving it in court if I were arrested for his murder. Anyway, I got frightened after that, and fled into the swamp."

"Are you sure that's Abner Longwood?" I asked in a whisper. "It couldn't be your uncle if he was killed before."

"That's what's puzzling me, Nancy," he said. "It's a bit bewildering. Yes, I'm sure that's Uncle Abner. But we'll prove it. He had a deep scar on his chest where a bullet gored him. If that's there the identification is complete."

I nodded, and when he started down the spiral stairs I followed close behind him. The oil lamp in the small room was still burning feebly, making the place dimly lit. By its aid we could make out the features of the man easily.

He had met death quickly and almost painlessly, and there was nothing gruesome in the sight. Jerry studied the features silently for a time.

"It's Uncle Abner," he whispered at the conclusion. "I haven't seen him in fifteen years, and he's changed a good deal; but there are certain features that I couldn't forget. At first I might have been mistaken, but not now."

"Wake sure," I whispered. "Look for the scar."

He opened the coat and tore away the shirt, exposing the chest.

"There!" he exclaimed, pointing. "There's the scar! No doubt about the identification now!"

I nodded and gazed wordlessly at the scar stretching half across the right chest of the body—an identification mark that could not be easily duplicated.

It was Abner Longwood! Jerry could not be mistaken.

Suddenly I caught my breath. "Where was he stabbed?" I asked.

Jerry started and jerked back the shirt again.

"Right over the heart," he whispered. He stopped to wipe his forehead.

"And there's no sign of a wound," he added. "Not a sign."

I was beginning to get hysterical again.

"I'm faint, Jerry," I whispered. "Take me away from Swamp Hollow. I can't stay here any longer."

"Poor Nancy!" he sympathized. "It's been a terrible sight for you, and I know how you feel. But don't forget the Dallas Heart! We must look for it down here. This is the most likely hiding-place. No one but uncle knew of it, and of course he would conceal it here."

"Or in the cellar below where he imprisoned me," I added, shivering.

"Yes, one or the other."

Our eyes drifted to the broken trap-door which I had forced apart picking hinges half out of the rotten wood.

Jerry crossed the room and glanced down the dark hole. The ladder was in place just as I had left it. He stooped down and examined the mechanism that controlled the trap-door.

"Ingenious!" he muttered. "Uncle or the builder of Swamp Hollow went to a lot of trouble to fix that up. It works on a spring."

"Another secret exit!" he shouted. "I'm going through!"

He raised his eyes to mine, and when he saw that I was shivering he came to me and forced me into a seat on the couch.

"Rest there, Nancy! It's all right now. Nothing can happen to you. Uncle's gone."

"But if he came back to life once he can do it again, can't he?" I said.

"We can't accept that theory," he muttered. "That's absurd. There must be some other explanation of the mystery. But don't let us think of it."

"I said pleadingly, 'Take me away from Swamp Hollow. I'd rather be lost in the swamp than spend the rest of the night in here.'"

"We'll go," he nodded. "We'll go before dawn. We don't want to be seen here. Uncle's death will arouse excitement in Wildwood as soon as it's known."

Jerry Again

Begins a Search

"They won't know right away!" I cried passionately. "He lived here alone. It may be days before any one comes to find him. But I don't care about that! Let us go at once! I never want to see Swamp Hollow again!"

He smiled wryly and shook his head. "Go before you've accomplished what you came for, Nancy!" he asked.

I stared at him in blank amazement for a second, and then laughed strangely.

"What did I come for, Jerry?" I asked.

"Why, for the same thing I did, I suppose—to get possession of the Dallas Heart."

Now the absurdity of his reply in the light of all that had happened aroused both amusement and bitter reflections in my mind. I was an imposter, although I had come with Nancy's good wishes and consent, and Jerry had accepted me without too close inquiry.

I had all the credentials necessary to deceive him further—birth and marriage certificates of Nancy's mother and early tintypes of her—but somehow I didn't want to use them. I was tired of the whole farce.

And the Dallas Heart! I laughed bitterly to myself when I thought of it. I wasn't even sure if it was a jewel, a string of pearls, or some heirloom that was valuable chiefly for its family associations. Jerry had come to Swamp Hollow to get this thing, and he supposed I was on the same mission.

I wanted to ask him what the Dallas Heart was, and then tell him the whole story of my deception; but thought of poor Nancy dissuaded me. I would have a look at the thing before I confessed.

If it were something really valuable then I would claim half of it for Nancy. That was my reason for being at Swamp Hollow, and I would see the thing through for Nancy's sake.

Jerry had been watching me; but he could not read the conflicting emotions and thoughts that swayed me. I was glad that I could conceal them from him. I nodded and smiled feebly.

"All right, Jerry!" I said. "Search this room and—and—the one below. But I can't help. I must rest."

"That's what I want you to do—rest right here on that couch until I'm through."

I had to close my eyes to shut out the sight of the corpse, and Jerry, but thought of poor Nancy dissuaded me. I would have a look at the thing before I confessed.

After that I grew calmer and waited. I opened my eyes at intervals to watch Jerry. He was going through the place systematically, examining the walls and floor for any secret hiding-place.

When he came to the picture that Abner had moved to expose his peep-hole, I said:

"Take that down, Jerry. You'll find a small hole in the wall. Look through it."

One Dead and Four Injured In Accidents

Two Boone county highway accidents last week, left a toll Saturday of one dead and four injured.

The fatally injured victim was Mrs. Anna Acra, 63, of Burlington, Route 2, who was killed instantly when she jumped to escape flames which had enveloped the cab of the truck in which she was riding with her son, Elmer, 39.

Two Dayton men and a Louisville couple were injured Saturday morning in a head-on crash on Highway 42 at Union. They were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Covington by an ambulance from the 50th funeral home, Florence.

Those injured were: Virgil Huette, Louisville, possible fractured jaw, face and knee cuts; his wife, Elsie, possible fracture of the left hip and leg, loss of several teeth and severe face and head cuts; Lafayette (Red) Disteneyer, 36, of 903 Sixth Ave., Dayton, Ky., fracture of the left ankle, and arm cuts, and Harry Rusche, 38, of 631 Sixth Ave., Dayton, head and knee cuts.

Mrs. Acra was enroute with her son to Cincinnati with a truck load of garden produce, according to Deputy Sheriff Wendell Easton. As they neared Lima, on Ky. 18, fire suddenly leaped around the truck cab.

Easton said the cap on the truck's gas tank had been lost and had been replaced with a wooden peg. He said apparently the plug had come out and a spark from the exhaust pipe which ran beneath the fuel tank had ignited fumes.

Mr. Acra said his mother became alarmed and declared her intention to jump. He said before he could stop the truck or grab her, she pushed open the cab door and leaped.

After stopping the truck and seeing his mother's crumpled body, Mr. Acra ran nearly a half-mile to a telephone. Mr. Easton said he was so excited he failed to say anything about the fire. He said he (Easton) put in a call to the Burlington Volunteer Fire Department after he arrived on the scene. The produce was saved but the truck cab was a total loss.

Hubert White, Boone county coroner, said Mrs. Acra suffered a crushed head and chest and fractured neck and collar bone. He listed the death as accidental.

Besides her son, Elmer, Mrs. Acra leaves her husband, Elijah; another son, Lloyd, and a daughter, Miss Lucille Acra, all at home. The family were tenant farmers on the property of Courtney Rouse.

Services were held at 2:30 Sunday in the Burlington Baptist Church.

Sheriff R. L. Rouse said both autos in the Union crash wound up on the front porch of the home of Lester Barlow.

The Huette's car was driven by Mr. Huette, was eastbound according to Mr. Rouse. The Dayton men were on their way west for a day of fishing. Mr. Rusche was reported driving their car.

Verona Loses 3-2; To Play Bob & Gene, Sun.

A pitchers battle, the likes of which have been seen only by a few from the "old country" was displayed Sunday at Verona between Steffen of Verona, and Taylor of Ludlow, with the latter gaining the decision, the smallest possible, by a 3-2 score. The issue was settled on home runs. Young and Roberts hit for the circuit for the winning Ludlow Vets, while a round-trip blow by Brown was the best Verona could do. In the strike-out department, Steffen had the edge, fanning fifteen, while Taylor left only six standing at the plate. It was really a great game of ball—one that was tough to lose, regardless of the outcome. This was the second loss in the three-and-out elimination series of the Benke Semi-Pro League, and the Community Club now has it's back to the wall, and most likely will be a pretty tough nut to crack in future weeks.

Kordenbrook, third easer for Verona, suffered an ankle injury in the 5th inning and had to leave the game. It is not known if he will be able to play next Sunday or not, and his loss would be a handicap to the club.

Insurance Available

Anyone wishing to take this hospitalization is asked to contact the Boone County Farm Bureau Insurance agents or any district office of the Farm Bureau or Associated Women.

LABOR DAY LEGION
PICNIC AT WOODS

Plans are being completed for the American Legion Picnic, given by the Johnson-McElroy Post of Walton, to be held Labor Day, September 6th at Woodland Inn, on U. S. Highway 25 south of Walton.

The Legionaires are planning a day of fun and recreation for the entire family. Games, contests and rides will be available for the children, and entertainment for adults, sandwiches and drinks, and in the evening a square dance with music furnished by Frank Miller and His Kentucky Fiddlers. It will be a BIG day for all, so plan to attend the Legion Picnic, Labor Day at the Woods.

Funds derived from this outing will be divided between the Child Welfare Fund and the Buildfund of the Walton Legion Post. Your support and cooperation will be appreciated, so come!

Playground
Is Proposed
For Walton

The newly organized Lions Club of Walton has tackled it's first project—a playground and baseball park for the children and citizens of this community, located directly in the rear of the Walton-Verona school.

With hearty cooperation from Jimmy Vest and his crew, Hobart Griffith and the staff of a successful business, and a successful business, the ground has been cleared and made ready for the bulldozer.

The Lions plan to have a first class and up-to-date recreation field with swings, slides, sandboxes and various games for the kiddies, as well as a baseball diamond with lights for night games for the older people interested in sports.

The Club is going to a big expense and needs help from every organization, citizen and child in this community.

There will be a representative from the Club call on you for assistance, so let's all get the enthusiasm needed to put this project over.

Farm Bureau
Directors Meet
At Burlington

Directors of the Farm Bureau met last Tuesday night in Burlington for their regular monthly meeting. Several important articles of business were taken care of. The County Exhibit at the State Fair was discussed and a committee appointed.

Livestock problems were discussed. The directors told Miss Gillespie and Mr. Davis to include in next year's program for 4-H work an award for several trips to the State Fair to eligible members for outstanding work, sponsored by the Boone County Farm Bureau.

After the business was disposed with, the program was turned over to the Associated Women. We discussed plans for two contests from the State office, Rural Youth Talk Meet and the Farm Bureau Queen. The directors turned down the Queen contest, but decided to sponsor the Talk Meet as it was on a National scale. Anyone interested in this talk meet, please contact Farm Bureau or Mrs. Walter King. The rules will appear later. We would like to have a good showing in this contest as the State winner gets a trip to Atlantic City in December.

Plans are under way for a County wide picnic in September, so watch for the date. Folks who are missing these meetings are really missing something worth while and are urged to attend when possible.—Pub. Chr.

SHEEP WORMSTYIELD TO SIMPLE MIXTURE

An easy way has been found to handle stomach worms, one of the discouraging problems in raising sheep. A mixture of one part of a drug called phenothiazine and nine parts of salt kept before the flock practically insures worm-free sheep. The mixture should be kept in a covered feeder to protect in against weather and to keep sheep from putting their feet in it. County agents have plans for these feeders, which can be made on the farm.

Keep a supply of this mixture in the feeder, and have the feeder where the sheep can get to it easily. Keep the mixture fresh. Replenish every week or two, and stir it with a stick if it cakes. Ten pounds of the mixture should last a flock of 30 ewes 2 or 3 weeks.

The above information was taken from Richard C. Miller's circular on raising sheep, published by the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky. Ask for circular 459.

SCRIPTURE: Acts 9:36-43 Matthew 23:23-28
DEVOTIONAL READING: Proverbs 11:3-11

Religion: Hand-Sewn
Lesson for August 22, 1948

THE NEIGHBORS didn't know what Tabitha's ideas were. She never went down in history as a great thinker. What church she attended, whether she ever took part in a prayer-meeting, what her spiritual life was like, the neighbors did not say. But they cried when she was dead. She was a good woman, they knew. When Simon Peter came that way, they did not tell him about Tabitha's prayers or her peace of conscience. No doubt she had these. But what the neighbors brought in to show how good their friend had been, was "costs and garments." All made by hand, her hands; made for her poorer neighbors, widows. In those days widows were not protected by life insurance, social security or annuity plans. They could not go out and earn big money in factories. To be a widow, as a rule, meant to be in need of help. Too many of them starved. So Tabitha spent her time making clothes for the widows of her city.

Full of Good Works
THE BIBLE says she was "full of good works." It does not say she was full of faith or full of love. Just full of good works. We can be pretty sure the faith and love, the religion, was there, but it was the good works that people noticed. Religion in Tabitha's house was translated into the language of coats and skirts. Religion always has to be translated into something we can understand. Religion uses words, of course; books full of them. We cannot get along without them. They stand for something. But where the Christian religion is concerned, we cannot stop with words.

Would They Want You Back?
THERE MUST have been a number of deceased Christians in Joppa, but the only one who seems to have been worth a miracle to bring back to life was this woman, Tabitha, or Dorcas. Her life was over, yet it was a life worth living again.

How many people would be worth bringing back to life again? How many funerals would the neighbors want done in Joppa? Not many, maybe, but if the neighbors voted at each funeral, as they did at Tabitha's, on the question, "Do we want this person back again?" they would usually vote for people like Tabitha, whose religion was all hand-sewn.

What Is Service?
SERVICE is a word much used in Christian circles. We even have the world around us using the word. Department stores, government agencies, radio manufacturers, filling stations, all offer service. The trouble is that much of this is something for which you have to pay. And much so-called service is simply mending something that was not done right in the first place. Tabitha's service was of a different kind. It was genuine doing for people who couldn't do much for themselves and who certainly could not do anything in return.

Even among Christians, when we think of service we set our sights sometimes too high. We think of Telemachus, who stopped the brutal sport of gladiators murdering one another on Roman holidays. We think of great missionaries or settlement workers, or Christian statesmen like Gladstone or Kuyper. All honor to such men and women; they inspire us all. Yet they dishearten us, too. For these great Christians are "special" people; they had outstanding talent, some of them even genius. They had opportunities given only to a few, opportunities that do not come in every one's lifetime.

Religion in the Hands
WE SHOULD REMEMBER this Tabitha, or Dorcas. All she had was her hands and some pieces of cloth. Her only opportunity was a poor city filled with poor people. Her only talent was one most women have: Plain sewing.

Yet the Tabithas, the Dorcas, make the backbone of Christianity. They are the salt of the church, the salt of the earth. In your own town, in your own community, if the Christian religion is to live and respected, it is not because of the famous preachers; it is because of the humble doers, the people whose Christian religion goes to their hands.

Still Another Secret Exit

Somewhat amazed by my words he obeyed, and when he saw the tiny hole he applied an eye to it. He was quiet for a long time. But finally he withdrew his eye and looked at me.

"Nancy, that looks right into the dining-room. Uncle, in here, could watch us without being seen."

"I know it, for he was watching you when you were looking for me."

"It's the whole place honeycombed with secret rooms and peepholes!" he mumbled. "First, Uncle's portrait, and then the stairs and this room—and now this."

He thrust a finger into the hole, but it was too large to go far. He took a lead pencil from his pocket and shoved the pointed end through.

Suddenly there was a tremor as if the wall facing him had been agitated by some violent shaking of the house. Then to our amazement a section of it began to move, swinging outward, revealing a space large enough for one to step through.

Jerry jumped back as if afraid of a trap. But there was no danger. We stood looking through a square aperture directly into the dining-room.

"Another secret exit!" he shouted. "I'm going through!"

He stepped into the dining-room directly over the fireplace. When he got through he flashed his electric light up at the opening, and then back at the swinging panel.

The other side showed a huge gilt mirror that had been set permanently into the wall as a part of the original design of the house.

He looked at his reflection in it, and then chuckled.

"Alice Through the Looking-glass!" he exclaimed. "I used to imagine that was the mirror she went through when mother read the book to me. Once Uncle Abner caught me up on the shelf trying to look behind it. He gave me a canning that I never forgot. I see he had his reasons all right."

He laughed softly at his reflections which recalled his boyhood days.

"Don't you remember, Nancy?" he added. "You were with me that day—a little too."

"No, I don't remember," I confessed honestly.

"I suppose not. You were too young. Well, we've made another discovery. Uncle could get in there either from the upper hall or from the dining-room. Nobody else knew anything about his secret hiding-place."

"But the sliding panels were built in the house before he bought it, weren't they, Jerry?" I asked.

"Yes, I suppose so. Uncle either discovered them by accident or learned of them through the deed. Anyway, he wasn't responsible for them."

"But he used them often," I said. This room was furnished, and the couch has been occupied."

"Yes, but what for I can't imagine. Perhaps he slept here on dark nights, afraid of being murdered for his money. He was safe enough in here."

The thought saddened me. An old miser living alone and hiding himself at night between the walls for fear of being murdered for his money! It was inexplicably sad.

Abner Longwood's life had not been a happy one. If a quickened conscience had not disturbed him, fear had. Glancing at the silent body on the floor, I felt sudden sympathy for him.

Jerry climbed back into the room by my side, leaving the exit into the dining-room open.

"If he slept in here," he said sagely, "he would have kept his valuables with him. The Dallas Heart must be here or in the room below. I'm going down the ladder, Nancy, and look around in the cellar."

"Oh, don't!" I cried. "It's a gloomy, dismal place. It gives me the shivers to think of it."

"Pooh! Don't let that worry you! I'll go alone and report what I find. You might sit at the top of the ladder and keep that trap-door from springing shut on me," he added, grinning.

There was nothing that could restrain him from exploring every part of the secret hiding-place, and I yielded with a sigh to his insistence.

I wanted to get out of the house, but I knew Jerry wouldn't go until he had found the Dallas Heart or was satisfied it wasn't in the place.

With his flashlight in his hand, he climbed down the rude ladder, testing each rung before throwing all of his weight on it. The ladder was weak and unsteady, shaking under his weight, the wood being as decayed in places as that of the trap-door, but Jerry reached the bottom without accident, and I breathed more easily.

From the top I could see him poking around in the cellar-like room. I sat with my feet hanging over the edge of the opening, with my elbows resting on my knees and chin in both hands.

"It's not a part of the cellar," I heard Jerry say once. "It's under the house, but there's no connection with the cellar."

"What is it, then—an underground dungeon for prisoners?" I asked, smiling wryly.

"Either that or a store-house. I believe we'll find the Dallas Heart down here, Nancy."

"I hope so." I returned without any great enthusiasm.

I was growing a bit tired of the search, and for my part I would have abandoned it right then and there. After all there was a limit to what one goes through to help a dear friend, and I had nearly reached mine. Perhaps after all Nancy would inherit a part of her uncle's estate, now that he was dead, and all my efforts in her behalf would be wasted.

"There's a lot of old junk down here!" Jerry called again. "It's a damn nuisance, this place, and to think uncle shut you in here!"

He glanced up with anger in his eyes, and then resumed his explorations. I grew sleepy watching him, and once or twice I nodded. It was nearly morning, and I hadn't had a wink of sleep. I felt dreadfully tired and closed my eyes.

Mysterious End To the Search

Jerry did not disturb me. He was very quiet. I scarcely heard him at all. Then suddenly his voice was very near, at the foot of the ladder.

"I'm coming up, Nancy," he said in a voice that seemed oddly solemn.

"Find anything?" I asked, waking up with a start.

"No—yes," he stammered.

There was something mysterious in his voice and actions that I could not understand. He climbed up the ladder as cautiously as he had gone down it. When he reached the top he dusted off his clothes and started to close the trap-door.

"That's done," he said in a voice of evident relief.

"What did you find, Jerry?" I asked.

"Nothing—that is, nothing in particular," he stammered and hesitated.

"Nothing in particular?" I repeated.

"Not Come, now, we'll get out of here!"

His changed mood surprised me. Before he had been determined not to leave until he had found the thing he had come for.

Now he was anxious to get out. His face was pale, and his eyes shifted away from me and back again.

Tips For Homemakers

Here are answers to some everyday problems of housewives from the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Ky.

1—Walls painted with casein paint may be dry cleaned with a rubber sponge.

2—A good rug cushion helps prevent flattening of the pile of the rug and adds years to its usefulness.

3—Delicious sandwiches may be made by grinding raw vegetables, such as carrots, celery or cabbage, and mixing with salad dressing. The filling must be made daily to insure crispness.

4—Protect school books by making removable covers of plasticized cloth, which may be wiped off.

HELPFUL HINTS: When Junior outgrows his playpen, use the pad to sit on at the beach or in the car when your bathing suit is wet... Keep several needles threaded with a generous length of thread in colors most often used. Leave needles in a pin cushion so that the threads will be untangled and always ready for use. Hang the pin cushion in a convenient place such as on the back of the kitchen door, near the ironing board, or sewing machine. You can tighten and replace buttons, mend seams and hems at a moment's notice. It helps stop an accumulation of unneeded articles too... Here's something everybody will welcome—a set of six plastic tumblers with spillproof lids for use at picnics. The tumblers come in assorted colors and are imprinted with the words—sugar, butter, jelly, mustard, dressing, and ketchup.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK: Jellied Tomato and Cottage Cheese Salad—1 envelope of gelatin
1/2 cup of cold water
1 can tomato sauce (1 cup)
1 cup cottage cheese (3/4 lb.)
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3/4 cup finely chopped celery
2 tablespoons minced onion
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup diced cucumber
3/4 cup mayonnaise
crisp, cold lettuce leaves
1 cup sour cream (1/2 pint)
Soften the gelatin in the cold water for five minutes. Bring the tomato juice to the boiling point and remove from the heat. Dissolve gelatin in the hot sauce. Stir in the cottage cheese and lemon juice until well blended. Cool. Stir in the celery, onion, green pepper, cucumber and mayonnaise. Pour into individual molds or custard cups or 1 qt. mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce and serve with sour cream. Makes about 5 servings.

Wipe away spilled foods, sticky spots and excess moisture at once to maintain a fresh and spotless interior and help prevent odors... Cover all dishes and containers to prevent loss of moisture, unless your refrigerator has a high humidity compartment... If marketing is done weekly or semi-weekly, ample storage space is desirable. And if the family increases, it may be necessary to get a larger refrigerator before there is an actual need of replacement.

MOTHERS' LITTLE HEDPERS: A busy child is a happy child. Most mothers are busy. Why not combine the two to make most tasks more pleasant? A child can share in most of the housework, and is handy at running up and down stairs. He may be clumsy at first but at least when he's working with you, he's present and accounted for. His help relieves you of anxiety concerning his whereabouts and safety. Let your child perform tasks with you. It's a wonderful opportunity for those "heart to heart" talks which solve many little problems and bring you closer together. You'll get many a chuckle in later years when you look back on some of these discussions and situations.

A Doodle that became famous

Some important things "just happen!" For example, long ago a Southern Railway man had a free moment, a pencil, and a piece of paper.

His wandering pencil developed our symbol, "The Southern Serves the South."

To Southerners it's the sign of an efficient, economical transportation system... whose 8,000 miles of lines are the sinews and muscles of our fast-growing Southland.

To our 45,000 employees it's the sign of a good place to work... where a man can take pride in the job he's doing.

To Southern businessmen it's the sign of a steady customer with a giant shopping list... who buys often.

To communities all over the South it's the sign of a friendly railway... a neighbor, a taxpayer and a "good citizen."

From its casual birth on a scrap of paper, this "doodle" has grown to mean many things to many people... all across America.

PRIMING ADDS TO TOBACCO RETURNS

The College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, believes many farmers could add to their tobacco incomes by priming; that is, removing the lower leaves as they ripen in the field.

Priming answers the question, "What can be done if the bottom leaves are burning badly while the rest of the plant is still immature?" says Russell Hunt. "When this happens, most growers cut their tobacco—all of it. By so doing they get 6 to 8 excellent leaves per plant, 4 to 6 leaves of passable quality, and 6 to 8 immature leaves hardly worth marketing.

"If instead of cutting at this time they would pick off 2 to 5 bottom leaves per plant, and wait to cut until the middle and upper leaves were mature, they would get a total of 16 to 20 good-to-choice leaves per plant."

The reason for priming is that tobacco leaves do not ripen all at the same time. The flying and trash leaves ripen before the middle and upper leaves, and by the time the leg and bright leaves are ready for harvest, the lower leaves may be burnt and damaged. By priming, the bottom leaves are removed as they mature and while they are sound enough to produce the best smoker grades.

The college believes priming is especially useful for small tobacco growers. Instances are cited where farmers added $100 to $150 more income an acre by priming.

A field of bluegrass on the farm of Tom E. Baldwin in Madison county produced more than double the amount of seed when it was treated with 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate.

Charles Roberts and Glennis Watts, 4-H'ers in Breathitt county, laid out 6,200 feet of contour lines on three farms in the county.

Fifteen artificially bred Jersey heifers from grade cows were exhibited at the Ballard County Fair.

Verona Trims Bob & Gene 11-5; Same Two Meet Again Sunday

It was a wild and wooly baseball game at Verona, Sunday, but all was well at the finish, for local fans, as the Community Club handed the strong Bob & Gene outfit a sound thrashing, 11-5, to remain in the elimination series of the Benke League. The game was highlighted by the action of Reibling in the 8th frame when he was ejected from the game for, at least a near-attack, on the plate umpire over a disputed decision.

Verona's play was sloppy at times, however Bud Robinson, Gully and Brown came up with some good fielding. A large crowd was present to witness proceedings.

9,000 Attend 4-H and Utopia Two-Day Fair at Burlington

The two-day 4-H and Utopia fair was attended by approximately nine thousand people last Friday and Saturday. This is the largest attendance since the fair was organized sixteen years ago.

All classes of exhibits at the fair were represented by entries. The number of entries made in poultry, sheep, canned products and crochets articles was much larger than last year.

Floral Hall was filled with exhibits of 4-H clothing, foods, and canning. Utopia arrangements on open class flowers, miscellaneous homemakers and feed sack garments. The 4-H and Utopia and open class garden display of fruits and vegetables was one of the features of the Floral Hall.

Winners in the various classes in this contest may send their articles to the National contest sponsored by the Spool Cotton Co. The display of hooked rugs was very outstanding for quality of workmanship and articles use of color.

Betty Brady interviewed representatives of the 4-H, Utopia, Homemakers and Farmers extension organizations. This transcription was used on WLW Saturday at noon on the "Everybody's Farm Program."

Outstanding features of the Saturday program were the baby show with thirty-eight entries; horse and pony show, both afternoon and evening, and 4-H style revue. This was the first year the improved and enlarged show ring and new grandstand had been used. Both horse shows drew capacity crowds. The school band gave an hour and a half concert prior to the evening show.

33 Killed In July on Kentucky Highways

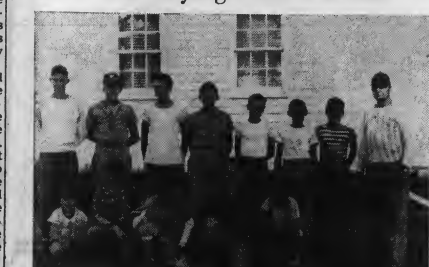

July's highway accident record shows 33 killed and 255 injured in a total of 492 reported accidents, T. B. Smith, Director of the Division of Safety, Kentucky Department of Highways, has announced. The record for the same period in 1947 reported 39 deaths and 152 injured out of 420 accidents. Property damage reported for July, 1948 totaled $192,517.

"Improved methods of reporting devised during the past month may account for an increase in future reports," Mr. Smith said. Each accident is being studied with relation to cause, location, condition of the highway and other important factors. Reports are made designed to bring about a possible correction of the condition or factors which may have caused the accident.

Seven farmers in Carroll county reported harvesting about 4,000 lbs. of Ky. 31 fescue seed.

Sixty-Day Quarantine Placed On All Dogs In Boone County

R. A.'s Playing Good Baseball

The R. A. baseball team of the Walton Baptist Church, led by "Deac" Taylor and managed by Layne Chessman, has enjoyed a very successful season, having defeated Big Bone, Hebron, Verona, and Union, while losing to Verona, Burlington and Beaver. There are approximately four games yet to be played.

County Judge C. L. Cropper and Sheriff E. I. Rouse issued a strict quarantine last week on all dogs in Boone County, for a period of sixty days, following several cases where stray dogs have been proven to be rabid.

The last and most severe case was the stray dog which was finally killed near the Northcutt farm on Burlington-Florence Pike. This stray beagle hound had roamed the entire county and was known to have bitten more than a dozen other dogs, and probably some live stock. After being killed, the head was sent to Lexington for examination and was reported positive.

The sixty-day quarantine means that all dogs must be tied or kept in pens for this period and if they are found roaming the streets or running loose, they will be killed without further notice.

Persons are also being warned against dumping dogs and cats in towns, as this is against the law, and especially during this quarantine. Anyone found guilty of this will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

There have been at least six dogs killed recently that have proven positive for rabies, and several communities, including Walton, have had quarantines on dogs, but as the disease continues to spread, a countywide quarantine for sixty days was thought to be necessary. All dogs without owners will be disposed of as soon as possible.

Sheep Assn. to Meet

The Boone County Sheep Protective Association will meet Tuesday, August 31st to organize for the 1948-1949 year. New officers will be elected and claims for 1947-48 will be paid. All members are urged to attend.

The regular meeting of Walton Lodge, 719, F. and A. M., will be held tonight (Aug. 26) at 8:00 p. m. All members are requested to be present, and if you are on a committee, don't fail to come.—W. O. Rouse, Secretary.

CORN TO BE EXCELLENT. TOBACCO "FAIRLY GOOD." ACCORDING TO WALTERS

Commissioner of Agriculture Harry F. Walters looks for a bumper corn crop in Kentucky this year and a tobacco crop that is in "fairly good condition."

Walters, recently returned from a three-week tour of all sections of Kentucky, declared that "the corn crop in central and western Kentucky looks very good, and I believe one of the best crops in many years."

"Rainfall has been fairly liberal, though spotted, and the crop appears to have been well cultivated and relatively free of vegetation."

"The tobacco crop is in fairly good condition ranging from poor to excellent in the same county. This variation is due in part to the unseasonable weather at setting time, shortage of plants in some localities, while in other areas near-by conditions were quite favorable."

BIBLE SPEAKS

International Union
 Sunday School Lesson
 By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Acts 9:1-32
 DEVOTIONAL READING: Luke 10:28-37

At the Word of Command

Lesson for August 29, 1948

DO PEOPLE always do what they know right? You would think so; but they don't. It is strange how many excuses people can think up to get out of doing what they know in their hearts they ought to do.

But not this man Ananias. He was a shining exception. There are three Ananias in the New Testament, and this one was up for the other two. One of the others was a rascally priest and one was a famous liar; but this Ananias, another of the "unhindered" characters from the Bible, is famous for going when God said, "Go." We know nothing much else about him, but this is enough.

No Wonder He Hesitated

IT WAS just after the conversion of Saul. At the time of our story, nobody had ever heard of Paul, only of Saul as he was then called; and nobody heard anything good. He was a bitter, ruthless man. He had no use for Christians. Extermination was his only answer to the Christian challenge. The name of Saul brought terror.

On this day of our story Saul had been only three days a Christian. He had had nothing to eat all that time, and he was said to be blind. You may be sure that Christians stayed away from him. His Jerusalem cronies had no doubt given him up as crazy; but no Christian would go near him either. At this point our Ananias had a vision: The Lord told him to go to Saul and lay his hands on him in help and blessing. Naturally Ananias held back. This was a dangerous man, said he. But again the Lord in the vision said, "Go." And Ananias went.

Suppose Ananias had said "No"? That might have changed the whole course of Christian history. How? He could have thought of many excuses. "Aren't there other men who can baptize Saul as well as I can?" This whole vision may be only a mistake. ... And so forth. But not when it became clear to him that this was God's will. Ananias went, though he still did not like it.

How is it with you? When you know what you ought to do, what is the first thing you think off? How to do it, or how to get out of doing it?

Taking Orders From God

HOW CAN we tell when it is really God who commands us? Most Christians today are suspicious of visions, and well we may be. Too many crazy things have been done by people who saw "visions" for us to trust such experiences very far.

One way in which God's orders come to us is in the Word of God, particularly in the words of Christ. For example, take one of the hardest things Jesus ever said: "LOVE YOUR ENEMIES AND PRAY FOR THOSE WHO PERSECUTE YOU." That sounds tough. It is tough. But it is a command. Yet don't most of us leave that command in the closed Bible and act as if the words had never been said? That brings up another question. Is it likely that Ananias became fond of Saul all at once? Hardly. Ananias could not have liked the man; there was then nothing about him to like. We know from Paul's own words that people generally were not attracted by his looks. Yet Ananias, who could not have liked Saul, much less been fond of him, went and called him "Brother" and gave him his start in the Christian life.

Do You Know a Soul?

NOT FAR from where you are sitting at this moment there may be someone like Saul. He is a Christian, but a new and (so far) poor one, maybe. Someone nobody believes in, someone you scarcely know. It may be a child out of some low-grade home; it may be an ex-drunkard (not so long over it) or an ex-convict even; perhaps someone who has actually done you a wrong.

But this person may be just where Saul was, needing a friend. God may already have touched his heart, all he needs now is the human touch of a Christian friend. Maybe you can't love him, can't even like him; but if he is a human soul God loves him. If you can help him, then you are his Ananias. You know what you ought to do. Will you do it?

The DALLAS HEART by GEORGE ELBERT WALSH

CHAPTER XI

I watched him close the trap-door. There was slowly forming in my mind something that I hated—a suspicion that he had found the Dallas Heart and was trying to conceal the fact from me. Otherwise, how explain his changed attitude?

"Jerry," I said slowly, watching him closely, "did you find the Dallas Heart down there?"

"The Dallas Heart?" he exclaimed, betraying surprise and nervousness. "No! Of course not! What put such an idea in your head? I don't believe it's in the house. Come!"

His eyes shifted uneasily away from mine. They could not look me in the face, and his hands were trembling.

"We must go," he added in a shaking voice. "The place is getting on my nerves. And it will be morning soon. We mustn't be found here, Nancy."

"A short time ago you wouldn't leave until you'd found the Dallas Heart, Jerry," I said. "What's changed your mind?"

"Why—er—nothing," he stammered. "I simply can't stand the place. That old dungeon frightened me—that, and the idea of Uncle Abner locking you up in it. Come away! I don't want to see it again."

"No, Jerry, I'm not going," I said calmly. "I want to see the Dallas Heart first."

"But where can we find it, Nancy? I've looked everywhere."

"It wasn't down there," I added, pointing to the trap-door.

"No, or if it was I couldn't find it!"

He watched me furtively, like a criminal caught in the act. And once more I gave him time to repent, hoping and praying that he would do so.

"What's the matter, Nancy? You look—look—as if something had upset you or—"

"I am upset, Jerry," I replied gently, "more so than at any other time. I think—I think this is the worst of all my night's troubles."

"What is?" he asked, looking queerly at me.

He would not confess; then I had to speak.

"Jerry, I wouldn't do this if it were just for myself," I began sadly. "I'd go away and try to forget it. But for Nancy's sake, I must speak. She trusted me, and I must—"

"Nancy's sake!" he interrupted. "What're you talking about! Aren't you Nancy?"

I shook my head slowly.

"No, I'm her friend. I came down here to see what I could do to soften Abner Longwood's heart."

"Nancy's in the hospital. She's poor and lonely, almost friendless, and it will be months and months before she can earn her living again. I'd do almost anything to make life easier and pleasanter for her."

He had been staring hard at me, and I had barely glanced up. But now when I looked I was amused by the expression on his face.

"Not Nancy Lee! Not Cousin Nancy!" he gasped. "Then—then—you're an—"

"Nancy" Reveals Her Identity

"—Impostor," I finished for him. "Yes, I'm that. The word applies to me, but Nancy approved of my scheme. Oh," a little scornfully, thinking of his greed, "I wasn't going to run off with anything I could get from her Uncle Abner. I would turn it all over to Nancy."

The full meaning of my sion was beginning to permeate through to his brain. He opened his mouth, closed it, winked and blinked a few times, and then asked:

"If you're not Nancy, who are you?"

"My name's Jane Edgemont, but the name doesn't really matter. You wouldn't know me. I'm Nancy Lee's friend."

"And she told you about the Dallas Heart?"

"No," I replied, shaking my head and smiling, "she never mentioned that. There are a lot of other things she didn't tell me about. When I get back I'm going to scold her for sending me off on such a mission only half informed."

"But you knew about it?" he persisted.

"Only from what you said, Jerry. I wouldn't recognize it if I saw it. What is it, anyway? A jewel? A pearl necklace? Or—just some cheap heirloom?"

He laughed good-naturedly.

"Well, if you never heard of it I guess you can't be Nancy. I'm glad!"

"Glad!" I repeated. "Why?"

"That you're not Cousin Nancy," he added, smiling.

"I see—or I don't see," I replied, frowning.

"What did you say your name was?" he interrupted.

"Jane—Jane Edgemont, but a name doesn't mean much in a case like this."

"I guess it does. I like Jane—always did. It's a pretty name. And you say Cousin Nancy put you up to this scheme?"

"She didn't want me to come until I'd convinced her there was a chance of making Uncle Abner repent in his old age?"

"Jane—Jane Edgemont," he broke in snarlingly. "That couldn't be done. He didn't know the meaning of the word 'repent'."

"It seems not," I admitted sadly. "He died without repenting, and the estate now—"

"It wasn't down there?" I added, pointing to the trap door.

I paused and looked directly at him.

"Now that he's dead, Jerry, everything goes to you and Nancy, doesn't it?"

"I suppose so. There were no other living relatives—not one now."

His eyes drifted around to the closed trap-door again, and a perceptible shudder seemed to pass through him. I hoped and prayed that he would repent his action and become again the Jerry I had first met and learned to love; but instead he turned to me and smiled.

"We want to get out of this old hole, Jane."

He stopped and looked at me.

"It sounds strange to call you Jane," he added. "I'll have to get used to it; but I'm glad you're not Nancy. You understand, don't you?"

If I understood I didn't want him to think so. I was exasperated and humiliated.

"I'll help you out," he added, trying to take my hand.

But I jerked it away and sat down again.

"Jerry," I said sharply, "we're not going until we have a complete understanding. I told you I wouldn't say what I'm going to just for my sake. I'd let it pass—forget it. But I must think of Nancy."

He nodded and asked:

"What is it you want to say, Jane? By your looks I should say it was something awful. Another confession?"

He smiled and tried to take my hand again. I drew back, not daring to let him touch me for fear I might weaken in my resolution. I leaned forward and gazed straight into his face. I wanted him to know that I pitied while I condemned him.

"Jerry, you found the Dallas Heart in that room below," I asserted in a slow, steady voice. "You found it and thought you could conceal it from me."

I was a little startled by the swift change that came into his face. He paled, stared at me as if hurt, and then drew back a step. His eyes seemed to bore through me.

"You mean that, Jane?" he said finally in a hurt voice. "You—you—But—"

"I didn't want to believe it, Jerry," I cried. "It hurt me—hurt me—"

"What made you think such a thing?" he cut in gruffly. "Tell me all. I want to know the worst. You're mighty suspicious, Jane. First, you thought I was a murderer and then—"

"That was before I knew you, Jerry," I pleaded. "You must forgive and forget that."

"What made you suspect me? Did you see me find it?" he asked.

There was a lurking snarl in the voice, which stung me to protest.

The Original Body Is Explained

"No, but I slept for a moment. I was dead tired, and when I woke you were at the foot of the ladder coming up. You were eager to get out and leave. You can't deny that."

"I won't try. Yes, I was eager to get out."

"You were pale and shaking, and you looked—looked frightened—or upset about something."

"Yes, I was frightened—or, rather, startled," he admitted grimly. "Who wouldn't have been?"

I was a little disturbed by the way he took my accusation. He was admitting everything, and I wondered if I had made a mistake. In a panicky sort of desperation, I cried out:

"Tell me you didn't find it, Jerry, and I'll believe you! Oh, say you didn't find it!"

"Must I constantly be denying that I'm a murderer or thief, Jane, to clear myself in your eyes?" he asked sharply. "Why did you think I wanted to keep my discovery from you?"

"Why—why?"—I stammered in confusion—"half of the Dallas Heart belongs to me—to Nancy."

"And you were afraid I was going to run off with it?" he sneered. "You thought I'd steal your share?"

"No," I cried. "I told you it was not for myself I spoke. It was for Nancy. I came to help her, and I would not let you go away with the thing. I spoke for Nancy."

He frowned and bit his lip, staring gloomily at me. Then his expression slowly changed to softness.

"You accused me for Nancy's sake, then?" he whispered. "You didn't want a share of the Heart?"

"No! No! I wouldn't touch the thing! I hate it! It's brought too much misery into the world already. It's like a curse, and—"

I stopped, unable to proceed coherently, and covered my face with both hands. Jerry's greed and inconsistency had broken my idol.

He was quiet for some time, and then advancing to my side, he gently removed my hands and looked into my eyes.

"Jane, I believe you," he whispered. "And I'm not angry. Perhaps it was natural. I did act and talk in a way to cause suspicion. But—but if I was startled and shaken down there, it was—was—for another reason."

I looked hopefully and expectantly in his face, waiting for an explanation that would clear him. He seemed greatly agitated and twice opened and closed his mouth before proceeding.

"I found something down there, Jane, that unnerved me. Luckily you were nodding and didn't see me at the time. But it wasn't the Dallas Heart."

"What was it?" I whispered when he paused.

His lips twitched and his face turned a shade paler. "I didn't want to tell you, Jane, you'd been through so much. I hoped to get you away without explaining. Later when you felt stronger I would tell you all. . . . It clears up a lot of things. It makes tonight's strange events simple."

"Go on!" I said when he paused, and I seized his hand.

"You want to hear it now?" he asked tenderly, seating himself on the couch by my side. "It's something gruesome, Jane."

"Yes, I must hear it now!"

He nodded and took one of my hands, holding it steadily while he proceeded:

"I found a corpse down there, hidden under a pile of old clothes," he said quietly.

I shrank back and stared at him. "It was that of an old man, stabbed to the heart."

"No, Uncle Abner's there, dead with a broken neck."

"Who? Why? Oh, please tell me quickly."

"It was Abner's brother—Jacob Longwood—the black sheep of the family."

"I didn't know there was another brother," I stammered, once more realizing how inadequate had been my information concerning the Lees and Longwoods.

"No, of course you wouldn't have—not being Nancy," he added, smiling. "A lot of other people around here didn't know it either. Jacob was a rolling stone, a bad egg, maybe. He and Abner quarreled violently."

FAMOUS HOME ECONOMIST

DID YOU KNOW . . . ?

That the high chair has become the low chair? Baby's new safety chair looks like a small low card table on wheels with a seat in one corner. It suspends the baby in a seat fixed in the gravity center of the table and gives more than enough room for him to play and eat. Mommy gets a small folding chair with the set so she can sit down to feed him . . . That adding a little salt to egg whites helps them to whip up into nice fluffy peaks? . . . That very young children need a certain amount of finger food? This encourages the appetite and does much to avoid the "won't eat" problem. It cuts down feeding time and is good for the development of teeth.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK:

"Sunday Best" Ginger Bread
1 package gingerbread or ginger cake mix
¾ cup granulated sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
2 cups boiling water
4 tablespoons lemon juice
1 3-oz. package cream cheese
Prepare the gingerbread according to directions on the package. Make the lemon sauce by combining sugar, cornstarch, salt, and lemon rind in a saucepan. Add the boiling water gradually, stirring constantly. Remove from the stove and add the butter and the lemon juice. Cut a generous amount of the cream cheese and put on top of each square of gingerbread. Serve with the hot lemon sauce poured over it.

MAKEUP: One fresh start on makeup during the day has more face value than constant patching up . . . Apply morning makeup in the daylight rather than under the electric light. This can be done by placing a hand mirror against the window and sitting before the window . . . Powder should be lightly and evenly applied and practically not used at all where it is apt to clog the pores. Take a second look at your lipstick. Does it still harmonize with your complexion now that "Old Sol" has been shining on you? Maybe a change in color of your lipstick would do more for your looks than you'd ever dream it would.

FARM FED CHILDREN vs. CITY FED CHILDREN: General Mills recently made a survey on the diets of children living on farms and in cities. Believe it or not the results proved that although the farm may be the source of hearty, wholesome food, only 27% of country children have good diets as compared to 42% of the city children. How well are your children being fed? Better check the "Wheel of Good Eating" which describes the seven basic foods for a balanced diet. Drop a post card to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., requesting this free aid to your child's health.

CLOTHING: Among your best buys this season are the gold shoes, belts, and bags which are featured as summer and fall accessories. They are suitable for day and evening wear during these seasons and for dressy occasions during the winter months, too . . . Frilly, filmy clothes, especially those with long flowering sleeves, are definitely out of place in the kitchen as they ignite easily. You're looking for trouble when you wear them while cooking. Save them for lounging or for company; wear instead, practical short-sleeved garments.

SEES PROFIT IN FARM FISH PONDS

With meat prices sky-high, the most profitable acre on the farm could be a fish pond, thinks H. H. Thompson of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky. He said an acre pond, properly made and maintained, would produce 400 to 600 pounds of fish a year at small cost.

Properly fertilized, an acre pond will support 100 bass and 1,000 to 1,500 bluegills, according to Thompson, who recommended these species for Kentucky. But fish, like livestock, should be fed to be productive. They live largely on insects which grow in small plants called algae.

Scattering fertilizer in ponds stimulates the growth of algae and hence feed for fish. About 800 to 1,200 pounds of fertilizer a year is suggested for an acre pond, using it at the rate of 100 to 150 pounds a week. Mixtures recommended are 8-8-4, 10-10-5 or 20-20-10.

Robert Morgan of Whitley county sold more than $100 worth of cucumbers by August 1, from his one-fourth-acre patch.

Fourteen Oldham county homemakers who made three suits and 11 coats estimated the value of their garments at $750.

Plans Complete for Legion Picnic, Monday at Woodland

According to Joe Lemmons, Commander, Johnson-McElroy Post, 277, American Legion, plans have been completed for the big Labor Day picnic to be held Sept. 6th at Woodland Inn, south of Walton, on Route 25. A day of fun and entertainment for the entire family, has been arranged, with special emphasis being placed on recreation for the youngsters. In this department there will be six contests for girls, with Mrs. Roland Glenn in charge, and six contests for boys, with John Meador in charge. These children's events will start at 1:00 p. m.

The contests will be divided into two age groups, with the "small fry" having as much opportunity to win as the bigger boys and girls, up to 16 years. Very nice prizes are to be given the winners, and are being given by Conrad Hardware, boys' prizes, and Hamilton & Jones, girls' awards. In addition to these affairs, there are to be ponies to ride and a chair swing. A fish pond will also be in operation.

For both the young and old, there will be an "ice cream and candy booth, sandwich stand, featuring delicious fresh fish, as well as hot dogs, etc., plus your favorite drink—you name it, the Legionaires will have it.

There will also be games for the adults and dancing. Starting at 2:00 p. m. music will be furnished by that well known group of musicians, Frank Miller and His Kentucky Fiddlers, heard regularly over radio station WZLF, Covington.

So, you see it's going to be at big day Labor Day at Woodland Inn—come out, you'll enjoy yourself. Funds derived from this picnic will be used to establish a Legion Child Welfare fund, and also to start a building fund. A Legion Post without funds can help neither itself or others, but one with a bank account, can help itself as well as others—see what I mean?

Ky. State Fair To Be Held Sept. 12-18

With each year bringing bigger and better exhibits of livestock, the Kentucky State Fair, this year's exhibit, Sept. 12-18, promises to be the best, according to officials.

"Harry F. Walters, Commissioner of Agriculture, extended to all livestock and poultry dealers of the State an invitation to show their stock and the response has been excellent," says J. O. Matlick, Fair Manager. Entries include 500 dairy cattle, 300 beef cattle, 250 swine, 200 sheep, and 100 or more entries in each of the other livestock classes.

"The management of the State Fair," Walters says, "is expending every effort to make this the most attractive and educational agricultural exhibit ever held at any State Fair in Kentucky." More than $6,000 is offered in prizes for beef cattle, $5,500 for dairy cattle, $3,000 for swine, and $2,200 for sheep.

The number of Farm Implements and Machinery exhibits at the 1947 Kentucky State Fair was the greatest in the Kentucky Fair's history, but entries for this year's Machinery Show have already broken the 1947 record, both in the size and number of exhibits, according to Walters. In addition to exhibits by all the major tractor manufacturing companies and smaller farm implement manufacturers, special soil conservation machinery capable of remodeling a farm in one day will be displayed.

This year for the first time the State Fair will offer a huge exhibit of home made farm equipment and labor saving devices.

This exhibit comes under a new department sponsored by The Kentucky Farmer magazine and will offer $300 in cash prizes. Entries will be accepted as late as September 11, one day before the Fair opens, Matlick says.

In two special Alumni-Dromes supplied by the Reynolds Metals Company, Kentucky's Future Farmers of America will hold their livestock and poultry exhibits and, for the first time, an educational exhibit, according to W. C. Montgomery, Assistant Superintendent of the Department. The Alumni-Dromes are 36 feet wide and 72 feet long. FFA entries came in such numbers that one Alumni-Drome was filled immediately and half of the space taken up in the second one. WAVE will use the other half for a special television show and exhibit.

Dr. W. E. MacGregor, Fair Board member in charge of the Women's Department and Mrs. J. Byrnes Morgan, Supervisor, report that entries for exhibits in this Department are coming in rapidly and competition for the $2,419.50 in prize money will be strong.

Thos. L. Claggett, Manager of the Horse Show, reports 613 entries have been received from the best stables in the U. S. and, last but not least, Doc Cassidy, Special Events Manager, says 300 babies have been entered in the Baby Health Contest. With 50,000 people working to make the 1948 Kentucky State Fair a success, the Fair Board is confident of having the biggest and best Fair in the State's history.

Fall, Winter Fashions Are Discussed

Eighty-four clothing leaders and home demonstration agents from Kenton, Boone, Gallatin, Grant, Campbell, Harrison and Bracken counties met last Wednesday, Aug. 25, at Copplin's Department Store, Covington to hear Miss Verma Latzke, Extension Specialist in Clothing at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, talk fall and winter fashions.

This information will be given in Homemakers Clubs at the September meetings by leaders attending the class.

Miss Latzke stated that the woman who wants to be well-dressed will be one who keeps one eye on the current fashions and the other critically turned on herself and her needs. She recommended that women strive for a neat, uncluttered look and that they choose a line in garments that call attention to their best points. Very slim skirts are not for the figure with full hips, neither is back fullness for the short, plump type. Both of these figure types look smarter in modified flares.

The group was guest of Copplin's Department Store for luncheon at Hand's Restaurant.

Home agents attending were: Miss Eugenia Donahue, Campbell county; Mrs. Jane G. Young, Bracken county; Miss Jewel Wilson, Gallatin county; Miss Mary Hood Gillette, Boone county; Miss Mary F. Mahoney, Grant county; Miss Elizabeth Dannel, Harrison county, and Miss Zelma E. Byerly, Kenton county.

Leaders attending from Kenton county were: Mrs. M. K. Madden, Mrs. John Dwyer, Mrs. O. J. Williams, Mrs. B. C. Montiehl, Mrs. Geo. Milner, Mrs. W. R. Hensley, Mrs. Marcella Kenney, Mrs. Wm. Meyers, Mrs. J. C. Reynolds, Mrs. John R. Loomis, Mrs. Charles Woods, Mrs. Geo. W. Klein, Mrs. Wm. Scheben, Mrs. Bessie Peacock, Mrs. Harry Gehman, Miss Ruth Schmidt, Mrs. Jesse Grant, Mrs. Robert Beckman, Mrs. Albert Hartman and Mrs. Geo. Betzel.

Guest of Honor at Dinner

Mrs. Stephen A. Rich was guest of honor recently at a dinner given by her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Rich, at the family home, Belle Ridge, near Nicholson. Mr. and Mrs. Rich divide their time between their Kentucky residence and Charleston, W. Va.

The baseball game Sunday at Verona, between Bob & Gene and the Community Club was a nip-and-tuck battle right down to the wire, with a spine-tingling story-book finish that gave Verona the nod 5-4 over the visitors. The finish was something like this: It was the 9th inning and the score was tied, the bases were loaded on a couple of runners when Wendell Ryan, manager, stepped to the plate to hit for John Meador, and on the first pitch served him by Dutch Reibling, hit an outside pitch for a single to right, driving in the game-winning run. The largest crowd of the season was on hand to watch the proceedings.

FLORENCE NEWS

Mrs. Wm. Markesbery recently visited Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kelso of Detroit, Mich., and also attended funeral services for their daughter, Mrs. Verlain LaSalle, who succumbed to an unknown skin infection. She was yet in her twenties and we cannot understand why one so young should be called to leave her husband, three children, parents and other relatives, but God has a purpose. Mr. Kelso was a brother of the late Mrs. Geneva Souther. Their friends here extend sincere sympathy to the family in this their hour of trial. Mrs. Markesbery returned by plane to the Boone County Airport.

Sunday guests of J. T. Stephenson wife and son, E. G., were Mr. and Mrs. Dave Wingate, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Brown and Wayne Brown. The town of Florence was well represented at the 4-H fair. Great progress has been made from year to year and they now have a grand stand with quite a large seating capacity. A record crowd was in attendance this year.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
 International Union Sunday School Lesson

SCRIPTURE: Acts 15:1-4, 12-24; Romans 15:13-16; 1 Corinthians 14:19; 1 Timothy 4:10
 DEVOTIONAL READING: 1 Corinthians 13:14-11

Home Team
 Lesson for September 5, 1948

HUSBAND AND WIFE: Team or tug-of-war? In times when more and more homes are splitting apart, it is refreshing to read the story of one home that stuck together. We do not know whether these two ever had children; no doubt their home was happier if they had. But we do know their names. No one who ever spoke of them mentioned one without the other.

You could not think of Aquila without thinking of his wife Priscilla (or Prisca for short), or vice versa. They were displaced persons, but that did not keep them down.

Family Trade Union

LIKE ALL JEWS of that time they had a specialty, a trade they had learned. In this case someone had taught Prisca the same trade (or did she learn it from her husband?), so the two of them formed a sort of trade union. They were tentmakers, working not only in heavy tent-cloth but in the tanned skins of which many tents in that time were made.

Their home was a workshop, their hands were bent by long use of hard tools, very likely they initiated their produce. P & A tents were good tents. Their business was good, for we know they always had room for another guest, for another hand at the workbench. That was one thing helping their marriage to stick.

How many husbands and wives today are working teams? One reason why divorces are more common in cities than on farms is that the city man and his wife seldom have any work in common, while a farmer and his wife are a working team in which each needs the other to succeed. Find some work you two can share, even if it is washing the dishes, and you have something to help you hold together through the years.

More Than Meats

ANOTHER bond that held these together was their hospitality. They had a long list of friends, some of them distinguished. We know about Paul and Apollos and we hear of many others. But when Apollos stayed at their house, he was getting more than meats.

If you don't do more for a guest than feed him, he might as well be at a restaurant. If you don't do more than amuse him, he might as well be at the movies. What those two did for Apollos was to give him ideas, bigger ideas, truer and better than he had ever had, about the Christian faith. No doubt Apollos enjoyed Priscilla's lamb chops, but when he left to home he was not merely a well-fed man but one whose soul had grown.

Here again is something for husband and wife today. What are you doing for the people who come in your door? If they come for dinner you wouldn't insult them with trash or poison. What do you give their minds, their souls? Poison, trash or food?

The Church in Their House

EVIDENTLY the P & A tents made enough money for Priscilla and Aquila to have a spacious home, for we find Paul in a letter mentioning "the church in their house." This more than anything else kept these two together, a working team. You know in every church there are a few key people. They may not be conspicuous, but like the distributor under an automobile hood, if they are not there things do not run smoothly and maybe not at all.

Aquila and Priscilla were like that. Their church naturally revolved around them. This must have taken a good deal of their time, no doubt it cost them money, and it must have meant work. But if the church was in their house it was because they wanted it that way. It would be hard to believe that they asked for this so as to keep themselves from drifting apart; yet undoubtedly that was one effect of it.

The great majority of divorces are among people who have no connection with the church whatever. Many, of course, are of persons who are on church rolls somewhere. But how many broken marriages do you know among persons who are active in Christian work?

The Night's Events Are Reasoned Out

"Jacob went off to sea as a young man, and it was not known whether he was dead or alive. None of the family ever heard of him, and he was practically forgotten."

"How do you know it's Jacob down there?" I asked faintly. "For one thing," Jerry nodded, "he had the family looks. He and Abner were not twins, but they resembled each other quite remarkably. Anyone would have taken them for brothers when they were young."

I nodded and shivered, glancing in the direction of the trap-door. "For another thing," Jerry went on bravely after a pause, "he carried identification marks on his person."

I looked up inquiringly and waited.

"He ran off to sea, I told you," he added. "Well, all sailors, it seems delight in disfiguring their arms and bodies with tattoo marks. Jacob was no exception. Both fore-arms are literally covered with tattooed figures and pictures, and on one arm, under a star, is his name. I saw it distinctly—Jacob Longwood."

I sat in mute silence. The discovery of the corpse in the cellar where I had been was enough to awaken terrible memories. Suppose I had been imprisoned there indefinitely, and in my efforts to find a way out I had stumbled upon the dead man?

The thought was maddening. I should have gone insane, and the mere picture of me made me gasp and turn deathly pale. I covered my face with both hands and shook with a violent chill.

"There, Jane, don't let it upset you so," I heard Jerry say. "I didn't want to tell you. I knew it would shock you. Try to forget it."

I began to realize how unjust I had been to Jerry in suspecting him, and how kind and thoughtful he had been in trying to get me out of Swamp Hollow without disclosing his gruesome discovery. Instead of being actuated by motives of greed and selfishness, he had made every effort to protect me from another shock.

I sobbed a short time, and then looked up appealingly to him.

"Can you forgive me, Jerry?" I asked.

"Forgive you? Jane, I—"

CHAPTER XII

"Jerry," a new idea was coming to me, "if it is Jacob and not Abner who was stabbed, then it was—"

"Yes," he nodded, finishing for me, "it was Jacob's body I stumbled upon when I first came to Swamp Hollow. In the half light it was natural that I should have mistaken him for Uncle Abner. The family resemblance was still strong, and I hadn't seen Abner for fifteen years."

"But who killed him?" I asked in a terrified whisper.

He stopped and frowned, shaking his head sadly.

"We can only guess," he replied, "but there is no doubt in my mind. Uncle Abner was the murderer. He was always quick of temper and very irascible. He hated his brother. His unexpected return here may have alarmed him. At any rate it is charitable to believe that they had a quarrel, and that in the heat of passion Uncle Abner stabbed him."

I shivered again, recalling the picture of the dead man I had seen on the dining-room floor.

"But—how—how'd his body get in here?" I added after a pause.

"Isn't that easily explained, Jane?" he said, smiling gently. "My sudden and unexpected appearance must have frightened Abner, and he fled in here, opening the panel in the dining-room to escape. He could see and hear all that went on in the room. He must have heard me implore the dying man to tell me where the Dallas Heart was, and seen me in desperation shake him."

I nodded understandingly.

"And then you fled."

"Yes, I was a bit frightened at the murder, afraid that if I were found in Swamp Hollow I would be accused of killing Uncle. I fled and got lost in the swamp."

"The rest you know. I met you, and the stream came up. When we got here the corpse was still on the floor, weltering in its own blood."

"And Abner heard and saw us?"

"Undoubtedly, through that peephole he saw and heard everything. My coming back with you must have frightened him more. He was afraid I would report the murder. Moreover, he knew that we had mistaken Jacob's body for his."

I jumped to my feet, the solution of the whole mystery coming to me.

"Then—then when we were in the library Abner came through the panel and carried the body away?"

I cried.

"Exactly! That's my explanation of the whole mystery. The body was carried through here and hidden below. The chances were that no one would ever find it until Swamp Hollow was torn down."

How could we make a charge of murder against him? It would be absurd, of course, especially as the charge would have to be that he was both murderer and victim."

"The diamond heart alone is worth more than the pearls, it is so large and beautiful. I imagine that today it would sell for a small fortune."

"Why, if Abner has no other living relatives, won't you and Nancy inherit Swamp Hollow?"

"I suppose so."

"And all that's in it, including the Dallas Heart?"

"Yes," he smiled, "it's here."

"You could take your time ransacking the place for it then, couldn't you—you and Nancy?" I persisted.

"Why, of course, but what are you getting at, Jane? You're holding something back, but I can't guess what."

I smiled demurely at him.

"I was thinking," I added innocently, "that somebody else might search the house before you get possession of it and find the Heart. The police, for instance. They would take charge when they found a murder had been committed, wouldn't they?"

"Yes, and it's a fact they might stumble upon the precious thing. No telling what they'd do if they found it. The might steal it. You're right, Jane! We ought to look further, even at the risk of being discovered in the house by daylight."

He smiled and gazed quizzically at me.

"Believe, Jane, you know something," he said slowly. "What do you know?"

"Woman's intuition."

"Finds the Pearls."

"A lot of things, Jerry, and one is that I don't think a man is good at searching a room for a lost article. Now pause and think. Where would you hide such a treasure in here if you were in Uncle Abner's place?"

"Why—why—I don't know," he stammered, looking wildly around.

"Behind the clock maybe, but there isn't any clock in here, or under a brick in the fireplace, but there's no fireplace."

"Guess again," I laughed.

He was growing excited, not knowing if I were making believe or had some actual knowledge of the diamond's whereabouts.

"Jane," he said solemnly, "have you found it?"

"No, silly, of course not! I haven't seen it or touched it, and I don't know where it's hidden; and I have a woman's intuition."

"A woman's intuition," he mused. "I wonder if there is anything in that, or if it's just common acceptance of an old superstition?"

"Suppose you test it, Jerry?" I mocked.

"All right! Where does your intuition say that I ought to look?"

"Jerry," I said, "if you went into a strange hotel room to sleep and you had a suspicion that sneak thieves were around, where would you hide your money and watch and other valuables?"

"Under the pillow where I could grab them quickly."

He made a dash for the pillow at the head of the couch, picking it up and crushed it between his hands.

"Not in it or under it," he said. "Woman's intuition wrong for once, Jane."

Jerry Describes The Dallas Heart

"We must be going," he said. "I don't like to be found here with two dead men. There will be awkward questions asked, Jane, and there's no reason why we should stay to answer them. We were in no way mixed up with the murder. Let the authorities find out for themselves. We'll leave the house just as it is. Some one will stumble upon the body of Uncle Abner and report it."

"Are you going to leave before you find the Dallas Heart, Jerry?" I asked. "Have you given that up?"

"Uncle Abner has a hiding-place for it which may never be found," he replied. "I've searched about everywhere. Of course, a house of this size could have a hundred hiding places for a small thing like that. It's almost a hopeless job. I should have thought of that before."

"How large is the Dallas Heart, Jerry? And just what is it, anyway?"

"Why you—oh, I forgot you're not Nancy!" he laughed. "Well, Jane, the Dallas Heart is a wonderful string of pearls, with a beautiful heart-shaped diamond for a pendant. Old Judge Dallas bought it for his wife, who wore it at a number of balls and dinners, and it was known far and wide as the Dallas Heart."

"The diamond heart alone is worth more than the pearls, it is so large and beautiful. I imagine that today it would sell for a small fortune."

"Why, if Abner has no other living relatives, won't you and Nancy inherit Swamp Hollow?"

"I suppose so."

"And all that's in it, including the Dallas Heart?"

He made a dash for the pillow at the head of the couch, picking it up and crushed it between his hands.

"Not in it or under it," he said. "Woman's intuition wrong for once, Jane."

"I didn't say it was there. You jumped at conclusions. Now, would Uncle Abner hide it there?"

"I don't know, I give it up."

"Poor Jerry!" I laughed. "Now listen. From time immemorial the hiding-place for money and treasures, at least according to fiction, has been in stockings, under loose firebricks, behind hall clocks or—"

"Where else?" He shouted when I stopped.

"I did not answer, but squirmed around in my seat."

"Uncle Abner didn't have a very soft bed to sleep on," I complained. "This mattress is terribly hard and bumpy. It feels as if I'd been sitting on rocks or stones. Just feel here, Jerry. What is it?"

For a second he did not follow me; then seeing something in my eyes that enlightened him he made a dive for the couch and began running his hands up and down the hard mattress.

An exclamation of eagerness escaped him as he felt at the mattress cover with both hands, ripping it to shreds, and thrust a hand into the straw beneath.

When he withdrew it he held the Dallas Heart up for me to see.

"Jane! Jane!" he cried. "We've found it! We've found it! The Dallas Heart!"

I was more interested in seeing than in listening, and I hardly heard his words. When he blew the chaff and straw from the precious bauble, a string of pearls, with a magnificent diamond heart, sparkled and glowed in the dim light from the oil lamp, making everything else in the room seem dull and tawdry.

Jerry and Jane Leave the Swamp

It was such a treasure as kings had fought for and women had battered their souls to possess. I was dazzled by its wondrous lustre, and Jerry sat there stupefied, holding aloft the precious thing, his lips trembling, his eyes bulging, his hands shaking.

I came out of my trance finally.

"Put it away!" I commanded harshly. "Hide it! I don't want to see it!"

"Why, Jane, it's wonderful, and you helped me to find it."

"Take it away!" I added in irritation, rising to my feet. "I'm going! It's morning outside. See the sun's bathing the swamp in a golden glow. Oh, Jerry, it's like a new world after the night! Come, we must go!"

And so we did, hand in hand through the swamp, leaving Swamp Hollow behind with all its memories and sinister associations. I had found the Dallas Heart for Nancy, but more precious to me than any bauble was Jerry's love, which was mine to share with no one.

The chips were all down Sunday at Silver Grove when Verona and the Grovenet met in a most crucial game in the Benke baseball league elimination series, and the Community Club boys came through with flying colors to win the fray 5 to 2, thus eliminating Silver Gr. A large contingent of the local fans was on hand to cheer the locals to victory. Verona was without the services of their manager, as Wardell Ryan was ill, and unable to be at the game.

While the Community Club was at Silver Grove, Bob & Gene was at Grants Lick, trimming that circuit 7 to 0, to assure them a place in the championship series, which will get under way Sunday, September 12th at Verona. The game will start at 3:00 p. m., and the admission for this titanic affair will be 50 cents per person.

Managers from Verona and Bob & Gene met Monday night with League President Luke in Newport and details for the five-game series were completed. Bob & Gene are to play their home games at Florence. Great interest is being shown locally in this series and large crowds are expected at all games. Hold Training Schools For Chairmen Training schools for Federation chairmen of the Kenton County Homemakers Association were held August 30th and September 1st in the Federal Bldg., Covington.

County chairmen presented the goals set by the Northern Kentucky District of Homemakers, and local chairmen worked out programs for Kenton County.

Mrs. Bluch Rich, county citizenship chairman, led the discussion of the citizenship committee. She urged each club to study the United Nations program and to continue to send food and clothing to foreign countries as this helps to develop friendly relations among nations.

The group will participate in Fire Prevention Week to be held in October, by having programs on "The Fire-Safe Home."

Other programs include a civic project for each community, health and good government. Rural clubs will conduct a campaign to have all mailboxes painted and names printed clearly on them.

The reading chairman heard Mrs. J. A. Keeney, county reading chair, Louisville, led the group.

Each community group will study the State of Kentucky, have one book review, and a reading program to be correlated with other subjects studied during the year.

John Case officiating. Burial was in the Goshen cemetery, under direction of the Chambers & Grubbs funeral home, Walton.

According to reports, Ashcraft died of a 12-gauge shotgun blast in the stomach, fired by Harmon Conrad, 37, also of Bracht Station. According to Mrs. Tressa Riffe, Kenton County coroner, the men had been at odds for several months.

Conrad told her the deceased was prowling about the former's house with a pistol and shotgun, shouting threats and tossing stones at windows.

Conrad told her the deceased was prowling about the former's house with a pistol and shotgun, shouting threats and tossing stones at windows. She returned a verdict of justified homicide. FERTILIZER STEERS CONTROL SEDGE GRASS

Sedge grass which grew waist high last year on land farmed by H. A. McKinney in Livingston county is practically gone now. County Agent Robert L. Rudolph tells why.

In the fall of 1947 Mr. McKinney spread two tons of limestone and 200 pounds of 47 percent phosphate to the acre. Then, last spring, he sowed lespedeza. Now 850-pound steers are feasting on excellent lespedeza pasture, with little sedge to be seen.

The Man for the Job

Lesson for September 12, 1948

HISTORY KNOWS some men only by their nicknames. Stalin is a nickname, so was Charlemagne. And so is Barnabas, one of the best of the early Christians. The apostles nicknamed him "Barnabas" and the name stuck, for it means "Son of Encouragement," and Barnabas' speciality was encouraging people who badly needed it.

Barnabas was not a brilliant man, perhaps not even a strong one, though he had an impressive "front." On a journey in the back districts the natives would take him for Zeus, king of all the gods. But it was not his looks that were important, it was his big heart. When Saul was converted, there was an awkward situation when that young convert went back to Jerusalem. The little society of Christians there knew Saul for a tiger. They had suffered at his hands, they had seen their friends dragged off by his henchmen. So when Saul showed up among the very people he had terrified, when he not only showed up but claimed to be one of them, no wonder they were frightened. All but Barnabas. Somehow or other shall we say it was God's Spirit in him? Barnabas was not afraid. He took Saul the Terrible by the hand, he introduced him to the church leaders, he told them his story, he sponsored Saul as we would say.

An Eye for God

AFTER THAT EXPERIENCE with Saul, Barnabas' friends came to think of him as a man who could probably see the good in any man or situation if there was any good to be seen. So when the headquarters church in old Jerusalem heard of a novel sort of church down in Antioch, they sent this "Son of Encouragement" down to see what went on. It was certainly no church on the Jerusalem pattern; was it a good one, or even a genuine church at all? Barnabas would know. And so he did.

Other men could see the large number of church members in Antioch; others could give you statistics about its rate of growth; others could tell you it was bi-racial, a daring experiment then as now. Some applauded, some raised their eyebrows.

But we read that Barnabas had eyes in his soul as well as in his head. What he saw, as he looked at that stirring new church with its new ways, was "the grace of God." All of us can see things on the surface, we can count noses, we can make reports for the papers. But seeing underneath, seeing the grace of God (or the need of it)—that is not so easy. Wanted for every church: A Barnabas!

Round Peg—Round Hole

WHEN BARNABAS had taken stock at Antioch he knew the place needed a man, and he knew the man for the place. Off he went across the Taurus mountains to Tarsus, where Saul was doing nothing particular, and he brought Saul to Tarsus and set him to work. Saul turned out to be, as Barnabas expected, the round peg for the round hole.

That team was a "natural"—but only Barnabas would have thought of it. Paul fitted in with the church, too. A tireless worker, he was just the man for that vital growing congregation. Getting the right people for the right jobs is still one of the big problems of the Christian church. Many a Sunday school class, for instance, now is withering on the stalk, only because the Sunday school superintendent has never found the right teacher.

The Hands of the Church

THE TIME came when Barnabas and Saul were sent out by that same Antioch church to be the first foreign missionaries ever deliberately sent out by any Christian church. The hands of the church were laid on them before they left. To this day, when a man is set apart, by ordination, for a particular work in the Christian church, hands are laid upon his head. This is more than an antique ceremony, there is more than magic in it.

The laying on of hands may mean different things to different churches, but this at least it always means: The men so ordained are now the hands of the churches they represent.

Fall Fertilization

Ups Alfalfa Yields, Adds to Life Span

CHICAGO—Holding a deep, long-wearing carpet of alfalfa on rolling fields is a matter of liming, keeping the plant's dinner pail well filled with phosphate and potash, and following pasture management methods that prevent premature "baldness," declared the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement issued here.

"Long life for alfalfa stands depends on good nutrition and cultural practices," says the statement. "When the plants are well fed they are harder and better able to resist diseases and winter killing."

"Like other deep-rooted legumes, alfalfa takes large helpings of phosphate and potash out of the soil. Agronomists recommend that heavy amounts of fertilizer carrying these nutrients be applied at the time of seeding. The life of the alfalfa can be prolonged and yields increased by top-dressing with phosphate and potash in the fall. The committee cautions farmers "not to gamble" on the life-span of their alfalfa stands.

"Keep them thick and vigorous," it says. "Then they won't run down when you least expect it."

"Go easy on grazing until stands are well established. Follow a rotation plan so cows will move from one field to another, before the pasture is grazed down."

SOIL IMPROVEMENTS ON SMALL FARM GIVE STARTLING RESULTS

How soil improvement on a 70-acre farm in Warren county multiplied returns almost four times in 10 years, is related in the annual report of the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky.

At the start, the farm was a low producer, 20 acres being worn-out, idle land covered with weeds and bushes. As a result of soil improvement, all the cropland was made productive, and the volume of crops and pasture the 10th year was nearly four times that of the first year.

The value of crops, at 1936 average prices, increased each year—from $1,055 the first year to $3,958 the 10th year. At prices paid for farm products in the past few years the difference would have been much greater.

The soil improvements were mainly the use of green-manure crops, sod or cover crops during the winter, and the application of limestone, fertilizers and manure. Liberal seedings of grass-legume mixtures were made throughout the period. Carrying capacity of the cultivation was drained and changed into productive cropland. Fences were rearranged in some fields. These improvements helped to conserve the land and to increase production.

FAMOUS HOME ECONOMIST

THE FUN IS IN THE FLAVOR—If you add mayonnaise to the potatoes while they're still hot, your potato salad will double its taste appeal! ... Add a dash of cinnamon to your chocolate desserts and you'll enjoy a new taste thrill! ... For delicious iced coffee, add 1 teaspoon of cocoa before brewing! ... Vanilla extract was introduced into American cookery by a French woman in 1847. She requested her druggist,

Mr. Burnett, to prepare a flavoring similar to one used in her home-land for making custards, puddings etc. The result was a delightful all-around flavoring which is still used today to enhance almost every cake, dessert and sauce made.

YEAR 'ROUND BARGAINS—You can find bargains every day in the year. No fan-fare, or advertising. They're always been there but have you taken advantage of them? When you buy 100 one cent stamps for a dollar, do you then purchase writing paper or perhaps have cards made up, or do you take advantage of Uncle Sam's offer: 100 pre-stamped postal cards for a dollar? When you send a sealed parcel, do you pay 1st class fees or do you paste a printed sticker that states, "This parcel may be opened for postal inspection" and thus send it as fourth class mail which is much less expensive? When you send valuables through the mail remember that insuring them means their value will be repaid in case of loss; while registering them means that they will not be lost and that they will receive special handling.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK — Mint Sauce for Lamb: 1 cup vinegar 1 tablespoon sugar ½ cup chopped mint or ¼ cup of powdered dried mint leaves. Put all of the ingredients in a sauce pan and bring to a boil. Serve hot or cold on hot or cold roast lamb BEAUTY AIDS—When your hair is drooping limply and you have an unexpected date, set your curls with cologne, instead of water. The result is amazing—fluffy hair in no time at all because the cologne dries so fast. However, since the constant use of cologne in setting the hair may cause dryness, reserve it as a quickie for emergencies only.

GLAMOUR FOR THE EYES—If the upper lashes are slightly curly, they will look longer. It's not necessary to curl them unless they are absolutely straight. Just brush a little mascara on them with an upward stroke to emphasize their tendency to curl! ... A speck of mascara can be removed easily and neatly from the face of eyelid by wiping with a wisp of moistened cotton wrapped on the tip of an orange stick. ... To make an eyebrow where practically none exists use brown eyebrow pencil to make the line and then with a black pencil sketch in short hair strokes. The result is much more natural than using one shade of pencil only.

GLASS JARS HELP

IN DEEP FREEZING

Advantages in using glass jars in deep freezing, made especially for this purpose, are pointed out by Miss Elizabeth Helton, professor of foods at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky. Made without a shoulder, these glass jars permit the frozen food to slip out easily after slight defrosting. They are especially desirable for freezing fruit with heavy syrup, egg whites, yolks or the combined whites and yolks.

Here are directions from Miss Helton for freezing peaches in glass jars: Make a heavy syrup, using 4 cups of sugar and 4 cups of hot water. Let cool, then place in refrigerator over night. Add two tablespoons of lemon juice to the syrup just before using it.

Select perfect, table-ripe peaches and drop a few at a time in boiling water for one minute, then plunge into ice water. Slip the skins and halve. Fill the sterilized glass jars one-third full of syrup, and as the peaches are peeled, pack them, cut side down in the jar, pushing them to force the syrup over them. About eight halves may be packed in a pint jar. Add more syrup if necessary. Fill to three-fourths inch of the top, then place crumpled wax paper in the jar to force the peaches down as the lid is screwed in place.

FALL BEST TIME TO PLANT FRUIT TREES

Fall is generally considered the best time to plant fruit trees in Kentucky, according to the College of Agriculture and Home Economics University of Kentucky. Trees set in the fall can get established during the winter and be ready to start growing in the spring.

The soil should be deep, well-drained and fertile. Trees don't do well in wet soils. If sloping, it may be well to terrace the land.

The square system of planting is usually preferred. Standard distances are: Apple, 35 to 40 feet apart; peaches and plums, 20 to 25 feet, and cherries and pears, 25 to 30 feet.

Circular 347, "Planting and Planting an Orchard," can be had for the asking. Call at a county agent's office or write to the college at Lexington.

Nicholson-Atwood Homemakers

The Nicholson-Atwood Homemakers club met at the home of Mrs. Ira Stephenson on Wednesday, September 1st. The roll call was answered by "the most interesting place I saw this summer, or the most embarrassing moment." Mrs. Ira Stephenson gave a short demonstration of the "covering of the lamp shade." Mrs. J. R. Loomis gave a very interesting lesson on "style trends." Mrs. S. C. Fisk gave many thoughtful suggestions to help improve the community. One of the club's civic projects was the selec-

Bob & Gene Wallop Verona 8-0; To Play At Florence, Sunday

The first game in the Benke Semi-Pro Baseball League championship series was played at Verona, Sunday and Bob & Gene won by the score of 8-0, before the largest audience of the season. League President Bob Luke and County Judge C. L. Cropper were on hand for pre-game activities.

The game was scoreless until the third when Reibling led off with a homer, which proved to be the winning marker, even though his team added seven more runs for good measure. They did this by making five more runs in the fourth frame. In the following manner: Mahan beat out a hit to short, but was forced at second on S. Arzen's intended sacrifice, which placed the latter on first. Eddie Arzen singled off the pitcher's glove, sending his brother to second. Sebree's single scored S. Arzen and a two-bagger by Schmidt sent E. Arzen and Sebree across the plate. Reibling's single sent his catcher to third, from where he scored on a long fly by Mathis. Steffen threw wildly past first, putting Reibling on second and he came home on Kilmer's single to center, the latter making the final out of the inning trying to take second on the throw in, Judge to Bauman to Kordenbrock. That ended the scoring until the eighth, when Afterkirk relieved Steffen and retired the first two batters on a grounder to third and a fly to short, but Reibling doubled and Rouse singled to send him home. Bob & Gene tallied their final run in the ninth, on Connor's single, Mathis' sacrifice and a long double by Eddie Arzen.

Verona filled the bases in the second inning with one out on singles by Ivan Guiley and Alexander and a walk to Kordenbrock, but Mike Ryan and Steffen failed to end the inning. The losers threatened again in the sixth after two were out, when Alexander and A. Guiley singled, but Ryan flew out to right. The first out in this inning were the result of a brilliant diving catch by Kilmer of Brown's fly and his throw to second doubling I. Guiley off base.

Reibling, with a single, double and home run in four times at bat, was the hitting star for the winners. Alexander led Verona at bat with two singles. He also played a very nice game at first base.

Verona was without the services of Scroggins, due to an injury sustained in the Silver Grove game. Kordenbrock, who has been out of action with a sprained ankle, played three innings, but is still suffering from the injury.

The second game of the series is to be played Sunday, Sept. 19th at 3:00 p. m. on the Florence grounds. A barn-up game is looked for.

TO REPAIR STREETS

According to the Board of Trustees bids will be received Sept. 20th for the repair of streets in Walton. The contract is to supply about 50 tons of crushed rock and the same amount of blacktop, which is to be applied and rolled. Streets included in this program are: Edwards Ave., High Street, Church St., High School Court, Locust St. and Bedinger Ave. This project will start as soon as possible.

Florence Man Has Role In Religious Play

Larry Aylor, assistant postmaster at Florence, and widely acclaimed for his rising prominence in vocal and dramatic arts, has been chosen to portray the role of "Father Manuel, pastor of Fatima," in the forthcoming production of "With Mary at Fatima," a religious drama in three acts to be staged on the night of October 13 at Music Hall, Cincinnati by the Florence Moray Players. Aylor, whose vocal work in the recent production of "Gilbert & Sullivan's operetta, "The Mikado," late this past summer at the Zoo Opera Pavilion by the Moray Players, was cordially received. He has taken advanced work in voice and has a versatile dramatic talent. His appearance in the religious drama will provide opportunity for him to demonstrate his abilities in a more "sole" than the "Mikado" performance.

Crippled Children Drive

The Crippled Children's Drive in Walton exceeded the quota the past week when $274.60 was turned over to this worthy cause. The drive was sponsored here by the Walton Rotary Club and had as its two chairmen two Rotarians, Mrs. Clifford Pruett and Mrs. Powers Conrad.

R. E. "Bob" Brugh, president of the local Club, and the two acting chairmen wish to thank the girls and women who solicited the town, and also appreciate the fine cooperation of everyone in over-shooting this drive.

Rotary Clubs everywhere are aiding in the crippled children drive, as that one thing is the foremost project of Rotarians.

$100,000 Worth of Equipment In Use

Plans are completed and the equipment is being assembled for the Kentucky Conservation Caravan. The first one-day demonstration of this caravan will be in Northern Kentucky, on the Lassing Huey farm at the New Haven school in Boone County, eight miles Southwest of Florence on Highway 42.

The State Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors and all of the cooperating agencies and organizations that have cooperated in the development of this caravan have brought together over $100,000 worth of equipment.

This equipment will be used in establishing practical and sound soil conservation practices to support a sound program of land use on Mr. Huey's farm. The Huey farm has been in the family for over 100 years. It is now owned and operated by a young and progressive farmer who resides on the farm. Mr. Huey, with a representative of the Boone Soil Conservation District, Mr. John Acree, have planned a complete program of land use and supporting practices. All of these together with mechanics of establishment may be seen on the farm September 22nd. Among the practices to be demonstrated will be contour cultivation, terraces, diversion ditches, water clearance, pasture clearing, tree poisoning, liming, fertilizing, seeding and the establishment of water sources. Sixteen organizations are supplying equipment, supplies and materials to assist in putting on this huge field day. As a representative of one of these large firms said, "we are doing this because we know we must have soil conservation."

Exhibit space is being provided for the showing of equipment, fertilizers, seeds and other useful farm items which may not actually have a place in the activities of the day. Some fifteen companies will be exhibiting their products together with the State Division of Fish and Game and the State Forestry Department.

The Parent-Teachers Association of New Haven school has completed plans to serve lunch to 5,000 people at the Field Day. During the noon hour there will be brief talks on conservation by persons of national importance.

Boone Schools Out Front In Health Prog.

Florence High School was the scene of a very fine School Health program last Friday, which was held to familiarize officials and teachers with the new State law and program.

The Kentucky State Board of Education has taken a big step forward in getting this law passed, and the University of Kentucky is doing a great deal in getting the program started.

Boone County is the first in the state to give a full day of the fall teachers' meeting to this new program.

Superintendents Ockerman and Baker took the lead in planning and getting teachers in for this meeting. There were around seventy-five in attendance.

Dr. C. W. Hackensmith, Professor of Physical Education, University of Kentucky, Lexington; Miss Evelyn Cundiff, of Piccadome Elementary School, Lexington; Miss Martha VanMeter, Director of Health Education, State Department of Health, Louisville, and Dr. Claud E. Smith, Covington, all contributed to a fine inspirational meeting.

Florence Parent-Teachers' Association served a delicious meal to all who attended. All Boone County teachers were invited.

For a Better City
Lesson for September 19, 1948

"FOR A BETTER CITY" is a good slogan. No one would think of objecting to it. If the great city of Ephesus, capital and metropolis of the wealthiest and most thickly populated province of the Roman Empire, had had a chamber of commerce, no doubt they would all have been in favor of a Better City. There would be no argument about that. The question is: What makes a city better? Four different ideas on that line—two very bad ones and two good ones—can be seen in the story of Acts 19.

You should read the story itself before looking over these comments. Because we are beginning toward the end of the story, with the very lowest and silliest of the four ideas how to make a city better. It is a very simple idea: Just "holler," yell, make a demonstration. Make it long, make it loud, and the city will be the better for it. For two mortal hours that absurd mass-meeting kept the uproar going: "Great is Diana of the Ephesians!"

A curious thing, the mob-mind. If something is true, how can noise make it truer? If a thing is a lie, how can all the shouting in the world make it respectable? But the mob-mind thinks that if a thing is said loudly enough and by enough people, it is bound to be true. So that theater-full of fools wasted a good afternoon shouting a lie into the deaf blue heavens. It did Diana no good. She was as dead as Marley's ghost, she had never lived, in fact. It was no use drumming up the decibels. Do you know people who think they can make your town better by shouting about it? It won't work. You can make a town or county famous if you shout long enough; but you won't make it better.

Making Money

THE SILVERSMITHS there in Ephesus had another theory. The way they looked at it, the big thing is money. They had to make money selling their little silver shrines. Now this fellow Paul had come along, persuading people that hand-made gods are no gods at all, and the trade in "sacred" trinkets had fallen off. It looked like a bad year for the silversmiths. To make things better, they decided, they needed more money. More business! More production! The fact that what they produced was not only worthless but actually harmful, did not seem to bother them. Do you know people like that today?

Abiding By the Law

THE TOWN CLERK of Ephesus had a simple idea, vastly better than these other two. He saw no sense in the mass meeting, he seems not to have been taken in by the silversmiths' crocodile tears. If anything was wrong in Ephesus, he said, the courts were open, and trials were open, and trials could be held. We have laws—let us live by them; that was the gist of his idea. That is not bad advice.

All honor to the honest servants of the public who now as then give their best efforts to seeing that good laws are made and well enforced.

Changing Lives

SPEAKING OF LAWS, there are three kinds of people in the world. One kind will not obey the laws whatever they are. These are the criminal classes. A second kind stay "inside the law" but they never advance a step beyond them. A third kind, too rare, will go far beyond the law's requirements in personal living and in social helpfulness.

Now Paul had been in the city of Ephesus for some months, and he had nothing to do with the laws of that city. Yet what he was doing was more effective in making that city better than anything the courts could have done.

For what he was doing was nothing less than changing lives. "The trouble with people is that they're people," and the business of Christianity first of all is changing people. It is no use hanging out the slogan "For a Better City" unless you are working for better people.

A tree is no healthier than its roots, and a community's roots are the characters of her people. And from St. Paul's day to this, the one and only organization which sets out to change people from the inside, is the Christian church.

SOIL CONSERVATION

No more important day has ever been planned for the people of Northern Kentucky, both rural and urban. We of the press urge our urban and suburban friends to go to this demonstration and see for themselves, some of the things that farm people must do to provide for food, feed and fiber for not only themselves, but urban people as well.

Ryland Heights Homemakers

The woman who wants to be well dressed will keep one eye on the current fashions and the other on herself and her needs, was the highlight of the lesson on "Style Trends" brought to the Ryland Heights Homemakers Club by the hostess, Mrs. O. J. Williams at the September meeting.

Parliamentary terms and rules in conducting a business meeting were discussed by the president, Mrs. N. L. Leach.

Citizenship chairman, Mrs. O. R. Gee, explained that every homemaker's duty lies within the home, community and world affairs and to share our food and clothing with other lands.

Mrs. W. A. Damon, Reading conductor, emphasized the need of good reading—it tends to build morale.

After repeating the Homemakers' Collect for Club Women, the following answered roll call: Mesdames, N. L. Leach, J. A. Rich, F. B. Hermes, R. B. Frakes, W. A. Damon, O. R. Gee, O. J. Williams, William Heeger and Brenton Grant.

Deep-Rooted Legumes and Grasses Called Tool for Opening Up Poorly Drained Soil

Tight Soil Causes Ponding on Corn Field.

CHICAGO—If your soil doesn't drain well, look to the condition of your soil as well as to your drain tile system, says the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"The slow down may be caused by damaged soil structure and loss of organic matter," says a statement issued by the committee.

"Putting in more drain tile may give you temporary relief. But it is not a permanent solution. Many corn belt soils need unclogging. The structure of silt loams, clay loams and clays has been broken down by too many grain crops and too few legume crops. Working wet soils with heavy machinery has made matters worse."

"The tool for opening this stopped up soil is deep-rooted legumes and grasses in the rotation. The tap-roots of sweet clover and alfalfa well fed with phosphate and potash pierce the compacted soil. Plowed under legume roots and tops build up the organic matter supply. When this organic matter decomposes it gives off compounds that stick soil particles together in loose granules. When your soil is loose and grainy it has good tilth.

"How deep-rooted legumes help improve drainage was shown in Iowa tests. Silt loam that had been in alfalfa three years absorbed 2 1/2 inches of water in the first three hours following a rain. Soil left bare of crops absorbed only about half an inch of rain in this time."

DIRECTIONS NEED TO BE FOLLOWED CAREFULLY

Homemakers preparing late vegetables for the locker or home freezing unit need to follow directions carefully, according to Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent in Boone County. If a good quality product is to come from the freezing unit, certain precautions must be observed in the first step of preparation.

Particular care needs to be followed in preparing corn. Corn to be frozen on the cob needs to be boiled 7-11 minutes, depending on the size of ears. Chill in cold water long enough for the cob to become chilled. It is very important to let the corn boil the required time and then chill thoroughly. Drain, wrap corn in moisture-proof paper. For whole grain corn boil 5-7 minutes on the cob, chill, drain, cut kernels off the cob, pack and seal.

The boiling and chilling process hails the action of enzymes, that otherwise would cause change in color, flavor, texture and food value during storage.

Lim beans are another vegetable that can be unpalatable after the freezing if not properly processed. After shelling and washing leave in boiling water 2-3 minutes. Then sort out any beans that have turned white. Chill in cold water, drain and seal.

The University of Kentucky bulletin, "Storing Foods in Freezer Lockers," circular 398, may be obtained from the county extension office.

FARMERS COULD HAVE HOME-PRODUCED FRUIT

Most farmers might consider having their home-produced fruit, thinks Prof. A. J. Olney, head of the horticulture department at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky.

He doesn't advocate large orchards for home fruit—just a few apple, peach and other trees, and some strawberries and bush fruits, such as grapes, currants and gooseberries. All can be grown with little work and expense.

Three to six apple trees, given proper care, including spraying, would produce 25 to 50 bushels, or enough for almost any family, Prof. Olney explained. Peaches do well in Kentucky. Bearing while young, they live 12 to 15 years. A few should be set out every three or four years.

Prof. Olney noted the growing popularity of dwarf apple trees. Their fruit is as good as any, and they can be sprayed and their fruit picked from the ground.

In Kentucky, fall setting of trees can be done until the ground freezes, and the trees thereby become established and ready to grow by spring. There is still time to order trees from nurseries, for setting in November and December. Strawberries and bush fruits are set in the spring.

HERE AND THERE

Alfalfa acreage in Montgomery county increased by at least 100 acres last spring, and indications are for a larger increase this fall. Bullitt county farmers report the largest acreage of soybeans for oil ever grown in that county.

On many river-bottom fields in McLean county, it is estimated that yields on tile-drained land will double that on nearby undrained fields.

At least 30,000 acres of corn in Henderson were sprayed this summer with 2,4-D.

Eighty-four 4-H club girls entered a total of 209 articles in the Shelby County Fair.

Mrs. W. A. Damon, a homemaker club member in Kenton county, owned the seats of four chairs during the past month.

Sixty-one members of Metcalfe County Homemakers Clubs, or 41 percent, have attended every meeting of their club the past year.

A Homemakers Chorus made up of 25 women from seven clubs has been organized in Scott county.

KEEPING HOUSE

HOME MADE ICE CREAM—Ice cream mixes can be made up into surprisingly delightful desserts by a few very simple additions. You can improve almost every kind of refrigerator-made ice cream by folding 2 stiffly beaten egg whites into the mixture just before pouring it into the ice tray for the final freeze. Add suitable flavoring and colorings to the vanilla ice cream for variety. Make a thin fudge sauce; pour in a stream over the ice cream before freezing. Results? Delicious fudge ripple ice cream. Finely chopped nuts, cherries, macaroons, and chocolate, folded in or sprinkled over the ice cream, will add a festive touch to the dessert.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK—Molded

Tuna fish:
2 egg yolks
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon mustard
¼ teaspoon paprika
1½ tablespoons melted butter
¼ cup of milk
2½ tablespoons vinegar
1 envelope plain gelatin
¼ cup cold water
2 cups canned tuna fish lettuce, mayonnaise, tomatoes, lemon wedges, parsley.

Mix the egg yolk, salt, mustard, and paprika in the top part of a double boiler. Add butter, milk and vinegar and cook over boiling water, stirring frequently until thickened. Soften the gelatin in cold water and separate the tuna into flakes. Remove the hot mixture from the stove and add the softened gelatin to it. Stir until dissolved, then add the fish. Turn into a mold which has been rinsed with cold water and chill until firm (about 2 hours). Turn out onto a lettuce covered platter. Garnish with wedges of tomatoes and lemon arranged alternately around it. A generous amount of mayonnaise on top and sprinkle with chopped parsley.

DID YOU KNOW?—That when your cake comes out of the oven looking white and poorly baked, you can pop it under the broiler for a few minutes to achieve that desired shade of brown? . . . That dried cold cuts of meat added to salad really make it a main dish? This will answer all your problems: what to have for dinner, how to use up the roast and how to make a cool and speedy meal. . . That it's easier to sew rick-rack binding, using a machine, if you put a strip of wax paper between the presser foot and the binding? This prevents tangling and you can sew right through the wax paper.

FASHIONS—It's odd, isn't it, how the New Look made skirts longer and hair shorter . . . how moccasins went off and hats went on . . . Fall Preview: dressy dresses will be made of satin and lace over satin. Shoes will be opera pump style with toes and heels in. The Cuban heel will be most popular because it's high enough for your dressy ballet length skirts and yet low enough to dance comfortably all evening.

CUT FOOD COST—In these days when high prices govern the family menu, it is very difficult to provide both nourishment and variety without causing your budget to teeter dangerously. A boon to every person who shops and cooks is the United States Department of Agriculture Booklet, "Money Saving Main Dishes." It contains 150 tested recipes especially prepared to help you save food and money, and to enjoy nutritious zesty meals. You'll find suggestions for rounding out a meal, preparing box lunches, and pointers on shopping. You can obtain this booklet free by writing a post card to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

RUSSELL FARMER HAS 12 PROFITABLE EWES

Twelve lambs bought in the fall of 1945 have been a good investment for Ed Coffey of Russell county, said Farm Agent Joe Wilder. In 1946, the 12 yearling ewes had 13 lambs; when 2 years old, they had 18 lambs, and this past year they gave birth to 25 lambs. Mr. Coffey raised 24 of this year's crop, selling them at an average weight of 108 pounds for $29.90 per hundred weight, or $715.27. Ninety-nine pounds of wool from the ewes was sold for $47.52, or a total average of $63.52 per ewe. The feed bill for the flock was $47.

On the farm of Willie Lucas in Letcher county, 2-4 D applied to sumac bushes gave excellent results.

Fire Dept. Answers Questions

The Walton Fire Department, in answer to many queries, wishes to inform the people of the community which they serve as to the limits where they can go and the cost of protection.

The limits are: Crittenden on the South; Verona and Beaver on the West; Frogtown Road on the North; and Green Road on the East. This includes all places mentioned and all property within these limits.

The cost is $15.00 per year for the higher valued property on down to $5.00 per year for the lower valued. After the first year the cost drops to $5.00 per year for the higher value property, down to $1.00 per year for the lower valued, and continue there each year. The Department has approximately $20,000 worth of equipment which can be sent to any fire in its territory.

In the event the Department is called to a fire where the protection has not been paid on the property, the Department charge shall be 10% of the value of the property saved.

The members of the Department have decided to protect all property owners in the limits set up. However, if anyone interested in having this protection has not been contacted, they are urged to see some member of the Department as soon as possible.

The above release was issued by James R. Allen, Chief of the Walton Fire Department.

Tour Enjoyed By the Verona Homemakers

Recently a group of twenty-three Homemakers and children boarded a bus bound for Harrodsburg. On the way to Lexington, we decided to visit Calumet Farm, home of several famous race horses. There we visited a stable of broodmares and their foals, some of which look promising for the future. In another stable we saw Armed, the race horse which has won so much money, and his two-year-old whirling-away, truly a beautiful horse.

From the farm we went on, over Brooklyn Bridge (which the children enjoyed) through Shakerstown to the Old Fort at Harrodsburg, arriving there at 12:20 p. m. We had a basket lunch which we ate on the grounds, then went sight-seeing through the Fort and Museum. Most of us brought back souvenirs. It really is amazing how our forefathers lived in such tiny, cramped quarters; the two-story blockhouses with the gun slots cut in the walls, their only protection from the Indians. The log cabin in which Abraham Lincoln's parents were married and first lived, is being preserved at the Fort in a special brick building. In the Mansion Museum is a room containing pictures of Lincoln, and a replica of the pistol which fatally shot and killed Abe.

On our way home we went over to High Bridge and some of us listened to a sermon that was being preached at a camp meeting.

We arrived back at Verona about 7:45 p. m., with twelve hours of sight-seeing behind us. We were tired, but planning another tour next year; which may take us to Blue Licks Park and Limestone Caverns. A number of interesting places are yet to be seen in this beautiful Kentucky of ours, but some of the nicest places are a bit too far for one day's drive, such as Audubon Memorial Park at Henderson—or is it?—Pub. Ch.

Mrs. Irene Winans of Monticello, La. is visiting her cousins, Mrs. John Pruett and Mrs. T. C. Pruett.

ON "BAPTIST HOUR"

"Religious Tensions in Europe" will be the subject of The Baptist Hour for Sept. 26, with Dr. Arnold T. Ohrn, (left) Executive Secretary of the Baptist World Alliance as speaker, it has been announced by the Radio Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention, Atlanta, S. F. Lowe, Director.

Heard over Station WHAS, Louisville at 8:30 a. m., EST, or 7:30 p. m., CST. The Baptist Hour series "Christ Is Lord," will also feature Dr. Ohrn as speaker on October 3. His subject then will be "The Christian Message for the World Crisis."

FLYNN-ROUSE

The marriage of Miss Evelyn Flynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Flynn and Mr. Jack Rouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Rouse took place at the Methodist Church last Saturday evening at twilight in the presence of a church full of relatives and friends.

Mrs. Billy Adams presided at the piano and played several appropriate piano solos, as she played "All the Things You Are" the groom accompanied by his brother, Bud Rouse and Rev. Fred Nichols, who united the couple in a very impressive ceremony, came in from the side to an altar enhanced with white dallas and ferns and the glow of candle light to meet the bride and her sister, Francis, who came up the aisle from the front of the church.

After the ceremony the wedding party remained in the vestibule and received the good wishes of all those present.

A reception followed for the immediate families at the home of the bride. The couple slipped away in the Federal Bldg., Covington, part of the state and returned home on Thursday.

They plan to build a home this winter on Bedinger Ave.

Burlington Youth

Philip Yelton, Burlington, was among eighteen Kentucky high school students selected to receive $500 scholarships to the University of Kentucky under a plan developed by the State Highway Department, and the U. K. College of Engineering to train future highway engineers.

The University scholarship committee, acting in behalf of the State Highway Department, announced the names of the scholarship winners by highway districts. Yelton and other prospective highway engineers entered the University last week, and will continue their academic training throughout the school year. This plan will class the students as employees of the highway department and they will receive approximately $60 per month from the state.

In June, following the close of the school year, the student-employees will be transferred to field, laboratory or office duties with the department at regular pay rates to gain practical experience.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Marth and daughter Joe Ann of Detroit, Mich., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carlisle and son Guy, Glen. While here, they all visited the Boone County Airport and Coney Island.

Bob & Gene made it two up on Verona, Sunday at Florence when they copied the second game in the Benke League championship series, by a score of 11-10 in a nip-and-tuck battle right down to the wire.

Both starting pitchers were shelled from the mound in the early stages of the fray, but each did yeoman work with the stick. Each team was guilty of several miscues but it was really a good game of ball and a large crowd was present.

The third game of this "little world series" will be played Sunday, Sept. 26th at Verona, with action starting at 3:00 p. m. Verona now has her back to the wall and it is hard to think we can win. However, Bob & Gene can cop the crown by winning Sunday—so, we shall see, shall we?

Dish Apple Cheese Pie:6-8 green apples
1 cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons all purpose flour
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon butter
1 package pie crust mix
¾-1 cup grated yellow cheese
1½ tablespoons margarine Place the peeled sliced apples in a square dish 9"x9"x2". Combine the sugar, flour, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt and sprinkle over apples.
Add the lemon juice and dot with butter. Prepare the pie crust. Roll out slightly, sprinkle cheese over it, fold the dough and roll out slightly again. Add the margarine in small pieces, fold again, roll slightly, add the remaining cheese, fold and roll out to the size of the baking dish. Then cover the apples with the crust, press edge with fork and score the top. Bake for 40 minutes at 425 degrees F.ODDS AND ENDS—Keeping Jun-coats have the roomiest armholes you've ever seen on any children's of that Sis can do it herself. Best sleeves and shoulders will still fit and the coat can be worn as a fin-

Faith: A Family Tradition
Lesson for September 26, 1948

HERE IS a brief Bible quiz: What Christian man did Paul recommend to the Philippians as the one completely unselfish person he knew? When Paul needed a man to present his ideas to a "problem church," whom did he send? When Paul wanted reliable information about a church, on whose report did he depend? Whom did Paul call "sons" more often than any one else? The answer to all these questions is the same: Timothy.

Certainly a man whom the great Saint Paul found so congenial, so reliable, so unselfish and effective a Christian, is a man worth our careful attention. We ask this question about him: What made him what he was?

Faith at Home

SOME MEN have to leave home to find faith. But perhaps the happiest Christians, certainly the most fortunate, are those who cannot remember what it was not to have faith. It was the atmosphere they breathed as children. The first people they knew were Christians, prayer and faith were taken for granted, the name of Christ was heard only in reverence and love, never in jest or anger.

Timothy grew up in such a home. When he became a mature, working Christian he had no wasted years to regret, no wild oats to pull up. The faith of his adult mind was not scarred by the acid remains of earlier doubt. Timothy's life was all of one piece. He was born to faith, he grew up in it.

Homes can do a great deal for the children who live in them. But nothing else — physical health, peace, culture, friends, ambition — nothing else is quite so valuable a gift or quite so lasting as faith.

In later years faith may have to be pounded into a person or shocked into him; but in childhood faith is woven in, welded in, and that is as it should be. Happy the Christian who does not have to turn his back on his childhood when he turns his face to Christ!

Book of Wisdom

"RELIGION cannot be taught, it can only be caught," is an old saying. It is partly true, for you cannot set any dozen people at random down on a bench and teach them into faith. If teaching religion were as simple as that, then every Sunday school could guarantee that every one of its graduates would become a saint. Nevertheless, religion can partly be taught, for in a book there may be crystallized the faith of many a generation. A book may concentrate and preserve the insight, the inspiration, the assurance of men and women who though dead yet speak.

Living with books of faith is like living with many families of faith at the same time. Such a book is the Bible. And it was the Bible, or so much of it as had been written, the Old Testament, which was the one book in Timothy's boyhood home. Through the Scriptures, the boy's mother taught her son not merely her own faith but that of many a generation before her time.

In our own day, parents may feel that they come too far short of being saints, so they hesitate about urging their perhaps dimly-felt religion on their children. Yet in our Bible there is open to all fathers and mothers a means of placing their children in an atmosphere of intense faith.

Personal religious genius is rare; but even though you may be anything but a genius, you still can bring to your child the treasures of the Bible, product of the highest inspiration and insight the world has known.

Women of the Family

TIMOTHY'S FATHER was a Greek, probably not a Christian. He and Timothy may never have understood each other. It was the women of the family who molded the boy's mind and heart, his mother, Eunice, and his grand mother, Lois.

It is always so. It is the women of a family who have most influence for faith or against it. The boy knows his mother before he knows any one else. She teaches him to talk, he absorbs her attitudes and ideas even before he understands them. If father and mother differ in religion, it is likely that children will follow mother rather than father.

SPREADING BORAX BENEFITS ALFALFA

Reporting on experiments in using borax in 60 Kentucky counties, S. C. Jones of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics believes most farmers should spread 20 pounds of borax an acre on their alfalfa fields.

Borax on alfalfa this season was especially beneficial where there was insufficient rain. The alfalfa remained green where it was applied, and there was increased yield of hay.

Twenty pounds of borax to the acre would help alfalfa for at least four years, Mr. Jones said. He cautioned farmers not to use more than 20 to 25 pounds to the acre, as too heavy applications might injure alfalfa and other crops that followed it.

HENS EAT BLUEGRASS AND LADINO CLOVER

Even hens relish bluegrass and ladino clover, according to tests made at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. Hens grazing succulent bluegrass ate 20% less mash, and those running on ladino clover required 15% less mash.

However, bluegrass must be young and tender to be attractive to hens. After bluegrass had shed its seed and the leaves had turned yellow, hens refused to eat it and there was no saving in consumption of mash.

It was noted that hens ate only the ladino clover leaves and the short upper part of the stems. These parts contain much protein.

FLORENCE NEWS

Miss Sally Souther, daughter of W. Keene Souther of Florence, became the bride of William Floyd of Akron, Ohio, September 4, 1948 in a very impressive ceremony at the Richmond (Ky.) Methodist Church, Rev. Johnson, pastor, officiating. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Rogers Knox of Florence. The bride was attractively attired in a dark green coat suit with matching accessories and wore a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Knox, who is the bride's sister, wore a light tan two-piece suit with matching accessories and her corsage was of white rosebuds. Following the ceremony the happy couple departed for

We join in wishing them happiness and prosperity as they embark upon the sea of matrimony. The W. S. C. S. of the Florence Methodist Church met at the church Sept. 7. The president, Mrs. Paul Chaney, presided over the business session, during which various reports were given. Mrs. C. S. Estimated 5,000
Watch Face-Lifting

Men and machines swarmed over the farm of Lassing Huey in Boone County, Wednesday of last week, and in one day completely made over the farm, while thousands of visitors watched the transformation in amazement.

A month ago, Huey's farm was a typical Boone County farm, no worse perhaps than many, but decidedly eroded and in need of soil conservation. Today it is a good example of how thousands of old, worn-out Kentucky farms can be brought back into productivity.

To see this miracle, an estimated 5,000 people came early and stayed late. Automobiles, trucks and buses covered acres of parking space. Press and radio representatives were present. Photographers made pictures, and agricultural experts observed and directed.

More important was the volunteer workers and the $150,000 worth of farm equipment, without which the job simply could not have been done. But done it was. Work got under way at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning. By 11 o'clock various pieces of equipment were already idle, their job completed. By three o'clock, much of the Caravan had been assembled, and was rolling down Highway 25 enroute to another face-lifting job in Fleming County, Friday.

Achieved in the one day was a complete far mremaking, a soil conservation program established that would take the average farmer from 3 to 5 years to accomplish. Farmers present estimated that in the process, the farm's value had doubled. Conservation practices established included the construction of soil holding terraces on cultivated land, diversion ditches on pasture land, pasture land establishment, a farm pond built, cultivated land limed and fertilized, an old pond torn down and smoothed out, and many others.

Preparations for the face-lifting had been under way for some time. Several months ago the State Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors began casting a-bout for some means of speeding up soil conservation in the state. Some one came up with the idea of assembling a lot of heavy farm equipment. (Continued on Page 5)

All-Time Best Seller

Lesson for October 3, 1948

IF ALL the Bibles sold in one year by one manufacturer, the American Bible society, were piled on top of one another, flat—not endwise—that pile of Bibles and testaments would be 28 miles high. In 1947 that firm put out the antonishous total of 9,310,439 Bibles, testaments or portions. During the first 125 years of the society's existence, 305,379,217 copies of Scripture were printed and sold by them; this would make one shelf 870 miles long.

Dr. Foreman

The Bible is the best selling book in the world. No other book is in its class.

Not to know the Bible is not to know the most widely read book in the world. The American Bible society publishes it in only 167 languages, but parts of it have been translated into as many as 1,000 languages and dialects.

Many Authors

SUCH popularity must be deserved. There are many reasons why the Bible continues to be, year after year, the all-time best seller. But one of the reasons is its impressive variety. It is not one book, it is a library of books. Whatever your mood, whatever your need, there is a page in the Bible, somewhere, for you.

A Christian will try seriously to appreciate the whole Bible and not merely one or two parts of it. Yet there is such variety in it that invariably some persons are attracted by one feature of it while another feature makes stronger appeal to others.

Our studies these next three months will be in "The Literature of the Bible" and each week we shall be noticing a different feature. This week we give a thought to the tremendous variety of the Bible, along with its underlying unity.

Many Types

LOOKING through the Bible you find all varieties of literary types; you find poetry and prose; stories, essays, sermons, biographies, dramas; rhapsodies, love songs, funeral dirges and battle hymns.

Here are pages as prosaic as a telephone book and here are pages more exciting than any fiction. Here are simple, straightforward ideas that a child can understand as soon as he understands the words and here are mysteries so profound that the world's mightiest and boldest minds shrink back in awe.

The Bible is not like a piece of music played on a single instrument, like a tune on a piccolo; it is more like an immense symphony—the more often we listen to it, the more we hear in it.

Many Times

NO ONE knows exactly how long it took for the Bible to be written. Let us suppose that the earliest parts came from the pen (or stylus) of Moses, and the latest part from about 100 years after Christ (John and the Revelation). If Moses flourished around 1200 B. C., that would mean that the Bible was completed 13 centuries after it was begun.

In 13 centuries much can happen, and much did. There is hardly any circumstance or crisis, there is scarcely any time, however hum-drum or thrilling in the Bible. Its writers were inspired men; they knew God. But they also knew the times in which they lived, and thus can speak to ours.

One Theme

FOR all the vast variety of the Bible, there is in it a deep and lofty unity. It is bound together by its mighty purpose, which throbs in the heart's blood of every man who wrote a line of it. That purpose is to make God real to man, and to bring man to God. The writers of the Bible may have had their lighter moments, but they did not write these pages then.

They wrote under the irresistible impulse, born of the Holy Spirit, to make plain to other men what God had revealed to them.

So as you come to the Bible, remember its purpose is not to make you admire or revere it as a book; its great purpose is to be transparent, a window through which you shall see God.

CONSERVATION DAY WELL ATTENDED

ment in a Caravan, take it about over the state, and hold a series of field days at which complete soil and water conservation programs would be established in one day.

The Caravan left Louisville, Sept. 18. The Huey farm was the first one to be visited. Eleven more farms over the state will be remodeled before the Caravan ends in LeKue County, Oct. 19. The 30 days the Caravan will be on the road has been proclaimed Conservation Month by Gov. Clements.

At 1:30 Wednesday afternoon, visitors assembled at the New Haven school for a speaking program, just after lunch had been served by the New Haven P. T. A.

Dr. T. S. Bule, Regional Conservator of the Soil Conservation Service, of Spartanburg, S. C., was the principal speaker. Dr. Bule told the gathering about the need for soil conservation in Kentucky and pointed out that if we shrink the responsibility of safeguarding our remaining land resources and keeping it permanently productive, the penalty will be a declining economy for everyone.

"A fact-lifting demonstration like this one is a mighty fine thing," Bule pointed out. "Here on a single farm visitors are seeing a complete soil conservation program established in a single day. It would require longer for the average farmer to do this, but it can be done, and in most cases with the equipment found on the average farm."

A final word of recognition might be given the contributors who made the demonstration possible. The machinery and equipment was provided by: Austin-Western Co., B. F. Avery Plow Co., J. I. Case Co., John Deere Co., Ford Monarch Equipment Co., International Harvester Co., Roy C. Whayne Supply Co., Brandegee Machinery Co., Williams Tractor Co., Lehr Equipment Co., Thurston Cooke Equipment Co., and fertilizer contributors—Federal Chemical Co.

and Armour Fertilizer Works. To them and to all others who helped to make the demonstration a success, and to the district supervisors and others who contributed time and effort, Mr. and Mrs. Huey express their appreciation and thanks.

Reynolds, program director, who gave information on Style Trends, materials available and suitable for fall and winter wear, and also led the recreation period.

KEEPING HOUSE

PARTY FAVORS FOR JUNIOR—When you give a party for the small fry, make your own party favors. You'll not only save money but you'll delight the kiddies for they can eat the favors when they are finished playing with them! How come? 'Cause they're made of Tootsie Rolls! Try these simple simple ideas: a sail boat, an animal and "Sitting Bull." Once you've started, you'll soon be having plenty of original ideas. Here they are:

Sailboat—Form a raft by strapping three Tootsie Rolls together with a pipe cleaner. Cut a triangular piece of white paper about 4" high to represent a sail. Make holes in the long side and run another pipe cleaner (mast) through them. Attach the mast to the pipe cleaner which secures the three Tootsie Rolls forming the raft.

Animal—Bend two pipe cleaners in half and place over ends of a Tootsie Roll. Twist underneath until secure. Now the Tootsie Roll has four legs. Cut pipe cleaners to the desired length to form the head and tail. Pipecleaners may be covered with crepe paper to add to the colorful effect. Example: brown crepe paper twisted around pipe cleaners forming legs, head and tail, with tan crepe paper paper on the back to form a saddle and stirrups, make a horse. Use scotch tape to keep the crepe paper in place.

Sitting Bull—Place 2 pipe cleaners over the ends of a Tootsie Roll and attach as above. Stand the roll on end and fold the pipe cleaners to represent crossed arms and legs.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK OCTOBER 3 to 9

Slide the arms down to the correct height. Use bits of bright crepe paper to make Indian Head-dress and skirt. Fasten with scotch tape. If water colors are available, use in thick consistency to paint face.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK—Peach Cobbler—
3 cups sliced canned peaches
¼ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

2 tablespoons melted butter
1 cup of biscuit mix or half of your favorite recipe.

Put the peaches into an 8-inch square baking dish and sprinkle the sugar, lemon juice and melted butter over them. Add the cinnamon to the biscuit mix; then use the prescribed amount of liquid. Roll out on a floured board to the size of the baking dish. Cover the peaches with this dough and bake at 350 degrees fahrenheit for 40 minutes. Serve either warm or cold with cream—plain or whipped.

HELPFUL HINTS—After removing a set of buttons from a garment string them on a hairpin and twist the ends together. The buttons will be together when needed, and none will be lost. . . . A hand mirror is a good substitute for a dry cleaner's glass-top spotting table on which garments are placed to remove stains. The mirror keeps the cleaning fluid in contact with the fabric for a longer time, dissolving the stain and removing it quickly.

FALL EGGS VALUABLE

Kentucky eggs bring more the last six months of the year than they do during the first six months, says E. T. Wightman of the College of Agriculture & Home Economics. With fewer pullets on farms and higher meat prices, the prospects for egg prices look particularly good this fall, he adds. He believes eggs will be high enough to warrant good housing and feeding.

L. King of Pine Mountain in Letcher county now has 80 hives of bees.

STAFFORDSBURG

Rev. Wheary preached two very fine sermons here Sunday of last week. Then he and Mrs. Wheary spent the afternoon visiting the sick and shut-ins of the community. Their coming is as a ray of sunshine in the sick room and among the convalescent. If all of us would try as hard as our pastors, we would see some real growth and a richer life for all.

Mrs. J. B. Richardson, Miss Nannie Ballinger and Wayne Richardson spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Fennell of Hamilton, Ohio. Miss Ballinger plans to spend a few days and help Reva, who is suffering from an infection in her limb. Quite a few from here visited the airport to see the display on Saturday and Sunday, of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Palmer and son spent Sunday with Mrs. Daisy Richardson and Miss Helen Richardson.

Larry Ray Richardson, who has been ill, is reported to be feeling better at this time.

The homemakers' club held their first meeting of the year with Mrs. Geo. Gasker on Sept. 27th.

Come to Sunday School, we need you and we think you need the Sunday School. Let's all work together for the most important of all things—"a good life."

SCHOOL BUS LAW TO BE ENFORCED

Commissioner of State Police Guthrie F. Crowe today announced a policy of vigorous enforcement of the law which requires motorists to stop their vehicles when there is a school bus ahead either receiving or discharging children.

The law requires motorists to come to a complete stop in such circumstances in residential and business districts, said Crowe, and only permits passage of school buses outside those districts provided the passing motorist drives cautiously and does not exceed 10 miles an hour in speed.

"Safety of our school children is of paramount concern," Crowe added. "We intend to enforce this law vigorously, without fear or favor. Safety of the public, as well as school children, requires it." He added, too, that his force also intended to be on the lookout for drunken drivers as a menace to safety.

"It is our intention to handle the traffic problem as expeditiously as possible," he continued "but it is also our function to protect the traveling public against those who would endanger the lives of others."

LITTLE SOUTH FORK

All the farmers have been busy cutting tobacco.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Scudder and children spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Baker and children and Mr. Charlie Baker.

Shirley Sutton was a Sunday guest of Misses Sally and Bonnie Baker, recently.

Rev. Don Smith, Charlie Sutton, Nelson Swango, Mae Alphin, Sally Alphin and Bobby Young attended the State fair in Louisville.

Donald Ray and Robert G. Baker spent Saturday night with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Baker, and daughters.

Several from this community attended the Air show at the Boone County Airport, Sept. 19th.

Mrs. Julius Sutton spent Sunday with Mrs. Rea Scudder.

Rev. Don Smith was the dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Stahl, Sunday of last week.

The children in this community are glad that school has started.

Thirty-seven farmers in Estill county seeded 69 acres of alfalfa in August, after having had soil tested before buying seed and fertilizer.

Where John Freeman of Estill county failed to sow cover crops on his tobacco-land last year, the tobacco plants were 18 inches shorter than on the enriched area.

Land Bank Loans Are Geared To The Capacity of the Farm to Pay!

- * The dollars that will pay your loan come out of the soil of your farm as so many bushels of corn, so many pounds of tobacco.
- * Even when crop yields are the same, dollar production per acre may be high one year, low the next.
- * That's why Land Bank loan values are based on the NORMAL earning power of the land—average yields and normal prices—not too high, not too low.
- * That's why the land banks were able to meet the needs of hundreds of thousands of farmers in the depression.
- * That's why we can say . . .

REMODELING PLANS

FURNISHED FARMERS
Due to high prices of new buildings and equipment, the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, is stressing remodeling and general improvement of houses and equipment now on farms.

During the past year 2,886 plans were furnished farmers in Kentucky and 247 sent to farmers in 37 other states. Many plans also were given out at a series of equipment shows held in 25 counties and attended by more than 23,000 persons. Special plans of walk-through types of milking parlors were prepared to assist farmers in reducing labor and building costs on dairy farms. Educational work was done on hay driers to reduce harvesting losses and to improve the quality of feed for livestock.

Russell county farmers have set a goal of 3,000 acres of permanent pasture seeded in 1948.

Bob & Gene Down Vets 5-4 Sunday

The Bob & Gene nine notched a 5-4 triumph over the Boone County Vets, Sunday at Florence, in the opener of a three-game series for the Boone County semi-pro baseball crown.

Eddie Arzen and Leo Schmidt panned the winner's offensive with two hits each, while Sox Benson and Bowman belted out two hits each for the Veterans.

Gene Bussman twirled for the winners and scattered 11 bingles. He fanned six batters and issued two walks. Buford Smith and Vic Donowski divided pitching duties for the losers.

The victors were credited with a triple play in the fifth inning when Bowman hit a hard grounder to Bussman with the bases loaded. Bussman fired the ball to the plate forcing Charles Benson, the catcher threw the ball to first retiring the batter, and the first baseman returned the ball to the plate where Sox Benson was out attempting to score from second base.

Bob & Gene won the Northern Kentucky Benke Semi-Pro League championship, and the Boone County VFW team was a member of the Buckeye League.

The second game in the series is to be played Sunday, October 10th at the Florence diamond, starting at 2:30 p. m.

Walton Homemakers

The Walton Homemakers will meet Friday, October 8th in the home of Mrs. H. F. Mann.

All members are expected to be present, as this is the beginning of the fall year, with the lesson on Chair Caning.

Real Estate Transfers

Harry F. Johnson reports the following real estate transactions:

A house and lot in Crittenden belonging to C. K. Doud and wife, sold to Mr. and Mrs. E. Bales of Verona. Three acres and house at Pleasantburg, owned by Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Bridges, sold to Mr. and Mrs. Milton Perkins of Covington.

The Enos Ransom estate, sold at auction, located 2 miles south of Crittenden, brought $222 per acre, and was bought by Ira Cornelius and wife of Crittenden.

KENTON GARDEN CLUB HOLDS OCTOBER MEET

Mrs. William Waltermann, Horticultural Chairman of the Kenton County Garden and Cultural Club, explained planting and care of fall bulbs at the monthly meeting of club members at the home of Mrs. John R. Loomis on Hempling Road, near Morning View.

A showing of flower containers and accessories for making flower arrangements was conducted by Mrs. S. S. Rich of Charleston, West Virginia.

The flower show scheduled to be held at the meeting was called off because of the unsatisfactory condition of flowers due to lack of rain. Mrs. Loomis was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Thomas L. Bishop, in extending hospitalities to the group. There were 24 members and three guests—Mrs. Janet Cain of Freetport, Ill., Mrs. Clifford Cornelius and Mrs. Carl Bishop—in attendance.

Attending Transylvania

Two Walton students entered Transylvania College, Lexington, at the recent opening of the fall quarter, it was announced by Transylvania President, Raymond McLain. Captain Conrad served in the Pacific theatre of operations during World War II. He received his commission as a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve in November, 1942, and was promoted to first lieutenant in August, 1943.

Captain Conrad was a member of the famed First Marine Division and participated in the campaigns at Tulagi, Guadalcanal, Marshalls and Pearl Harbor. A Potent Weapon--- Wire Staples "Boys will be boys," is an old adage, and we agree, but once in a while the boys tend to get out of hand and they have to be "spoken to," by the parents—or at least they should be. We recently learned that some of Walton's youngsters—not satisfied with paper ways any longer—were using wire staples as a means of fun and recreation, said staples being powered by a rubber band and fired at any likely target. We think this is going a little too far, and suggest that parents and merchants do what they can to prevent these missiles from falling in to the improper hands—namely the kids who shoot them. This is really dangerous—an eye could easily be seriously damaged, and the sight probably lost, in a direct hit, and besides that, they hurt, wherever they hit. If you don't think so, try sticking one in your leg some day. We trust the guilty youths realize what they are doing and mend their ways before any damage is done—or before the police have to be kept on the lookout for such violators. What say boys, let's disperse with the staples?

Literary Club to Meet

The regular October meeting of the Walton Women's Literary Club will be held at the home of Mrs. C. W. Ransler on Tuesday, October 12 at 2:30 p. m.

PINER HOMEMAKERS

The Piner Homemakers Club, with 17 members present, met at the home of Mrs. Dewey Flisk on Sept. 22 at 10:30 a. m. for the first meeting of the new year.

The following officers and chairmen for the year were installed: Mrs. Dewey Flisk, president; Mrs. W. C. Woods, vice president and citizenship chairman; Mrs. Willard Shropshire, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Robert Elliott, program chairman; Mrs. C. C. Gross, horticulture chairman; Mrs. Elmer Spaulding, publicity chairman; Mrs. W. R. Brown, reading chairman.

Mrs. John Dwyer, the delegate to the Fall style show at Coppin's, gave an interesting and instructive talk on "What the Well Dressed Woman will Wear." She used to illustrate her talk, style pictures and samples of materials.

Mrs. Willard Benson demonstrated to the members the making of new lamp shades. She had to display the material with which to work and the finished product.

After a short report from each of the committee chairmen and the president, the meeting was adjourned.

Celebrates 6th Birthday

Master Wesley Prather was honored with a birthday party, celebrating his sixth birthday, by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Prather, Jr. Last Wednesday afternoon at their home on Alta Vista Drive.

Guests were: Gary and Spencer Taylor, Larry and Sheila Warner, Perrin and Bobby Powers, Terry, Bonnie and Greg Struve, Mary Elizabeth Grubbs, Norma Jean Neumeister, Lexie DeMolay, Nola Rose Yates, Irma Rectör, Linda Joyce Bredwin, Dora Roney, Ernie McLoney, Mrs. Rickman Powers, Mrs. A. D. Warner, Mrs. O. J. Struve, Mrs. Blanche Franks, Mrs. William Bredwin, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Taylor, and Mr. and Mrs. Prather.

Rural residents of this area are being urged to observe Fire Prevention Week, proclaimed by President Truman, October 3-9. Fire hazards are more numerous on farms than in towns and cities, and farm fires are frequently more serious because organized fire-fighters are farther away.

Latest census figures show that about one-fifth of the people of the United States live on farms, while latest fire statistics show that one-third of the people who are killed by fire are farm residents. In 1947 fires caused about 11,000 deaths, 3,500 of them on farms.

The national fire prevention association lists eight hazards which are responsible for nearly all fire in rural areas:

- 1—Careless smoking habits.
 - 2—Accumulation of debris.
 - 3—Improper storage of gasoline and kerosene. Flammable cleaning fluids.
 - 4—Children playing with matches.
 - 5—Dry or defective lamps and lanterns. Dirty engines and machinery. Dirty heating plants and chimneys.
 - 6—Defective electrical equipment and frayed cords.
 - 7—Flammable wood shingle roofs.
 - 8—Improperly cured hay in barns.
- Don't be careless or indifferent about fire hazards. Fire is always ready to accept your invitation to destroy you—so don't invite it. Fire safety is easy—just help yourself by eliminating the common fire hazard during Fire Prevention Week.

Farmers Are Urged to Have Soil Tested

Farmers in Boone County are urged to bring soil samples to the County Agent's office for testing.

The need for lime and phosphate fertilizer differs between sections of the county and even between fields on a farm. A general recommendation for liming or applying fertilizer does not always meet the needs of an individual field. A soil test gives an accurate indication of the amounts of lime, phosphate and potash that are available to the crop grown. After a test of the soil, an accurate fertilizing program can be established that will meet the needs of the crop without wasting expensive fertilizer.

Soil samples should be collected by taking equal amounts of soil from 8 or 10 spots in the field. Remove the grass or weeds and then, using a spade make an opening having one straight side to plow sole depth. From this straight side remove a slice of soil of uniform thickness. Scatter the samples together, mix them well and take out one-half pint of the mixture for testing. Samples may be taken at any time when the soil is dry enough to plow.

Hopewell Circle to Meet

The Gladys Hopewell Circle of the Walton Baptist Church will meet for its monthly meeting on October 14th at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Vera Wright on South Main Street. The topic for the month will be, "The New Today," and Mrs. Ed Hankinson is in charge of the program.

October 4-H Schedule

First series of fall meetings of the 4-H Clubs started October 4th. At these meetings plans are being made for the local 4-H Achievement Days to be held in November. All 4-H record books are to be turned in at the October meetings. The remaining schedule follows: Thursday, October 7—New Haven at 2:30 p. m.
Friday, October 8—Florence, 9:00 a. m., and Burlington (Colored) at 10:30 a. m.
Monday, October 11—Grant, 9:00 a. m., and Petersburg at 10:30 a. m.
Tuesday, October 12—Hamilton at 9:30 a. m.
Wednesday, October 13—Verona, 1:30 p. m., and Walton, 3:00 p. m.

Bushel Boosting Soil Management Methods Cut Production Costs, Raise Profit Margin

More Bushels Per Acre Mean Lower Production Costs.

CHICAGO — Higher production costs now biting deeper into farm profits, emphasize the need for farmers to get their land in shape to produce more bushels at lower unit costs per acre, declared the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement issued here.

"Cost of production has caught up with farm prices and any downward trend will hit farm prices first," the statement says.

The committee declares that "greater crop producing efficiency is the answer to lower farm prices and soaring production costs."

"The factor that governs profits is the margin between what you get for your crops and what it costs you to produce them," the statement says.

"You can widen that margin and increase your profits by good soil management practices."

"That means using every possible means of building and maintaining soil fertility. It includes 'put-back' steps and 'holding' operations. Vital among the 'put-back' steps is rebuilding the soil organic matter by growing deep-rooted legumes and grasses in the rotation and feeding them generously with nitrogen and potash as needed. The roots of alfalfa and sweet clover will pry open tight soils. The organic matter added by roots and tops will repair broken-down soil structure. You can add to the organic matter by saving all barnyard manure and putting it back on the soil, and plowing under corn stalks, straw and other crop left-overs."

"Your 'holding' operations can include contouring, grass waterways and terracing if necessary. These will save moisture, topsoil and plant nutrients."

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Riley entertained on Sunday in honor of Mr. Riley's father's birthday. Among those enjoying the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. "Happy" Riley, Mr. and Mrs. Winford Riley and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Kelley and baby and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hanna, the honoree and host and hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Keeney and on Donald spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Hoffman on Carlisle Road.

The Homemakers club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gadker on Tuesday, Sept. 28 for the first meeting of the new year. We were disappointed because Miss Byerly was not with us, but had a good attendance of members and friends. Most of the day was taken up with reports and making plans for the coming year. We plan 100 percent attendance at the annual meeting to be held October 28th at Summit Hills Country Club. Our next meeting is scheduled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hill of Ft. Thomas. Among those enjoying the delightful luncheon served by the hostess were Mrs. Stella Richardson, Mrs. L. J. Rapp, Mrs. Edith Ware, Mrs. Geo. Klein, Mrs. Opal Shaw, Mrs. Della Williams, Mrs. Eluch Rich, Mrs. Denver Binder and granddaughter, Joan Henry, Mrs. J. A. Keeney, Mrs. J. J. Barnett, Mrs. Mabel Vanlandingham, Mrs. Emil Stein and Mr. Gadker.

Come to Sunday School next Sunday—our good attendance record fell this week.

LADINO CLOVER STOPS EROSION

That ladino clover controls sheet erosion is seen on the farm of R. R. Richards in Madison county. When erosion began in a field of Korean clover and grass, Mr. Richards seeded the hillside to ladino clover in the spring of 1947, using a pound of seed to the acre. This year the clover completely filled the small ditches and spots where sheet erosion had begun. In addition, said Farm Agent J. L. Miller, the ladino clover furnished more pasture than any other part of the field.

Aluminum roofing used on hog houses in Daviess county was said to have provided good insulation against the summer sun.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN
International Union of Christian Schools Lectures

SCRIPTURE: Genesis 11:27-32:11.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Hebrews 11:1-10.

God's View of People
Lesson for October 10, 1948

"YOU can learn more about human nature from reading the Bible than from living in New York," said a Yale professor who had tried it both ways. He was right; for in New York you are likely to see your neighbors only on the outside, while in the Bible you are introduced to people on the inside.

One great value of the Bible is its plain stories about people, all sorts of people—simple, great, wise, foolish, saints and sinners. They lived thousands of miles from here, and thousands of years ago. They dressed differently and many of them spoke in languages now dead. Yet somehow they live in these inspired stories.

Saints
ONE of the great biographies of the Bible is that of Abraham. If you will read it in Genesis you will see it is not like one of our modern biographies; it does not follow a continuous line, but consists of short incidents strung together sometimes without connection.

It is more like an album of pictures than like a movie. Yet putting all the pictures together we get an impression of a remarkable man.

Indeed, Abraham was one of the most remarkable men who ever lived. Without a church, without a Bible, without prophet or priest or tradition, born in a nation and a family that "worshiped other gods," as Joshua said later, somehow Abraham came to know that there is but one God, and not only to know that as a fact but to know that God as a friend. (In fact, Abraham's name among the Arabs to this day is "The Friend.") We must call Abraham one of the great religious geniuses of all human history.

Yet he does not stand alone. The Bible is a book of saints; the letter to the Hebrews calls the roll of some, and ends by saying time is too short to name them all.

Now a saint is not a person who lives totally without sin. A saint is one in whose life goodness is stronger than evil; a saint is one who actually lives as a friend of God, for whom God is the central fact in all his life.

Build Up Your Soil
FOUR LEAF POWDERED ROCK PHOSPHATE

You can build the organic matter and nitrogen, as well as the phosphorus of your soil ... by applying FOUR LEAF Powdered Rock Phosphate and growing a legume in your rotation. Legumes feed hungrily on powdered rock phosphate, grow luxuriantly, leave roots and residues rich in nitrogen from the free air! Phosphated legumes and following crops grow increased residues to build the organic matter of the soil—make it easier to work and increase its water holding capacity. This is the effective, inexpensive way to bigger crops and richer pastures.

Sinners

THESE are no whitewashed plaster saints, the great and small figures of the Bible stories. They come before us just as they were. Abraham, for example, at times was a coward, a liar, a bigamist, a slave-holder.

We must not suppose that everything any character in the Bible did was right or was right today. The writers simply tell the stories, seldom using adjectives like "bad" or "good" or "nobis" or "mean." We are left to make our own judgments.

We are shown what effects sin has on men, we see how evil spreads by suggestion and imitation, we see how temptation works. God inspired the biographers; but he does not inspire men to tell lies or to cover up evil by calling it good. So do not be shocked to find that even a saint like Abraham had feet of clay. The important things about him are the good, not the bad.

The Light That Shines

FURTHERMORE, when you read these Bible biographies, you can trace a very interesting story through them all: namely the story of the human understanding of Right and Wrong.

But in Old Testament times, as in the case of Abraham, we must remember they were in the dawn-years before the sunlight of Christ had risen. Some of the things Abraham did would get him into jail nowadays; but some of those very acts were then the mark of a gentleman.

Sometimes when you are discouraged and think the world is growing worse, all you need to do is to think back to some of these Old Bible stories. What the best people did then, is now by Christians seem to be not always good.

The human race has progressed, and nowhere more than in its knowledge of what is right to do. And even so, a man like Abraham, as good and great as he was, shines with an even brighter light across the centuries, challenging us to rise above our times as he often rose above his own.

GIVES NEW LOOK TO OLD PARISIAN SUIT

A lady's suit with the new fall look, made from one bought in Paris, France, prior to 1890, shows the thrift of Oldham county homemakers who know how to turn out professional looking garments at home. Recognizing the quality of a blue broadcloth suit to be sold at auction, Mrs. Charles Patrick of the Pewee Homemakers Club bought it last spring. After cleaning it, she made it into a suit for herself. On display at the Oldham County Fair, it aroused considerable interest. Another example of thrift and artistic ability was seen in a hooked rug made by Mrs. L. J. Brown, 75 years old. She designed her rug pattern and selected the colors to be used in it.

Clem Greenwell of Davies county estimated that he will harvest 3,000 pounds of 17A tobacco per acre on four acres.

Of 200 pecan trees in Fulton county grafted last spring, about 85% are living, some of the grafts having a growth of seven feet.

Social People

It seems clear to me that God designed us to live in society—just as He has given the bees the honey; and as our social system could not subsist without the sense of justice and injustice. He has given us the power to acquire that sense.

Our Creator would never have made such lovely days, and have given us the deep hearts to enjoy them, above and beyond all thought, unless we were meant to be immortal.—Hawthorne.

Christianity is not a theory or speculation, but a life and a living process.—Coleridge.

FARM BUREAU PICNIC

The Boone County Farm Bureau held its annual picnic at the fair grounds, Burlington, on Saturday, Oct. 2nd. Cool weather hampered the crowd, but those present enjoyed an excellent address by Mr. Paul Betcher, secretary of the Cincinnati Pure Milk Co-op.

Mr. Betcher discussed the farm price support program. The Associated Women of the Farm Bureau provided an excellent meal in the form of a basket lunch. Games were held for children and gate prizes were given to all.

Here's how the Self-D-Froster works!

This handsome electric clock, mounted on the refrigerator door, turns the mechanism of the Self-D-Froster at midnight, switches it on after the coating of frost has melted.

Defrost water is carried away into the sealed drain pan, which is located and easily removable for emptying at your convenience.

Defrost water never collects in the cold pack... so there's no need to remove your meats. Sealed Giant Ice Cubes freeze.

FIRE FACTS—

Every year fire kills about 11,000 people—more than half of them women and children . . . kills 3500 people in farm fires and destroys rural property worth about $85,000,000 (25,000 barns alone).

The farmers' annual loss from fire will build about 20,000 homes of a value of $5,000 each, enough to house a population of 250,000 people. His annual loss will build 40,000 barns at $2,500 each and these structures, stood end to end, would form an unbroken wall 500 miles in length. The replacement of the buildings destroyed requires the cutting of 5,000 acres of U. S. forests each year.

There are 630,000,000 acres of forest land in the U. S. yet fire lays waste to 30,000,000 acres of our forests annually with a direct loss of $33,000,000. Only ten out of every 100 forest fires in the U. S. are caused by lightning; the other 90 are man-made and man-caused mainly by careless smokers and campers.

Each year about 300 billions of matches are consumed in the U. S. alone or 850 millions daily. This means that on the average, 600,000 flames are started every minute. Each of these flames holds the possibility of causing a disastrous fire. "Matches have heads but no brains. When you use THEIR heads, use your brains."

REMODELING PLANS FURNISHED FARMERS

Due to high prices of new buildings and equipment, the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, is stressing remodeling and general improvement of houses and equipment now on farms.

During the past year 2,896 plans were furnished farmers in Kentucky and 247 sent to farmers in 37 other states. Many plans also were given out at a series of equipment shows held in 25 counties and attended by more than 23,000 persons.

Special plans of walk-through types of milking parlors were prepared to assist farmers in reducing labor and building costs on dairy barns. Educational work was done on hay driers to reduce harvesting losses and to improve the quality of feed for livestock.

In the Jefferson County No. 1 Artificial Breeding Cooperative, 2,000 cows were bred last year.

"Test, Don't Guess"
Before Liming Soil,
Agronomists Advise

CHICAGO—"Test, don't guess" when you plan to lime your soil, advises the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement made public here.

"Liming is the keystone of any well-planned soil building program," the statement points out. "Lime increases the efficiency of fertilizers. It sweetens acid soils and makes possible the growth of soil-building deep-rooted legumes."

"But be sure your soil needs lime before you apply it, and find out how much it needs."

"The safest course is to have your soil tested for its lime needs. County agricultural agents, vocational agricultural teachers or members of the agronomy staffs of state colleges and experiment stations are glad to co-operate.

"Liming is just one member of a soil building team. It has to be supported by others, if crop yields are to be increased, tillage improved and soil structure rebuilt. Other members of the team include generous use of phosphate and potash fertilizers, deep-rooted legumes regularly in the rotation, and the return to the soil of all possible animal manure and crop aftermath."

LISTS SMALL GRAINS

BEST FOR KENTUCKY

A College of Agriculture and Home Economics list of small grains recommended for Kentucky includes Balbo rye. This rye makes more rapid growth than the old varieties of white or northern rye and is a heavy seed producer.

Kentucky No. 1 is given as the best barley, and is the only one eligible for certification. It is the most winter-resistant kind and produces good quality grain. In the extreme southern part of the state, Jackson No. 1, a Tennessee development, did well the past two seasons. Fulwin and Forkedear are the most winter-hardy and dependable winter oats. Both are eligible for certification. In extreme southern counties Fulgrain and Victor grain survived recent winters. They yield well and have stiffer straw than Fulwin or Forkedear but are less winter-hardy.

Seed is available for such wheats as Thorne, Clarkan, Currell's Profitic, Posey and Bluestem. Other recommended varieties are Vigo and Redheart, but seed of these is scarce.

Land Bank Loans Are Geared To The Capacity of the Farm to Pay!

* The dollars that will pay your loan come out of the soil of your farm as so many bushels of corn, so many pounds of tobacco.

* Even when crop yields are the same, dollar production per acre may be high one year, low the next.

* That's why Land Bank loan values are based on the NORMAL earning power of the land—average yields and normal prices—not too high, not too low.

* That's why the land banks were able to meet the needs of hundreds of thousands of farmers in the depression.

* That's why we can say . . .

LOANS ARE EASIER TO PAY WHEN MADE THE FEDERAL LAND BANK WAY . . .

One-Half of Ky. Church Members

Approximately half of all persons living in Kentucky are church members, according to a new bulletin called "Religious Organization in Kentucky," published by the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington.

There were 7,600 churches in the state in 1946, with 3,500 full-time ministers. The membership was estimated at 1,400,000, out of a population of 2,845,627. Contributions for church support that year were estimated at $20,000,000.

"The churches of Kentucky, as measured by number of members, form the most important type of voluntary organization in the state," says the bulletin.

Although there are over 80 different religious bodies in Kentucky, five of them account for five-sixths of the church members.

In comparison with the nation, it is noted in the bulletin, Kentucky has about the same percentage of church members. Churches, however, are smaller in Kentucky and there are more churches in proportion to the population.

The percentage of population who are church members is only a third to a half as large in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky as in the rest of the state, the bulletin reports.

Membership is the largest in the central and western parts of the state.

Ladies Of Legion To Give Dance

Several interesting bulletins were read by the president, pertaining to the objectives of the auxiliary for the coming year.

The Auxiliary aim, at present, is to double their membership by Dec. 15th. Members appointed to draw up the constitution and by-laws were Doris Lindsay, Frances Lemmons, Kathryn Penick, assisted by Emma Cluser.

"JIFNEY CARNIVAL" AT SIMON KENTON

The PTA of Simon Kenton High School will sponsor its annual "Jifney Carnival" on Friday, Oct. 15 at 7:00 p. m. at the school. Main features will be an auditorium show at 8 o'clock by Frank Miller and his Kentucky Fiddlers from WZIP, sponsored by R. C. Wayman, local real estate dealer, and a show at 9 o'clock by Magician W. E. Garriott.

There will be a booth for bakery goods, one for fancy work, another for white elephant articles and a general fund. Door prizes will be given.

General admission will be 10c. The admission for each auditorium show will be 10c. Receipts will be used by the PTA to finance its activities for the year. Receipts from last year's "Jifney Carnival" were used to purchase $300 worth of books for the school library.

Baptists To Take Special Offering

Kentucky Baptist churches are having a special offering Sunday, October 24th to help accelerate the 1948 State Mission program.

Rev. Chase Jennings, Covington, is the missionary in this area supported by Kentucky Baptist churches.

This year 86 Kentucky Baptist missionaries working largely in uncharted areas organized a number of new churches, helped build ten new church houses and led over a hundred young people to become recruits for mission work.

Many new church organizations were formed and hundreds of boys and girls were given Bible School opportunities. Many of these missionaries traveled over difficult roads and held services in remote places.

The special offering will be used to help increase this already extensive State Mission program of Kentucky Baptists.

Among the 675 students enrolled in Hanover College, Hanover, Ind., this semester are two Walton residents: John M. Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Baker, and Jack M. Conner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Conner.

Bakery Sale Oct. 16th

A bakery sale will be held Saturday, October 16th, beginning at 1:00 p. m. in the office of the community Public Service Co., Walton. The sale is sponsored by the Walton D. A. Council.

KEEPING HOUSE

by
Norma Crane
FAMOUS HOME ECONOMIST

A LITTLE OF THIS AND THAT—
When you have a few minutes to sit down, gather up your sewing basket and look for all the available needles you can find. Thread these needles with thread of all colors in fairly long lengths, and keep them inserted in a piece of heavy paper in order to keep them handy and to keep the sewing basket tidy. You'll find it's easy not to put off repair work when you know that you don't have to start hunting for the needle and then thread it. . . . Now you can buy an aluminum rack which will hold 42 spools of thread for quick selection. . . . It is very annoying to have to remove several dishes and jars of leftovers from the front of the refrigerator in order to get at those which are located in the back. The solution to the problem is a revolving tray which is made to accommodate five large glass storage bowls with lids. Just a touch of the finger and you'll have the bowl which you are seeking, revolving on its tray toward you.

FACTS ABOUT CLEANING—Always remember when removing a spot from clothing to rub lightly in a circular motion. A very light touch is necessary to prevent an unsightly ring from forming around the area. Use several tissues or a white blotter underneath the spot in order to absorb excess fluid. . . . Use wood alcohol or denatured alcohol to clean piano keys—never soap! Gilt furniture should be cleaned with equal parts of ammonia and denatured alcohol. Apply very little pressure. . . . A good renovating job can be done on suede shoes by rubbing with fine sandpaper, especially on the shiny smooth parts, and then holding over steam from the faucet or kettle.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK—Here's something that has excellent keeping qualities, is inexpensive and easy to make. Serve it for breakfast, tea or midday snacks. Hot or cold, it's delicious—Irish Bread!
3 cups of sifted all-purpose flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
One-third cup sugar
1 tablespoon caraway
1 cup raisins
1 cup sweet milk.

Mix everything except the milk and combine the ingredients well. Add the milk until the consistency is similar to that of mashed potatoes (this usually requires the full cup of milk). Turn out onto a floured board and knead lightly with floured hands for about one minute. Shape into a round loaf and place in a greased 8-inch layer cake pan. Slash the top of the dough with a knife, making a cross. Bake at 375 degrees Fahrenheit for 45 minutes.

THE HOMEMAKER REPAIRS—When paper drapes are torn, mend the rip with scotch tape, neatly applied to the back of the tear. . . . Holes in garments caused by buttons tearing away can be fixed by sewing the button to sewing tape and pushing it through the hole in the garment. Or, if the hole is too small, place the tape under the hole, putting the button over it and sewing to the tape.

Then sew the torn material to the tape, thereby reinforcing it. . . . When elastic, string or ribbon has to be run through a narrow hem such as the waist of children's pajamas or panties, bathroom lid covers or curtains, attach a safety pin to the elastic. Work the pin thru the material, and it acts as a leader making this task simple enough for the children to perform.

A plot of corn sprayed with 24-D and given only one cultivation with a rotary hoe on the S. D. Powell farm in Henderson county, will yield about 75 bushels to the acre.

In Mercer county farmers saved about $300,000 over last year by controlling tobacco diseases.

Life and Law
 Lesson for October 17, 1948

YOU, friend reader, probably know less about what is in the books of Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy than any other part of the Bible. These are the sections mostly filled with laws.

"Thou shalt ... Thou shalt not." You either skip these entirely or you say to yourself, "Well, that has nothing to do with me." If so, you have been missing one of the most interesting sections of the Bible.

Some of these old laws are dead; but even a mummy can be interesting. Call them dead if you like; you still can learn a great deal about the times and the minds and the customs of those far-off days by reading the laws which governed people's daily lives.

But it is hardly fair to call them dead. Rather, they have been honorably retired. That is to say, they were admirable laws in their time and place, and God's will was learned through them.

THE Living Soul of Law

THERE are two ways of looking at any law, or you might say there are two sides of every law, the inside and the outside, the soul and the body as it were. The body, the outside, is the letter of the law; the inside, or soul of the law is the spirit or principle of the law.

The body of the law, like the body of a man, dies; it is not intended to live on and on. But the soul of the law (if it has one, some don't live forever). Take, for instance, that law in Lev. 19:9, 10. The body of it, the letter, says: Do not be efficient in getting in your crops. Leave some wheat in the field. Leave some grapes on the vine.

Today that sounds rather stupid, on the face of it, and no good farmer would pay attention to it. But look at the spirit of that law: the wheat and the grapes were to be left for "the poor and the stranger." There was then no Red Cross, no bureau of displaced persons, no traveler's aid, no family service, no social security, none of our many modern agencies for the underprivileged. Those who had property were bidden to have a care for those who had none.

Tom Baldwin, Jr., of Madison county harvested 225 bushels of balboe rye from five acres, the highest yield ever made in the county.

Dr. Foreman

The duty of society to see that no one starves, the duty of all to help those in need, that is the living soul of this law, and it still breathes in laws of the 20th century—laws of old age assistance, maternity assistance, pension plans and so forth.

The living soul of the Old Testament laws can be expressed this way: The love of justice and the justice of love. The best and wisest laws today are those which give this same spirit its fullest and most practical form.

Jesus' Last Word

THE Jews figured out that there were in all 613 separate commandments in all the laws combined. They used to have interesting debates as to which of all the 613 commandments was the most important.

They came to Jesus with that well-worn question. Jesus quoted only two laws, one from Deut. 6:5 and the other from Lev. 19:18. Love God, love your neighbor, he said. All the other laws depend on these two.

To this day, Christian thinkers are not entirely agreed as to just how far Old Testament laws may be binding on Christians. But all are agreed on two points: The basic principle of these laws is always good, and that fundamental principle is love.

Love Is Not Repeated

THIS is what Christians mean when they say that the laws of God are eternal. We do not mean that every law between the covers of the Bible can and should be used as the law of our land today.

What we do mean is that the spirit of these laws is immortal, for the spirit is love, and love never has been repeated.

Show me a law which helps the strong at the expense of the weak, a law which encourages cheating and selfishness and fighting, and I will show you a bad law. Show me a law which encourages and helps men to deal fairly with one another and to live together in peace, and I will show you a good law. Every law that helps you love your neighbor is a good law; indeed there is something divine about it, for God is Love.

Land Bank Loans Are Geared To The Capacity of the Farm to Pay!

- * The dollars that will pay your loan come out of the soil of your farm as so many bushels of corn, so many pounds of tobacco.
- * Even when crop yields are the same, dollar production per acre may be high one year, low the next.
- * That's why Land Bank loan values are based on the NORMAL earning power of the land—average yields and normal prices—not too high, not too low.
- * That's why the land banks were able to meet the needs of hundreds of thousands of farmers in the depression.
- * That's why we can say . . .

LOANS ARE EASIER TO PAY WHEN MADE THE FEDERAL LAND BANK WAY . . .

Voters Urged To Vote On Nov. 2nd

"A vote for every voter," will be the goal toward which the Johnson-McElroy Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary will work on election day, Mrs. Emma Cluster, president, has announced. The Auxiliary Unit will join with the American Legion and other organizations in an effort to bring out the largest vote in history.

Auxiliary members are urged to make sure that every registered voter in their family casts a vote on election day—Nov. 2, and they are asked to contact all friends and neighbors during the week preceding the election, pointing out the importance of voting.

The work here is part of a Nationwide Legion and Auxiliary effort to bring Americans to the polls in record number on November 2nd, Mrs. Cluster explained. She pointed out that in the 1940 presidential election, only 52% of the 80,000,000 citizens over 21 years of age voted, while in 1946 the percentage dropped to 40% of the 86,500,000 citizens over 21.

"We are asking everyone to vote for the party and candidate of their choice, but not to fail to vote," said Mrs. Cluster. "When citizens fail to vote, special interests or subversive forces have their chance to gain control of the government. VERSATILE VACUUM CLEANER Cleaned your toaster, bread box, corners of the closets and radiators with the long crevice tool of your vacuum cleaner. . . Use the soft round brush for cleaning such items as moldings, picture frames, lamp shades, books and phonograph records, and also for dusting furniture. This particular attachment is one of the handiest pieces of the vacuuming equipment. . . When the tube of your tank-type vacuum gets clogged up, it isn't necessary to run a snake wire thru it to clear it. Just unscrew the tube and then screw it into the other end of the vacuum. The tube which blows through it should be sufficiently strong to clear the tube. Be sure to place the end of the tube into a strong paper bag. Wrap the open end of the bag around the tube, holding it firmly to the metal part. This will keep the dirt from scattering all over the room.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK—Royal Brownies—2 cups Tootsie Fudge 'n Frosting Mix; ¾ cup sifted all purpose flour; ½ teaspoon baking powder; 2 eggs, unbeaten; ¼ cup melted shortening; ¼ cup coarsely chopped nuts.

Mix all of the above ingredients except the nuts in a bowl until thoroughly combined. Add the nuts and place the batter in a greased pan, 8"x8"x2". Bake at 350 degrees Fahrenheit for 25 minutes. After cooling about 15 minutes, cover the top with a frosting made from the remainder of the package of Tootsie Fudge 'n Frosting Mix (1 cup) mixed with 1 tablespoon and 2 teaspoons of hot water. When cool and firm, cut into squares. Yield, 20-25 brownies.

Have you wondered why so many of my recipes call for use of packaged mix? Well, like so many housekeepers, I, too, have found that they are convenient, speedy and dependable to use. They're easy to carry home, store in the pantry and have on hand for last minute occasions. They save a great deal of measuring and mixing, and are so simple to prepare. Best of all you get a good product—a failure is almost impossible. Remember, those big food companies spend a considerable amount of money on research in order to make their products as safe and delicious as possible. So why not take advantage of their offerings and make cooking more enjoyable?

A LITTLE OF THIS AND THAT—Beef juice is an excellent source of food value for the invalid. However, it is very perishable, so don't make a large quantity of it. Prepare it by cutting thick, round steak in cubes, trimming off all of the fat first. Drop the cubes, a few at a time, into the frying pan and broil slightly. Then press out the juice and serve, with a little salt, either cold or warmed in hot water. Don't heat it too much or it will coagulate. . . Cover a wedge of lemon with cheese cloth when squeezing. It will not only keep the seeds where they belong, but you won't get an eye full of lemon pulp! . . . For the professional look, put jelly, jam or marmalade between the layers of the next cake you bake. It saves frosting, adds color and zest to the cake. . . Tomatoes and shelled almonds can be skinned in a twinkling if you blanch them in boiling water for about five minutes. Another speedy way of removing tomato skins is to thrust a fork into them and hold them over the gas flame until the skin becomes dry and taut and finally splits open with a popping noise.

Our most valuable raw material

In schools all over the South "our most valuable raw material" is being tempered and worked into strong, courageous stuff.

We cannot look into the bright, eager faces of these youngsters without seeing great things . . . industries as yet unbuilt . . . frontiers of science as yet unexplored . . . better ways of living and working together as yet untied.

We see, too, the trained minds and capable hands of those who some day will guide and operate the Southern Railway System that "serves the South."

And we are grateful for the privilege of sharing in their education, through the taxes we pay in every community.

Just look into the young faces around you. You'll renew your determination to protect and preserve our American heritage of freedom and opportunity. So that the dreams of our children may come true. So that our land may rise to even greater heights.

FERTILITY COMBATS DROUTH

Fertile soil gives the farmer much more protection against dry weather than does poor soil, notes Farm Agent Robert Hume of Grant county. As an example, he cites the case of Everett Latimer, who harvested a better-than-average crop of tobacco, despite severe drouth conditions. Other farmers, less careful in supplying the needs of their soil, failed to have as good crops.

1 1/2 Billion Dollar Road Block!

RAILROADS MUST OPERATE around the clock every day and night of the year.

Although they know this, leaders of 16 railroad unions are demanding a five-day, Monday through Friday, week for one million railroad employees.

They want 48 hours pay for 40 hours work—in itself a 20% wage increase.

They also demand a minimum of 12 hours pay for any work performed on Saturdays, and 16 hours pay for any work performed on Sundays and holidays.

On top of all this they want an additional increase of 25¢ an hour for every employee!

You'd Pay The Bill!

Summing up these demands, they mean that these union leaders seek to force the railroads to give one million employees an annual raise which would average $1500 per employee!

The total cost of this would be no less than 1 1/2 billion dollars per year, which is more than twice the expected net income of the railroads this year.

You'd pay the bill, because if these increased costs are forced on the railroads, they must have still further rate and fare increases.

Demands Unreasonable

These employees have had substantial raises during and since the war. Their average weekly earnings are higher than the average weekly earnings of workers in manufacturing industries. They have more job security than the average worker in American industry. They also enjoy paid vacations, a retirement system and other advantages more generous than the average worker receives.

In contrast with the demands of these 16 unions, which add up to the equivalent of 48¢ an hour, the Conductors and Trainmen recently settled their wage request for an increase of 10¢ an hour.

Railroads Run for Everybody—Not Employees Alone

The railroad industry must serve not only many groups—producers, businessmen, shippers, passengers and the general public—night and day, every day of the year. These unions are proceeding in utter disregard of this important difference between railroads and other industries. Industrial plants can be shut down over weekends and holidays, but freight, mail, express and passengers must continue to move. Everybody who enters railroad employment knows this.

Strike Threat

On September 18, 1948, the leaders of these 16 unions began taking a strike vote. But the threat of a strike will not alter the opposition of the railroads to such unreasonable demands!

SOUTHEASTERN RAILROADS

The 1949 FRAZER

Trailblazer-of cars to come!

Once in a blue moon the stylists and engineers outdo themselves. They create a car that goes beyond today and sets the pattern for cars of the future.

This is what they have done with the FRAZER for 1949!

Low, sleek and differently handsome it is the trailblazer in style of cars to come. Its exclusive colors and fabrics have made the world's leading fashion designers fall in love with it. They call it "the dream car."

The same car, the FRAZER for 1949, has even won the hard-to-win hearts of the test drivers who must relentlessly punish a car mile after mile for weeks on end. They say the Frazer makes such driving no punishment for them. Its driving ease and riding comfort "make 600 miles a day a breeze," they say.

There's a thrill waiting for you at your dealer's today. With 100 new features, improvements and refinements, the 1949 FRAZER is ahead of its time... out front—trailblazing the way for all the cars to come.

First to break clean and scrap tradition, the cars from Willow Run have done it again. Because unlike other "new" cars built since the war, they've road-proved their dependability—2 billion miles worth! Value-proved to a quarter-million justly proud owners. See and drive the new FRAZER now! It's at your dealer's. Kaiser-Frazer Corporation, Willow Run, Michigan.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
 International Uniform Sunday School Lessons
 By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: 1 Kings 4:21-11:12
 DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 23: 12-22

God's Hand in History
 Lesson for October 24, 1948

SUPPOSE you were given a long flexible wire and were asked to arrange it on a pattern which would represent history, what would you do to it? Some people would cut that wire into little bits and let them fall in a pile like jackstraws. History, they would say, is a meaningless collection of disconnected events—it has no real pattern.

Someone else would arrange the wire like a long arrow pointing upward; others would make it into an arrow pointing downward; these would be the pure optimists and pessimists among historians.

Others would arrange it in a series of up-and-down curves—history, they would say, sometimes goes up and sometimes down, but it never gets anywhere. Others again would make an immense circle, history goes around and around in cycles, repeating itself.

Others still might take that wire and shape it into a kind of spiral, almost repeating itself but never quite, often seeming to go backward but actually making some progress.

Dr. Foreman

God's Chosen People

A GOOD deal of the Old Testament is taken up with history. Starting with Genesis and going through Esther, most of what you read is history. But it is not mere chronicles, that is to say it is not a mere listing of events.

The historical parts of the Bible were written by men who had a theory of history. They would agree that the Golden Age is ahead of us, not behind.

They would all agree that the most important figure in human history is not a human being at all, but God the Creator. They would all agree that his hand can be seen — if you look for it — in the events of man's existence here. And they all affirm that among all the nations of the earth there was one which could be called truly God's chosen people, the little nation called Israel, the people we know as the Jews.

The whole of Hebrew history is a sort of sermon on this text: Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people. The history of any nation, ancient or modern, would illustrate that text just as well; only the Israelite historians saw it most clearly. They showed how, when their people followed God's leading and his laws, they prospered; when they went their own stupid, selfish ways they suffered.

Somehow Good

ONE great lesson the Old Testament history teaches is that God's will is good, and that when man defies and disobeys that will, he does it to his own destruction, but that God can bring good out of evil.

People often act from bad motives; yet even the worst of motives God can overcome. David waded in blood to his throne, and he treated cruelly many of his enemies. That was not good; yet God brought out of that a national independence and strength.

David put Solomon on the throne because he was the son of his favorite wife; that was pure favoritism. Yet God brought good out of a choice which was selfish.

When the Israelites were tempted to fall for the cheap and nasty gods whose shrines filled the land, that was bad; but it gave the prophets their great opportunity to make perfectly clear the difference between false and true religion.

The Voice of God

HISTORY is no bucket of ashes. If you have ears to listen, it is the voice of God. These ancient tales of a nation long since dead, that lived in all scarce 300 years, carry God's voice to us today.

The diseases which are fatal to a nation's life are here described; the foundations on which alone true national welfare can be built are made quite plain.

Up to now, all nations have perished sooner or later. We can see some of them decaying in our own time. That is because no nation ever yet has built its life on God's design. But the pattern is there, the lesson has been written. God still waits for a people who will learn his lesson in how to live.

SUGGESTS RECLAIMING

BRUSHLAND FOR GRASS

Some farmers could well afford to consider reclaiming brushland for pasture instead of buying additional land, thinks Dr. Paul McComas, farm economist at the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky.

There are 2,000,000 acres of brush land in Kentucky that could be made to grow profitable grass, he added. Returns from such land is less than taxes. While some of this land is too steep or too badly eroded to reclaim, much of it could be cleared and made to grow alfalfa, bluegrass or other hay and pasture crops, he declared.

By using bulldozers and power saws, much brushland could be cleared at a cost of not more than $50 an acre, this economist asserted. These machines have greatly simplified and cheapened the cost of clearing land.

Studies made in Pendleton and Grant counties showed that cleared

Hope's Day

Blond, blue-eyed songstress Doris Day lends voice and charm to WLW-NBC's "Bob Hope Show," and joins in the comedy on the Tuesday night program, aired 9 p. m., EST.

Land was naturally adapted to alfalfa, bluegrass and orchard grass and produced good hay and grass. Land once considered worthless was made to produce enough feed to carry a cow to five or six acres, and in some instances a cow to each three acres.

Land that will carry a cow for each three acres will pay a good return on an investment of $50 or $60 an acre for clearing and seeding, Dr. McComas said.

Land Bank Loans Are Geared To The Capacity of the Farm to Pay!

- * The dollars that will pay your loan come out of the soil of your farm as so many bushels of corn, so many pounds of tobacco.
- * Even when crop yields are the same, dollar production per acre may be high one year, low the next.
- * That's why Land Bank loan values are based on the NORMAL earning power of the land—average yields and normal prices—not too high, not too low.
- * That's why the land banks were able to meet the needs of hundreds of thousands of farmers in the depression.
- * That's why we can say...

LOANS ARE EASIER TO PAY WHEN MADE THE FEDERAL LAND BANK WAY...

Candidates Listed In Tuesday's Election

On Tuesday, November 2nd, the people of Boone County will go to the polls in a General election to vote for President of the United States, Vice President, Representative in Congress, U. S. Senator, Coroner of Boone County, and locally two members of the Walton-Verona School Board.

Seven Nomines for President

There will appear on the ballot for President, seven names: Harry S. Truman, Democrat; Thomas E. Dewey, Republican; Norman Thomas, Socialist; Edward A. Telford, Socialist Labor; Henry A. Wallace, New Progressive; Dr. Claude W. Watson, Prohibition; and J. Strom Thurmond, States Rights. Along with these seven candidates for the Presidency are seven candidates for Vice President. There is only one place to vote for President and Vice President, so it is impossible to vote for a Republican President and a Democratic Vice President, or visa versa.

Five Candidates for Senator

There are five names appearing on the ballot for U. S. Senator: Virgil Chapman, Democrat; John S. Cooper, Republican; W. A. Sandefur, Socialist; David R. Cox, Socialist Labor; and H. G. Stanfield, New Progressive. Of course the race is between two men—Chapman and Cooper.

Only two are listed for Representative in Congress: Brent Spence, Democrat, and George T. Smith, Republican.

Brugh for Coroner

Robert E. Brugh, Walton, is the only candidate for Coroner of Boone County, running under the Democratic banner.

Four Out for School Board Here

For the first time in a number of years, there will be a contest for the position of School Board member in the Walton-Verona District. There are to be two members chosen in this election. The four names as they will appear on the ballot are: Clayton Jones, John H. Wood, John Meador, and C. O. Carlisle. There were two petitions filed, the first with the names of Clayton Jones and John H. Wood, the second petition circulated contained the names of the present members: John Meador and C. O. Carlisle. The ballot will read, "Vote for Two."

Bob & Gene Wins Boone County Title

The curtain was lowered Sunday on the 1948 Boone County baseball season as Bob & Gene defeated the Boone County Vets 5-1 at the Florence High School grounds. The win gave Bob Eades' team the Boone County Semi-Pro championship, and as they previously defeated Verona for the Northern Kentucky Benke Semi-Pro League crown, are the king-pins in local baseball circles. Gene Bussman went the distance Sunday for Bob & Gene, allowing six hits and striking out nine batters. Buford Smith went all the way for the Vets and gave up nine safes, and thus was charged with the loss.

The Boone County Vets competed in the Buckeye League this season, and were one of the better teams in this circuit.

REVIVAL AT BEAVER

Revival services are to begin at the Beaver Lake Baptist Church on Monday, November 1st and continue through Nov. 7th, with services each evening at 7:30. Rev. Chase Jennings, Superintendent of Missions in Northern Kentucky, will do the preaching, and Chas. Steele of the New Bethel Baptist Church, will lead the singing. All are welcome.

LILLARD-WILSON

Saturday afternoon, October 23rd, Mr. Alvin Wilson and Emma Ruth Lillard of Crittenden, were united in marriage by Rev. A. K. Johnson at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Hunt.

READNOUR-TRAPP

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized Saturday, October 23rd at 4 o'clock, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Readnour, Walton, when their only daughter, Miss Mary Jane Readnour was united in marriage to Mr. Alfred Lee Trapp, son of Mr. August Trapp, East Bend, Boone county, with the Rev. R. F. DeMoise, uncle of the bride, officiating. The couple was attended by Miss Rowena Carpenter, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Charles Trapp, brother of the groom. The immediate families of the couple were present. The bride is a teacher in the Walton-Verona schools at Walton. Mr. Trapp is a farmer and owns a farm at Bracht Station, where they will reside. Their many friends wish them much happiness.

First and second prizes will be given for the prettiest, the ugliest and the best character in costume, for both children and adults.

Two door prizes will be awarded. A permanent wave and a home-made cake. CHRISTIAN PICTURE AT INDEPENDENCE

"The Missing Christians," sound, color motion picture, having to do with the return of the Lord and the capture of the Christians, will be shown Thursday, Nov. 4th at 7:30 p. m. at the Independence Baptist Church by Rev. Nussbaum. This film is so popular, it and its mate, having cost $35,000, that it is difficult to get this magnificent and inspiring picture. We have been wanting it since some of our deacon friends saw it in the city.

It's a 60-minute film, picturing Bible truth, with only consecrated Christians used as actors, produced to win souls to Christ—Missing Christians caught to be forever with the Lord, gripping in effect, in natural color, professional photography, sound recording with latest techniques—tomorrow's picture today. Admission free, but a free-will offering will be taken. The public is cordially invited.—Pub. Chr.

Legion To Have Social Monday Nite

The next regular meeting of the John McElroy Post, 277, American Legion, will be held on Monday, 1, 1948 at 8:00 p. m. in the Walton Garage. All members are urged to attend as there are quite a few matters under discussion that need the attention of all members.

The attendance at the last few meetings has been rather poor, so we are looking forward to seeing some faces we haven't seen in quite awhile. You know fellows, you have to attend and take part in the discussions before you can get interested in any organization, and it is the same in the Legion.

There are several activities going on now that might interest some of you, such as plans for building a Legion home. We are also forming a Ritual Squad to handle Military Funerals, and most of the equipment has already arrived so come on out next Monday night. We also plan to send some boys from Walton or vicinity to Boys State in 1949. This gives some youth an opportunity to see how his government is run and to also participate in running it himself. You know, it won't be many years until these boys going to school now, will be out in the world and some of them will be running this country in which we live—so if we give them a chance now to see how it works, they will be able to do a better job when the opportunity arises.

A social will be held at the next meeting, with refreshments of sandwiches and drinks—so here is an opportunity to start attending again. It's on the house. If your wife won't let you, just call us and we will think up some excuse even she SHOULD believe. Be there!—Pub. Chr.

Tearing Down Of Rural Mail Boxes

The time is near at hand when Halloween pranksters may begin to tear down rural mail boxes, and as has happened at various places in the past, including Walton, boys who are not familiar with postal laws may be caught in this good sport. However, willful and malicious tearing down of mail boxes is a violation of a postal law and may be punished by a fine or imprisonment. Parents and teachers are urged to warn against such action by the youngsters, usually from 12 to 20 years of age.

4-H District Meeting Held In Covington

Project 4-H Club champions from Boone, Kenton, Campbell, Grant, Gallatin, Bracken, Owen and Pendleton counties attended the Northern Kentucky District 4-H Achievement meeting held in Covington, Saturday, October 23rd.

The morning session was held in the Covington YMCA and the luncheon and afternoon session was held in the Covington Chamber of Commerce. Robert R. Scott, of the Crescent Springs community, gave an inspiring talk to the 4-H members and leaders. He praised the project champions for their accomplishments and pointed out that their goals were reached by working a little harder, doing a little more work and through the cooperation with parents, leaders and the Extension Service, that provided the help and educational information in 4-H activities. He told stories to show that parents have an important part in inspiring the boys and girls to greater achievements.

John G. Cox addressed the 4-H members at the Chamber of Commerce and stated that they were interested in the boys and girls and their work. W. Louder, chairman of the Covington group of Kentucky Chain Stores Council, presided at the afternoon session.

Conrad Felner, Owen county agent, presided at the morning session. WZUP put on a radio program and interviewed the district champions at 11:45 by remote control. The luncheon and entertainment for the meeting was provided by Covington members of the Kentucky Chain Stores Council, through the work of Wm. Louder, chairman.

The marriage of Miss Nina Fisk to Eugene Hopperton, both of Covington, was solemnized Saturday afternoon, Oct. 9th at 4:30, by Rev. John Huss, pastor of the Latonia Baptist Church. The double ring ceremony was used.

The groom wore a brown business suit, and the best man a blue suit. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Fisk of Fiskburg, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvel Hopperton of Williamstown. They will reside in Covington.

Following the ceremony, a delicious supper was served at the home of the bride's parents at Fiskburg.

AUXILIARY MEETS

The Johnson-McElroy American Legion Auxiliary Unit, 277, held its regular meeting in the Town Hall, Tuesday evening, Oct. 26th, with 20 members present. In this week's issue of the Walton Advertiser, the Community Public Service Company has published a "Notice of Application for Change in Electric Rates."

Charles Finnell, Local Manager of Community Public Service Co., at Walton, explained that the "fuel clause" in purchase power contracts with the Union Light, Heat and Power Co., is based on the current price of coal. For each ten-cent-per-ton advance in the price of coal, the cost per KWH of power is increased accordingly.

Mr. Finnell pointed out that since coal has progressively risen in price for the past several years, it was no longer possible for Community Public Service Company to absorb the increased "fuel charge," and that petition had been filed with the Public Service Commission of Kenton county to "pass on" the excessive fuel charge to the residential, commercial and industrial customers of Community Public Service Company throughout Kentucky.

Mr. Finnell further explained that, due to the excessive price of coal, the net earnings of Community Public Service Company were no longer adequate. Unless additional gross revenues, sufficient to offset Community's increased cost of purchased power, are provided, then Community will not be able to obtain additional money required for construction of essential transmission and distribution facilities in the state of Kentucky, nor will it be able to render adequate service.

Mr. Finnell further pointed out that the basic rate structure would not be changed, but that the amount of the "fuel charge" passed on to the customer would vary, as the price of coal fluctuated. Mr. Finnell said that, at the present time, the increase to the customer would amount to about 3 mills per KWH, which would mean about a seven per cent increase on the average customer's monthly statement.

All rate schedules will be subject to the application of "fuel charges," except municipal lighting and municipal power. The application of "fuel costs" will affect approximately 4,000 customers in Boone, Kenton, Grant, Pendleton, and Campbell Counties.

Homemakers Hold Annual Meet Today

Two hundred sixty luncheon reservations have been made for the annual meeting of the Kenton County Homemakers Association, to be held Thursday, Oct. 28th at the Summit Hills Country Club.

Mrs. Robert Gronotte and Mrs. Lloyd Watson have charge of the music. Table decorations will be arranged by the Erlanger-Elmire and Erlanger Evening Clubs. Mrs. Vincent Rettig is chairman of the hospitality committee, and Mrs. Nathan Leach of the registration.

"Economy Please," is the title of the program to be presented by Miss Jeanne Paris, Chief Home Economist of the Kroger Food Foundation. Miss Nell Sargeant, of the John Shiffto Co., will present a style report, showing pattern made dresses for the teen-agers, campus girl and career girls and for the mature. Professional models will be used to show the new fall styles and fabrics.

Mrs. Carl Eschenbach will present an entertainment of "Stories in Rhymes."

Land Bank Loans Are Geared To The Capacity of the Farm to Pay!

- * The dollars that will pay your loan come out of the soil of your farm as so many bushels of corn, so many pounds of tobacco.
- * Even when crop yields are the same, dollar production per acre may be high one year, low the next.
- * That's why Land Bank loan values are based on the NORMAL earning power of the land—average yields and normal prices—not too high, not too low.
- * That's why the land banks were able to meet the needs of hundreds of thousands of farmers in the depression.
- * That's why we can say ...

LOANS ARE EASIER TO PAY WHEN MADE THE FEDERAL LAND BANK WAY ...

PREDICTS STRONG DEMAND FOR BURLEY

A strong demand for burley tobacco is predicted in the monthly market review of the Department of Markets and Rural Finance, College of Agriculture and Home Economics of the University of Kentucky. This is what it says:

"The 1948 crop of burley tobacco will meet strong demand when it starts to market. Flue-cured tobacco in the eastern markets has been averaging 7 or 8 cents a pound higher than prices for the 1947 crop and about equal to prices for the 1946 crop. About 6% of this year's crop has been going to the Stabilization Corporation under loans.

"Loans for burley tobacco will be based upon the parity price, which on Sept. 15 stood at 47.1 cents a pound, compared to 44.8 cents on Sept. 15, 1947, an increase of 2.3 cents. The latest estimates of production now available indicate that the 1948 crop of burley will be about 508,000,000 pounds, compared with 484,000,000 pounds last year.

"H.C.L.? Maybe for other things, but not B.F.G. Silvertowns." With all the sky high prices on food, clothing, fuel and even other transportation costs, Silvertowns with wider, tougher money-saving "road level" treads actually cost less per mile than prewar.

"There's my STOPPER! It's the wider 'Road Level' B.F.G. Tread!" The wider, square-treading Silvertown tread puts more rubber in contact with the road at all times — more rubber to start and stop — to share the load, to wear longer, to give longer non-skid safety.

What Is the True Church?

"And hath put all things under his feet, and gave him to be the head over all things to the church, which is his body, the fullness of him that filleth all in all." (Eph. 1:22-23)

"And he is the head of the body, the church: who is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead; that in all things he might have the pre-eminence." (Col. 1:18)

How Does One Become a Member of the True Church?

"Praising God, and having favor with all the people. And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved." (Acts 2:47)

"For by one Spirit are we all baptized into one body, whether we be Jews or Gentiles, whether we be bond or free; and have been all made to drink into one Spirit." (I Cor. 12:13)

How May One Remain a Member of It?

Jesus said, "Abide in me, and in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me." (John 15:4)

Who Is the Builder of the True Church?

"And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." (Matt. 16:18)

What Is the Door of Entrance into It?

"I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture." (John 10:9)

Is the True Church an Organized Church?

"But now hath God set the members every one of them in the body as it hath pleased him." (I Cor. 12:18)

"And he gave some, apostles; and some, prophets, and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ: till we all come in the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ." (Eph. 4:11-13)

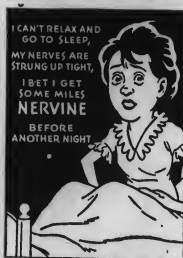

How Does One Lose Membership?

"Behold therefore the goodness and severity of God: on them which fell, severity; but toward thee, goodness, if thou continue in his goodness: otherwise thou also shalt be cut off." (Rom. 11:22)

"And the Lord said unto Moses, Whosoever hath sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book." (Exod. 32:33)

Where Is the Church Record Kept?

"Notwithstanding in this rejoice not, that the spirits are subject unto you; but rather rejoice, because your names are written in heaven." (Luke 10:20)

At one time or another most of us become upset and jittery due to overwrought nerves. This makes us irritable, restless and watchful. You can't do your work well the next day, if you toss and tumble through the night and don't get the rest you need. At such times why not do as so many thousands have done for over sixty years—try

MILES NERVINE

"To the general assembly and church of the firstborn, which are written in the heaven, and to God the Judge of all, and to the spirits of just men made perfect." (Heb. 12:23)

How Large Is This Church?

"This cause I bow my knees unto the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named." (Eph. 3:14-15)

"And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved." (Acts 2:47)

What Is Its Discipline?

"All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness." (II Tim. 3:16)

What Is Its Name?

"Take heed therefore unto yourselves, and to all the flock, over the which the Holy Ghost hath made you overseers, to feed the church of God, which he hath purchased with his own blood." (Acts 20:28)

"Make the church of God which is at Corinth." (I Cor. 1:2)

Why Is It Called the Church of God?

"Of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named." (Eph. 3:15)

"Holy Father, keep through thine own name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one, as we are." (John 17:11)

How Did Christians Become Scattered?

"And they were scattered, because there is no shepherd; and they became meat to all the beasts of the field, when they were scattered. My sheep wandered through all the mountains, and upon every high hill: yea, my flock was scattered upon all the face of the earth, and none did search or seek after them." (Ezek. 34:5-6)

"For ye are yet carnal; for where as there is among you envying and strife and divisions, are ye not carnal, and walk as men?" (I Cor. 3:3)

Is It God's Will for His People to Be Divided?

"Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word; that they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us: that the world may believe that thou hast sent me." (John 17:20-21)

"Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment." (I Cor. 1:10)

"And the multitude of them that believe were of one heart and of one soul." (Acts 4:32)

Does Christ Intend for Unity to Exist?

"And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear by voice; and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd." (John 10:16)

"For he is our peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition between us." (Eph. 2:14)

How Will Unity Be Restored?

"Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness?" (II Cor. 6:14, 17)

Is Christian Unity Possible?

"All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth." (Matt. 28:18)

"And this spake he not of himself: but being high priest that year he prophesied that Jesus should die for that nation; and not for that nation only, but that also he should gather together in one the children of God that were scattered abroad." (John 11:51, 52)

True Wisdom

Lesson for October 31, 1948

WHAT is the most important thing in the world? What is worth more than anything else? Some would say Money; some Power; some Goodness; some Truth. Another answer is given by the writers of a group of books, two of which are included in our Bible. "Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom," they say.

The books of Dr. Foreman Proverbs and Ecclesiastes in our Protestant Bible, and the books of Ecclesiasticus and the Wisdom of Solomon in the Apocrypha, all have this viewpoint and are therefore called the Wisdom Literature.

Other writers in the Bible divide the human race into the Good and the Wicked, or the Believers and the Unbelievers; but these writers see mankind as the Wise and the Foolish. The books they wrote (especially Proverbs) were intended particularly for those who are so far neither foolish nor wise—that is to say, the young.

Knowledge Is Not Wisdom

WISDOM (as these writers use the word) is not the same thing as knowledge. A person may know a great many things and still be a fool. Or he may not even know how to read and write, and yet be wise. Some modern writer has said: Knowledge is knowing what to do; skill is knowing how to do it; and virtue is doing it. Wisdom is all of these put together.

But the special feature of the "Wisdom Writers" is this: True wisdom begins with the fear of God. "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom . . . the knowledge of God is understanding." In other words, wisdom without religion, without faith, is foolish after all.

We can see how in our times the story of the Nazis has shown this once more to be true. The German Reich of 1933-1939 had the best of the science of the world; they had scholarship and wealth and "know-how" in many fields; but they rejected God and defied his church—and so a nation was destroyed.

We too may profit by their example. We of the western nations have wealth and technical skills beyond any other peoples, we have the atom bombs—but have we the wisdom without which all these things are but as torches in the hands of madmen?

KNOWLEDGE may be expensive. It costs a great deal of money to know what it takes to be an engineer or a surgeon. Wisdom, strange to say, is less expensive. It is fact on such a low shelf that most people pass it by. Consider where the "Wisdom Writers" tell us we may learn wisdom. One place is experience. "Experience keeps an expensive school, but fools will learn in no other—hardly from that," says a more modern proverb.

Many of the proverbs in our Bible are simply distilled drops of experience. "A soft answer turneth away wrath, but grievous words stir up anger," for example. Do you need an angel from the sky to tell you that? Another source of wisdom is just Nature herself. "Go to the ant, thou sluggard (lazy fellow); consider her ways and be wise." A lazy man is a fool; but how shall he learn to be wise? Not by reading books—just by watching the ants.

Inspired Common Sense

A FORMER governor of Virginia used to say that during his term of office he received more practical help from reading Proverbs than from any of the books on political science in his library. For the science, or the art, of government is simply one specialized form of that most important art, getting along with people. And the Wisdom Literature shows us how it is done.

Some people think that Inspiration is always mysterious, and that the Holy Spirit would not stoop to inspire what we could learn in any ordinary way. But the Christian church, when it declares Proverbs (for example) inspired, expresses her belief that there is such a thing as inspired Common Sense.

God may speak to us, and does speak—if we will listen—in the advice of our parents, in our everyday experiences, in the hard-working ant and the majesty of the soaring eagle. All truth is God's truth, even when we find it in our own backyard. (Copyright by the International Council of Religious Education on behalf of 40 Protestant denominations. Released by WNU Feature.)

Fox Hunt and Bench Show at Verona

Affair to Be Bigger and Better This Year, According to Reports

A bigger and better fox hunt and bench show is planned this year by the Verona Community Club on November 17th, 18th and 19th. The bench show will be held at the Verona school building, 7:00 p. m. Nov. 17th and the two following days leading dogs in Kentucky and other nearby states will provide keen competition in matching with that old fox before the coveted winners trophy is presented to the proud and happy owner. Both derby and all age dogs will get a chance to see plenty of action. The usual entry fee will be collected.

All advance information indicates even a larger number of entries this year, in spite of the highly successful hunt held here last year, as was voiced by both fox hunters and the many persons who witnessed all or part of the activities.

For the past several weeks fox hunts have been held in other parts of the state and it is quite likely that a number of the winners at other meets will be on the starting line for the first cast. All dogs likely to see action in this meet will be well conditioned for the rugged contest, where stamina as well as speed plays an important part in a two-day hunt.

The fine cooperation and splendid hospitality of land owners in the general location where the hunt was held last year has influenced officials to pick the same general location this year. It will be easy to find by those who did not attend last year, as the first cast is to be made approximately 1 1/2 miles west of Verona, on the Mud Lick road, at the Avery Beach farm. The exact hour of the first race will be announced at the bench show and in all probability will be about 8:00 a. m., depending somewhat on weather conditions. The numerous roads in this section will permit a great portion of the race to be both seen and heard from cars. There is no charge for spectators at either the bench show or field trials. Arrangements are being made to have lunch available on the grounds, in a convenient location to the actual field trial area.

For further information concerning entries for both the bench show and field trials, contact Jay Webster, Verona, Ky., phone Walton 1240.

Purpose of Legion Auxiliary

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit 277 would like for everyone to understand the real purpose of the organization, before enrolling. The whole purpose of the organization is service to others—to disabled veterans, to needy children of veterans, to the community and to the country. We work with the men of the American Legion to benefit all veterans, for the progress of our country and the security of the country from war and communism. There is no active part for every woman who wants it.

Basketball Season Opens Here Nov. 12th

The Walton-Verona High School Bearcats have been practicing for the opening of the 1948-49 basketball season since October 18th. A total of forty-two boys reported for the initial session, but the squad has now been cut to nineteen.

The Cats open the season at home on Friday, November 12th and the opposition will be the Florence Knights, and will thus be a Boone County Conference tilt.

Coach Charles R. Hayes has been working the boys hard. In order to have them in the best possible condition, come Nov. 12. This is Coach Hayes' first year of coaching, having graduated from Western State College in June. His home is in Louisville.

Congregational Meeting

The officers of the Richmond Presbyterian Church call its members to a congregational meeting on Sunday, November 7th, immediately following the worship service. This is an important meeting and every member is urged to be present.

In keeping with the season, there was a beautiful arrangement of fall grasses, leaves, corn and a pumpkin in the center of each of the 25 tables. The decorations were arranged by the Elmore-Erlanger and Erlanger Evening Homemakers Clubs.

A display of hand-made Christmas gifts was arranged by Mrs. Ray Mollman and Mrs. Aaron Staat.

The center of interest was a room size braided rug made and exhibited by Mrs. Richard Udry, and hooked rugs by Mrs. Samuel Nease and Mrs. George Milner.

Different types of alp covered chairs were also shown by Mrs. Geo. Morris, Mrs. Leola Wagner, Mrs. Brenton Grant and Mrs. E. J. Zimmer.

Mrs. Dwight Taylor, program chairman, presented Miss Nell Sargent of the John Shillito Company, who staged a very lovely display of new, showing fabrics and fashions of the day. She stated that most of these are copied from the costumes worn in grandmothers day. She also emphasized the fact that the dress length is the length most suitable to the individual. Shoulder pads are here to stay as they are very flattering to all women. Pattern made dresses and suits and coats for the mature woman, campus girl and career girls were also modeled.

Christmas Seal Sale To Start Soon

A call for volunteers to assist in the Christmas Seal Sale in Boone county is being issued.

We all know tuberculosis causes many deaths, much distress and suffering. Tuberculosis is often called an economic disease, because the illness is usually of long duration and the treatment with proportion of others expensive.

Boone county has one of the most adequate programs for cure and prevention of tuberculosis in the State of Kentucky. Much of this is carried on through the sale of Christmas Seals. The following are some of the things done.

1—The County Nurse visits regularly known cases, suspects and contacts, giving timely instruction and providing needs.

2—A free county-wide X-ray Clinic, usually once a year, but X-rays when necessary throughout the year.

3—Sanatorium care regardless of financial circumstances.

4—Nutrition and equipment for care and comfort of those who remain at home.

No salary or rent is paid from the Seal fund. Money is used directly for cure and prevention of tuberculosis. Members of the Boone County Tuberculosis Association and workers are all volunteers.

The Seal Sale Committee: Mrs. Sibbla Reimer, Mrs. C. L. Cropper, Mrs. Mabel Stansifer and Miss Elizabeth Lowry are calling for volunteers to help get out the Seals.

It is planned to begin work on mailing Seals in the Courthouse, Nov. 1st and keep at it every day until finished. The hours are from 1:00 to 10:00 p. m. each day. Boone county citizens are asked to come and help as long as they can, any time during these hours.

Land Bank Loans Are Geared To The Capacity of the Farm to Pay!

- * The dollars that will pay your loan come out of the soil of your farm as so many bushels of corn, so many pounds of tobacco.
- * Even when crop yields are the same, dollar production per acre may be high one year, low the next.
- * That's why Land Bank loan values are based on the NORMAL earning power of the land—average yields and normal prices—not too high, not too low.
- * That's why the land banks were able to meet the needs of hundreds of thousands of farmers in the depression.
- * That's why we can say . . .

LOANS ARE EASIER TO PAY WHEN MADE THE FEDERAL LAND BANK WAY . . .

SCRIPTURE: The Book of Job.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Job 23:1-10.

Drama in the Bible

Lesson for November 7, 1948

THOMAS CARLYLE, a crusty dyspeptic but a literary artist of no small skill, was visiting a Christian friend. In the morning at family prayers (so the story goes) his host put into his hands a copy of the Bible and asked him to read a chapter. Carlyle opened at the first chapter of Job;
read it over with him
the next and the next and the next
— and refused to stop reading till he had finished all 42 chapters.

Dr. Foreman

Job is like that. It is a book you hate to put down. In all the Bible it is the outstanding example of the drama; a drama of conflict in which the opposing forces are not people as much as ideas.

The Characters

THE characters at first are three:
God, Satan and a man named
Job. Job is a good man, in fact God calls him perfect. He is also prosperous, and thereby hangs the tale.
For one fateful day God and Satan have a conversation about this man.
The Lord inquires if Satan has seen him, and how good he is. Oh yes, Satan says airily, he has seen him, but he does not think highly of his "goodness." He is too well paid for it. He has a large and happy family, and has immense wealth; why shouldn't he be good? Take away his prosperity and he will curse you to your face, Satan sneers.

So God lets Satan work his maligne on the man. In a terrible series of disasters, one rushing on another's heels everything Job has owned vanishes. His children are killed by storm and fire, and Job is left a childless, penniless man.
But Job does not complain; his faith in God still does not waver.
So when next Satan reports to God, the Almighty asks again: Did you see my servant Job? He holds fast to his integrity. Ah, yes, sneers the unbelieving fiend. Yes, but he still has his health. He can have another family, another fortune.
Make life itself so miserable that he will long to die, and then you will see his goodness vanish, then he surely will curse you to your face.

So God let Satan do his worst—
Do all you can to him, God says, only leave him alive. And then Job is made horribly and painfully ill, he cannot sleep for the torture of boils covering him from head to foot. Three of his friends come to visit him. For seven days they sit in silence, and then begins a great debate with Job on one side and his friends on the other: Why must such things be? Why must good people suffer?

Was Job Real?

DON'T ask: Was Job a real character, or a made-up one like Hamlet and Macbeth? It is very likely there was once upon a time some man by that name who suffered in that way, and that he had friends, not too sympathetic, who talked it over with him.
As Hamlet and Macbeth were historical characters, whom Shakespeare used with high art to express profound ideas, so the author of Job may well have used the trials of some man he knew, or knew of,
to express truths about a problem as profound and widespread as the human race.

For Job most surely is real:
his local name may be Smith or Jones, and he may be living just around the corner from you. Indeed, sooner or later every man's name is Job.
Sooner or later, every thoughtful person has to face the tragedy of human suffering:
Why must such things be?

Suffering Is Test

THERE is, however, one solution which comes out in the course of the drama. It is not a theoretical solution; that is, it does not altogether answer the question, WHY must men suffer? It does tell us
WHAT we can do about it.

Suffering is a test: A test of man's faith and real goodness.
"When he hath tried me, I shall come forth as gold," Job says.
(23:10) The test of a ship is not the quiet waters of the harbor but the roaring open sea;
the test of a man is not comfort but stress and pain.

To have faith in God only when we are well-fed and richly cushioned is not faith at its best. Faith and goodness prove their reality only when they hold together even when torn by the trials of a cross.

SOMETHING MORE . . .

Selecting a funeral director is not a simple commercial that the funeral director is selected with care.

Knowledge in advance of the necessity is desirable.
We shall be very willing to policies, or to have you ask your friends about our in-

A Non-Acid Phosphate

No acid is ever used in preparing Four-Leaf Powdered Rock Phosphate. Phosphorus-rich deposits are washed clear of low-grade material—heat-treated—and then mechanically ground to a fine powder. This gives you a natural phosphate that won't burn or leach out. FOUR-LEAF continues to be used by growing plants. ONE application benefits crops for years. Let us have your order today!

'Vertical' Expansion Boosts Per Acre Output, Helps Farmers Reduce Crop Production Costs

Bumper Corn Yields Are Reward for Building Soil Fertility.

CHICAGO—You can increase your farm's crop producing size without adding a single acre, by "vertical expansion," declared the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement made public here.

"Vertical expansion" means building up the soil's fertility level so it will give you more bushels per acre, the statement points out.

"Higher yields mean lower production costs," it says. "That will help you make money when the present seller's market is over and farm prices are lower."

"No magic is needed for 'double-decking' your land. It simply involves adding needed plant nutrients and organic matter to the soil. With more organic matter, your crops get more use of the rain you get. Fertilizers are more efficient, too.

"To get that organic matter you should hitch your production program to a rotation in which deep-rooted legumes are the key crop. To get good legume growth you have to feed the soil phosphate and potash fertilizer. Other things are important, too. Good land use and conservation methods are essential. You should give back to the soil all possible animal manure and crop residues."

Mary Louise Crouch, Woody's Lunch Room, Happy Story, Estil J. Noffsinger, Dorothy Lavell, Gertie Stahl, Margie McCan, C. L. Carlton, Mrs. Kate Landrum, Robert Jones, W. B. Ambrose, E. C. Threlkeld, Roy Wilson, Melvin E. Gayer, George Gardt & Son, Chas. Miller.

As a result of homemakers club work last year in Carter county Mrs. Rupert Wilhoit refinished 2 chairs and a table, canned 2 chairs and plans to cane six more.

Richard Searcy of Carroll county has completed a 15,000 gallon concrete cistern to supply running water for house and barns.

The crop of fall beans in Harlan county was unusually good this year, many growers getting $5 to $6 per bushel for them.

CHECK YOUR POULTRY FLOCK NOW, FOR WINTER PRODUCTION

C. A. Wicklund, Kenton County Agricultural Agent, reports that J. E. Humphrey, Extension Poultry Husbandman from the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, "has given the following poultry pointers for October for poultrymen."

If your pullets are not laying satisfactorily, check the following: 1—Were your pullets hatched before April 15th? If so, they should be laying by now or about ready to start laying.

2—Examine the pullets carefully to see if they are free from lice, well fleshed, healthy looking, and free of worms. Use nicotine sulfate to get rid of lice. Put this liquid material on the roost poles about 30 minutes before the birds go to roost. If the birds are very lousy, repeat the treatment in about ten days. If you prefer to use a powder sodium fluoride is good. If the birds are not well fleshed they may not be getting enough grain; are possibly wormy, or have some disease. If the birds are very thin, will one and examine the intestines and look for worms. If worms are found give worm capsules.

3—Is your house ready for cold winter days and nights? I don't mean you should close the windows yet but suggest you put them in good working order. See that all ventilators are ready for use and curtains repaired but don't make the mistake of closing them while the weather is still hot.

4—The nights are getting cooler and if the pullets have begun to lay, better put them in the house and get them in full production. One will be well paid for anything he does to encourage the pullets to lay more eggs.

5—Lights in your house can be used to stimulate egg production in the event the pullets slack up and start a neck molt this fall or early winter. Many turn lights on about the middle of October and leave them on until March. Lights are usually turned on at 3:30 or 4:00 a. m., using one 40-watt bulb for each 10 feet of roost space. If this isn't convenient, turn the lights on when going to bed and leave on all night. In this event use 15 to 20-watt bulbs

In Scott county, 24 homemakers report having bought deep freezers for home use and 20 women have bought pressure cookers.

Two carloads of Hampshire Cross Northwestern ewe lambs were purchased by sheppmen in Pendleton county.

Care in housing along with good weather resulted in one of the best crops of tobacco in Madison county in 20 years.

Todd county homemakers report having bought four electric stoves, five refrigerators, seven washers and a home deep freezer.

Gerhard Bros. of Bracken county have built a concrete state silo for use in their dairy and cattle feeding industry.

KEEPING HOUSE

IRONING'S NOT SO BAD—So you hate ironing? Many women make it comparatively easy. Here's now—it's all in the way you do it! Hang the wash as straight as space permits. Fold things neatly as you take them in from the line. Put away the things which don't require ironing. Do your flatwork as soon as you take it off the line. You'll find that some of the moisture from the fresh air is retained by the clothes, and ironing at this time is twice as easy. The wash basket is half empty now and the remainder doesn't look so dreadful. What's left is the "special work": rayons, cottons and starched pieces. Sprinkle them with warm water and roll up tightly in a Turkish towel to keep them uniformly damp. Don't dampen more than you will iron at one time, as clothes mildew easily when left dampened too long. A light weight iron will prove far less tiring and just as efficient as a heavy one. Sit down when you iron, using either a high stool for a standing ironing board or a kitchen chair for a low set ironing board. Cover the board with a white, lintless fabric which can be tubbed and bleached frequently.

CARE FOR YOUR ELECTRIC CORDS—Your electrical equipment is only as good as your electric cords, so take care of them. Always grasp the plug itself, not the cord, when disconnecting from an outlet. Keep them dry and wipe them off occasionally with a duster or (if rubberized) with a damp cloth. Never wind them around a hot appliance and don't wind the tightly. Keep them looped loosely over a hook or, if attached to the appliance, loop in the place provided for it. All knots and kinks should be smoothed out.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK—Raisin Bran Flake Muffins:

1 cup sifted flour; 3 teaspoons of baking powder; $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt; 1 beaten egg; two-thirds cup milk; $\frac{1}{4}$ cup molasses; 3 tablespoons of melted shortening; 1 cup of bran flakes cereal; $\frac{1}{2}$ cup raisins. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt together. Combine the egg, milk, molasses and melted shortening, then add to the flour mixture, stirring until the flour disappears. Fold in the bran flakes and raisins. Fill greased muffin pans about two-thirds full and bake at 425 degrees Fahrenheit for 20 to 25 minutes. Yield, about 10 medium sized muffins.

A LITTLE OF THIS & THAT—Lace edged rayon banding is available for sewing to the hems of too-short slips, thereby attaining the "New Look" at a saving. It comes in three lingerie colors. Extra thin sliced bacon is now to be had, 30-32 slices to a pound instead of 20, which is average. Grand for sandwiches and salads, but cook it slower and turn it over frequently because it will burn if cooked like the regular thick kind. Have you bought one of the new automatic needle threaders which work so simply that you can thread a needle without even looking? It's really something you won't want to be without!

BE PRETTY WHEN YOU WALK—Study yourself in front of a mirror or have someone check you until you acquire the length of step that is best for your height and the length of your legs. A short person taking short steps looks stumpy. A tall person taking too long a step reminds one of Gulliver. You look graceful walking with relaxed legs and knees, while taking suitably sized steps. Find the one that suits you best and then practice it over and over until it becomes habitual. The popular trick in Grandma's day was to balance a book on the head while walking in order to improve the posture and the carriage. This is still a recommended practice in modeling schools today.

Tests Tell Soil's Need for Lime And Plant Nutrients

CHICAGO—Having your soil tested to find its plant food needs is a good deal like going to your doctor for a health checkup, declared the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement issued here.

"The tests a doctor makes are important, but he doesn't depend on them alone," the statement says. "Besides taking your pulse, temperature and respiration, and checking your heart, chest and kidneys, he will ask you a lot of questions. When he has all the facts, he's ready for a diagnosis.

"It's pretty much the same way with your soil. If you are not getting the high crop yields you think you should, just testing the soil won't give all the answers.

"A good deal more information is necessary. Among important questions are: What crops have been grown previously? What was the per acre yield? How has the soil been handled? How about the crop rotation? Has the soil been limed? What fertilizer treatment has it had?

"Good soil tests from carefully taken samples and properly interpreted in the light of crop history can help you do a better job of liming and fertilizing your soil."

It is believed that goal of 100,000 pounds of vetch sowed on tobacco land will be reached this year in Mercer county.

Because cover crops on tobacco land proved profitable, W. P. Durbin of Knott county has seeded 22 acres of corn ground to this crop. After combining a seed crop from a 16 $\frac{1}{2}$ -acre field of fescue, Luther Holsapple of Lyon county harvested 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ tons of hay per acre.

Verona Fox Hunt Plans Are Completed

Bench Show Set for Nov. 17 at 7 p. m., With Field Trials Being Held Next Two Days

Recent rains have assured excellent running conditions for the fast-growing number of fox hounds scheduled for the hunt sponsored by the Verona Community Club. As announced last week, the Bench Show for fox hounds will be held at Verona at 7:00 p. m., Nov. 17th, and the next two days will be given over to field trials. Arrangements have been made to bring judges from far and wide to judge the contests. Some have National reputations in field trial judging and several women judges, including one who has assisted at National meets, will take the field, according to the Field Trial Committee.

Many out-of-state fox hunters have planned to attend this big event, which has grown very popular almost over night, as the first meet was held last year by the local club. Judging by requests for information concerning lodging accommodations at Walton and other near-by towns, there will be a large crowd for the entire meet.

Headquarters for the Field Trial will be established at the Avery Beach farm approximately 1 1/2 miles West of Verona. The first cast will be made from there about 8:00 a. m. on Nov. 18th. Any further information may be had by contacting Jay Webster, Verona, Ky., phone Walton 1240. Mr. Webster is chairman of the Field Trial Committee of the Verona Community Club. He and his committee will be glad to be of any assistance possible to visiting hunters.

Established in America in 1740, fox hunting has continued to grow through the years as one of the finest sports for those persons who have a natural love of outdoor life and the great bond of friendship and love that exists between a man, his horse, and his dog. From the early settlers' days to now, each has played an important part in helping to develop this great country. The Verona Community Club brings this fine old sport to the spectators free of charge and all are cordially invited to attend.

B. T. U. Entertained

The regular monthly business meeting and social hour of the Young People's B. T. U. of the Walton Baptist Church was held in the home of Miss Avalon Daniels on Verona Road, Saturday, Nov. 6th. A short business session was followed by games and refreshments. Those enjoying the hospitality of the Daniels home were Paul Soden, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Pennington, Miss Gwen Slaughter, Miss Virginia Slaughter, Wayne Rice, Vernon Myers, Miss Glenna Northcutt, Nathan Northcutt, Jr., one visitor, Jan Arnold of Beaver Lick, and the hostess, Miss Daniels, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daniels.

Homemakers to Meet

The Walton Homemakers will meet in the home of Mrs. Leo Flynn on Friday, Nov. 12th. The project for the day will be "Canning Chairs." Anyone interested in becoming a member or have a chair to bottom, be present and get this lesson—remember the date—November 12th, beginning at 11:00 a. m.

D. of A. Meets

Emma M. Whiting Council, 56, Daughters of America, met Monday night at the Masonic Hall, with the following members present: Mrs. Katie Welsh, Helen Welsh, Myrtle Carlisle, Edith Stephenson, Bertha Lancaster, Viola Roberts, Mildred Vest, and visitors Callie and Birdie Keal, Ora Stone and Esther Myers.

Lebanon Aid to Meet

The Ladies Aid of the Lebanon Presbyterian Church will meet Wednesday, Nov. 17th at the home of Mrs. Donald R. Hopkins.

Lions Meet Tonight

The Walton Lions Club will meet tonight (Thursday) at 7:00 p. m. in Stephens Restaurant.

Bearcats To Play Knights Friday Night

The 1948-1949 basketball season is scheduled to open in Walton on Friday evening, Nov. 12th, when the Walton-Vernon Bearcats tie-up with the Florence Knights in a skirmish at the Walton gym.

Under the watchful eye of Coach Charles Hayes, the Cats have been working hard in order to be in top condition for Friday's opener. It will be remembered that the Florence Knights defeated the locals in the first game last year at Florence.

Two games will be played Friday, the first and the second teams seeing action. The first fray will get under way at 7:30 p. m.

According to reports, the Bearcats are expected to be an improved ball club this year, however it appears that the lack of capable reserve strength may be a handicap.

We wouldn't ask Coach Hayes to "kick his neck out," but it is our opinion that the starting lineup will look something like this: Dike Vest and Maynard Meadows at the guard posts; Johnny Maddox, center, and Don Rice and Tommy Johnson at forward. And we expect to see Layne Chessman in the game in its early stages. Well, we'll see!

Wa-Na Club Entertained at Waltonian

Mrs. Clifford Pruett and Mrs. Gayle McElroy were hostesses to the Wa-Na Woman's Club at the Waltonian Hotel, last Monday evening.

The business meeting was called order by the president, Mrs. Clayton Renaker. It was discussed that a "Red Cross Home Nursing Class" be held in Walton in early spring. The exact date to be announced later.

The club will fill Christmas stockings at the next meeting, to be sent to the Nichols General Hospital in Louisville. Mrs. Matthew Flynn was appointed to be in charge of the stockings.

Kenton Co. 4-H Jamboree Sat., Nov. 13

Topman, principal of the Crescent Springs School and a 4-H Club leader, will lead the salute to the American flag and the 4-H pledge. Welcome to the group will be given by Miss Zelma E. Polling Places Announced For Kenton Co. ACP Vote

Farmers in Kenton County will go to the polls Thursday evening, Nov. 18th at 8:00, EST, to select community committeemen and delegates to the county convention in the ACP for the year 1949.

In each community farmers will elect a community committee to administer the farm program in that community and to advise with the county committee in the administration of the program in the county. Also at the community election delegates will be elected to attend a county convention on Nov. 19th, where a county committee will be elected.

One of the real pillars of strength in the farm program is the elected farmer committeemen. The way to keep this strength is for farmers to participate in elections and see to it that the people best qualified to serve as committeemen are elected. Conservation of our soil and water resources is vital to the well-being of the nation. We must have the best committeemen to administer this program, the nation's direct effort to assure the future food supply.

Each member of the association is eligible to vote in a community election meeting, who is engaged in farming as an owner, operator, tenant or sharecropper on a farm located in the community, provided (1) a payment or a grant of conservation materials can be made under the current program with respect to the farm on which the individual is farming, or (2) the individual is insured under a crop insurance contract with the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

Large Crowd at Vest Sale

The auction of the John L. Vest property on North Main Street attracted a large crowd Saturday. The total sale amounted to approximately $30,000, which included the 10-room house at $16,100, purchased by Ted Williams of Erlanger; the 4-room cottage and lot, bid in by Ed Hankson, and with the Johnson-McElroy Post, American Legion, purchasing seven lots on which there is a building which they plan to use for club rooms for the organization. There were approximately 30 lots sold and some household furniture. The sale was conducted by R. M. Lucas & Co., realtors.

Four Tobacco Stripping, Grading Demonstrations

Four tobacco stripping and grading demonstrations were held in Boone County, Nov. 4th and 5th. Twenty-one samples of local crops were stripped and graded by Robert Goodwin, federal grader. Weights of these samples indicated yields as high as 3,200 pounds per acre for Ky. 21. This Ky. 21 crop was grown by Rouse and Tappan and averaged 5.7 ounces of stripping tobacco per stalk or 2 lbs. and 2 ozs. per stick.

Most of the crops graded were classified as medium size with good quality. Three crops were classified as medium with choice quality.

Mr. Goodwin stated that Boone County crops were among the best he has graded and are much better than the average Central Kentucky crops. His observations from crop weights throughout the state are that the 1948 crop will weigh heavier than the crop of 1947. One hundred and five farmers attended the four demonstrations.

Legion Buys Home at Vest Auction Sat.

Johnson-McElroy Post, 277, American Legion, Walton, purchased their new Saturday afternoon at the auction of the John L. Vest property. This future home is now a barn, but with work and the co-operation of all Legionnaires, this structure will become a home, of which all can be proud.

Work has already begun on remodeling, and any members of the Post who have a few spare hours in the evening or on Saturday, are asked to come out—someone will find a hammer for you or you may aid in whatever way you can. The Post finances are limited at this time and all the work done by members will save on labor costs and will enable the organization to put more into material.

This home, when completed, will be a memorial to the men who fought and died in World War I and will be a thing to which all members will be proud to say, "I helped build it."—Pub. Chr.

Citizens Invited to Attend Board Meetings Held 2nd Monday of Each Month

The Town Board of Walton, meet at the City Hall, Monday evening, Nov. 8th in regular session. Several items of business were transacted that will be of interest to the citizens of Walton and the immediate surrounding neighborhood.

Waterworks Reports

John E. Stephenson, Waterworks Superintendent, was present and gave an account of the financial condition in the water department. It was agreed that a supply of fittings, pipes for mains and the two sizes of fire plugs should be ordered immediately and kept in reserve, in case of an emergency.

It was also reported that the pump house had been painted and equipment in good condition. The painting of the pump house and fire plugs was completed under the supervision of Herman Simmons, Town Marshal.

The Board, by unanimous vote, raised the water meter installation to $60.00, effective immediately. In the discussion, it was brought out that the price of material had risen to the point where the town could no longer make connections to the water mains for less than $60.00 per customer. It was also unanimously voted that no water connections be made to serve any property that is not located within the present city limits.

For those property owners WITHIN the city limits who desire city water, they will be assessed the cost of expending water mains to and along their property. The total cost will be divided by the number of lineal feet and each property owner seems to be satisfactory to everyone concerned.

Street Lights Added

The addition of several street lights has been made in various sections of town since the last meeting, and the city street lighting seems to be satisfactory to everyone concerned.

Sidewalks Discussed

The condition of existing sidewalks in some locations was discussed, and it was decided that a committee was to inspect and investigate the sections of sidewalks that had been reported in hazardous condition. If that condition exists, abutting property owners will be required to replace such sidewalks at their own expense.

The annual occupational licenses paid by various business concerns was reviewed and changes authorized to be incorporated in a new ordinance.

Streets Improved

The street improvement program has been completed and bills were paid for this work. It was reported that all of the streets in town had been repaired and put in reasonably good condition.

Fire Equipment Good

J. R. Allen, Fire Chief, was present and accompanied the Board on an inspection tour of the fire house and fire-fighting equipment. Chief Allen explained that the Walton Volunteer Fire Department was now well equipped to combat any fire that might arise in the future.

The Town Board meets the second Monday of each month at 7:30 p. m. All citizens of the community are cordially invited to attend these meetings and give the Board the benefit of any criticism or advice that may be in order.

Baptist WMS to Meet

The W. M. S. of the Walton Baptist Church will hold its regular monthly meeting on Thursday, Nov. 18th and all women of the church are requested to bring canned fruit for the Orphans' Home.

OES Meets Monday

Walton Chapter, 161, Order Eastern Star will meet Monday night, Nov. 15th at the Masonic Hall.

Land Bank Loans Are Geared To The Capacity of the Farm to Pay!

- * The dollars that will pay your loan come out of the soil of your farm as so many bushels of corn, so many pounds of tobacco.
- * Even when crop yields are the same, dollar production per acre may be high one year, low the next.
- * That's why Land Bank loan values are based on the NORMAL earning power of the land—average yields and normal prices—not too high, not too low.
- * That's why the land banks were able to meet the needs of hundreds of thousands of farmers in the depression.
- * That's why we can say...

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Voices of God

Lesson for November 14, 1948

"WHAT became of our lost souls?" That is the kind of question which prophets once upon a time were expected to answer (1 Samuel 9:1-10). Some people still have this notion about prophets in the Bible, as if they had been gypsy fortune-tellers, tea-leaf readers or astrologers. They were nothing of the sort. It is not possible to open the Bible to the books of the prophets and read history-in-advance, finding out when the war is coming and when the end of the world is scheduled. If we could really use the proph-ets of the Bible in this way, then any reader of these books could write history accurately in advance; but no one has done this yet.

Dr. Foreman

Hired Man and Aristocrat

THE genuine prophets, whose writings make up so much of the Bible, are something far loftier than mere fortune-tellers. They are authentic voices of God. Because of the way they spoke, the timeless truth of what they said, they are God's spokesmen to our own times as well as to their own, and to all times.

The Bible prophets were not "professionals." They had no churches to support them. No regular meetings were arranged for them. You never would have read in the Jerusalem Journal, if there had been such a newspaper, that the Rev. Dr. Isaiah would preach at the temple at 11 a. m. and there would be special music. Few ever knew when or where a prophet might speak.

No one knew beforehand where a prophet might come from. Amos, for example, was a hired man from a sheep-ranch. Micah was a small-town preacher. Isaiah was a highly cultured citizen of the capital, intimate with all the important people. Ezekiel was a trained priest, loving ritual and pageantry. Jeremiah was a lonely, hunted man, living often in jails. Daniel was a member of a king's council, wealthy and famous.

They were all kinds of men, these prophets, but one and all, they were God's voices, pleading, warning, teaching all who would hear.

Their Times and Ours

HUMAN nature is always much the same. One man alone, or one man with another man, or a man with a woman, or a man in a crowd—in the Eight century before Christ when Amos preached, or now in the 20th century after Christ, the same sort of situation brings out the same temptations, the same sins. The prophets often sound quite modern, but that is only because the human race is so old-fashioned.

The prophets looked about them and saw a world much like our own. They saw people spending more than they could afford; they saw wealthy women dressing in competition with one another while poorer women starved; they saw crowds of business men attending religious services on Sabbath mornings and spending the rest of the Sabbath figuring out how to cheat their customers on Monday.

The prophets lived in evil times and they brought the judgment of God to such times—then, now and always.

Sins of Society

IN AN American town there was a lynching one Saturday night. The next morning there were four sermons in the four little churches of the town; but not one of the preachers had a word to say about that lynching or any lynching or about the causes that produce such crimes.

The prophets never would have missed an opportunity like that. They were not afraid to speak out, even when they had the whole community against them.

What Does God Require?

[T] IS easier to say "Don't" than "Do." It is easier to criticize than to construct. But the prophets did not stop with warnings. They have given us a pattern for living, which Micah summed up in those matchless, inspired words: "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

Everything that is good, in public life or in private, is included in those 22 words.

CHEAPER GRAIN COULD MEAN BETTER FEEDING

In view of lower feed costs it should be profitable to feed a pound of grain for each three or four pounds of milk, say dairy specialists at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Ky. Or feed a pound of grain for each two pounds of milk produced over and above 10 pounds of milk for Jerseys or Guernseys and 15 pounds of milk for other breeds. It is further suggested that it should be profitable to feed sufficient grain to dry cows and heifers to get them in good flesh before calving.

Farmers in Leslie county sowed crimson clover in preference to rye as a cover crop because of greater ease in turning it with horse-drawn plows.

Bearcats Win Opener 46-35; At Hebron, Fri.

The Walton-Verona Bearcats opened the 1948-49 basketball season last Friday night on the home floor before a near-capacity crowd by defeating the Florence Knights by a score of 46-35.

As the contest got under way the visitors took the lead but were soon overtaken by the Cats, who led 10-8 as the first quarter ended. In the second quarter the winners maintained a slight edge until late in the period when the Florence forged a lead momentarily, but were again trailing, 24-21 at the half. Walton-Verona did their best work in the third frame, outscoring their opponents 18-8, to lead 42-29 as the final quarter opened. The locals maintained their advantage in the last quarter to win by the above-mentioned margin.

Hunting Season To Open Sat'day

Rabbit and quail hunters may take to the field November 20, this year, according to a report from the Department of Fish and Game, at Frankfort. The season will continue through Jan. 10, 1949, which is a five-day shorter season than last year, when the season opened Nov. 20th and closed Jan. 15th.

Bag limits will be the same as last year, ten quail and eight rabbits, according to the report.

An open season on native grouse and pheasant is announced for this year, with opening day being Dec. 15th. Open season on opossum, mink, raccoon, skunk, muskrat and red fox will be from Dec. 1st to Jan. 31st, both dates inclusive.

Reports from various sections of this part of the state are none too favorable concerning the game crop this year. Rabbits are said to be scarce, with indications pointing to a better quail crop this year, than the previous season.

The same regulation concerning plugging of guns to hold only three shells remains in force, and all sportsmen should see that their guns are correctly plugged.

Dike Vested topped all scorers for the evening, tossing in 15 markers for the Bearcats, however, Tommy Johnson was close on his heels, accounting for 14 of his team's points. Lipscomb was high man for the Knights with 11 points.

Walton, it seems, to have an improved ball club this year. They showed some weaknesses Friday night, but Coach Hayes is quick to tell them their mistakes and give them a solution, so we believe they should improve as the season progresses, and give the fans some first class basketball.

Friday night's preliminary game was won by the Florence reserves to the tune of 25-17, leading through out the contest.

Cats Play Hebron, Friday

The Cats will have their work cut out for them Friday night, Nov. 19 when they go to Hebron to tackle the Cardinals, last year's Boone County Conference champs. The Cards have enough veterans back this year to form the nucleus of their team. Hebron is coached this year by a former Bearcat, Charlie Ransler. A real battle is expected Friday—so let's go to Hebron.

Minstrel Show At Crittenden November 22

A minstrel by the Dry Ridge P. T. A. will be presented at the Crittenden High School auditorium on Monday, November 22nd, beginning at 8:00. The show is sponsored by the W. C. M. S. of the Crittenden Christian Church.

The production is called "Gentlemen Be Seated." Joe Reed is director, and featuring George W. Landrum as Bones; Johnnie Smaker as Sambo; Morris W. Humphrey as Rastus; R. Lester Mullins as Mose; Conrad Stephenson as Sassafras; Helen B. Blain as Petunia; Lois Goodman as Beulah; C. W. Cobb as Amos, and a cast of twenty-four other colorful personalities. Music for the show is under the direction of Mrs. Ann Kinsey.

The admission prices are to be 25 and 50 cents for general admission, and 75 cents for reserved seats. Tickets will be on sale Wednesday, Nov. 17th at Dance's store.

Land For Park Sites Wanted

Kentucky civic clubs are definitely interested in cooperating with the Department of Highways in its current program to place roadside parks along Kentucky's main-traveled highways, state roads and improvement engineer J. P. Shannon has announced.

"The response to the department's recent call for aid in the acquisition of land for park sites is encouraging," Shannon told the Pikeville Kiwanis Club. "I already have received letters from civic clubs and chambers of commerce indicating their interest in our program."

Shannon suggested recently that Kentucky follow the lead of other states in encouraging garden clubs and other civic groups and individuals to donate land for park sites.

Employment Provided Vets by Legion Auxiliary

Employment for thousands of disabled war veterans during the coming winter and spring will be provided by the American Legion Auxiliary through its memorial poppy program. Mrs. Emma Cluser, president of the Johnson-McElroy Unit of the Auxiliary, has announced.

Veterans will make poppies in Veterans Administration hospitals in many parts of the country and in convalescent work-rooms operated by the Auxiliary. Besides providing gainful employment for veterans unable to do other work, making the poppies is considered highly beneficial as occupational therapy.

During the past year 11,826 disabled veterans were given employment making the memorial poppies which the Auxiliary distributed, to be worn in honor of the war dead on Poppy Day last May. Their earnings totaled $377,750. More than 27,000,000 poppies were made. The distribution was carried out by 133,000 volunteer workers from the Auxiliary and cooperating organizations. Poppy Day is observed annually in May.

Health Department Warus Against Careless Handling of Rabbits

With the opening of the hunting season, Nov. 20, hunters and their families all over Kentucky will be exposed to the very real danger of tularemia. "The necessity of acquainting the people of the state with the seriousness of this disease and of providing them with information about methods of prevention, it cannot be overemphasized," said Dr. Bruce Underwood, State Health Commissioner.

Tularemia, also known as "rabbit fever," appears most often in Kentucky during the hunting season. This, together with the fact that domestic rabbits have not been shown to be source of infection, would seem to indicate that the person most frequently exposed is the hunter or the member of his family who cleans the rabbits he kills. Since more cases are reported among women than among men, we may infer that infection most often occurs in the cleaning and dressing of the carcass in preparation for cooking. The blood of the diseased animal contains a germ which enters the human body through scratches or cuts on or about the hands. Less frequently, the germs gain entry to the bloodstream by the mouth when poorly cooked meat of infected rabbits is eaten. For this reason it is absolutely necessary that the meat be cooked slowly and thoroughly, so that no trace of blood or red meat remains. Proper cooking and sufficient heat will destroy any germs present.

Statistics furnished by the Division of Epidemiology, State Department of Health, plainly show that tularemia should be cause for genuine concern and should be carefully guarded against at all times. Over a ten-year period the average number of reported cases per year in Kentucky was found to be 72. Three of the cases reported for 1947 ended in death.

The only sure way to combat this disease is to prevent it. If everyone who handles wild rabbits is thorough and conscientious in following a few simple rules for avoidance of (Continued on Page 6)

Auxiliary Meet Held In Town Hall

The Johnson-McElroy American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 277, held their regular meeting at the Town Hall, Tuesday evening, Nov. 9th, with Mrs. Emma Cluser, president presiding. Of special interest was the report by Mrs. Cluser of her visit to the James Wallace Costigan Post in Newport. The constitution and by-laws were read by Doris Lindsay and approved. Several of the members volunteered to donate blood to veterans in the P. Thomas hospital, in the near future, and the Unit also purchased a bond for the benefit of the TB fund.

A social was held after the meeting and enjoyed by all present. A social is being planned for the next meeting and Mrs. Duval of Florence and Mrs. Murphy of Latonia, are expected to be guests. Every member is urged to be present.

The Auxiliary is offering new members a great opportunity for interesting service as an invitation to all eligible women to come into the organization NOW. The Auxiliary is growing and developing to meet the needs for its services. In the Auxiliary there is something to interest every woman. Those eligible are wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of Legionnaires and war dead and women who, themselves, have served in the armed forces. All eligible women are invited to the next meeting, Nov. 23rd at 8:00 p. m., in the Town Hall.

The Auxiliary wishes to take this opportunity to thank everyone who helped make the Halloween dance a success. Especially does the Unit thank John Hempel for the use of his hall, the orchestra for their fine music and Joe Lemmons for the complimentary printing of tickets.

FHA Week Observed at Simon Kenton

The F. H. A. Chapter of Simon Kenton gave an emblematic program for the Junior High, Wednesday, Nov. 10th. This was one of the ways in which we observed National F. H. A. Week. The following people were in the program: Dorothy Masters, Mary Jane Gibson, Rose Marie Ellet, Norma Jean Dunn, Vavilyn Riley, Norma Mills, Wanda Williams and Rose Heidman.

Williamstown is organizing a F. H. A. Chapter in their school, and we have Marie Ellet asked to come and give the emblematic program. This program tells what each part of the emblem stands for.

National F. H. A. Week was Nov. 1-7. The F. H. A. Chapter of Simon Kenton is working on the following goals for this year, and we have carried some of them out:

Goal I—To promote a growing appreciation of the joys and satisfactions of homemaking.

Goal II—To emphasize the importance of worthy home membership.

Goal III—To encourage democracy in home and community life.

Goal IV—To work for good home and family life for all.

Goal V—To promote international goodwill.

Goal VI—To foster the development of creative leadership in home and community life.

Goal VII—To provide wholesome individual and group recreation.

Goal VIII—To further interest in home economics.

To carry out these goals we observed National F. H. A. Week in the following ways:

(a)—Served at the 8th grade family night program, Wednesday, Nov. 3rd; (b) Assumed any needed responsibilities at home; (c) Sent a World Festival Christmas package over seas. This package contained games and clothing for a teenage girl, and we tried to have a 100% church attendance Sunday, Nov. 7th, and succeeded in having 83.3%.—Reporter.

Conservation Methods Keep Soil at Home For High Crop Yields in Years Ahead

Erosion Takes Command and Soils Wash Away on Poorly Managed Land.

CHICAGO—Building the soil and letting it wash away is like putting money in the bank and then burning the bank down, declared the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement made public here.

"Soil building needs top priority on most Midwestern farms," the statement points out. "But there is not much point in building the soil unless you keep it at home to give high crop yields."

"That is why it is so important to use the teamwork of practices that build and maintain soil structure and measures that prevent erosion and keep your soils home. A good crop rotation is the foundation of your soil building program. Well-fed, deep-rooted legumes and grasses are the corner stone. Liming, based on soil tests, is one of the supporting pillars. Another is a balanced supply of plant nutrients for the soil, including phosphate and potash.

"Deep-rooted legumes are No. 1 soil builders. They add to the organic matter supply. They improve soil structure. Such soil has what we call good tilth.

"Legumes and grasses can do a good soil building job only if they are well fed. But building soil structure is not the whole story. On some farms you can cut down erosion merely by putting the soil in shape so that less water runs off and steals your top soil. In other soils, you may need contour cultivation, strip cropping, terracing and other conservation measures."

RABBITS BEAT SHEEP EATING 'STORE' FEED
More commercial feed is sold in Kentucky for rabbits than is sold for sheep, according to the Feed Control Department of the Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Kentucky. Compared to 1,450 tons of sheep feed sold last year, rabbit feed totaled 4,215 tons, and dog feed, 10,505 tons. Five hundred tons of commercial feeds were purchased for goats.

Estimated on the number of tags, a total of 582,375 tons of commercial feeds were sold in Kentucky the past year. Of this tonnage, 140,025 tons were dairy feed; 37,570 tons, hog feed; 25,630 tons, horse and mule feed; 134,085 tons, poultry feed; 3,995 tons, mineral feed, and 153,880 tons, straight by-product feed.

Commercial feed sales have increased from 353,138 tons in 1940 to 592,375 tons the past year, which was 65,286 tons less than in 1946.

Land Bank Loans Are Geared To The Capacity of the Farm to Pay!

- * The dollars that will pay your loan come out of the soil of your farm as so many bushels of corn, so many pounds of tobacco.
- * Even when crop yields are the same, dollar production per acre may be high one year, low the next.
- * That's why Land Bank loan values are based on the NORMAL earning power of the land—average yields and normal prices—not too high, not too low.
- * That's why the land banks were able to meet the needs of hundreds of thousands of farmers in the depression.

Helpful Hints....

TURKEY TALK: Thanksgiving time is here again and you're probably making mental notes of special ideas you'd like to remember in order to make this year's feast a never-to-be-forgotten occasion. Since the meal is built around the main dish, turkey, let's talk turkey.

First, a good guide in purchasing a bird is to allow about 1/2 lb. of drawn turkey (minus head, feet and organs) for each person you plan to serve. For example, a 12-lb. turkey should serve about 15 people.

Prepare the bird for roasting by singeing it over flame to remove pin feathers, clean, wash, and dry, then stuff it.

Good Basic Dressing: No specific quantities are given for these ingredients because, naturally, the amounts vary with the size of the turkey. You'll need about 2 large-size loaves of day-old bread for a 12 lb. turkey. The other ingredients are used for flavoring, the exact amounts to be judged by your taste preference.

Day-old whole wheat, white, or graham bread, toasted; chopped celery; chopped onion; salt, pepper, paprika, poultry seasoning; melted butter.

Shred bread or tear into small pieces, combine with celery, onion, seasonings, and melted butter. Fill the cavity lightly with dressing. You'll find it will be pleasantly moist when the bird is done. This may be varied by adding giblets, nuts, oysters or mushrooms.

The turkey should be trussed by tying (use twine) the legs together and the wings flat against the sides. It is usually best to keep the dressing intact by sewing up the chest cavity with a needle and coarse thread, after stuffing. Brush the skin with salad oil or fat; or lay 2-3 slices of bacon over the breast bone. Place on a rack in a shallow roasting pan and roast according to the following chart. Do not baste or add water. Cut the twine from the legs to permit the drumsticks to become better cooked and browned.

Roasting Chart for Turkey:
Drawn Wt. Temp. Time
7-10 lbs. 300 F 30 min. per lb.
10-15 lbs. 300 F 20 min. per lb.
15-18 lbs. 300 F 18 min. per lb.
18-20 lbs. 300 F 15 min. per lb.

THANKSGIVING DAY VEGETABLES: Have the table uncluttered but gay with color by combining two or more vegetables on one platter. There are many extra dishes this day, what with sauce, gravy, garnishes, etc., that the less serving dishes on the table, the more comfortable the meal will be. Try serving steaming green garden peas, surrounded by a ring of acorn squash stuffed with tomato, or perhaps a ring of thin green beans with golden buttered corn in the center. Be original and you'll achieve many colorful combinations which will make your table attractive.

PUMPKIN CHIFFON PIE: Most folks are too full of turkey and trimmings to do justice to a wedge of pumpkin pie, but it just doesn't seem like a Thanksgiving dinner without it. This is my favorite recipe for pumpkin pie, because it's so very light. It's always successful and doesn't require baking:

1 1/2 cups canned pumpkin; 3 eggs, separated; 1/2 cup sugar; 1 cup milk; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1/2 teaspoon ginger; 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg; 1 teaspoon cinnamon; 2 tablespoons melted shortening; 1 tablespoon plain gelatin; 1/4 cup cold water; 1/4 cup sugar.

Cook the pumpkin in the double boiler for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Mix the egg yolks, milk and sugar together using an egg beater, then add the spices and melted shortening to this mixture. Pour this into the pumpkin, stirring and cooking until it thickens to custard consistency. Then remove it from the heat. Soak the gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes and add to the pumpkin mixture. Chill and when slightly stiffened, gently fold into 3 stiffly beaten egg whites to which 1/4 cup of sugar has been added. Pour into a pre-baked pie shell or gingersnap lined pie plate (crush gingersnaps to fill in empty spaces).

HINTS FOR THANKSGIVING: Put Pumpkin Chiffon Filling (see above) into separate dessert dishes to chill. Top with whipped cream and serve.

If you have some leftover dressing after you've stuffed the turkey, put it into a greased baking dish, spread it 1-in. thick and place mushrooms on top of it. Dot them with butter and cream and bake for 15 minutes at 400 F.

Stuff the turkey the day before and figure out its weight and roasting time so that you can plan your Thanksgiving Day cooking schedule ahead of time.

BUTCHERING BULLETIN FREE

Now that butchering time is approaching, it is a good idea to see that all the equipment needed is at hand, including a copy of Circular 261, "Killing, Cutting and Curing Pork," put out by the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, at the University of Kentucky. Included are recipes and directions for making special meat products, such as sausage, head cheese, pickled pigs' feet and scrapple. Copies of the free bulletin may be had from officers of county and home agents or from the college at Lexington.

A Davless county dealer reports the sale of more than 40,000 pounds of vetch seed, most of it being purchased by farmers in that county.

Crop Rotation Needs Help From Well Fed Deep-Rooted Legumes

CHICAGO—Depending on a crop rotation alone to build your soil and keep up its crop producing vigor, is like trying to run your tractor without motor fuel or oil, declared the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement issued here.

"Valuable as a good rotation is in balancing soil-building legume crops against soil-robbing row crops," says the statement, "it has to have help in the form of wise management methods. Cropping even in the best rotation drains the soil's supply of phosphate and potash.

"And even if you put back every scrap of barnyard manure, plow under deep-rooted legumes and return corn stalks, straw and other crop aftermath to the soil, you still ship away hundreds of pounds of plant food in the grain, beef and milk you sell every year.

"These nutrients must be replaced if you are to build your soil and maintain high yields at a low output cost. Soil scientists recommend that plenty of phosphate and potash be applied with seedings of sweet clover, alfalfa and grass mixtures. Such management best helps the soil to help itself.

"When deep-rooted legumes are well fed and limed they will give you thick stands and strong roots. They will provide a protective cover that slows down water runoff. And when you save water, you also save nitrogen, phosphate, potash and organic matter."

Soil Building Key To Higher Yields, Lower Output Costs

CHICAGO — Farm production costs have nearly tripled since the prewar days of 1933-39, declared the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement issued here.

"Farm wages are now three and a half times the 1933-39 average, according to U. S. Department of Agriculture statistics," says the statement. "The cost of seed, feed, and many other things farmers buy has soared.

"Meanwhile, farm prices have slumped and many economists expect a further easing in the period ahead.

"Farmers can meet the impact of higher production costs and lower prices by good soil management that steps up crop producing efficiency and cuts output costs per unit. With fertilizer still one of the best buys in farm production costs, soil building for high production is more profitable than ever.

"Good soil management means teamwork in which a number of different measures back each other up. These include a good rotation, built around deep-rooted legumes, liming, the use of phosphate and potash fertilizer, the return of barnyard manure and crop aftermaths to the soil.

"Working together these members of the soil management team will build up your soil's organic matter, improve till and drainage and give crop roots more living space in which to forage for plant nutrients."

Truth Set to Music

Lesson for November 21, 1948

"THE opposite of poetry is not prose, it is science." There were poets in the world long before there were scientists, but that does not prove that poets are out of date. Many people in our modern world think we could not get along without science but could well burn all the books of poetry. If we did, it would be a dreadful mistake. Poet and scientist each has his truth to see and to speak. We need them both. Certainly if we tried to burn all the poems we should have to destroy some of the best-loved parts of the Bible.

Dr. Foreman

Not All Poets Have Long Hair

SOME "practical" people sniff at poets for being peculiar. "Long-hairs" is a slang name for them as for other people who know something besides arithmetic. As a matter of fact, many poets are very practical people themselves: engineers, farmers and soldiers all have written poetry. The poets of the Bible are of many sorts. If you will look into an edition of the Bible in which the poetic sections are printed as poetry is printed in other books, you will be impressed by the very large proportion of poetry, especially in the Old Testament. The new Study Bible or the American Revised Version of Moffatt's translation will show this at a glance.

These Bible poems are of various kinds. Some are war-songs (Judges 5), some are proverbs (the book of Proverbs), drama (Job), love-songs (the Song of Songs), odes (Isaiah 40), prayers (Psalm 15), hymns for public worship (the Psalms).

The writers were never professional poets, so far as we know. Of the poems which are this week's lesson Scripture, two were written by housewives, one by a sheep-herder, one or more by a soldier-singer, one by a preacher (Habakkuk), and only one (Lamentations) possibly by a professional poet. The original Hebrew book of Lamentations does not claim Jeremiah for its author; but if he was the writer, then it was written by the most practical man of his time.

World's Greatest Hymn Book

"LET me write a nation's songs, and I care not who writes their laws," said a famous man. The same thing can be said about religion. "Let me write a church's hymnbook, and I care not who writes their theologies."

The hymns our mothers loved, the hymns we heard before we heard any other kind of poetry, the hymns that we have learned by heart and that become a part of our minds—these mean far more to most people than all the printed creeds.

Now the Christian religion is a singing religion. Our very first hymnbook was the Book of Psalms, and all the hymnals since, down to the present day, grew out of this one book in the Bible. It is the greatest hymnbook in the world; not the longest nor the oldest, but the greatest in its influence for good upon mankind.

Poetry Was in Jesus Blood

OF OUR Lord Jesus himself, it truly can be said, poetry was in his veins. He came of a poetic family. His most famous ancestor, David, was a poet; another royal ancestor, Hezekiah, wrote poetry. The book he knew best, the Old Testament, was full of poetry. His own mother Mary, before he was born, sang a song of her own making, so beautiful that it is still sung in Christian churches and loved the world around.

When Jesus died on the cross, two of the last seven sentences that came from his lips were quotations from the Psalms. The poetry of his people was in his blood, for in his last agony the words that came from his breaking heart were words first spoken by the poets of the Bible long ago.

So it is always. "Truth in song will tarry long." Today and always, the parts of the Bible which are most cherished, the parts most often learned by heart, the parts which we carry with us to the valley of the shadow of death, are the truths set to music, long centuries ago, by inspired men who knew how to clothe truth with garments of shining and immortal loveliness.

Warns Against Careless Handling of Rabbit

Infection, we may see a substantial drop in the number of cases this year. If, however, there is cause for the slightest suspicion that the disease may have been contracted, the family physician should be called at once. He will be able to confirm his diagnosis by means of a blood test, and there is more chance of successful treatment of tularemia if it is reached by the doctor in its early stages.

In an effort to call this problem to the attention of as many people as possible, the State Department of Health has, this year, prepared cards warning of the danger of tularemia, and has requested county clerks to distribute them with all hunting licenses purchased. The cards give 5 simple precautions to observe in the hunting and handling of wild rabbits. They are:

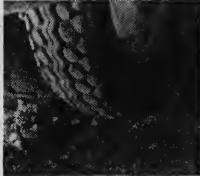

- 1—Shoot your rabbits on the run. A lazy rabbit may be a sick rabbit.
- 2—Never handle a rabbit found dead, or brought in by a dog or cat.
- 3—Always wear rubber gloves when dressing a rabbit.
- 4—If the internal organs of the rabbit show small white spots, throw it away. It may be infected.
- 5—Cook rabbits thoroughly so that no red meat or blood remains. Cooking destroys germs.

It Makes Tracks In Mud Or Snow!

Traction when needed—in unfavorable driving conditions caused by mud or snow—is provided motorists by the specially designed non-directional tread of the B. F. Goodrich "Mud-Snow" tire pictured above.

Being non-directional, the tread provides equally effective traction for forward driving or reverse. The tire's center driving bar affords smooth riding on the paved highway.

Increased demand for Mud-Snow tires is coming from around-town drivers who want "sure-starts" during the bad weather of late fall, winter and early spring. The tires are used year-round in areas where muddy roads are common.

B. F. Goodrich Mud-Snow tires are available in this vicinity from the Guy St. Clair Service Station located in North Walton.

KEEPING HOUSE

Norma Crane
FAMOUS HOME ECONOMIST

JANIE DOES THE DISHES—And she's proud of the job she does on them. She's eager to get them finished and be on her way, but Mom insists on a thorough and complete job. Here's Janie's tried and proven method for success on both counts:

Before sitting down, Janie looks around the stove, seeing that all used pots are soaking. Cold water is best if pots and bowls were used for starches, eggs or milk. Dishes are scraped and stacked on the right side of the sink. Hot soapy water is used for washing. Rinse with hot water from the tap. A dishcloth is best for fine glassware and china. However, for daily meals, Janie prefers the looped brush with the handle because it reaches the bottom of glasses, crevices in silver, is strong enough for scrubbing pots and pans and best of all, helps the manicure last longer.

The dishes should be washed in the following order: glassware, silverware, dishes (starting with the cleanest first), pots and pans. Dish water is changed frequently in order to do a really clean job.

Janie stacks the dishes in a rubberized wire rack. She dries the glasses and silverware to a bright shine, and leaves the dishes to dry while she scours the sink and sweeps the kitchen. Hot water drains quickly off the dishes and pots, leaving them dry and ready to be put away.

A LITTLE OF THIS AND THAT: The lower part of your aluminum double-boiler will stay clean and bright if you drop a pebble into it before boiling the water... Save time and effort when filling salt and pepper shakers by pouring the salt or pepper into an envelope and then cutting off one corner of the envelope. Use this as a tiny funnel to prevent spilling. • Store your fats in small quantities in jars in the refrigerator to prevent lower layers from becoming old and rancid. Number these jars so that you will use the oldest first.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT: For every woman who has made a fool out of a man, there is a woman who has made a man out of a fool.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK—Apple Crispy Dessert: 4 cups sliced apples; 2 tablespoons lemon juice; 1 teaspoon cinnamon; 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour; two-thirds cup of firmly packed brown sugar; one-third cup butter or margarine.

Place the apples in a greased baking dish (8"x8"x2"). Sprinkle with lemon juice and cinnamon. Mix the flour and sugar together until well combined; then cut the butter into this mixture as you would in making pie crust. Sprinkle over the apples. Bake for 30 minutes at 375 degrees fahrenheit. Serve plain or with whipped cream.

THE LADY OF THE HOUSE REPAIRS: Get a strip of old inner tube and tack it around the top of a step ladder to form a shallow tray. This prevents nails and tools from falling off... When repairing anything with small parts, such as nuts, screws, bolts, etc. lay each part, as it is removed, on a strip of sticking tape. This makes it easy to put parts back in the same order in which they were removed, and prevents them from getting lost. Handiest thing to have around the house is a little tool kit which belongs exclusively to Mama. You won't have to borrow from the man of the house and you know what that means! Best of all, you can use any tool you wish for any job without getting masculine criticism.

Tests Tell Soil's Need for Lime And Plant Nutrients

CHICAGO—Having your soil tested to find its plant food needs is a good deal like going to your doctor for a health checkup, declared the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement issued here.

"The tests a doctor makes are important, but he doesn't depend on them alone," the statement says. "Besides taking your pulse, temperature and respiration, and checking your heart, chest and kidneys, he will ask you a lot of questions. When he has all the facts, he's ready for a diagnosis.

"It's pretty much the same way with your soil. If you are not getting the high crop yields you think you should, just testing the soil won't give all the answers.

"A good deal more information is necessary. Among important questions are: What crops have been grown previously? What was the per acre yield? How has the soil been handled? How about the crop rotation? Has the soil been limed? What fertilizer treatment has it had?

"Good soil tests from carefully taken samples and properly interpreted in the light of crop history can help you do a better job of liming and fertilizing your soil."

Collyer Advocates New School Course, "The American Way"

The young men and women of America should be provided a sound understanding of America's greatness," so stressed John L. Collyer, president, The B. F. Goodrich Co. Collyer was recently cited by Forbes Magazine of Business as one of America's fifty foremost business leaders.

"The American Way of Life, as enjoyed by millions of Americans, is a mode of civilized living which has to some degree affected the entire world, and yet is an intangible quality which most Americans find difficult to explain," Collyer believes. He has recommended that a comprehensive course on this subject be adopted by American secondary schools and universities as a required subject.

"The struggles to preserve our way of life has been felt in every American home," the B. F. Goodrich president points out, "and has affected every family pocket-book through high prices, defense appropriations and foreign aid. Americans in general believe they are enjoying the highest standard of living ever achieved in the history of mankind. And yet they find it difficult to put into so many words, a definition of how this has come about or the factors that have enabled the United States to successfully assist other nations in resisting world aggression."

New dairy routes established in Carter county have caused 50% more farmers to improve their dairy programs.

Social People

It seems clear to me that God designed us to live in society—just as He has given the bees the honey; and as our social system could not subsist without the sense of justice and injustice, He has given us the power to acquire that sense.

Voltaire.

Our Creator would never have made such lovely days, and have given us the deep hearts to enjoy them, above and beyond all thought, unless we were meant to be immortal.—Hawthorne.

The Church of God

1st Cor., "Unto the church of God, which is at Corinth, to them that are sanctified in Christ Jesus."

Acts 2:47, "The Lord adds to the church."

Acts 20:28 reads, "That Jesus purchased the church of God with his own blood." He didn't purchase any other church. The church of God is a clean church.

Eph. 5:25-27, "Christ loved the church and gave himself for it." Christ gave himself for the church of God. Verse 26, "That he might sanctify and cleanse it." Reader, it means one, the one Christ died for. Acts 20:28 reads, "The church of God."

Back to Ephesians 5:27, "That he might present it." It means one church. All of the born-again people. St. John 17:11, "Holy father keep through thine own name, church of God, those whom thou hast given me, the born again souls that they may be one, as we are one in love with the spirit of Christ." Jesus said, "If ye love me, keep my words." The only way to keep Christ's words is to be converted; born of the spirit of Christ through his blood on the cross and sanctified with the Holy Spirit.

1st Thess. 4:3, "This is the will of God." We love Christ by being the church of God. Live clean, holy lives.

Heb. 12:14 reads, "Without holiness, no man shall see the lord." Love Christ by keeping, observing the ordinances of the Lord's supper and feet washing. Jesus said "If a man love me, he will keep my words."

St. John 13:15, "I have given you an example, that ye do as I have done to you." Jesus meant as I have washed your feet, ye ought to wash one another's feet. Verse 17 reads, "If ye know these, happy are ye, if ye do them." adv.—11-47

Bearcats Best Hebron and Beechwood Fives

Play Holy Cross
Tues., Nov. 30

The Walton-Verona Bearcats won a pair of basketball games during the past week. Last Friday at Hebron, they defeated the Cardinals 37-29, and Tuesday evening on the home floor downed Beechwood 35-31, for their third consecutive win. At Hebron, the Cats led 6-2 at the end of the first quarter; 17-3 at the half; 23-11 at the third period, and at the finish 37-29. The Cats led most of the way, but in the final period the Cards put on a rally that put them back in the ball game, and the finish was fast and furious. In the last minute of play five baskets were scored, three by the locals and two by Hebron.

Elke Vest was high scorer for the evening, with 16 points, with Johnny Maddox running second with 12. Carver topped Hebron scorers with 10 markers, followed closely by McGlasson who had 9.

In the preliminary contest, Hebron's second team defeated Walton's reserves 27-22.

On the home floor Tuesday, the Blue and White held the advantage all the way in chalking up their third win, but were hard pressed by the Beechies all the way. Play of the Cats was anything but impressive, and, in our opinion, were lucky to win. They were ahead 11-9 at the first quarter; 18-12 at the half, and 23-23 as the final period got under way.

Vest was again top man in the scoring column with 12 markers, and Johnny Maddox again second, accounting for 9. With only 11 points, was best for Beechwood, who Carran, accounting for 7, in second place.

In the preliminary fracas, the Beechwood reserves had little difficulty in tripping the locals 28-13.

Holy Cross Here Nov. 30

Tuesday evening, Nov. 30th will see the Bearcats pitted against Holy Cross at the Walton home floor. Not much is known of the visitors, but from last year's showing, the Cats should win this one. However, if the locals play as they did Tuesday, it may be a battle.

Staffordburg Homemakers

The Staffordburg Homemakers Club met with Mrs. Jim Keeney on Tuesday, Nov. 16th with Mrs. Lee Faulkner presiding. After the business meeting and reports from the various committees, the members sang several of the homemakers songs, accompanied by Mabel Vandlangham at the piano. Mrs. Emil Stein gave a report on "This Is the Fall Planting month." Mrs. Wm. Miller and Mrs. Chester Hill gave a very interesting lesson on making Christmas favors, home-made gifts and decorations. Mrs. Jim Keeney read some newspaper clippings and discussed them, also a poem "Each in His Own Tongue," by Wm. H. Carroth. The meeting adjourned and the group planned to have the Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Bluch Rich.—Pub. Chr.

The December meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. W. R. Brown at Piner, Dec. 16th.

CHARLES RUE

Services were held at the graveside in the Bellevue Cemetery last Friday at 2:00 p. m. for Charles Rue, 68, former resident of Boone county, who died Nov. 16th at his home in Norwood, Ohio. Chambers & Grubbs funeral home, Walton, had charge of arrangements.

Rue had been employed in the Norwood Chevrolet plant for many years.

Gift Shops Planned For Disabled Vets

Plans for Christmas gift shops in veterans hospitals throughout the country are being completed by the American Legion Auxiliary, according to Mrs. Roland Glenn, Rehabilitation Chairman of the Walton Unit of the Auxiliary. The Johnson McElroy Unit will participate in the gift shop to be operated by the Ky. Department of the Auxiliary at the Outwood Hospital.

The gift shops make it possible for disabled veterans with little or no funds to send Christmas gifts to their families. Mrs. Glenn said. Gift articles of all kinds, including toys and games for children are contributed by the Auxiliary and made available to the veterans without charge. They are gift wrapped by the Auxiliary and mailed to the veterans' home in time to arrive for Christmas.

The shops are set up in a room in the hospital, where veterans able to leave their beds, can come and make selections for members of their families. Hospital carts loaded with gift articles are taken to the veterans' homes to be taken to the shop. Auxiliary volunteers operate the shops and wrap and mail the gifts.

The project brings to the disabled veteran a share in the joy of Christmas giving, and gives them the comfort of knowing that their families are not forgotten on Christmas Day.

Last Christmas Auxiliary gift shops were operated in 136 hospitals with expenditures for the project totaling $350,731.77. This was in addition to the Christmas gifts given by the Auxiliary to the veterans themselves. In all of its Christmas activities for the more than 100,000 veterans who spent last Christmas in hospitals, the Auxiliary expended nearly $750,000.

Beechgrove Homemakers

The Beechgrove Homemakers met at the home of Mrs. Howard Clark, Richardson Road, Thursday, Nov. 18. Christmas gifts and decorations were attractively displayed and instructions given for their making, by the project leader, Mrs. George Schaefer and Mrs. Herbert Works. After the meeting a social hour was conducted by the Recreation Chairman, Mrs. Joseph Brunck.—Pub. Chr.

SGT. ELMER SNELLING

The body of Sgt. Elmer L. Snelling, former resident of Petersburg, who was killed in action in Brittany, France, September 4, 1944, was returned to Walton, Monday, and last rites were conducted on Tuesday at 2:00 p. m. in the Petersburg Christian Church, with burial in the Petersburg Cemetery, with Chambers & Grubbs funeral home, Walton, in charge. Military rites were accorded the veteran by the Walton and Boone County American Legion Post.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ott Snelling; a son, Wayne Snelling; two sisters, Mrs. Howard Rogers of Cincinnati and Miss Margaret Snelling, at home, and four brothers, Eugene and Ott Snelling, Jr., both at home, Charles R. Snelling of the U. S. Navy, stationed in the Pacific, and William R. Snelling of Bright, Ind.

MRS. CORA MISKELL

Funeral services were conducted at 2:00 p. m. last Thursday in the Chambers & Grubbs funeral home, Walton, for Mrs. Cora May Miskell, 58, of 955 Philadelphia St., Covington, who died Nov. 16th of a heart attack at her home. Rev. F. D. DeMoisey, Walton, officiated. Burial was in the Hughes Chapel Cemetery at Beaver Lake.

She is survived by her husband, George D. Miskell; a son, Charles R. Miskell, Covington, and two daughters, Mrs. Glenn Steger and Mrs. August Powers, both of Covington.

Nicholson-Atwood Homemakers

The Nicholson-Atwood Homemakers' Club toured the Kroger Foundation in Cincinnati, recently. It was very interesting, also very instructive. The club was taken on a tour of the plant and the hostess explained all the processes as they were being performed. She also showed a motion picture of the process of tenderizing meats.

Those who enjoyed the tour were Mrs. J. B. Loomis, Mrs. J. A. Stephens, Mrs. S. W. Durr, Mrs. R. K. Hand, Mrs. S. C. Fisk, Mrs. Leslie Wagner, Mrs. T. L. Bishop, Mrs. D. A. Roberts, Mrs. Clifford Cornelius, Mrs. Clara Cooke, Mrs. Clifford Northcutt and Mrs. M. Cain and daughter.

Can You Imagine Such Things Happening In Our Town?

Every so often things happen in any town that people say "just couldn't happen here." But when you heard what is going to occur at the James Theatre on Wednesday December 8th, you will say "Can You Imagine That?"

Can You Imagine—Dick Ryan reciting that famous song "Life Gets Tedious, Don't It"—but that's what will happen.

Can You Imagine—Sam Hudson all blacked up, and standing out on the stage with the spot light trained on him, warbling "The Preacher and That Mizzy Red"—well that gonna be!

Can You Imagine—Ab Ryan, as one of the joking end men, who may do a dance and sing some low-down blues—that outa bring the ladies.

Can You Imagine—Olive Johnson between times that she is being chased by some doggone black song, sing that tantalizing tune "The Little Bird Told Me"—oh he did, did he?

And imagine—that old time barbershop quartet that you used to hear—Malcolm Simpson, Don Hopkins, Wendell Rouse, Mark Meadows, will give you some of that close harmony.

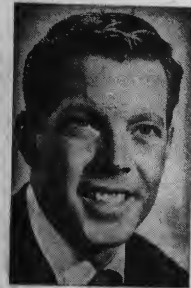

Sam Howard and Deacon Taylor will both take turns under the spot light, singing low-down blues—can you imagine?

Well this and hundreds of other acts will composed the Minstrel Show being given for the Fire Dept. by various members under the ex-

Haymes at The Albee
Dec. 2-9

Hollywood's favorite of stage, screen, radio and recordings, Dick Haymes, will appear in person on the stage of the RKO Albee Theatre, Cincinnati, Ohio, with his own big all-star show, starting Thursday, December 2. Star of his own radio show for several years, Haymes has also scored in many screen hits including the recent "One Tough Guy" and "Do You Love Me" with Laurence Olivier.

He got his start as a vocalist with Benny Goodman and Harry James Orchestras. His rise from that point was nothing short of meteoric, with radio screen and recordings seeking his talent. Shortly, Haymes is expected to branch off into Television. Among his other activities are song writing, writing, and raising a family in Hollywood.

Featured with Haymes on the stage of the Albee will be such other outstanding personalities as Evelyn Knight, songbird of the Texaco Star Theatre, Gil Malsion, Dick Buckley, the Juvelys, and Deke Moffitt and his orchestra.

The Albee screen that week will feature "Mystery In Mexico," an exciting melodrama of international gun thieves with William Lundigan, Jacqueline White and Ricardo Cortez heading the cast.

Bench Show Also Draws Many People

The Verona Community Club fox hunt and bench show held Nov. 17, 18, and 19 was highly successful from the hunters' standpoint and enjoyed by a much larger number of spectators than were present last year. The auditorium of the Verona school building was packed to witness the Bench show and some of the finest fox hounds to be found anywhere were shown. Many were winners in previous meets held elsewhere this year. A complete list of winners in the many classes are listed below, however, the most sought-after Field trial honors in the all-age stake was won by Gallant Best owned by James Lewis of Verona. Second place went to Rowdy Jim, owned by Kash Martin of Verona, and third place by Wing Pip, owned by Dewey Benoit of Burlington. The Derby stake was won by Marlie, owned by T. J. Link, Jr. of Corinth; second place Banjo, owned by Derwood Scroggin of Williamstown, and third, Sunset, owned by Donald Simpson, of Williamstown.

The first cast on the morning of the 18th was made with sixty-six hounds and little time was lost in starting a fox, however, the bright sunshine and a large number of people in the fields made it tough traveling for the fox. The result being many foxes were started during the morning and chased to their dens in short order. In fact, a few just barely made "home base" in time, as the pace was fast and furious while it lasted. Most of the day's running was between Verona and the starting point at Avery Beach's farm.

The second day was cloudy and windy, which favored the fox and he made the best of it. Judges and followers had considerable difficulty at times in keeping within hearing distance as the "Sly Old Man of the Under Brush" crossed those Mud Luck hills early in the morning Gallatin county bound. There he remained the rest of the day, putting on the best race of the meet, and judges were able to do considerable scoring.

The field trial committee is to be congratulated in providing this opportunity for so many people to enjoy this type of out-door recreation close at home.

A complete list of winners, judges and officials follows:

Officers and Judges

President, W. D. Scroggin; Secretary, Robert K. Porter; Master of the Hounds, Herb Huffman; Assistant, Jay Webster.

Judge Cropper Honored

The first copy of the National 4-H Club calendar for 1949 was presented Saturday to Boone County Judge C. L. Cropper, left by Virgil Armstrong, vice president of the Walton Feed Mills. The calendar is published by Brown & Bigelow of St. Paul, Minn., and distributed by the Walton firm, which also will present each 4-H member in Boone County a club record book. A part of the proceeds from the printing of the calendar will go to the National 4-H organization.

TIME FOR THE HOME CANNING OF MEATS

Many Boone county homemakers will soon be canning pork. Meat canning may be done successfully if directions are followed carefully, otherwise the finished product is inferior, according to Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent.

With canned meat on the shelf, the homemaker can quickly have a meat dish on the table—time savers for busy days.

One of the most important factors of home canned meat is allowing enough time between killing and canning for the carcass to be thoroughly cooled. Otherwise, the canned meat may have an off flavor. Meat that has been frozen does not make the best quality of canned product.

Mrs. Woodley

Mary Jane Croft, talented comedienne who portrays "Harriet Woodley" in the "Blondie" program aired Wednesdays over WLW-NBC at 8 p.m., EST.

Pork should be wiped clean with a clean damp cloth before canning. All meat needs to be precooked before packing in glass jars. Pre-cooking helps to shrink the meat so that it packs to better advantage and insures thorough processing. Meat should not be packed too tight, however. Leave one inch of space at the top of jars. Wipe all grease from the top of the jar, or a seal will not be made.

All pork and soup stocks should be processed 3 hours in a water bath. In the pressure cooker at 15 pounds pressure pork in quart jars should cook 60 minutes and in pint jars 55 minutes.

Bulletins on Home Canning of Meats, leaflet 59, may be obtained at the County Extension office.

Uncle Sam Says

Farming is a combination of a business and a home. And you farmers realize that a well-managed business must maintain a financial reserve as security against future needs and emergencies. This reserve is built up during the good years, like this one, when many crops are the biggest in history. It must be in the safest possible form and always available. Nothing meets these requirements so well as U. S. Savings Bonds. You know that Savings Bonds provide more security than cash because they will be replaced if lost or stolen and they also bear interest, paying $4 for every $3 invested, in ten years.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

SCRIPTURE: Isaiah 5:1-7; Matthew 13:31, 44-46; Luke 10:23-37; 15:3-32.

God's Story-Teller

Lesson for November 28, 1948

"TRUTH in a tale," it is said, "will enter in at lowly doors." The greatest truth of the entire Bible does not come to us in the shape of an essay but of a story—the story of Jesus.

"The gospel did not appear on the editorial page but on the news pages. Many people can understand essays; millions more can understand a story. Jesus himself, when he gave the world his message, used stories to do it. We are told that he never made a talk to the people without using a parable. The parables of the Bible are simple stories, often no more than a sentence long.

They are all alike in this: Whatever the story may be, there is more in it than meets the eye. Parables were not a form of entertainment; they were a way of teaching.

No Cause Is Lost
SOMETIMES the teller of a parable would explain what he meant, as Isaiah does his little song of the vineyard. Sometimes, and most often in Jesus' case, the meaning is so plain that only a very stupid person could miss it.

Matthew arranges several of Jesus' parables in pairs; one of these is the twin story of the mustard seed and the yeast in the meal (Matt. 13:31-33). Both mean the same thing, and both are so obvious that Jesus did not think it necessary to explain them.

The Kingdom of Heaven—the ideal world, the world as God intends it to be—is a living thing, a growing thing, something at first small, almost invisible. But it will grow; you cannot stop it.

So the ideal world, the Kingdom of Heaven, (Jesus hints) is not an artificial thing, it cannot be constructed by blueprints. It has to follow the course of living things. It does not come all of a sudden; it grows very quietly. You might not see the seed in the ground, but the farmer knows it is there.

Pearl of Great Price
SOMETIMES two or three of Jesus' parables are like a musical theme with variations. The twin stories of the pearl worth more than the jeweler's whole collection, and of the treasure hidden in the field, are very much alike, yet just a little different in meaning.

Both tell us that the Kingdom of God is more valuable than anything else on earth; indeed, it includes everything else of value. But the stories are different. One tells of a man who was looking for something, the other tells of a man who was surprised by finding something.

Once a Chinese gentleman became dissatisfied with his inherited Confucianism, and set out to find a better religion. For years he shopped around, never finding what he needed. He left Christianity to the last, for in his section of China only coolies and peasants were Christians. But when he began to make friends with some real Christians, he was overjoyed. This was what he had been looking for. This was the pearl of great price.

On the other hand, a drunken sailor, certainly not looking for religion, wandered one night into a Salvation Army meeting. They could do nothing with him, but before they dragged him off to the lodging-house one of them slipped a bit of paper into his pocket. The next morning, cold sober, wondering where he was, he put his hand into that pocket and pulled the paper out. On it were penciled three words: God loves you. It hit him right between the eyes; and he became a Christian. That was the "treasure hid in the field."

How Far Will Love Go?
JESUS' contemporaries told parables too, but they have all been forgotten. Jesus' parables are incomparable, unforgettable, immortal. If Jesus had been known for nothing else, he would have been remembered for the four stories of the Good Samaritan, the Lost Sheep, the Lost Coin, the Lost Son.

These all have much the same point. "Lost" does not mean hopelessly doomed. How many persons we give up as hopeless! But God never gives up any one. A "lost" person is one whom God is seeking.

Good Pasture Practices Add Grazing Days, Boost Herd's Milk Flow and Cut Feed Cost

Well Fertilized Pastures Are Cheapest Source of High Protein Feed.

CHICAGO—It costs only about one-fourth as much to produce milk on good pasture as it costs to feed a dairy herd on grain and hay, according to a statement issued here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, based on statistics elicited recently by G. A. Williams of the Purdue University dairy extension department.

Emphasizing that the difference between good and poor pasture is largely a matter of management, Williams lists these pasture practices that are cutting costs and raising milk flow:

1. Seed high-yielding pasture mixtures that give extra grazing days in spring and fall. A good legume-grass mixture produces more milk than either crop grown separately.

2. Rotate your grazing and avoid overgrazing. For high production, divide your pasture acreage into two or three fields.

3. Add plant nutrients so the soil can feed the legumes and grasses. During a six months' pasture season a cow removes from the soil approximately 115 pounds of nitrogen, 22 pounds of phosphate, 63 pounds of potash, and 37 pounds of lime. Unless these nutrients are returned in the form of plowed-under legumes, commercial fertilizer and barnyard manure, the land becomes too poor to produce good grass.

"Dairymen," said Williams, "are finding it increasingly more profitable to purchase commercial fertilizer to supplement the supply of barnyard manure available than it is to buy high-priced concentrates."

Howe, Mrs. Perry Mann, Mrs. Joe Dance, Mrs. James Pennington, Mrs. D. K. Johnson, Nellie and Janet Plisk, Peggy Popp, Mary Earl and Joyce Ann Mosier, Irma Rector, Lauretta and Betty Johnson.

Refreshments were served and games were played. Mrs. Johnson was recipient of many lovely gifts.

Our most valuable raw material

In schools all over the South "our most valuable raw material" is being tempered and worked into strong, courageous stuff.

We cannot look into the bright, eager faces of these youngsters without seeing great things . . . industries as yet unbuilt . . . frontiers of science as yet unexplored . . . better ways of living and working together as yet untried.

We see, too, the trained minds and capable hands of those who some day will guide and operate the Southern Railway System that "serves the South."

And we are grateful for the privilege of sharing in their education, through the taxes we pay in every community.

Just look into the young faces around you. You'll renew your determination to protect and preserve our American heritage of freedom and opportunity. So that the dreams of our children may come true. So that our land may rise to even greater heights.

FOUR LEAF POWDERED ROCK PHOSPHATE

Many pastures provide poor feed for livestock because the soil lacks phosphorus. Phosphorus deficient soil produces phosphorus-deficient feed. Phosphorus-rich soil produces feed richer in both phosphorus and protein—and a bigger, more palatable growth! Bearcats Tangle With Simon Kenton, Friday

Interest of basketball fans in this vicinity will be focused on Simon Kenton High School, Friday night, Dec. 3rd, when the Pioneers, boasting a five-game winning streak, will be hosts to the Walton-Vernon High Bearcats, with four wins in a row to their credit.

This should be Simon Kenton's most severe test to date, and the same goes for the Cats. On comparative scores with Florence, paper will show the locals have a sharp edge—which doesn't mean a thing. However, we expect to see a battle right down to the wire, and a packed house is expected to be on hand for the activities. Let's go! Cats Trample Holy Cross

Tuesday evening at the local gym the Bearcats had an easy time of it as they trampled Holy Cross to the tune of 74 to 38. The Blue and White had a tough time in the first quarter and as the period ended were in front only one point, 14-3. However, in the second stanza, they began to turn on the heat, and at intermission were ahead 37-20. In the third period, the Cats outscored the Crusaders 24-11, to stretch their advantage to 61-31. Second stringers did most of the playing in the final frame, but outscored Holy Cross 13-7, in win 74-38.

Garry Taylor Killed Thur. By Train

A six-year-old Walton boy was killed shortly after noon Thursday, last week, and his playmate, also six, escaped injury when the pickup truck on which they were riding was struck by a train on the crossing near the Louisville & Nashville Railroad depot in Walton.

The Thanksgiving Day mishap occurred near the Taylor home on Depot Street. The truck was demolished. Mr. Taylor is employed by the DeMoisey Gas Co., Walton.

All Star Local Cast to Perform

The Walton Minstrel Show, being given for the benefit of the Walton Fire Department, will go on the stage of the James Theatre, Walton, for one show only, on Wednesday, December 8th at 8:00 p. m.

This show contains all local talent and is being conducted by local people. The head director is John Meador and the music is under the supervision of James William Spencer, new assistant cashier at the Dixie State Bank. The entire proceeds from this production will go to the Volunteer Firemen.

Of course the music is what makes a minstrel and this one will be no exception. The feature will be the very professional work on the piano by Mr. Spencer, who will delight the audience with many special and accompaniment for all vocal numbers, which will include a male quartet—Hopkins, Rouse, Simpson and Meadows, and solo work by Sam Howard, "Ab" Ryan, Olive Johnson, John Meador, Cecil Osborn, "Dick" Ryan and Mark Meadows.

The second part will consist of specialties, such as a Negro sermon by Russell "Coke" Hall, a jitterbug dance by Carole DeMoisey and Delbert Northcutt, tap dancing by Betty Sue Huffman, "buck-and-wing" dance by John Meador, an act by Frank DeMoisey and Olive Johnson and a breath-taking piano number by Spencer.

Advance sale of reserved seat tickets is now under way, with plenty of the best seats available. Tickets may be purchased from any Walton business house for 75c and with plenty of good general admission tickets going on sale the night of the show at 50c for adults and 25c for children.

Remember, if you enjoy music, fun, dancing and laughter, you will never forget hearing Spencer play the piano, Coke Hall preach, Ab and Dick Ryan, that close harmony of the male quartet, Olive Johnson doing "A Little Bird Told Me," and some snappy jokes being fired by the end men at the distinguished Judge Malcolm Simpson, and above all—the loveable atmosphere that comes with a good old-time Minstrel Show—next Wednesday night, Dec. 8th at the James.

Thrifty Alfalfa Catches Depend on Tillage, Seeding Methods and Plenty of Plant Food

Well-fertilized Soil Yields More Tons of Hay Per Acre.

CHICAGO — Whether you get thrifty or poor catches of alfalfa or sweet clover depends less on the crop that precedes the legume in the rotation than on the soil management and tillage practices you use at legume seeding time, declared the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement issued here.

"Corn-soybean farmers have complained of clover failures following soybeans," the statement says. "But tests by Dr. F. A. Frank, research agronomist in soybeans at Purdue University Agricultural Experiment station showed slightly better legume yields following soybeans than corn, when other factors were well handled.

"Good nutrition is a must for good legume stands. To develop sturdy root systems and build a thick growth above the ground, clover or alfalfa needs plenty of fertilizer carrying phosphate and potash. Liming, based on soil tests is vital, too.

"Your seeding methods are equally important. You need a firm seed bed, free of clods. You should use seeding methods that will give shallow planting and good coverage."

STAFFORDSBURG

The most of the news seems to be rain and more rain. However, among the many things for which we gave thanks was a beautiful day on which to celebrate.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hanna enjoyed the company of their son, W. H. Hanna, and family. They also celebrated the birthday of W. H. Hanna. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sweeney and Mr. and Mrs. George Binder entertained with a turkey dinner on Thanksgiving for friends from Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Wharton were guests Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Keeney and other relatives.

The Rapp family was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Denver Binder for the holiday.

We missed one of our most faithful, as well as the oldest, member from Sunday school because of infirmities. We miss the inspiration of her presence and wish her a speedy recovery. Mrs. Borkers please hurry back!

Mrs. J. E. Richardson, who suffered a leg fracture recently, went to the hospital Friday for examination and found that her limb is doing nicely. She will, however, be confined to her bed for several weeks, so let us not forget her.

Among other members of our Sunday school who are missed because of illness are Miss Barbara Giles and brother Lee, Mrs. Ezra Elmer and Mrs. Wm. Binder. Let us remember them all with letters. In our prayers and visit them as often as we can.

We are sad to hear of the illness of Miss Mary Frances Wheary and her mother—the daughter and wife of our pastor. God grant them rest and peace.

Plans are under way for a program to celebrate Christmas, so come and help and don't forget to watch for the time to be announced later.

We look forward to celebrate "Peace on Earth," so let us forget our differences, forgive slight and mistakes and work together for the best interests of our community and church.

Story of Revolution

Lesson for December 5, 1948

THE MOST important history in the world is in one small book. The most important movement, the most revolutionary, the one that is destined to change the world more than any other, is the Christian church. The story of how it began is in the book of Acts. No other book in or out of the New Testament tells this story: The history of the beginnings of the one and only international, interracial, world-wide movement that sets out to aim at nothing less than a complete transformation of mankind, the Revolution from Within, the Christian Church.

Dr. Foreman

What the Church Is

THERE are hundreds of churches today and they do not all agree. But every church, whatever its name or peculiarities, aims to stay on the course marked out by the Christian church when it was one and undivided, the church of the Apostles. We look back to the story in Acts to see what the true church is.

In the very beginning, the church was not the place where the Christians met for worship. It was not the officers. The Apostles themselves were not the church. The church was not a thing at all; it was people.

In Acts these people are seldom called Christians and never called churchmen or church-members. They are given more meaningful names. They are called "disciples," that is, learners, students. They are called "believers." They are called "brothers" for their life was like that of a family. They are called the people of "the Way,"—travelers together to the same destination. The church, in short, is a fellowship, the Family of the Friends of Christ.

How the Church Began

THE infant church was like all human babies; it began small and poor. No bystander would have expected it to live; but it had life in its heart. Two forces set that church on its way. One was the command of Christ.

The people who were in it, or rather the people who were the church, took their orders from Christ. It was because of him that they went out to bear witness to him to the "utmost parts of the earth."

Then the people were filled with the Holy Spirit; they were guided constantly by the Spirit. The book of Acts has often been called the "Acts of the Holy Spirit" rather than of the Apostles.

Leaders

GOD never does for people what they can do for themselves. So guidance of the Spirit was never a substitute for human leadership. A true church is not a mob: It acts, as the New Testament church did, in an orderly fashion.

One of the church's first problems was that of finding leaders. The history in Acts is largely the history of certain leaders—John, Peter, Paul. But these were not alone. Not even the Apostles tried to run the church like a dictatorship. The people themselves chose the officers who were ordained by the Apostles.

What the Church Does

FIVE things the Apostolic church did, and these mark any true church today. They "continued in the Apostles' teachings;" the beginning of all our church schools and Sunday schools is in that brief phrase. They formed a fellowship; the church then was not a list of names of people who cared little for one another; it was a true family.

They observed the sacraments; they and their households were baptized, and they continued "in the breaking of the bread." Baptism and the Lord's Supper have always been observed in some form in every Christian church. They "continued in prayer;" a church in which only the minister prays is a feeble affair.

Above all, they were "witnesses." That is to say, they told the story of Jesus—his life, his teachings, his death, his resurrection. Jesus lives! Jesus is Lord! So the Apostles preached, from Jerusalem to Rome and far beyond. But their preaching would have been mere shouting in the wind, if Christ had not lived again in thousands of everyday Christians.

Boots And Saddle

Alice, Jr., 6, (left) and Phyllis, 4, children of Phil Harris and Alice Faye, have their boots, spurs and saddle—but no horses as yet. The family's merry and confused domestic adventures are presented Sundays on WLW-NBC's "Phil Harris-Alice Faye Show," at 7:30 p.m., EST.

An Open Letter

To the employers of veterans in Walton and vicinity, who are members of the Johnson-McElroy Post, 277, American Legion.

Subject—Military Funerals.

Gentlemen:

The privilege of participating in a Military Funeral, for a returned comrade, who has given his life, so that we may continue to live as a free people, untouched by dictatorship and slavery, pursuing our own paths to health and happiness, is an honor which holds first place in the hearts of the people of our nation.

A Military Funeral, executed by a well trained ritual squad, is a real and worthy tribute to these returning men, although it, in no way even begins to compensate for what they have given for us. It is our way of showing the families and friends of these boys, our appreciation for their sacrifice, and of letting them know these comrades shall never be forgotten, because it was through their sacrifice that we are here today.

These Military Funerals need well trained men, who can be called upon at any time and on very short notice, usually within 24 hours or less. In the past, the Legion has had to contact dozens of Legionnaires before a ritual squad could be assembled, sometimes having to ask help from other posts. The reason for this was not unwillingness to participate, for any Legionnaire deems it an honor to serve at a Military Funeral. The principal reason for not taking part was the fact that they could not leave their respective jobs, or could not afford to take time off.

Realizing that the cost of living prohibits any working man from taking time off from his job, we of the Legion have looked around for a different plan, whereby every returning hero (and they are all heroes), shall have, if his family so desires, a Military Funeral, of which the Legion and the community can be proud.

The Legion has acquired most of the paraphernalia for a ritual squad and will soon have all the equipment necessary. Our men will start training very soon and the best men will be chosen for the permanent ritual squad.

The employers of men on the permanent squad may also share in the honor of participating in a Military Funeral simply by granting these men the few hours that are necessary off from their jobs and paying them for this time. In this way you, the employer, ex-service man or not, can show your appreciation for these men who gave their lives for you and for me.

A record crop of approximately 1 1/4 million bushels of corn is expected to be harvested in Ballard county from 40,000 acres.

This plan, if workable and carried out here in Walton, is expected to spread over the whole state and nation, insuring every small Legion post, such as our own, a well trained ritual squad, that can take care of its obligation to its community. We of the Legion would like to hear from you, letting us know if you are in accord with our plan. We will try to pick men who, due

FOOD FOR THOUGHT: There are three ways to drown your sorrows—in the bottle, in tears, and in activity. The last is the surest method of surviving the deluge!

HELPFUL HINTS: Clean your silver by immersing it in one gallon of hot water in an aluminum pan, to which one tablespoon of soda has been added. . . . Clean a burned or greasy pan quickly by putting one inch of water in the pot and adding a teaspoon of soda. Heat to the boiling point. . . . To extract the juice of an onion, cut a slice from the bottom and twist the onion on a grater. . . . Ginger ale and lemon juice will add wonders to your cider. Serve it icy cold and you'll have a refreshing drink that everyone will remember.

LEFTOVERS: Here's a list of leftovers which you might very possibly find in your refrigerator, and a few suggestions for using them:

Turkey—Slice cold, serve with hot gravy. Sliced cold on sandwiches with lettuce and Russian dressing. Turkey loaf. Shepherd's pie. Croquettes. Jellied turkey and cranberry salad. Moistened with a little stock, milk or gravy, rolled in biscuit dough and baked until biscuit is golden brown. Soup.

Dressing—Sauté in frying pan, serve with cranberry sauce. Baked in a casserole dish with butter and apples on top.

Cranberries—Mix with cream cheese and use for sandwiches.

Sweet Potatoes—Slice and sauté. Mash with butter, top with brown sugar or marshmallows and bake. Steam.

Mashed Potatoes—Steam over boiling water or cooking vegetables. Use up in making turkey croquettes or Shepherd's pie.

Desserts—Heat mince and apple pie in the oven. Steam plum pudding and serve with hot sauce. Serve pumpkin pie cold (with or without whipped cream).

Pumpkin—Mashed pumpkin can be served hot with butter, salt and pepper. Make a soup in a jiffy using 2 cups mashed pumpkin, 3 cups water, and 2 bouillon cubes (either chicken or beef). Mix until hot and well combined. Then flavor as you please. Use 1/4 teaspoon curry powder and 1/4 teaspoon celery salt with pepper, salt, parsley and garlic sauce. A dash of poultry seasoning or a bay leaf, too, adds grand flavor.

GIRL IS CHAMPION IN RAISING SWINE

Miss Doris Lee Smith, a 15-year-old 4-H club girl from Jefferson county, has been named Kentucky's 4-H club swine production champion for 1948, topping all other entrants. As a result, she will attend the National 4-H Club Congress meeting in Chicago.

Miss Smith fed four sows and their litters, finishing 28 pigs. Her total income was $1,283, with a net profit of $436.75. Year-around pasture feed was said by this 4-H'er to be important in her pig-production plan.

The award was made on the completeness of Miss Smith's record and a knowledge of her project as indicated through personal interview and submitted story as well as on the project itself, it was stated at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Ky.

CIRCULAR DISCUSSES STRAWBERRY GROWING

To help the increasing number of people interested in growing strawberries, the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, has issued circular 455.
It discusses phases of successful berry production, such as selection and preparation of soil, fertilization, time of setting, spacing, variety selection, cultivation, mulching, harvesting and after-harvest care.
The increasing importance of such varieties as Tennessee Beauty and Tennessee Shipper is noted.

LEGUME HAY GOOD WINTER COW FEED

Discussing the care of dry cows,
Dr. W. P. Garrigus of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics,
University of Kentucky, says a cow's winter feed bill should include about three-fourths of a ton of good legume hay and an equal amount of cheap roughage, such as straw, corn stover or grass hay.

The cheaper roughages, especially corn stover and fodder shocked in the field, should be fed largely during the early winter before they lose much of their feeding value and before the cows freshen.

Under-sized heifers and thin older cows may need grain just before calving and until good pasture is ready.

NEW STATE DAIRYMAN

Glynn Williamson is a new extension dairyman for the College of Agriculture and Home Economics,
University of Kentucky. He was formerly county agent in Graves county, where he did outstanding work in developing dairying. He will spend half of his time on artificial breeding work and the other half on general dairy extension.

Twenty-two 4-H club girls in Mc-
Creary county canned a total of 4,726 quarts of vegetables, meat, fruit and relishes.

On the Matt Hall farm in Greenup county, a plot treated at the rate of 200 pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre produced 115 bushels to the acre—on the untreated plot, 90 bushels.

Pioneers Trip Locals 42-33; Cats Win Tue.

Last Friday night at the Simon Kenton gymnasium, the Pioneers snapped the Bearcat winning streak while extending their own, in defeating the locals 42-33, in a game that was very close most of the way, the winners forging ahead in the late stages to win.

At the end of the first quarter, the Bearcats were leading 11-8, and at the half still had a 3-point margin, being in front 19-16. The lead had changes hands at the close of the third period, the Pioneers being on top 29-28. In the final stanza, the Kentonians did their best work and as the game ended were pulling away.

Johnny Maddox topped Walton scores with a dozen points, while Coggage was top man for his team, also having 12 points. Heeger was second for the Pioneers with 10 tallies, and Dike Vest added the Bearcat cause with 8 markers.

In the first game between the reserve teams, it was a breeze all the way for Simon Kenton, as they won 43-12.

On the home floor Tuesday evening the Cats had things pretty easy in defeating Crittenden 44-32. Walton led throughout the contest, with the quarter scores being 10-3, 19-33, 37-14 and 44-32. However, the locals were none too impressive. To us, it seems the Cats are at a stand-still, and it seems to be the consensus of opinion that the Florence game, their first of the season, was their best. We trust things will be improved in the near future.

High scorer in Tuesday's game was Vanlandingham, who dropped through 14 points for the Bulldogs. Walton scoring was pretty well divided, with Vest being top with 12 points and Rice being in the second slot with 10.

As a social note we might add that the Cats looked quite chic in their new uniforms, and patriotic too—they are red, white and blue.

The preliminary contest saw the Crittenden reserves trim the locals by a 32-19 score. The highlight of this affair was the long shot made by "half-pint-size" Harold Campbell.

Christmas Lighting Contest

The Rotary Club of Walton is sponsoring a home Christmas lighting and decorating contest. To be eligible for this contest, you must have your home lighted and decorated, visible from the outside, by December 19th. The contest will last through Dec. 27th. The homes will be judged for their originality, attractiveness, and artistic appeal, by members of the Florence Rotary Club.

The judging will be done between December 19th and 27th. Your participation is urged for the beautification and furtherance of the spirit of Christmas in this community. There will be first, second and third prizes for the three best entries.

The first prize, donated by the Community Public Service Co., is a Sunbeam Mix-Master; the second prize donated by Conrad Hardware is to be a Sunbeam Coffee-maker; and third prize, donated by Hamilton & Jones, is to be a Mirromatic pressure cooker.

The Rotarians are also giving the business section that Christmas look. Ten strings of colored lights have been strung across the Main Street section from Walton & Reading to the Railroad crossing. In addition to this, a large Christmas tree has been planted along the sidewalk in front of the Waltonian Hotel, which is to be decorated. We think this a fine thing and the local Rotary Club is to be congratulated in giving our town that "merry Christmas look."

The Chambers & Grubbs funeral home, Florence, had charge of arrangements.

Commissioner of Rural Highways Emerson Beauchamp today announced distribution of an approximately $8,000,000 fund among the 120 counties for an expanded rural highway program under a formula that will provide for distribution of a portion of the fund in each county in the State.

The distribution will provide for $74,417.26 to be spent in Boone county next year, including $47,480.00 from increased funds provided by the 1948 General Assembly and $30,937.26 from the old $5,000,000 rural highway fund.

The $8,000,000, representing funds accruing to the Highway Department from increased revenues provided by action of the 1948 General Assembly, is in addition to the $5,000,000 annual statutory fund that is spent for this purpose, and is provided solely for rural and secondary highway improvement.

It is the aim of the Department to channel the greater part of the increased funds into construction and reconstruction projects in the counties to the end that Kentucky have a constantly improving system of rural and secondary roads.

Approximate figures for each county under the new formula provide that each county in the state will be entitled to receive road improvements aggregating more than twice what was received under the previous $5,000,000 allocation of funds.

It will be the plan of the Department of Highways to map plans with the local county groups during the winter months for road improvements in each county, preparatory to a full-scale program to be initiated in the spring.

Any moneys not spent one year in a county to which it was allotted will be carried over for expenditure in the county next year.

Three Plays At Verona School

On Thursday night, Dec. 9th at 8:00, the seventh and eighth grades of the Verona school will present three one-act plays. Two of these are mountain plays and the other an Irish comedy. They are "Hillbilly Sue," "Come 'Round the Mountain," and "Mrs. O'Leary's Cow."

There are some hilarious parts in these comedies, which we think lift the spirits of all who attend. Besides the plays, there will be some sublimely music from a girl trio, composed of Sarah and Mary Chipman and Laverne Chandler. They will song "Winter Wonderland" and "White Christmas."

Those you will see in the plays are Althea Pooks, Walter Elam, Magdalene Tackett, Lela Overby, Mary Florence Ryan, Betty Hurlman, Bob Porter, A. J. Martin, Shirley Coyle, Laverne Chandler, Nona Perkins, Carl Cook, Laura Chipman, Joe Ed Morris, Loretta Poole, Edith Vest, Ronald Vest and Ruby Renaker. Doormen will be Wayne Marsh, Herbert Patton, Paul Perkins and Shorty Coyle.

Admission will be 25c for adults and 15c for students in Walton, Verona schools.

These plays are under the direction of Miss Judy Detherage, third and fourth grade and music teacher in the Verona school. The funds will be used for the music department of the school. You are invited to be present.—Pub. Com.

The afternoon was enjoyed by music and games. Old Santa appeared on the scene about 3 p. m. with a well-filled sack and not a person was slighted. The children enjoyed this part of the program.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. C. Hinsdale, 121 South Main Street, Walton, on January 5th.

Curing Discussed In Meat Circular

All good meat-curing mixtures should contain salt, sugar and saltpeter. It is stated in "Killing, Curing and Curing Pork," a circular of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky.

Pork may be cured either in a "dry" or "brine" cure, or a combination of the two. There are many variations of these two general methods, including the "dry salt," "dry sugar cure" and "molesasses sugar cure" methods. The "dry salt" cure consists of salt only, and is used principally in curing heavy side meat or fat cuts to be used for seasoning meat. Ordinary barrel salt is satisfactory. Granulated sugar is preferable, and is the kind much used by meat packers.

Completes Course

Miss Dorothy Kandy of Verona has just completed a comptometer and Burroughs course at the Miller Business School, Cincinnati, and has been promoted to a comptometer operator at the Crosey Corporation where she has been employed since her graduation.

Extension Committee Hears Specialist Speak

The Boone County Extension Advisory committee met recently to hear G. P. Summers, field agent in economics, discuss the agricultural and home economics outlook for 1949, according to the County Extension office.

Mr. Summers advised that people of the U. S. would spend close to 220 million dollars in 1949. In round 28% of this money would be spent for farm products. He said hog prices have dropped 30% since September, but will rise in the spring with pork prices in March. Prices on hogs will then decline thru May, rising to another peak in September and October, then decline again during the winter. The expected low price next winter will be about 20c.

Lambs will continue as high as last spring until the latter part of the year, when they will decline. Beef prices are expected to rise during the early part of 1949.

Egg prices will decline in the early spring and the fall rise will not be as sharp as last year.

The cost of manufactured goods will turn upward resulting in increased production cost to agriculture. Agricultural prices will tend to level off or turn lower during the coming year. In view of these two facts, the margin of profit for all agricultural products will be narrower than in 1948.

Feed prices are down 33% since July and will rise from now until March. Feed will be generally lower in '49 and will be more favorable for meat animals and milk production.

Mr. Summers stated that there are five things to be watched during 1949 that will vitally effect agriculture:

- 1—How much money the government spends for foreign relief.
- 2—How much the government spends for defense.
- 3—What action the 81st Congress takes on the support price program.
- 4—What changes take place in wage rates.
- 5—What action the government takes on re-discount rates.

The committee decided that efficiency in farming and homemaking was an important item, since the margin of profits would in general be lower during 1949. The committee decided the following things should be stressed in extension work this year:

- 1—Livestock Improvement: Artificial Breeding Association considered the best way to improve dairy cattle.
- 2—Crop Improvement: Continue search for new and better varieties.
- 3—Soil Improvement: Advocate soil testing to prevent over liming and result in balanced fertilization programs on all farms.
- 4—Develop farm and home water supply systems: In spite of high prices for materials, seems advisable to install systems as soon as possible. Manufactured goods will rise in price and agriculture prices are still relatively high.
- 5—Farm and Home Improvement: Do all remodeling that needs to be done to make the farm and farm home more suitable for working and living.
- 6—Pasture and Hay Development: Increase acreages of hay and pasture in the county.

Mr. Summers told the committee that the outlook information should not be used to jump from one type of farming to another, but rather to stress the importance of a balanced farm program.

Don't forget—the Walton Homemakers meet December 10th with Mrs. Frank Penick at her country home on Jones Road (out High St.). Every member is expected to be present. An interesting program and Christmas party are scheduled.

Walton Homemakers to Meet

NEW BETHEL WMS

The W. M. S. of New Bethel Baptist church was entertained for all day in the "Crazy home" of Mrs. Robert Porter to observe special prayer for the Little Moon Christmas offering. The program, under the leadership of Mission study chairman, Mrs. Pattie Waller, who was assisted by Mrs. Alice Chapman, was well presented.

At noon a bountiful covered dish luncheon was served to the following members and guests: Mesdames Gertrude Brewster, Alice Chandler, Alice Chapman, Susie Dwyer, Rose Hamilton, Ellena Hamilton, Arslia Hayden, Lena Harris, Effie Clemons, Frances McCormick, Lizzie Noel, Grace Renaker, Ura Roberts, Lillian Stephenson, Pattie Waller, America Sturdivant, Sallie Whitson, Judy Rouse, Jim Bob and Phillip Hamilton, Junior Coyle, Norman Ferguson, and host and hostess, Mrs. M. M. Porter.

A generous offering was taken at the end of the program for the Little Moon cause.—Pub. Ch.

Bearcats Play At Burlington Friday Night

Having spent the past weekend in Western Kentucky, the Walton-Vernon Bearcats return to the local basketball arena Friday night of this week when they go to Burlington for a Boone County Conference tilt with the County Seat lads. Burlington has been playing "very good ball, having bumped-off two of the undefeated fives in this section, Simon Kenton and Warsaw, and the locals will have to be in top form in order to make a good showing come Friday.

The Cats hit the road early last Friday and drove to Greenville, Ky. where they played that evening. According to reports, the locals were none too impressive, appearing a bit sluggish after the long trip, and consequently the Green hills team lead all the way to win 43-36.

At the half the winners were in front 30-17. Saturday night the Bearcats took a busman's holiday and went to near-by Bowling Green, where the Hilltoppers defeat Bowling Green, Ohio. They returned to Walton on Sunday.

Coach Hayes has been working the boys overtime this week in order to have them in top form for Friday's Burlington game.

"THE HOUSE OF SPRAT" HAS LOCAL AUTHOR

Here is a book that will answer the vexing question, "What shall I give for Christmas?" As one reviewer wrote, after reading it, "read it, chuckling all the way. It is delightful, full of humor, gentle but rickling satire, showing a remarkable use of the ancient folk rhymes that so long ago displayed both wisdom and artistry."

This little volume contains ten delightful essays, based on Mother Goose characters, giving them a significant meaning for present day living. The treatment is humorous but with the most solid content clothed in a pleasing literary style. It has been characterized as "penetrating humor."

Fred S. Nichols, our own town pastor, is the author of the book. He informs us that anyone desiring a copy, which the publisher sells for two dollars, may obtain one by calling him personally or telephoning him and showing anyone desiring a book autographed, he will gladly do so.

War Veteran Left Alongside Road by Speeding Motorist

George Ford, 26, of Florence, was reported in fair condition Monday at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Covington, despite severe injuries suffered when he was struck by a hit-skip driver early Sunday morning.

Mr. Ford, an employee of the Williamson Heater Co., Cincinnati, was suffering a broken left leg, loss of a portion of his right ear, severe face and body bruises and shock.

He was struck by an unidentified auto while walking along Burlington Pike, in Florence, shortly after midnight Sunday.

The motorist, now being sought by Boone county authorities, sped away and left the unconscious man lying in the weeds alongside the pike.

When he regained consciousness, the victim crawled and hobbled to his residence in the home of O. R. Russ, approximately two blocks away, on Burlington pike.

The mishap occurred a few minutes after Ford had alighted from a bus at the Florence Post Office, at midnight. He finally made his way into the Russ home at 2:30 a. m., Monday.

Thought unable at the time to tell Mr. and Mrs. Russ what had happened to him, he became lucid enough to give them some information as Mrs. Russ was driving him to the hospital, according to Mrs. Russ.

Mrs. Russ said the victim, though not a relative, had made his home with her family since he was 13 years old. He is a World War II veteran, she said.

Boone County Sheriff I. E. Rouse is pushing an investigation in an effort to trace the hit-skip auto.

Among the few details given by the victim while enroute to the hospital was the fact that the car which struck him was approaching at "a high rate of speed" from behind when the accident occurred.

"I probably never saw the car, but only heard it, before he was injured and lost consciousness," Mrs. Russ said.

Wood, Mrs. Howard Stephenson, Mrs. Homer Winburn, Miss Mary Hood Gillespie, and two visitors, Mrs. Abbie Bush and Miss Mable Penick.

SANTA CLAUS is one of the most precious wonders of childhood. American mothers overwhelmingly agree that he should be portrayed as the spirit of generosity, kindness, and gift-giving.

Although the modern conception of Santa Claus is American, the Spirit of Santa Claus is neither modern nor American. The real Saint Nicholas lives in Asia Minor and ever since his death in 343 stories concerning him have been repeated around the firesides of Europe.

The children of Lapland and northern climates naturally picture Santa dressed in fur and dashing through the snow in a reindeer-drawn sleigh. But in central Europe, St. Nicholas first appeared on his liturgical feast day, December 6, and he was a thin, austere churchman who rode a mule and carried gifts for good children and a bundle of birch rods with which to switch the naughty.

Under Dutch influence St. Nicholas lost his solemnity. The Dutch colonists who brought him to America were very practical people and they decided against two gift-giving days in the same month. Thus, Saint Nick started coming around only at Christmas time.

Santa Gets a Sleigh. Eventually, ancient legends were woven into American Christmas traditions. Washington Irving sent St. Nicholas flying through Christmas skies in a reindeer-drawn sleigh in 1809; Dr. Clement Moore's poem "The Night Before Christmas," written in 1822, gave Santa "a little round belly that shook when he laughed, like a bowl full of jelly;" and a series of drawings in 1883 by Thomas Nast added much to the traditional pictures and appearance of the Santa we see today. In every youngster's life there comes the time when he begins to suspect that the various be-whiskered gentlemen, so numerous during this season, are not exactly the real Santa Claus. Wise parents advance the "helper" theory as soon as they are asked questions and teach their children to make the Christmas dreams of less fortunate tots and their families come true. Thus, the real Santa Claus isn't just myth or legend. He is the Spirit of Christmas who lives in the sparkling eyes of children and in the hearts of all grown-ups who strive for peace and good will among men.

X Marks The Spot. An elderly man standing in a line felt someone nudge him on the back turning sharply, he saw a youth about to leave the place behind him.

"I'm just going across the road to buy some cigarettes," said the youth.

"That's no reason why you should jump me on the back," retorted the elderly man.

"I didn't bump you on the back," the young man said, just as indignantly. "I just put a chalk mark on your coat so that I shouldn't forget my place in the line."

"You did it"

Who makes the Southland grow and prosper?

Is it the banker? The farmer? The industrialist? The factory-worker? The schoolteacher? The miner? The housewife?

Is it the Southern Railway System... with its dependable transportation service... its good, steady jobs for 45,000 men and women?... its tax payments in every community... its purchases of materials and supplies throughout the Southland?

Yes! And No!

It's each one of them... and all of them... everybody! For it takes many minds, many hearts and many hands... planning together... working together... keeping everlastingly at it... to achieve the future that all of us want, here in the South.

The Best News

Lesson for December 19, 1948

WHAT kind of news is good? Christians always have called the heart of their religion "Good News," for that is what "Gospel" means. We do not call it "Good Resolutions" or "Good Ideas" or even "Good Intentions." Just Good News. But what is good about it? It is a fair question to ask at Christmas time, for the story that Christmas brings is the beginning of the Gospel.

Dr. Foreman

News of Peace

ONE of the best kinds of news there is to learn that someone we thought was an enemy, is actually a friend. The end of misunderstanding, of estrangement—what a rush of warmth to the heart it brings!

That is the news of the first Christmas—that God is our friend. Christ did not come to assure men that there is a God. That was well known, indeed few doubted it. He did not even come to announce that there is but one God, for that was already known to the wisest sort of men. Neither did his coming unwell the God of justice. The Greeks and Romans, as well as the Jews, knew such a God only too well.

No wonder a Roman poet, looking about on the religions of his time, concluded that fear is the great god-maker. His notion was a mistake; but it was a natural one. For all the religions of the ancient world, even the religion of the Jew, were attempts to ward off the anger of offended gods.

The coming of Christ was to put an end to all that. This was more than a friendly gesture, it was an act of love. Those who have discovered God in Christ have found that God is not only our Maker but our heavenly Father and Friend. There is no better news!

News of a Gift

IT is good news also when we hear of a lucky or gift of some sort, especially when it is something we could not have expected. And the story of Christmas is the news about God personally entering the life of man. It is God giving us himself. True, the world is full of the gifts of God.

In the Child of Bethlehem, in the Man he was to become, in the work he was to do, there was a new thing—the self-giving of God. That is one reason why Christmas means infinitely more to a Christian than to any one else.

For the non-Christian, the story of Christmas, for all its charm, is only another story of a child born to poverty, doomed to pain—another chapter in the long agony of man. For the Christian, the story of Christmas is the Good News of how God gives himself, for our sake.

News of Rescue

MANY Americans, caught in the war, starving behind electric fences for years on end, caught their first news of victory from seeing American planes roaring high overhead. No words were needed. It was news, good news, the news of rescue, of freedom.

So it is with man. Caught in the long war between good and evil, a prisoner in the enemy's country, behind the high fences of frustration, plodding heavily through the freezing mire of barren sins, man despairs of strength or freedom.

To all mankind, to each one who will listen, the Christmas story is good news of rescue. A Child is born, but more... "A Saviour, who is Christ the Lord."

From a Far Country

IT is good news when from a far country, until now dark and unknown, we learn that it is a land of friends who send us welcome across the miles. So the meaning of Christmas is good news from a far land, the land beyond what we call death. "Our Saviour" Jesus Christ hath abolished death, and brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel" (II Tim. 1:10).

As on the first Christmas, so ever since, the Gospel of God is not alone the good news of a God who loves and forgives and who brings us the victory, it is the news of God who stands at the end of our dark journey to welcome his children home.

Good news! The world has none to equal the news of Christmas.

HELPFUL HINTS: The simplest way to sew the fingertip of torn or worn-out gloves is to drop one of Junior's marbles into the finger of the glove and use it as you would a darning egg. . . . When grating carrots, leave about an inch of the green top on the carrot. This will act as a handle for you to grasp and will keep your fingers from getting skinned on the grater. . . . Ever try to remove whole pecan meats from the shell? Quite difficult to keep them from breaking up. Here's the trick that solves the difficulty: soak the nuts for several hours in a quart of water and 1 tablespoon of salt. The shells will soften up so that you can easily break them by hand. . . . Smart hostesses serve Garlic Bread along with their special salad or casserole. It tastes as though it's an elaborate preparation but actually it's very simple. Cut a loaf of French or Vienna bread into thick slices but do not cut entirely thru into the bottom crust. Mash a clove of garlic until entirely disintegrated, then mash this into 3 or 4 tablespoons of butter or margarine, and spread the garlic butter between the slices of bread, then pop the loaf into the oven (350-375 F.) until very hot and crisp. . . . FOOD FOR THOUGHT: We have no more right to consume happiness without producing it, than to consume wealth without producing it. . . . George Bernard Shaw.

A LITTLE OF THIS AND THAT: The mail box now has the new look what with its transparent plastic front, gaily colored back and anti-freeze lid! Being sold in department and hardware stores. . . . A clever idea which one of my neighbors recommends is that of clipping new or interesting recipes and tacking two or three of the minds of the door of her kitchen cupboard. She finds them easily and uses them often. When she knows them by heart, she replaces them with a few new ones! . . . What to give the bride the first time you visit her new home? The answer is to bring her a recipe file box, in a gay kitchen color, with her new initials printed on top of it. It's not only very useful but its decorative, and is something which she's not likely to own.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK: For the woman who goes to business and prepares the evening meal for two, this is inexpensive and rapid to make. If you're cooking for more than two, just multiply the quantities to suit the number of people you're serving.

Simple Stuffed Peppers — One-third cup rice; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1 can chopped meat (baby or junior food); salt, pepper, garlic salt; 1/2 teaspoon curry powder; 2 green peppers; a little bacon fat or butter; bread crumbs and paprika.

Boil the rice in 1 quart of water to which the salt has been added. Cook until soft (about 25 minutes) or if pressure pot is used, follow the recommended timing. Wash peppers, split, remove center core and seeds. Cook in boiling water for about 15 minutes or until tender. Heat the oven to 350. When the rice has finished cooking, rinse with cold water, drain and steam over boiling water until dry and fluffy. Mix with the meat and seasonings in a bowl. When the peppers are cooked, stuff them with the rice mixture, top with bread crumbs and paprika, and place in a shallow greased pan to bake for 10 minutes at 350 F. Serve either plain or with Tomato Cheese Sauce.

Tomato Cheese Sauce — 1/2 cup milk; 1 teaspoon butter; 3 or 4 tablespoons melted yellow cheese; 1/2 cup tomato paste.

Combine and heat the above in a sauce pan until smooth and well blended. Pour over stuffed peppers. DID YOU KNOW? You can buy an aluminum unit for the broiler which is really grand for broiling small portions such as a single chop. It keeps the stove clean and saves you a lot of work. . . . You can put one or several flowers into a water-filled glass marine globe with a screw-on plastic cap, and get the most surprising effect. The globe magnifies the size and intensifies the color and beauty of the flowers. They'll stay fresh much longer when kept this way, too.

Christmas Went Underground With Puritan Ban of 1644

THERE was a time when Christmas went underground. People who advocated Christmas were in danger of arrest and imprisonment and it looked as though Christmas was on its way out.

It all happened around 1644 when the Puritans in England forbade any merriment or religious services, by act of parliament, on the ground that it was a heathen festival. What resulted was much grumbling, breaking of the law and a Christmas underground which wrote and distributed pamphlets in favor of Christmas.

In 1648, for instance, was published "Canterbury Christmas." This pamphlet gives an account of the subsequent proceedings after the Cryer of Canterbury had upon Wednesday, December 22, "openly proclaimed that Christmas day and all other superstitious festivals should be put downe, and a market should be kept on Christmas day. Which being not observed," (but very ill taken by the country) the town was thereby unserved with provision and trading very much hindered; which occasioned great discontent among people, caused them to rise in a rebellious way."

Among the rarest of the pamphlets issued at that time is entitled "The Examination and Tryal of Old Father Christmas." In this little volume, "one old Christmas was commanded to be brought to the Bar, then was a jury for Life and Death to be impaneled." "The Judge was called Judge Hate-bate, the Sheriff's name was called Leonard Love-peace."

In the end Christmas is acquitted, but is cautioned by Judge Hate-bate, "for avoiding all such scandals as have been cast upon you for the future, do think it to admonish you, that you remember your Office is not so much to feast the Body, as to refresh the soul, by thankful and pious Meditations."

Charles II re-established Christmas in 1678 and "jolly Old Father Christmas" has never had to stand trial since.

The minstrels played their Christmas tune.

Tonight beneath my cottage eaves; While, smitten by a lofty moon, The encircling laurels, thick with leaves, Gave back a rich and dazzling sheen. That overpowered their natural green.

Through hill and valley every breeze Had sunk to rest with folded wings; Keen was the air, but could not freeze. Nor check the music of the strings; So stout and hardy were the band That scraped the chords with strenuous hand.

And who but listened? till was paid Respect to every inmate's claim; The greeting given, the music played In honor of each household name, Duly pronounced with lusty call, And "merry Christmas" wished to all.

—William Wordsworth.

Parents Can Spoil Children's Play

Here's a Christmas resolution for parents. It's one that ought to be made before New Year's resolutions are even considered. It goes, "I will keep my hands off the children's toys all day on Christmas." It'll be a hard one to keep because Mother likes to fuss with Ann's doll. She pretends she is showing Ann how to put on the bonnet, but she's actually having a grand time playing. And once Father gets his hands on the train, or the auto that winds up, the boys can't get near them. It isn't fair. The children are crying for a little peace and freedom. After all, adults can play with toys for the next 364 days if they want to.

The Conqueror

He was born in a manger under the Star

For lack of room elsewhere, But the homes of earth may be glorified

By His gracious presence there. He built no temple with stately walls,

Yet there are many today Where weary men may adore His name

As they bow their hearts to pray. He wrote no book, but His message of truth

Pervaded the tongues of men, He left no riches, although in His name

The wealth of His friends is given. He founded no kingdom, made no

Yet the world will learn some day, That only those nations can endure Which follow His matchless Way.

Tree Decorations Symbolize Myths

You may not realize it, but most of the ornaments on your Christmas tree are symbols of myths and legends that were popular three thousand years before the birth of Christ.

At that time the Aryan race, living in the foothills of the Himalaya mountains, saw in the rays of the rising sun, bent as they passed through the humid air, the image of a gigantic tree. These sun poets added to the tree image suggestions from the more distant heavens; the sun, the moon and the stars became the golden fruit that hung on the branches. The larger clouds suggested birds, swans and doves flying in and about the tree. The golden flash of heat-lightning became the mystical flower that grew on the tree, the celestial mistletoe. The showers that watered the tree came from the streams at its base.

From these fragmentary old legends in folklore we get the tree itself, the golden tinsel to represent the rising sun, the golden fruit for stars and the moon, swans and doves for clouds, mistletoe for lightning and showers or streamers of silver tinsel for water.

Magi Were Priests Of Persian Religion

Along about this time of the year there's a lot written, said and sung about the Magi. Just who were the Magi, anyway?

The Magi were priests of an ancient Persian religion called Zoroastrianism. The Greek historian Herodotus gives a very favorable account of them and their influence in a society which existed four hundred years before Christ's birth.

According to Herodotus the Magi were powerful in public and private affairs. They conducted the education of the young princes, and were in constant attendance upon the king as counselors.

This description of a Magi appears in the sacred writing of Zoroaster: "Thou shouldst call him priest, who sits the whole night thru and years for holy wisdom that enables man to stand upon death's bridge fearless and with happy heart, the wisdom whereby he attains the holy and glorious world of paradise."

The three Magi, or Wise Men, who followed the Star of Bethlehem and brought gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh to the Christ child remain nameless, but they were the first to recognize the importance of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

Birthday of Jesus An Uncertain Date

It is not surprising that the day and year of the birth of Jesus are uncertain, for methods of keeping track of dates during the era when Christ was born were not very reliable. For years, eminent scholars have been searching the scriptures, and all possible records, to try to establish an exact date. So far, they have not succeeded.

Matthew states that Jesus was born during the reign of King Herod which helps to establish the period of His birth and this is the starting point from which the scholars attempt to reckon the year.

The statement by Matthew that the wise men from the east, in inquiring "Where is He that is born King of the Jews?" aroused Herod so that he ordered the massacre of all children two years old or less, is very significant.

It is taken as a proof that Jesus must have been born about two years before this infamous decree was issued.

No less an authority than the Catholic encyclopedia places the birth of Christ in the year which, by our modern methods of keeping track of dates, would be 7 B.C. Thus, Christ's birth does not exactly determine the difference between B.C. and A.D. date.

Most people, however, do not care if the exact day and year of Christ's birth are unknown. What matters most is the deathless vigor of the Christmas Spirit throughout the world.

Buel Rucker of Green county estimates that his cover crop was worth $150 an acre on his tobacco crop.

Reading Yuletide Stories Adds to Family Christmas

THE reading of literature's most loved Christmas stories, including the Gospels, is one of the best ways for a family to prepare for the day itself.

A family reading session, planned for the last few days before Christmas, will make it easier for the children to stand the tension of waiting and will add meaning and happy family memories to the occasion.

Christmas is, first of all, religious, and the New Testament accounts of the birth of Jesus ought always to be read first. Both the Christmas tales of Matthew and Luke are beautiful poetry and literature.

Perhaps the most famous Christmas book in the world, after the Gospels, is Dickens' "A Christmas Carol," written in 1843. It is a tale which will be told and retold as long as there is Christmas. It is profound enough for the most adult taste and it is still a children's classic.

Henry Van Dyke's "The Other Wise Man," is another story which has become a Christmas classic.

It tells of a fourth wise man who saw the star rising and set out to follow it. The great desire of this pilgrim was denied, yet fulfilled in the denial.

For a good, unoffensive, funny story about Christmas try "How Come Christmas?" by Roark Bradford. It concerns the efforts of a group of Negroes to decide which came first, Santa Claus or the little Lord Jesus.

Probably the most famous American Christmas tale is Kate Douglas Wiggin's "The Birds' Christmas Carol." There are other American Christmas stories well worth reading, though, such as Louisa May Alcott's "Christmas at Orchard House" and Vincent Starrett's "Snow for Christmas." Christopher Morley's "The Worst Christmas Story" happens to be almost one of the best.

These are just a few of the possibilities for a literary Christmas menu. When it is selected and served to the family circle, have the fireplace going and the tree lights on.

Joe Cloan of Rowan county has installed a gravity water system in his home, water being supplied from a spring on a hillside.

Robert Shipp of Oldham county harvested 154.75 bushels of corn per acre, the highest yield ever produced in the county.

After using more than 20 corn pickers in Spencer county, farmers there were able to seed larger acreages of cover crops than formerly.

Paxton Marshall of the Worthington community in Jefferson county will seed 30 bushels of vigo seed wheat on 20 acres.

"DEAR SANTA" . . . This calls for a lot of deep thinking. You mustn't ask for too much, but you hate to ask for too little.

Thousands of Bulbs On Largest Tree

Three thousand multi-colored electric bulbs and tons of Spanish moss decorate the world's largest Christmas tree located in Hilton Municipal Park at Wilmington, North Carolina. The giant, 300-year-old water oak rises to a height of 275 feet and its branches spread 110 feet.

Its magnificence has been enhanced by a radio station constructed beneath the spreading limbs from which emanates Christmas music that reaches the crowds from loud speakers concealed in the branches and an apparent voice from the heavens that comes from a speaker mounted atop a nearby giant water tower.

Thousands of people gather around it each night during December to listen or join in the Christmas caroling. The tree won its title as the largest Christmas tree in a contest held several years ago.

Our Christmas Date Started By Romans

The first celebration of the birth of Christ on December 25 took place in the fourth century. Before that date the commemoration of Christ's Nativity and Baptism was held on January 6.

The first mention of Christmas is found in a Roman document known as the "Philocalian Calendar" in the year 354, and the first time the festival was celebrated in Britain was in 598, when St. Augustine baptized 10,000 converts.

In the year 567 the Council of Tours declared a twelve-day festival from Christmas to Epiphany, and in 991-1016 the laws ordained that all strife should cease at Christmas. Christmas was established in 813 in Germany and in Norway in the year 850.

STAFFORDSBURG

We were so glad to learn how Mrs. Mattie Mills, who has been a shut-in for many months, was remembered on her birthday by a number of friends and relatives. All came in singing "Happy Birthday" and bearing a beautifully wrapped parcel containing a lovely bed jacket. Two beautiful cakes came to grace the occasion, one of which was decorated with birthday candles. The following were among those present: Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Tipton, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Finley Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. M. Wagoner, Mrs. Elma Gibson, Mrs. Harry Wilson, Miss Carrie Perry, Mrs. Ralph Ervin, and Miss Lena Mills and Mr. and Mrs. Bruin and son Gyles. After visiting and enjoying refreshments the guests departed, leaving best wishes and fragrant memories. As life goes toward the evening, we wish her a beautiful sunset.

We were encouraged to have at Sunday School this past Sunday several who had not been there recently. One who has recently started attending our Sabbath School assured us that she hopes to come regularly. Let's all try to be there every week and thus encourage others to come.

Some who visited at Rev. Wheary's were pleasantly surprised to be met at the door by Mrs. Wheary. We are glad for her improvement and pray for her complete recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mills, Mrs. Geo. Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Fooks, while enjoying their new car, called on relatives in this neighborhood Thursday of last week.

Jerry Binder was ill with a cold the past week. Hurry and get well before Santa comes, Jerry!

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tieman are the proud parents of a little daughter, born Dec. 7th and named Barbara Ann. Mrs. Tieman is now resting at the home of Mr. Tieman's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fischer, of upper Garrard St., Covington.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Keeney went to visit the Henry Mills family of Verona, but finding no one at home, they called on Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore of Walton.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Rapp and children, C. S., Jr. and Judy were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Denver Binder.

We are planning a Christmas program at the church on Thursday evening, Dec. 23rd. We will be disappointed if you don't come. Leslie Damon has departed on a trip to Arizona.

Bearcats Take Burlington by 43-31 Decision

The Walton-Verona High School Bearcats scored their third Boone County Conference basketball triumph last Friday night at Burlington when they defeated Coach Ralph Maurer's Eagles 43 to 31. This was the first Conference game for the Maurem.

The teams played on even terms during the first quarter, with the period ending in a tie score, 8-8. In the second set, the Cats outscored the Eagles 9-5 to lead 17-13 at the intermission. The losers outscored their opponents by one point, 11-10, in the third frame, but still trailed, 27-24. The locals began to pull away in the final quarter to make the final count 43-31.

Scoring for the Bearcats was well divided, with Johnny Maddox leading the way with 10 markers, followed closely by Layne Cheeseman with 9, and Mike Vest and Don Rice with 8 points each. Rayle led the attack for Burlington, with 8 tallies, with Cave second with 6.

The Walton reserves won the preliminary game, and if memory serves us correctly, the score was 25-13. This was the second win of the season for the locals.

Next Game Jan. 4th
The next public appearance of the Bearcats will be on Tuesday, Jan. 4, when they go to Bellevue, and on Friday, Jan. 7th they play a Conference game with the Tigers of New Haven, on the latter's floor.

We are sorry to have halted this long to announce this dance but the men doing the remodeling were not sure they could have the work done by New Year's Eve. We wish to take this opportunity to thank all persons who have helped and supported the American Legion in this first year we have been organized, and look forward to your continued support in the coming year. A much greater job lies ahead now than in the past and it is going to take the help and cooperation of every Legion member to make our aims and goal possible.

To help save immature corn, five Fleming county dairymen made straw silos holding 20 to 30 tons each.

Perhaps the most typical thing about America at this time is the Christmas tree, for with its holiday garb of tinsel and goodies, its religious significance and spirit of festivity, it mirrors the cultural traditions and customs of the world.

JAPANESE FOLLOW WESTERN CHRISTMAS TREE CUSTOM.—The Japanese have adopted the Christmas tree and given it an oriental appearance by decorating its branches with Japanese dolls, woodcuts, small tangerines and rice cookies called "sambel," that hold paper slips of fortunes.

CHRISTMAS TREE ORIGINATED IN GERMANY.—An apron full of ginger-bread cookies from a German tree, traditionally decorated with ginger-cakes, nuts, apples, marzipans, and candy-filled cornucopias. Chains and baskets made by hand—from ordinary newspaper when nothing more suitable is available—complete its trimmings. Candles have been used to illuminate it ever since the time of Martin Luther, when the custom of decorating trees at Christmas first began.

MANGER SCENE IN ITALY.—An Italian girl attaches an angel to a pine branch above the crib, traditional Italian symbol of Christmas. The custom dates back to 1223 when St. Francis of Assisi arranged the first crib in the church at Greccio, Italy, using a simple manger with a doll to represent the Christ Child and adding live animals for reality. The manger has become a recognized symbol of religious significance throughout the Christian world.

FOLK-MOTIFS ON CZECH TREE.—Pretty Czech angels lend a touch of heaven to the Czech tree decorated with figures of gilded nuts, apples, and cookies made to resemble animal figures, peasant girls, stars and village huts. Local folk-motifs are noticeable in the trimmings on the angels' gowns, closely patterned after the braided design on the bodice of the peasant girl's holiday garb.

ATTEND ATOMIC ENERGY EXHIBIT

Beginning November 8, for a period of twelve days, all the sides and math students of Simon Kenton and surrounding schools had a very unusual opportunity of witnessing an exhibit of Atomic Energy. In connection with this exhibit, some of the physics students had an opportunity to act as guides and assisted in conducting groups through the exhibit.

The lectures encompassed such subjects as Force and Energy, Peace Time Uses of Atomic Energy and It's International Control. They also learned a little about the production of Naptunium and Plutonium, "Chain" reaction and the U-235 bomb; how atoms are split and future possibilities of Atomic energy.

The Chemistry, Physics, Math Club, Plane Geometry and both classes of Algebra were very excited on November 19 when they journeyed to Music Hall to see this exhibit. They left Simon Kenton at 12:30, the bus at 10 o'clock and returned at 12:30. This group was accompanied by Mr. Combs and Miss Taylor.

Can't burn any seed or plant. Apply FOUR-LEAF to plowed ground, growing crops, pasture, stubble and stalks... and particularly to legume seed-beds or seedlings, because legumes especially need ample phosphorus.

God's V-Day

Lesson for December 28, 1948

EVERYBODY loves a fight, they say. But the underdog does not love it, and nobody loves one that goes on and on and seems to have no end. The longest war in history is the war that mankind wages against everything that is out to destroy him. It is the war between man at his best and man at his worst, between the angel and the devil in man himself. We seem to be the underdogs—and how tired we grow of it!

God's Fight

THE Bible shows us that this fight is not one in which we human beings are left to defend ourselves alone. We have an enemy, Satan; and we have an ally, God. Whenever a man lines up against anything that is wrong, hateful, deceitful, destructive, and on the side of what is creative, just, brotherly and true, he finds that this is not a private fight, it is not even the struggle of mankind alone. It is a cosmic conflict.

God's universe is not a neat garden in which only flowers grow; he has to work cutting down the weeds. His universe is not a realm at peace, with no need even for police; treason is abroad, rebellion breaks out here and there.

The Greeks used to think that the gods never went to any trouble, they ruled without effort. But the Christian Bible tells of a God who does have troubles, who meets opposition and fights against it.

Bright Books for Dark Times

THE books in our Bible bring this out in a startling way: Daniel and Revelation. We have been thinking through three months now about various kinds of literature in the Bible. The kind represented by these two books is called "Apocalyptic." Scholars have discovered a number of similar books, but these two are incomparably the greatest and were the only two to be admitted to the Bible. One feature of all apocalyptic literature is that it always appears in dark times, and its first readers are people down at the bottom of the heap, people beyond all human hope.

Daniel, long before the time of Christ, and Revelation, two generations later than Christ, came as lights in a very dark world. The first of these books circulated when the Jews were hard pressed by Syrian persecutors, and when the other came out, the Christians were about to be crushed out of existence by cruel Roman emperors.

Observing what went on in those days, you might have thought the Jews, or the Christians as the case might be, had no prospects of surviving. But these books brought a brighter message: Have courage! God will not lose!

A Code in Pictures

DANIEL and Revelation are both hard to understand, and for the same reason. Their messages are named not always in plain language but in symbols. Hidden meanings abound.

This had to be so; if one of these books fell (as sometimes they did) into the hands of the persecuting agents of the Syrian or Roman governments, it would not get the owner into trouble, for the agent would hardly be able to interpret the strange language.

All sorts of weird creatures and events move through these mysterious pages, and they often probably refer to persons or events known to the writers and the first readers: beasts with iron teeth and horns with eyes; a flaming throne set on a river of fire; golden vials filled with the wrath of God; a red dragon sweeping the stars down with its tail.

God's Victory
WE NEED not be distressed now at not being able to unlock all the code in which these extraordinary books are written. We can read them for their sheer beauty and force of imagination, for one thing, and we cannot miss their main truth. The bright picture of the New Jerusalem in Rev. 21, 22 is one of the loveliest and most comforting passages in the entire Bible.

Hard to Satisfy

A SHABBLIY dressed man asked the circus manager for a job. "What can you do?" asked the manager.

"I can dive head first from a 150-foot ladder onto a block of concrete," said the man.

"That I want to see," said the manager. He had a 150-foot tower built and a block of concrete placed in front of it. The man mounted the tower, soared off and lit head first on the concrete. He got up, shook his head. The excited circus manager rushed up.

"You're hired," he shouted. "I'll pay you $300 a week."

The man shook his head. "Why don't you want the job?" asked the circus manager. "Well," replied the man, "that was the first time I have ever tried it, and I don't like it."

ONE-TRACK MIND

Blonde: "How do you like your new boss?"

Brunette: "Oh, he's okay but a little narrow-minded."

Brunette: "He thinks words can only be spelled one way."

"Look heeb, Bastus, you all know what you're doin'? You goin' away for de week-end and there ain't a stick of wood out for de house."

"Well, what you all whinin' about, womin? I ain't takin' de axe am I?"

Thanks, Your Honor!

The judge had just awarded a divorce to a wife who had charged non-support.

"And," he said to the husband, "I have decided to give your wife $50 a month for support."

"That's fine, judge," the man replied, "and once in a while I'll try to slip her a few bucks myself."

Bonthead

Son: "I want to be a bone specialist."

Father: "Well, you've got the head for it."

LONG WAIT

A subway was being dug. A drunk strolled beside the excavation and tapped down to the man at the bottom of the pit. "Shay, watch a doing down there?"

"Building a subway."

"How long's it gonna take to build it?"

"Three years."

"To heck with it. I'll take a taxi."

Sonanza

"Harry," said the auditor's wife, "aren't attics the most wonderful things to have around?"

"Yes, indeed," agreed the agreeable man. "What did you discover now, darling?"

"The new look," replied the happy housewife, "in an old trunk."

Just for a minute, we relive all the joys and raptures of childhood as we behold the bright tinsel and the gay wrappings of the boxes stacked high under the Christmas tree.

May your gift be an assurance that all your most cherished dreams and hopes will be realized—that is our wish for you at this happy Yuletide season.

CIRCLE II W.S.C.S. MEETS

On Tuesday evening, Dec. 14th, Circle II of the W. S. C. S. of the Walton Methodist Church was entertained in the home of Mrs. Andy Penn.

The program opened by those present singing, "We Three Kings of Orient Are." Mrs. Bruce Wallace read the scripture lesson, Matthew 2:1-12. Mrs. Sam Hudson sang "The First Noel." "Who Are the Wisemen," was read by the program leader, Miss Emma Jane Miller. The topic then presented was "Winters and the Christmas Lights." Miss Miller lead in prayer and the program closed by the Circle singing "Silent Night."

The business session was conducted by Mrs. Bruce Wallace. A report was given on the recent district W. S. C. S. meeting at Florence.

The meeting of this Circle was changed from the third Tuesday evening to the first. The Circle is to be entertained at the home of Miss Rebecca Sleet next month.

After the business session, Santa came, revealing our secret friends, then delicious refreshments were served to the following members: Mrs. Fred Jones, Mrs. Jack Johnson, Mrs. Ward Rice, Mrs. George Hoffman, Mrs. Charles Carlisle, Mrs. Carl Conner, Mrs. Sam Hudson, Mrs. Scott Lancaster, Mrs. Howard Stephenson, Mrs. Bruce Wallace, Miss Rebecca Sleet, Miss Emma J. Standing Room Only

IN the course of one of his lecture trips, Mark Twain arrived at a small town. Before dinner he went to a barber shop to be shaved.

"You are a stranger?" asked the barber.

"Yes," Mark Twain replied. "This is the first time I've been here."

"You chose a good time to come," the barber continued. "Mark Twain is going to read and lecture tonight. You'll go, I suppose."

"Oh, I guess so."

"Have you bought your ticket?"

"Not yet."

"But everything is sold out. You'll have to stand."

"How very annoying!" Mark Twain said with a sigh. "I never saw such luck! I always have to stand when that fellow lectures."

War Veteran

"Did you participate in many engagements in the Pacific?" an inquiring old lady asked of a returned soldier.

"Only five," he replied with modesty.

"And did you come through all of them unhurt?"

"Not exactly," he replied sadly, "I married the fifth."

WELL TIMED

Husband: "My dear, the seeds you ordered won't flower until the second summer."

Wife: "Oh, that's all right. I ordered them from last year's catalog."

Exact Information

Grandmother Black seemed to have all the answers and it irked little Bobby no end. He kept asking till bedtime, hoping for a confession of inability to reply.

"How long could you live on 10 dollars?" he finally asked.

"Till they were all gone," replied Grandma pleasantly, "now you hop into bed."

Third Party Missing

MacDuff and MacTavish were arrested for being drunk. During the hearing the judge asked: "Where is the other man?"

"What other man, your honor?"

"The man who paid for the drinks."

Reassuring Mother

Young Harry had made friends with a new boy from across the tracks, and his mother was worried about it.

"Does he use any bad words?"

"No, Mother," Harry replied, "and don't you worry—I'm not going to teach him any."

TARGET PRACTICE

Judge: "The evidence shows, Mrs. Grizzly, that you threw a rolling pin at your husband."
Mrs. Grizzly: "It shows more than that: it shows I hit him."

ENDLESS SUNSHINE

Soldier: "And do you mean to tell me that you have 365 days of sunshine each year in Texas?"
Texan: "That's right, and I may add that's a mighty conservative estimate."

HELPFUL HENRY

The family had overslept, and Mrs. Smith woke up with a start to the clanking of cans down the street. She remembered that the garbage had not been put out, and raced down to the front door, struggling into a robe, with her hair in curlers, and looking rather sleep-eyed. "Yoo, hoo," she called. "Am I too late for the garbage?"
"No," shouted the collector, "jump right in."

NURSERY SEEDLINGS FOR FARM PLANTING

In a plea for greater use of trees to help control erosion, W. E. Jackson, extension forester of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, says nursery stock now can be had at a low price at the State Nursery. Order forms to secure trees may be had at county agent offices.

Trees set on land too steep to grow grass or grain will do much to stop gullies and other erosion, as well as grow into fence posts. The Agricultural Conservation Program allows credit for tree planting.

Black walnut, a prolific nut-bearing tree with valuable wood, should be growing on every farm in Kentucky, Jackson declared. This tree, however, should be set only in the better soils.

Black walnut nuts or seedling trees can be planted. If nuts are used, Jackson said they may be placed in the ground either in the fall or spring. See a county agent for further details.

Twenty-five lap tables for simplifying household duties have been made by Nicholas county homemakers.

On 8,000 acres of corn land in Wolfe county, farmers estimated they produced 100,000 more bushels by planting hybrid corn over open-pollinated.

Edward Dougherty, 4-H'er in Jackson county, won the county corn derby contest by producing 164.6 bushels per acre.

Due to the high cost of seed and difficulty in locating it, McCreary county farmers seeded fewer acres to cover crops than for two years.

Grammar Fascinates Him

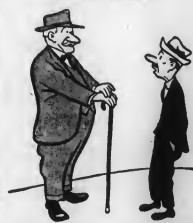

WHEN a certain demagogic senator, now happily retired, was holding forth in Washington, he was constantly engaged in feuds with his fellow-legislators, and, in consequence, spent most of his time on the floor of the senate, denouncing various and sundry enemies in potentially picturesque terms.

Whenever this gentleman arose to speak, most of his colleagues fled the chamber; but one, a former college professor, always remained in his seat, listening with profound attention.

"Why," a fellow-member demanded, "do you always stay here to listen to that insufferable wind-bag?"

The professor laughed. "He fascinates me. I have yet to hear him make a grammatical error!"

MANY BOSSES

"Tell me, sir, who is the real boss at your home?"

"Well, my wife bosses the children, and the children boss the dog and cat, but I can say anything I want to the petunias."

Slight Handicap

"Now we know that the earth is round," said the schoolmaster. "Tell me, Thomas, would it be possible for you to walk around the earth?"

"No, sir," replied Thomas.

"And why not?"

"Because," was the unexpected reply, "I twisted my ankle playing football."

STATION IDENTIFICATION
Little Boy: "Mama, what was the name of the last station the train stopped at?"
Mother: "Don't bother me, I don't know. Don't you see I'm reading? Why do you ask?"
Little Boy: "Because little brother got off there."

New Technique

"How the deuce," asked the officer on the rifle range, "did you get those four straight bulls? Your range is 800 yards, but your sight is set at 900."

Said the recruit: "See that little rock halfway along? Well, I'm bouncing 'em off that."

Poor Memory

A suburbanite whose clock had run down was sending his boy to town to get the correct time.

"But Pa, I can't bring the correct time. I have no watch."

"What do you want a watch for? If you can't remember, write it down on a piece of paper."

ROBERT TEE LEE

Son: "Dad, was Tee Lee, the robber they sing about, a Chinaman?"

Dad (puzzled): "Tee Lee?"

Son: "Oh, Dad, you know that song, 'Waiting for the robber Tee Lee!'"

Work Saver

First Bride: "I've got my husband where he eats right out of my hand."

Second bride: "I wish I could do that. It certainly would save a lot of dishwashing, wouldn't it?"

Sixty-three head of calves owned by the 4-H and Utopia club members in Hart county brought almost $22,000.
